Can we help you find money?

Who is holding the money now being advertised?
In most cases, the money has not yet been turned over to the state. But we can direct you to the companies that are holding your funds. They are required to report accounts to the Comptroller's Office if they remain unclaimed for five years or more.

Are there other ways you try to contact the owners besides newspaper ads?
Yes. Once the property is reported to the state as unclaimed, the Comptroller's Office attempts to contact the rightful owners by mail and through a variety of outreach efforts. If we can match your name or social security number to our automated files, we'll send you a notice and claim form directly.

What happens to the property if it remains unclaimed?
If the property remains unclaimed after the newspaper ads are run, it is turned over to the state. However, there is no time limit on claiming property that is rightfully yours or its monetary equivalent. You can claim the funds any time, and legitimate heirs can claim the funds after the original owner's death.

What can I do if I don't find my name in this advertisement?
About 20,000 names are added to the unclaimed property records each year and yours may be one of them. Your name may also have been advertised in the past. So it's in your best interest to check with us periodically. You can also visit the State Fair and other places where the Comptroller's Office sets up booths to help unclaimed property owners recover their money.

Is there any fee for finding out if the Comptroller's Office has any records of unclaimed funds in my name?
No. The State Comptroller's Office does not charge a fee for searching its records or for assisting you in claiming your funds.

What should I do if someone offers to help me locate unclaimed money for a fee?
Call our office first. Signing an agreement to have someone assist you in recovering unclaimed property may entail the payment of substantial fees. Such an agreement is unenforceable in Maryland if it covers property which has not been in the state's custody for two years. Since Maryland and most other states have laws regulating these agreements, you may wish to consult an attorney before signing the agreement.

Can I find this property myself?
Yes. Before signing any agreement, you should first check with the State Comptroller's Office for yourself, your relatives and anyone for whom you might be an heir or joint owner. Then, make the same check with other state unclaimed property offices, starting with those states where you or your relatives may have resided. All these offices are eager to assist owners recover their funds and charge no fees.

Do other states have unclaimed property records that I can check for unclaimed funds?
Yes. There is an unclaimed property office in each state and in the District of Columbia that you may contact to find out if there are funds in your name. This may be especially important if you lived or worked in another state. Maryland's Unclaimed Property Section will be happy to provide you with the names and addresses of unclaimed property offices in other states.

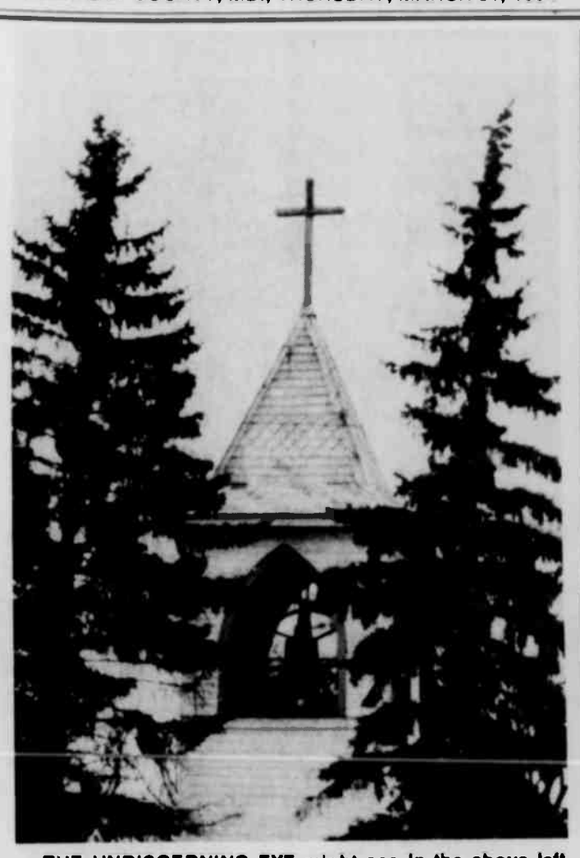
Welfare Rolls Declining In Garrett County

A gradual decline in the number of Garrett County families who receive welfare payments was reported this week by the Garrett County Department of Social Services Director Robert Shaffer, who explained that the decline represents a 20% decrease over the past four years.

Shaffer told the Garrett County Commissioners this week that, as of February, a total of 319 families are currently receiving welfare benefits under the Aid to Families With Dependent Children (AFDC); in 1993, 337 families were enrolled in the program; 374 in 1992; and 403 in 1991.

"We aren't sure why we're seeing this trend in Garrett County," said Shaffer. "It is not typical of the state as a whole."

Those statistics become even more curious when contrasted with the unemployment figures in Garrett County, which, stated Shaffer, continue to be the second or third highest in the state.



However, he said, the number of individuals enrolled in the food stamp program in the county continues to rise.

Garrett County Health Officer Dr. Rex Archer also pointed out that fewer individuals in the county are applying for services that would benefit their children (like immunization programs, for instance) especially when compared with other counties in the state, he said.

Even though Shaffer was unable to point to any one factor that might be responsible for the decrease in welfare recipients, he did speculate that Project Independence might have a positive bearing on the numbers, noting that AFDC recipients are automatically referred to this program. Project Independence is a transition program that helps move individuals from welfare dependence to the work world.

According to Western Maryland Consortium - Job Training Place Supervisor M. Sue Shockey, the success of the Project Independence program can also be attributed to cooperative

THE UNDISCERNING EYE might see in the above left photo nothing but the top of a church and two pine trees; however, the artistic, pondering eye might see not one, but three evenly spaced crosses, symbolic of those upon which three men were executed on a lonely hill in the Middle East some 2,000 years ago. The far more distinct one in the center bore the person most important in the lives of Christians, who will remember the somber event of Good Friday this week. The photo at right reminds Christians that the "greatest story ever told" did not end with tragedy on the cross, but with celebration of the "Good News" of Easter Sunday. As is written in John 7:38, "Whoever believes in me, as the Scripture has said, streams of living water will flow from within him." These photos, of the former Catholic Church in Grantsville and of a cascading stream just oft U.S. Rt. 68 near the Friendsville overlook, were taken by Craig Speicher.

New Road Names Proposed For E-911 Program

The Garrett County Planning and Zoning Office recently released a list of new names proposed for Garrett County routes, under the Enhanced 911 addressing system. These proposed names are necessary for the addressing project -- a process that has been ongoing for months and is approximately two-thirds completed, according to Jim Torrington, coordinator.

The new addressing program will serve to assist the Office of Emergency Management in establishing a uniform system to more accurately locate addresses throughout the county. Route and box addresses for postal patrons in the county will be replaced with the new numbering system.

Although Torrington reported that the process has been moving along successfully, he did note

Commissioner's Comments Prompt Response From Local Legislators

District 1 Senator John J. Hafer and District 1-A Delegate George C. Edwards this week offered a formal response to comments made by Garrett County Commissioner Brenda Butscher, who claimed that the legislators' involvement in the proposed dock fee increases at Deep Creek Lake came too late, and only after the issue was brought to their attention by the commissioners.

The legislators also wanted to set the record straight regarding their recent request to the county commissioners that the county help fund the operation and maintenance of the lake, along with matching funds from the Maryland Department of Natural Resources (DNR) and the Pennsylvania Electric Company (Penelec), who each agreed to contribute $35,000.

In a press release issued Friday, Edwards stated, "Our news release of March 18 stated the facts and only said that the county commissioners voted against the proposal of a three-way split of a $105,000 reduction for Deep Creek Lake. We did not criticize or otherwise comment about their decision. The decision to participate or not is the commissioners' decision -- and that's fine. We did what we could to help at the state level and with Penelec. We just feel the commissioner's comments are out of line and are not accurate."

Butscher reportedly stated that she did not think it was fair to ask the residents of Garrett County to help defray the dock fees when the average resident could not afford a residence or business on the lake. Butscher also said that she did not understand why the state contributes a significant amount of money to places like Rocky Gap and not to Deep Creek Lake.

She then stated that Senator Hafer and Delegate Edwards did not become involved in the issue until asked to do so by the county commissioners.

"Our request to the county commissioners," stated Hafer, "is not to subsidize dock owners but, more importantly, to assist the locally owned and operated businesses who depend on business in and around the lake, as well as property owners who are residents of Garrett County.

"We do not feel that it is asking too much of the county to fund $35,000 over a five-year period when, in fact, the lake has a direct and an indirect economic impact on the well-being of the county."

Edwards then responded to Butscher's allegation of his and Hafer's non-involve-

Ferrell's Request For Bail Denied By W.Va. Judge

A West Virginia judge denied a request for bail this week for Paul W. Ferrell, former Grant County sheriff's deputy, who is serving a life sentence for the 1988 kidnapping and murder of Catherine Denise Ford, Gorman.

Ferrell's lawyer requested the bail based on the results of new DNA testing which he claims has indicated that the blood found on a piece of evidence could not have been that of Ford. However, Circuit Court Judge C. Reeves Taylor denied the request, reportedly stating that there was "no way to determine" the victim's blood type.

Miss Ford was last seen leaving her family's restaurant on Feb. 17, 1988. She was driving a Ford Bronco, which was found three weeks later, burned, near Ferrell's Bismarck Road trailer. The victim's body

Baltimore Man Convicted Of Drug Prescription Forgery Is Sentenced

A Baltimore man previously convicted on several counts of forging prescription drug charges was sentenced in Garrett County Circuit Court last week. Judge Fred A. Thayer sentenced Jimmy A. Morgan, 39, to a total of eight years in prison, suspended the jail time and placed the defendant on five years of supervised probation.

Morgan was convicted in December 1993 on nine counts of various controlled dangerous substance charges involving forgery of prescriptions in the local area. The defendant originally faced 130 charges of fraud, forgery, and other violations, which stemmed from incidents in the summer of 1993 when he apparently attempted to pass forged prescriptions for Percocet, a pain killer, as well as other controlled substances at several area pharmacies.

According to the court document, conditions of Morgan's probation include the payment of $1,000 in fines and $1,600 in court costs and the completion of a drug rehabilitation program.

In a separate case, a Kitzmiller man was sentenced for his previous conviction of assault and battery. Roy D. Willis Jr., 57, Kitzmiller, was sentenced to one year in the Garrett County Jail and two years of supervised probation. Thayer suspended the jail term.

Willis was arrested in September 1993 after he allegedly engaged in sexual

Garrett County CAC Receives Housing Grant

In its first round of funding awards, the Maryland Affordable Housing Trust (MAHT) has selected 10 Maryland organizations, including one from Garrett County, to receive more than $550,000 for their efforts to produce or maintain affordable housing. These 10 organizations were recognized at an awards ceremony on Monday in Annapolis.

The Garrett County Community Action Committee was awarded a $60,100 grant to help construct four detached homes in Mtn. Lake Park for families on public assistance. The families will rent the homes while engaging in up to five years of job training, budget counseling, and other self-sufficiency training intended to prepare the families to buy the homes.

Water, Sewer Rate Increase Approved By Sanitary Comm.

The Garrett County Sanitary Commission has engaged the services of a utility rate consultant, John A. Mayer Associates, to review the adequacy of water and sewer rates. That consultant has concluded that a rate increase is necessary to fund operational cost increases.

Wendell R. Beitzel, administrator of the Garrett County Sanitary District, Inc., informed the commission that the rate increase was necessary for the district to generate sufficient revenue to pay operation and maintenance costs for the water and sewer systems. The district does not receive county tax revenues to operate the systems and is required by Maryland law to set rates that are adequate to cover operation and maintenance

ANALYZING DATA AND UNDERSTANDING MATRICIES was the title of a distance learning workship conducted recently in Garrett Community College's interactive video classroom to kick off a gifted and talented math program, set for July 11-15 at GCC, for students entering seventh, eighth, or ninth grades in Maryland schools. In the above photo, Ted Gardella, distance learning math instructor, pictured far right, addressee the students, pictured left to right, front row: Mary Ellen Tusing, Mike Rohrbaugh and Sara Thomas, all of Southern Middle School, and Erika Kahl, Northern Middle School; and teachers, Tina Harvey, Northern High; Wade Grove, Southern High; Donna Durst, Southern Middle; and Bill Carlson, Northern Middle. The summer program, headed by Dr. Nancy Priselac, coordinator of mathematics at GCC, Stewart R. Schultz, distance learning science instructor, and Gardella, both from GMI Engineering and Management Institute, Flint, Mich., will introduce the students to the latest in mathematics technology, including distance learning, computers, graphing calculators, models and big screen projection. Another distance learning workshop, offering new techniques to teach physical science, and designed to introduce teachers to the summer math program, is slated for 6-9 p.m., April 14, and 9 a.m. to noon, April 15, at GCC. Titled Motion Commotion, the six-hour workshop, led by Schultz, will integrate science and math (algebra/physics/chemistry) and will be designed to create an interest in the teachers so they will return to their classrooms and generate that interest to the students who, in turn, may be interested in attending the week-long summer math program. Spaces are limited, and those interested may call Priselac at 387-3046 for more information.

Oakland Couple Is Indicted By Grand Jury

An Oakland couple was indicted by the March Term Grand Jury last week on charges of perjury and conspiracy. Sincle Brown, 31, and Sherry Brown, 22, were arrested early this week on the charges.

The Browns are accused of giving false statements to police after a traffic accident on Nov. 2, 1993. According to the report, the Browns reported that Mrs. Brown was operating the vehicle at the time of the wreck. Mr. Brown's driver's license was revoked. After investigating the incident, law officials reportedly determined that Mr. Brown was allegedly operating the vehicle.

Two other persons have been indicted by the Grand Jury, and information on their arrests will appear in next week's issue of The Republican.

Food For Thought

What goes with angle cake? We vote for a compote of cubed fruit: pineapple, banana, kiwi, mango or any other seasonal favorite. Add a few Tbs. of lime juice to keep fruit fresh and a sprinkling of sugar to taste. Chill to keep, serve at room temperature.

Dutch tomato soup, made with sauteed onion, canned plum tomatoes and chicken broth, gets extra zip from a splash of Holland (or regular) gin. Serve hot, topped with shredded Gouda cheese.

Lean, easy-to-cook pork is a snap these days with tenderloin strips. Roast whole or cut into medallions to pound flat and saute.

Avoid microwaving food in plastic containers, such as margarine tubs, that are not identified as safe for such use. They may melt into food or leach chemicals, though no one knows which may be harmful.

Grandma's best potato pancakes couldn't match these flavored with crisp bacon bits, chopped baked garlic and white cheddar cheese. The sour cream topping is enhanced with chopped tomatoes and chives.

And no one can match the terrific food at

Pa. Woman Incarcerated On DWI/CDS Charges By MS Police

A Uniontown, Pa., woman remains incarcerated in the Garrett County Jail on a DWI (driving while under the influence of alcohol and/or drugs) charge, failure to drive in a single lane, and possession of CDS (controlled dangerous substance), after she was stopped by the Maryland State Police, Barrack W, McHenry on Tuesday.

Theresa Campbell, 28, was reportedly stopped by Tfc. Seaman at 11:40 p.m. while she was operating a vehicle south on Rt. 219 near the Rock Lodge Road. Upon observing Campbell's vehicle cross the center line three times, the officer stopped her and administered a sobriety test, which she reportedly failed. He placed Campbell under arrest and a subsequent search of the vehicle revealed a white ceramic smoking pipe containing suspected burned marijuana residue.

Campbell's bond has been set at $1,000.

ESCAPE, ATTEMPTED THEFT

A reported escape and attempted auto theft at the Savage Mt. Youth Center was reported Tuesday afternoon.

Neil B. Johnson, 18, Baltimore, and a juvenile allegedly escaped from a dormitory at the facility and attempted to steal a 1988 Plymouth van and smashing a window and forcing the ignition with a metal object. The two were unable to start the van, but reportedly took $20 from a purse owned by the van's driver, Mary L. Fitzpatrick, a teacher at the youth center.

Johnson and the juvenile then fled by foot into the woods where they were apprehended and subsequently returned by a center official. Tfc. R.T. Wilson responded from Barrack W and charged the pair with escape from the youth center, willful and malicious destruction of property, and petty theft.

STRIKES A CULVERT

A Terra Alta, W.Va., man was taken to Garrett County Memorial Hospital last Thursday afternoon, where he was treated and released, after his vehicle traveled out of control on Md. Rt. 39 west of Oakland.

Okey Junior Strawser, operating a 1989 Chevrolet Corsica, apparently became dizzy and blacked out, causing the vehicle to run off the west shoulder and strike a culvert, according to the state police.

Southern Garrett County Rescue Squad responded to the scene.

DRIVER FLEES

The driver of a 1964 Pontiac Tempest fled the scene of an accident last Friday evening on Sand Flat Road, after the vehicle reportedly ran off the right side of the road and struck a tree. The car is registered to Clarence Willard Stemple Jr., Oakland. Tpr. P.R. Brown is continuing an investigation into the mishap.

FALLS ASLEEP

An Ohio woman was charged with negligent driving after she reportedly fell asleep at the wheel of the 1992 Subaru she was operating, causing an accident. The car apparently ran off the roadway and into the center median. The driver reportedly over-corrected and the vehicle slid across the road, struck a guardrail and overturned.

Thelma E. Rivera, 25, was charged with that offense by Tfc. R. Tarburton following the 5:55 p.m. mishap that occurred on I-68 near Grantsville. Rivera was transported to Sacred Heart Hospital by Northern Garrett County Rescue Squad where she was treated and later released, according to a hospital spokesperson.

TRUCK OPERATOR CALLS FOR HELP

The local state police barrack received a call on Monday from Sam Friend of Big Bear Lake Security, near Bruceton Mills, W.Va., stating he was receiving a distress call on his citizens band radio from a truck driver who was reportedly at the Yough Rest area on I-68 near Friendsville, and requesting a doctor.

Tfc. Wayne Mowbray notified Garrett Central to alert an ambulance and then responded to the scene, where he found Philip S. Marcum, 32, of Centralia, Ill., a truck driver for Colonial Freight, who was having trouble breathing. Northern Garrett County Rescue Squad also arrived at the scene and transported Marcum to Frostburg Hospital, where he was treated and released, according to a hospital spokesperson.

ARRESTED FOR SHOPLIFTING

Old Outbuilding Finally Razed; Neighbors Sad

An outbuilding owned by Rastus Schumozzle was finally torn down by order of the town, as the 5x10 foot structure was deemed unsound by authorities. The walls fell Saturday while saddened neighbors looked on.

"Why, I built that thing in 1968. It's been like a friend to me," said Schumozzle. He was later sedated by his sister-in-law.

Other neighbors who have lived in the area with the building all these long years, stood silently as the 10-minute destruction took place. One man was reminded of the razing of Schumozzle's dog's house, which was in 1978, and he said he was sad.

"I'm sad," he said. "Yep. I'm about as sad now as I was then."

Another neighbor chimed in with his feelings:

"Yeah, I felt real sad," he said. "Sad, sad, sad. Then I got to feeling kind of scare't. And that sort of changed into feelin' hungry, so I went to Dottie's for a samwich. I guess I ate it too fast because then I got the heartburn and forgot all about being sad. So I went walking back home and saw the hole where that outbuildin' was and boy, I sure felt sad again. The heartburn went away, though."

Later in the day, two neighbors who had missed the demolition walked to the vacant spot.

"We just come to see whar the buildin's was," one said. The other hit him in the arm and reminded him that is was just one building. He hit him back, and a ruckus ensued for which the local police force was alerted. No one seemed to remember the building after that.

BILL 'N HILL DEMONSTRATE DECEPTION AS ART -- As part of their travelling show throughout the entire United States, Bill and Hillary Clinton last week finally made it to Garrett County where they unexpectedly dropped in on a meeting between the county commissioners and the education board. As it turned out, the Clintons arrived at a most opportune moment as the two county entities were about to engage in a wrestling match to resolve a school funding issue. While being captured for all eternity by national media, Bill demonstrated his talent on the wife, who had to be reminded by one of the media members to empty her pockets before becoming airborne. As the education board members watched in amazement, one was heard to yell out, "Shazam!," while yet another tee-heed ridiculously. The county commissioners, meantime, appeared to be quite unamused, as they glanced frequently at the clock on the wall. Commissioner Groans cleared his throat as the show was about to end and, in something akin to a whisper, said, "Well, heck, I've been doing that for years." Commissioner Bratsky, in an effort to placate the whole damn bunch, asked the ever-popular question, "Can't we all just get along?" About two hours after the presentation was over and everyone had gone out for lunch, Commissioner Bourgeois awakened and wondered out loud, "What's the big whoop?"

Commissioners Note New Fees, Regs For Lake Property Owners

In their continuing effort to maintain the fiscal stability of the county, the Garrett County commissioners announced this week the following new list of fees and regulations for all persons who own property along the shoreline of Deep Creek Lake.

* There will be a $5 annual fee per tire on each motorized vehicle owned and utilized within the county borders by lake property owners, with those funds to be used for snow removal on all county roadways, with the exception of those within two miles of the lake shoreline. The commissioners noted that they believed this was a fair assessment since the boats owned by the lake residents, even though they, too, are motorized vehicles, do not have tires and, thus, would not be among the vehicles taxed.

* There will be a $250 annual fee assessed for each watercraft vehicle owned by lake property owners that is operated upon the surface of Deep Creek Lake. Again, the commissioners believed this to be equitable, since all submarines will be exempt from the fee.

* Toll booths will be constructed at each end of the Glendale Bridge and a $2 toll (one-way) will be charged to all owners of property (and members of their immediate families) who cross the bridge. All other property owners in the county will be exempt from the toll, the commissioners said, with one of them stating, "After all, the lake property owners cross the bridge just so they can go back and forth to parties and to visit their friends. The real residents of the county have to cross that bridge to get to work, and it just doesn't seem right that they should have to pay the toll too."

The funds raised from the toll booths will go for the purchase of paint and whatever else is needed to conceal the rusted, eroded sections of the bridge.

* All households from which one can view any part of the surface of Deep Creek Lake will be assessed an annual fee, ranging from $50 to $300, the size of which will be relative to the square footage and "aesthetic value" of that view, to be determined by a special committee appointed by the county commissioners.

"It should be noted that many of the lake property owners are able to enjoy a view well beyond the boundaries of their own property," stated Commissioner Woody Groans. "In many places they can see all the way across the lake. In effect, they are enjoying a view that really doesn't belong to them, and they have done so for free all these years. We just can't keep allowing these 'freebies' to go on forever, especially since most of our residents, who don't own property along the lake, have to get in their cars and drive there, at their expense, in order to enjoy similar scenery."

* Special badges will be issued to all lake property owners, who will be required by law to wear these badges whenever they leave their own properties and travel to other areas in the county.

"This will make it far easier to identify the lake property owners so full advantage of them may be taken by the rest of us," stated Commissioner Groans. "They will be particularly useful, for example, at the Glendale toll booths, as this will greatly reduce interrogation time to determine if the person crossing the bridge is, or is not, a lake property owner and whether or not they must pay the crossing fee."

Lake property owners caught not wearing their badges face a fine of $200 and or three months in jail for the first offense.

"We will not tolerate any violation of this new law," Groans said with a smile.

Groans said that a portion of the monies raised by these new fees will be used for promotion of the county. "We will see to it that people realize Deep Creek Lake is absolutely the best place to purchase property and build a second home," Groans said. "After all, if it weren't for Deep Creek Lake and the many property owners around it, we wouldn't have nearly the tax base that we have to be able to build and maintain our roads and schools and landfill and pay the tuition for my graduate degree."

When asked for her comments on the new fees and regulations, Commissioner Blenda Bourgeios responded, "What lake?"

In last year's issue of The Nacilbuper, it was stated that State's Attorney James "Rainbow" Sherbet said he would not prosecute a case in which no injuries were reported in a fatal stabbing.

Sherbet actually stated that he did not want any ham on his cheese sandwich.

Commissioners All Lose Bids For Re-Election

The three county commissioners all lost their bids for re-election in last week's election, however two of the three have thus far refused to believe the outcome.

"I'm taking this under consideration," said Woody Groans. "This will be under advisement by me, you may rest assured of that." When told he must leave his desk, Groans held fast to the furniture and continued to voice his intentions to take the defeat under advisement. Finally the ousted commissioner was bodily removed, having his fingers pried from the desk with a small crowbar.

Blenda Bourgeois sat with her head resting on her hand and looked rather blankly at the election results. When told that she must gather her things to leave, she remained seated.

"I need more information before I can make a decision like this," she said. "I owe it to the tax payers."

In response, the election supervisor handed her the document containing the election results. Bourgeois merely glanced at it.

"Well, I'm not going to do the footwork for you. I don't have time to go through such an extensive document. It's not my job. I need more information."

Finally she was also removed bodily, and her voice echoed throughout the courthouse:

"I need more information. I can't just vote randomly here. The people need to know. I demand more information . . ."

Yawn Bratsky simply shouted a loud "Yes!" and ran from the courthouse, completed three back handsprings and one triple louie before speeding off in his car.

When asked for further comment on the three-way upset, County Clerk/Roads Guy Roberto Fooyungsek said he had no comment at the present, but that he would call ourselves or we could call his-self later.

Jeb and Marla Hoojit filled their car with gasoline last Wednesday because it was nearly empty. They are in the habit of doing that each Wednesday at about 5:30 p.m., unless, of course, they are planning a trip to Keyser or Cumberland or somewhere which would take more gas which would force them to get it earlier in the week. They got it on Wednesday this week, though.

A surprise birthday party was staged for Missy Lou Pinhead on Friday, but her cousin had already told her about it and she wasn't surprised at all. She did startle the 55 guests, however, by announcing that her birthday is in October. In last week's Town News section, it was reported that Archibald and Lilliann Pinchme had each had an orange on the afternoon of March 12. The story should have said they both had an orange, because they did split just one piece of fruit. The error is grievously regretted.

Local Wedding Announced Even Though It Happened Ages Ago

Katrinka Louise Sheistmeister and Cuthbert Eddie Tinglehop were united in marriage on March 5, 1993, in an indoor/outdoor ceremony held partly in the St. Ezekiel Presbyterian-Lutheran-Methodist Chapel and partly in a yard nearby. The ceremony was officiated by three pastors, a local judge, and an area beekeeper who holds a correspondence degree in divinity studies, who, by the way, wore a lovely royal blue spun silk three-piece suit that was just to die for.

The bride, escorted to the altar and again to a birdbath in the nearby yard by her father, Basil Boseefus Sheistmeister, wore a basement-length ivory gown splashed with seedy pearls and graceful plastic sprays of faux dandelions, accented by silver jingle bells sewn in noisy rows down each side of a really, really tight bodice. Her headpiece weighed a good bit, standing about a foot high off her head and made of a weddingly mix of paper mache and lead piping, supported by a shoulder-yoke decorated with Alencon lace and gilded leather.

She carried a copy of an old phone book borrowed from her Aunt Madge Sheistmeister Flick, and was sporting a new gold front tooth, a gift from the groom. Blue cotton socks adorned her feet (nylons have always given her hives). Her bouquet was a varied array of plastic tulips, accented with a bit of dust in the creases and birthday ribbons.

Shameka Topeka Kansas Sheistmeister, sister of the bride, served as maid of honor, wearing a pink taffeta cocktail waitress outfit, since she had just gotten off work 15 minutes before the ceremony. The three bridesmaids all wore a shiny pea-green sporty dress-like thing, and getting all three of them into one outfit was quite a trick. The flower girl, Stacl eel ouMee Alizobith Sheistmeister, was so cute they used her as the cake topper during the reception.

The groom was attired in a seven-piece tux (he's a big boy). Serving as best man was Fozzie Merle Tinglehop, brother of the groom, who wore a several-piece suit of some kind, but looked a little awkward as the cummerbund ended up around his neck somehow and the gap in his middle got to looking real scary by the end of the service.

The groomsmen got lost on the way to the chapel and weren't found for several days, so we don't know what they had on. So sue us. The ring bearer, some kid they paid to walk down the aisle, was stuffed into the same old boring kind of suit those little kids always have to wear. However, its brilliant pink color did set it apart somewhat.

A local soloist, accompanied by kazoo, sang the traditional Bury Me In A Pine Box, I Wanna Be Bobby's Girl, and Fight and Scratch. During the ceremony, the couple lit a unity firecracker that really caused a jolt.

A reception was held in the church basement - cleaned out just for the occasion - and the cake was delivered by forklift by driver Earl Mudd. Mr. Mudd was attired in a full length forest green jumpsuit, white cotton socks, and steel-tipped toe tapped brown leather working boots, buffed to a blinding sheen.

The cake, weighing in at 547 pounds, was baked by the fire department auxiliary. Covered with an alarmingly neon green icing and those hard little silver pellets that no one ever knows whether to eat or not, it rose seven feet in the air and was accented by 18 side cakes, connected by plank bridges that could support the weight of an average adult. Over 400 sparklers embellished the confectionery, and unfortunately set the basement on fire once, which was doused with eight gallons of Hawaiian Punch. Also served at the reception were Twinkies, DingDongs, pork rinds, and that fake shrimp stuff on Saltines.

Following the reception, the newlyweds attempted to leave, but found that their car had been blown up as a joke by friends. After a good laugh, the Tinglehops found a ride to the bus station and headed off on their honeymoon in the basement of the bride's sister-in-law's house.

After returning, the couple established residence in lower Oakland, where they remained for three and a half months, after which they divorced. Mrs. Tinglehop was recently engaged to the fork-lift operator (see story next week) and Mr. Tinglehop ran off to join the New York City Ballet.

It's spring. Take a bath.

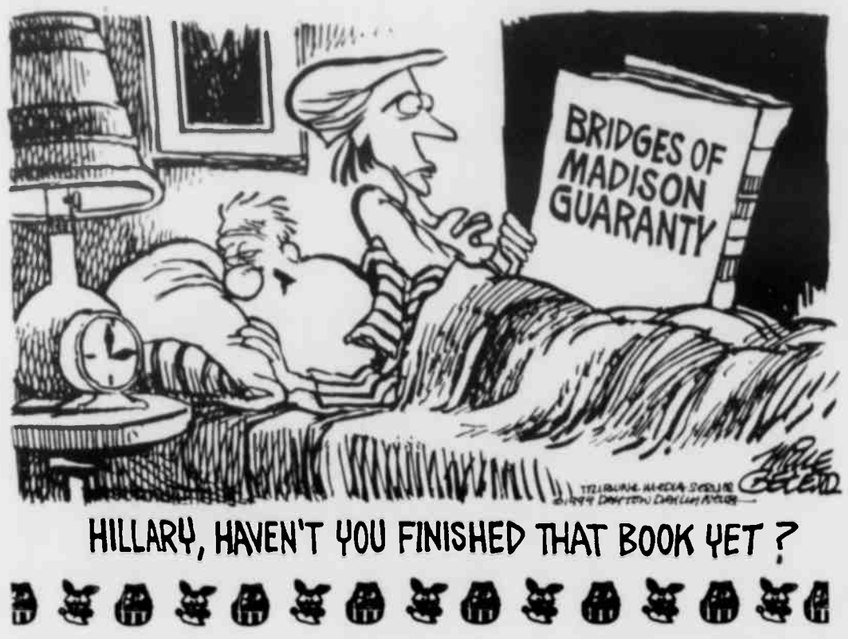
Stop Beating the Goose...

Last week in this column we criticized two of the three Garrett County commissioners for their refusal to kick in $35,000 for the management of Deep Creek Lake, referring to this action as a "slap in the face" to the lake property owners. We continue in a similar vein this week by commenting on the proposal to levy an ad valorem tax to help pay for the operation and maintenance of the new county land-fill.



An advisory committee worked diligently to create a list of recommendations for satisfying this new $1.8 million annual cost. We believe they did an excellent job and we agree with most of their proposals, but would like to see a modification of the recommendation calling for the ad valorem tax.

The proposal is to add a 12-cent per $100 of assessed property value ad valorem tax on non-municipal residential property. The ad valorem tax for commercial, industrial, agricultural, and municipal residential property would be 5 cents per $100 of value.

Once again we must come to the defense of Deep Creek Lake property owners, who will be among those charged the extra 12 cents per $100. The majority of lake property owners are not fulltime residents of the county and thus produce far less solid waste than us fulltime residents. Yet, because their properties are assessed much higher on average than non-lake properties, they will once again be forced to pay the lion's share of this tax. Already they are paying for a large portion of many services which they do not receive, i.e., they have no children in our schools, they receive no trash pick-up, etc.

We believe that a certain amount of this inequity should be expected by lake property owners, since the same situation exists in most other resort areas. However, we believe there is another opportunity here for county government to give these folks a break and include them in the 5-cent per $100 bracket. A slight increase in the proposed user fees, which are much fairer than ad valorem taxes anyway, would cover the relatively slight loss of funds if this suggestion were enacted.

Deep Creek Lake and everything associated with it is Garrett County's "golden egg," an egg which thousands of other rural counties would love to have. But it seems that our present board of commissioners (two of the three members) just keeps beating on the goose that laid the egg. The number and intensity of those blows could result in the death of the goose, which would be an absolute disaster for our county.

Letters to the Editor

To the Editor:

I am writing because of my concern about the County Commissioners refusal to support the recent proposal regarding Deep Creek Lake's fee structure. Granted there is little concern from the commissioners standpoint of future reprisals from constituents as there are relatively few residents on and around the lake who are registered to vote in Garrett County. Regardless of this fact, these same property owners contribute significantly to the county's tax base. Monies derived from property taxes, sales taxes, and accommodation taxes benefit every resident, full-time or not, in Garrett County.

The "us and them" attitude which the commissioners seem to live by is not a solution to the problems facing Deep Creek Lake. The lake and surrounding areas should be of vital concern to everyone in the county, and the commissioners should consider any monies spent to be an investment in the county's future.

Sincerely,
Michael A. Hoffeditz
McHenry

To the Editor:

As we approach the elections of '94 I just can't resist commenting on some of what I've been reading lately in The Republican.

On the "lake fees" issue, I strongly agree with Commissioners Butscher and Groves. Perhaps 20 or more years ago a Garrett County citizen who worked at the mines of Luke mill could afford to buy a lot at the lake, but those days are long gone. The businesses on the lake have for years been able to charge "big city" prices, while dealing with their workers on a "take it or leave it" basis regarding wages, hours, and benefits. My opinion is, let them be the ones to pay the increase in fees, not county government.

If money is going to be spent on economic development, spend it to entice businesses and industries that pay a living wage, and perhaps the county can recover a little from the job losses this area has been hit with over the past few years. Hundreds of mining jobs have been lost, our county's largest employer has downsized, eliminating hundreds more, while we hear our economy is in a "recovery!" Not around here, I'm afraid.

As for the elections, I don't believe that voter ignorance or apathy keeps these or any other commissioners in office. It is the positions that they and their opponents take on issues that decides the election. My bottom line is,"the government that governs least, governs best." In the last election we had candidates who promised, if elected, to build us a straight Glendale Bridge, provide us with more regulations, zoning, codes, etc., no matter what the cost in dollars and freedom, because it is "progress."

I hope the voters this time will, as they have in the past, realize what four years of this kind of "progress" could do to our taxes and our rights!

Change for the sake of change is not the answer. The sooner all of you would-be candidates realize this, before you start to tell us about all the wonderful things we can have if we will only elect you, the better chance you'll have on election day.

If you think that "bonding" is the answer for financing anything the county thinks it needs, such as a $200,000 locker room, or that we just can't get by without more government control of our lives and property, then you're wasting your time asking for my vote. It's that simple!

I hope there continues to be a large "clique" of voters in the county who feel the same way.

Jerry Plauger

To the Editor:

The passage of the so-called "Brady Bill" is a breach through which further "anti-gun" legislation will rush and to eventually deprive me and millions of other Americans of the most cherished of our rights, "the right to keep and bear arms."

I and millions of American hunters will soon lose their rights to enjoy a sport that has been enjoyed for generations.

The Brady Bill is only the beginning when the police or government agents from RAT'F come knocking on our doors to confiscate our hunting rifles, and the handguns for which we have to protect ourselves and our families. (More than half the households in the U.S. contain firearms.)

When faced with confiscation or prison, some will resist violently, and how many "Waco's" will result? How many peaceful citizens will die? And after a few thousand of these resisters have been killed and millions of Americans have been embittered in the prosecutions of this victimless crime, how will justice have been served, and how many lives will have been saved?

Some of us have served our country in time of war, and are ready to defend ourselves, our families and our communities.

We are, in fact, members of the militia, the body of the people, armed, as conceived by our founding fathers and as defined by law. And now to be told that we are not to be trusted, that only the police and agents of the state or government are to be armed, is to cheapen our citizenship.

All of this activity on behalf of "gun control" may make those who propose it feel good, but it is a dangerous distraction from our real problems, such as gangs and drugs that are in the inter-cities like Baltimore and Washington, D.C., not in our communities.

We as ordinary Americans recognize the terrible problem of violence in our society, and we realize that too easy an access to firearms can be a factor in the expression of that violence.

We are willing to consider some legislation regulating access to firearms for the "criminal," the "insane," and "irresponsible" as part of an effort to heal America.

But we will not, cannot, cooperate in the effort to suspend our constitutional right to keep and bear arms for the sake of a sociological experiment.

Just think of all the money that is generated from the sport of hunting and what will happen when it is no longer spent.

Thank you,
A licensed firearms dealer and a hunter

On Tuesday, Mar. 22, my sister was involved in an accident on Rt. 495 at the tree farm. She was traveling toward Swanton when her car hit a patch of ice, struck a utility pole, became airborne, and landed on its roof in the creek. Being a member of Southern Rescue, I responded to the call, never suspecting that I would find a member of my family injured and in need of help.

Gina, my sister, who was injured, her twin sister, Tammy, and my husband, Roger, are all EMT's with Southern Rescue. We are all proud to belong to the rescue squad and to serve our community.

I would like to point out that Gina was "saved by the belt." Had she not had her seat belt on, my family would have been facing a tragic loss or an extensive recovery for Gina. As it was, she sustained minor injuries and was only hospitalized overnight.

Even though it is now the law that drivers and passengers be belted, so many people still don't "buckle up." But, not only do adults not buckle themselves up, they don't restrain their children. This is a crime and, in my opinion, should be considered child abuse. I guess some people feel they are immune to tragedy. Well, let me tell you from experience, no one is immune. If this letter could encourage one person to "buckle up," or at least think of their kids, and they avoid being injured in an accident, I will feel it was worth writing.

My family would like to extend a special thanks to Mr. Wilt from the tree farm and to the Rounds family for their special help and concern for Gina. Also, thanks to fellow SGCRS members Jeff Hinebaugh EMTP, Hazel Steward EMT, Mike Saunders EMT, Michele Alexander EMT, and Chris Comfort CRT, for their quick response and excellent care rendered. Thanks also to the members of Deer Park Volunteer Fire Department who helped in many ways. You don't know how much you appreciate these volunteers until their help is needed. Also thanks to the ER at Garrett Memorial for putting up with us during this upsetting time.

Garrett County women take aim and grab your shovels if you want to reduce the number of rabies cases in your community.

One of Western Maryland's many nocturnal friends visited our home Friday afternoon, March 18, and I immediately called the Mt. Nebo Division of Wildlife for assistance. I was instructed to "get rid of it." Then, the gentleman told me to be sure I bury the possible rabid raccoon deep in the ground after I kill it. What do we, as taxpayers, pay the Department of Natural Resources to do? Are they not the least bit interested in controlling the spread of rabies caused by infected wildlife?

The raccoon was gone by the time my fiancé arrived home from work, but the animal returned Saturday. Before shooting the animal, my fiancé called more than ten DNR telephone numbers to no avail. As year-round residents, we were disturbed by the fact that we were unable to reach a DNR officer on a Saturday afternoon in March. There would not have been a problem, however, if it would have been a Saturday afternoon in June. We would have found a DNR officer, a few of them as a matter of fact, at 4:00 p.m. when personal watercraft riders hit the lake.

Sincerely,

To the Editor:

Your "A Slap in the Face" was right on target.

When you get two of three major players to make economic concessions on such an important issue that does indeed affect many Garrett Countians, it seems only prudent that the third party most affected also make concessions. The two County Commissioners (Butscher and Groves) who failed to act favorably on Commissioner Braskey's proposal certainly have a lot to learn about teamwork.

They have had their heads buried so far in the sand when it comes to lake issues that it really didn't surprise me when they made their preposterous statements last week.

Where were the commissioners last summer when the hearing process started? Del. Edwards was there!

Can Ms. Butscher tell us what Garrett Countians pay the "room taxes"?

Yes, Mr. Groves, DNR does seem to have a lack of commitment to the lake, but look at their overall presence in the county. They made a step this time; why couldn't you?

I hold a 10-slip commercial permit. Last year eight of these 10 slips were rented to voting, tax-paying residents of the county. One was a guest slip, and one was rented to a non-voting taxpayer of the county. This year, five will be void of Garrett Countians because they can't afford the permit fee increase.

Thanks, commissioners. We'll remember!

Sincerely yours,
Jay Kamineck

Is Underage Drinking Worth the Risk?

by Linda S. Schiffer
Special Assistant
Governor's Drug/Alcohol Abuse Commission

Despite the fact that middle and senior high school students drink throughout the year, a concerted effort to call attention to teenage drinking habits usually occurs with the first blossoming buds of spring. Maybe it's because underage drinking becomes visible again.

In the spring, many high school students party in open fields, chirping birds inaudible over the blaring music from some car radio or boom box. If these kids aren't in a field partying, they may be in any one's home, parents gone for the afternoon, evening, or worse, the weekend. And let's not forget the upcoming prom season and the descent of thousands of teens to the southern sandy shores of our state.

The results of these gatherings are often devastating: serious automobile crashes with personal injuries, unwanted and unprotected sex, physical violence and property destruction.

Most of these kids don't have substance abuse problems. Some may truly think they can walk away from the party after having just one beer. The old cliches ring out like a bell from the highest tower: "It's just one beer." "I won't drink the hard stuff." "I can handle it." "There's no problem driving. "I've only had one." Worse are the parents that actually feed into these same attitudes.

What most teens and parents don't realize, is that Maryland has an .02 law, passed in 1989. This statute states that any person under age 21 who has been drinking and driving and is found to have a blood alcohol level of just .02 can have his/her license suspended and have to pay a fine of $500. If the blood alcohol results are higher, .07 for impaired, .10 for intoxicated, the teen can be charged with DWI.

The Maryland State Department of Education, The Governor's Drug and Alcohol Abuse Commission, the Alcohol and Drug Abuse Administration of the Maryland Department of Mental Health and Hygiene, the Maryland Department of Transportation, the Maryland State Police and other local law enforcement officials, have joined together to better inform the state's student population regarding the .02 law. Student resource information packets that include brochures and other information detail how the law works and what can happen if some one underage is found to be over the .02 blood alcohol level.

Maryland State Police and local law enforcement agencies have been notified about the .02 campaign and have pledged a working relationship with these groups. More breath tests will be ordered when due cause can be justified.

One beer in the system of an average sized teenager is enough to put his or her blood alcohol level up to .02. Contrary to popular teenage myth, eating while drinking does not help absorb alcohol; and waiting an hour between drinks won't bring down the blood alcohol level either. It takes a considerable amount of time for the body to metabolize alcohol out of the system.

If caught, underage drinkers face the possibility of losing their licenses and possibly incurring fines, not to mention the fact that the more serious DWI charges usually result in a police record. Since kids probably won't read this column, parents, ask your kids this. Is one drink worth losing your license? Is one drink worth an automobile accident, a fight, unwanted (and possibly not remembered and unprotected) sex or a police record? Is one beer, or a drink of any alcoholic beverage really going to make the party better? Is one drink going to make that girl (or guy) think you're really that cool?

Hey underage drinkers...it's decision making time. Is a drink really worth it? All you'll gain is one -- or several drinks. You have a lot more to lose.

Sure air bags work great in front end collisions, but only a safety belt can protect you from side and rear end collisions. So buckle up. And you'll cover all the angles.

Sheriff's Office Probing Cases Of Vehicular DOP

Two cases of destruction of property involving vehicles were reported to the Garrett County Sheriff's Office this week, according to reports from that office.

Michael Sweitzer, Oakland, contacted police after his vehicle was struck with a bottle. He reported that he was operating a Ford Bronco northbound on Oakland-Sang Run Road and saw a car parked in the southbound lane. As he drove by, someone from the parked car threw a glass bottle at his vehicle, shattering the driver's side window and hitting Sweitzer in the left shoulder.

In the second case, Norma Liller, Oakland, was driving her 1987 Olds Cutlass eastbound on High Street and as she passed the entrance to the Highview Apartments, a car slid out from the entrance and hit the passenger side of her car, causing $500 damage.

The second driver did not stop after the collison, but backed away from the Liller vehicle and drove off. Deputies returned to the scene and were able to gather evidence from the crash site.

Two DWI Arrests Logged By GCSO

Two persons were arrested for DWI (driving while intoxicated) this week, both in the early morning of March 27.

Steven R. Beckman, 23, Oakland, was stopped at 12:30 a.m. on Rt. 135 in Mtn. Lake Park. He was subsequently charged with DWI.

Russell E. Tasker, 22, Oakland, was arrested at 2 a.m. near the intersection of U.S. Route 50 and Tablerock Road. Tasker was apparently crossing the center line, which prompted the traffic stop.

Bartlett Supports Deficit Reduction Lock Box Bill

Sixth District Congressman Roscoe Bartlett has become a co-sponsor of a bill that would prohibit Congress from taking federal money cut from specific appropriations bills and placing it back in an agency's general fund. According to Bartlett, it is a practice "widely used behind closed doors that results in no real spending cuts."

All too often, money cut from a specific program is just folded into the general fund, and the difficult choices that Congress makes have literally no effort on the budget deficit, said Bartlett. "I want to end these types of budgetary smokescreens."

HR 4057 establishes a Deficit Reduction Lock Box Account in each appropriations bill to "lock in" deficit reduction as Congress approves spending cuts in committee or on the floor. As cuts are made, funds would go directly into the Lock Box Account unless the cut funds are specifically designated to another program in the full light of day.

However, to assure that spending cuts are not swallowed up by other programs, the Lock Box Account in the Conference report must be between the House and Senate levels. If a House-passed spending bill puts $300 million in the Lock Box Account and the Senate bill has $200 million, then the final bill lock box must have somewhere between $200 million and $300 million, said Bartlett.

To guarantee that the deficit is reduced, the discretionary caps for the ensuing fiscal year would be deducted by the amount in the lock box.

HR 4057 was introduced by Rep. Charles Schumer (D-NY) and has garnered nearly 60 co-sponsors, according to a spokesperson.

HONORED BY GOBA - Dee Raynovich, who operated Dee Ann's, a women's clothing store in Oakland, for many years, was the guest of honor at a "roast luncheon" last week at Cornish Manor, hosted by the Greater Oakland Business Association (GOBA). Your unselfish and disciplined habits have helped us reach new heights both personally and in our businesses... We have all benefitted from our association with you and your presence will be sorely missed." Ms. Raynovich was an active member of GOBA, having frequently served as an officer and committee chairman.

Enrollment For Head Start Is Now Underway

The Garrett County Head Start Program is currently recruiting three and four-year old children for enrollment in September.

Head Start is a preschool child development program for children from families who fall within federal income eligibility guide-lines. Head Start has six major components: education, health, nutrition, parent involvement, social services and services for disabled individuals.

Children with disabilities participate with other enrolled students and receive all the same services, plus services for their individual special needs.

According to a Head Start spokesman, parents are the most important influence on a child's development and an essential part of every Head Start project is the involvement of parents in all aspects of the program.

Centers are located in Friendsville, Crellin, Oakland, Jennings, Accident, Kitzmiller, and Dennett Road. A home-based program is also offered.

Applications are being accepted now for the fall term. Interested persons will find applications at any center, or at the Community Action Building, 104 E. Center Street, Oakland.

Parents are requested to bring verification of family income, parents' social security numbers, and their child's birth certificates when applying.

For more information, persons may contact the Head Start Office at 334-9431, ext. 125.

Free Courses On CPR Scheduled For April 16

History will be made Saturday, April 16, when free CPR training will take place all across the state of Maryland.

"CPR Across Maryland" is modeled after the successful one day training programs in Prince George's, Montgomery, and Baltimore counties. Last year, in Prince George's County, over 2,000 people were trained in the life-saving procedure in a single day. Over 6,500 people have received CPR training over the last six years since the first CPR Awareness Day was held in Prince George's County.

Several sponsors have joined forces to make "CPR Across Maryland" a success this year. With their help and the help of hundreds of instructors and staff, several thousand citizens will receive free training in adult CPR. The three-hour training session includes information on heart disease, risk factors, signs and symptoms of a heart attack, mouth-to-mouth resuscitation, and care for a conscious and unconscious choking victim. These courses will be taught according to the guidelines of the American Heart Association.

The course in Garrett County will be taught at Garrett County Memorial Hospital.

Nationwide over 1.5 million people will suffer heart attacks this year and nearly 500,000 will die. In the state of Maryland over 11,000 people will die from heart disease. Many of these Marylanders can be saved if CPR is started within the first four minutes after a cardiac arrest, according to the AHA.

"Spainsounds" Program Set At Frostburg State

The Department of Music and Foreign Languages and Literatures at Frostburg State University will present a lecture/recital entitled "Spainsounds," featuring pianist Joan Harkness, at 7:30 p.m. on Tuesday, April 5, in the Performing Arts Center Recital Hall. The event is open and free to the public.

"Spainsounds" will feature the live performance of Spanish masterworks for the piano and commentary on Spanish musical and culture history and its composers.

Inspired by French composer Claude Debussy and his comment, "If one cannot afford to travel, one substitutes the imagination," Ms. Harkness created "Spainsounds" to introduce stateside audiences to the unique world of Spanish music and culture. A graduate of the Julliard School and currently residing in New York City, Ms. Harkness has performed and researched Spanish music since 1989.

For further information on the event, persons may contact Dr. Kenneth Jablon at (301) 689-4108 or 689-4378.

Businesses Of Friendsville To Form Organization

Business owners interested in the promotion and preservation of Friendsville are invited to attend a meeting on Tuesday, April 12, at Twila's Old Mill Grill, from 7 until 9 p.m.

Some initial planning by several business owners will be presented at the meeting, and it is hoped that a constitution and by-laws can be developed to form an organization similar to a chamber of commerce.

At an informal meeting March 22, business owners addressed many issues of importance to the economic picture in Friendsville, and to the concerns of local residents. "All present felt that our town is at a crucial point in development and that many steps can be taken to ensure that the increased tourism the town is experiencing is handled with the communities best interest in mind," stated a meeting spokesman. "Discussion covered many exciting possibilities for achieving goals that can set a new standard for small towns facing similar issues of growth and increased traffic."

Juveniles Are Suspects In Cabin Rampage

Four vacation cottages in the Vista Ridge Subdivision were reportedly broken into early this week, and thousands of dollars in damages and stolen property were reported to the Garrett County Sheriff's Office. Detective Randy Shaffer investigated the incidents and has apprehended two juvenile suspects in the case.

Shaffer reported that the suspects broke into the four cottages and removed numerous items, including skis, fishing poles, a mountain bicycle, guns, tools, and a bow and arrow. Estimates of stolen property exceeded $3,000, Shaffer said. Most of the property has been recovered, found in a shed.

Damage done to one cottage has exceeded $5,000, and Shaffer indicated that the estimate may rise to $10,000. In this home, owned by Michael Clough, Crofton, the suspects cut pictures, threw food, and broke a glass table, lamps, and vases.

Owners of the other cottages are Remo Simeoni, Baltimore; Benjamin Frederick, Burtonsville; and Francis Siemer, Mt. Airy.

The two juvenile suspects will be charged with four counts of breaking and entering, theft, and malicious destruction of property, Shaffer said. They are aged 13 and 14.

New Road Names

that "a few glitches" have been encountered, which are being worked out.

Torrington said that a group of residents, unhappy with a road name designation, came up with between 150 and 175 signatures to request that the name "Finzel Road" stay in place as the designation for Maryland Route 546, instead of the proposed name of "Little Savage Road."

Torrington said that county officials would try to accommodate the residents by compromising with the name "West Finzel Road," although the issue has not yet been fully resolved.

A total of 154 new base maps have been compiled that identify unnamed roads throughout the county, and questionnaires will be distributed to residents of those roads for name suggestions.

Following is a list of the existing state route numbers and their proposed new names: U.S. Rt. 40/Rt. 40 Alt. - National Pike, U.S. Rt. 50 - George Washington Highway; U.S. Rt. 219 from U.S. Rt. 40 North - Chestnut Ridge Road; U.S. Rt. 219 from Keyser's Ridge South - Garrett Highway; Interstate 68 - National Freeway; Md. Rt. 38 - Kitzmiller Road; Md. Rt. 39 - Hutton Road; Md. Rt. 42 - Friendsville Road; Md. Rt. 135 - Bloomington Road; Md. Rt. 495 from Grantsville to Swanton - Bittinger Road; Md. Rt. 495 from Rt. 135 to Rt. 135 - Swanton Road; Md. Rt. 546 - Little Savage Road; Md. Rt. 560 - Gorman Road; and Md. Rt. 669 - Springs Road.

The Garrett County Planning and Zoning Office will accept written comments on these proposed names until Friday, April 1. Comments may be directed to the office at 313 E. Alder St., Oakland, MD 21550.

ment with the issue until late in the game, stating, "When the commissioners agreed with the proposal put forth by the groups at the lake which asked the state to contribute $100,000, the commissioners did not call us or ask what we thought, as we did with them on the three-way split proposal. The $100,000 in that proposal is also taxpayers' dollars."

Edwards said that, contrary to Butscher's statements, he and Hafer have been involved in the process from the beginning, and have received no correspondence from the commissioners requesting their involvement.

"Senator Hafer and I both attended several meetings in Garrett County prior to the session, which Commissioners Butscher did not attend, and we also understand she did not attend the meeting the night before the public hearing with DNR, Penelec, and the commissioners," noted Edwards, who added that he and Hafer met at least three times in Annapolis with DNR before the hearing and twice following the hearing. The legislators also wrote to the Penelec president asking him to reduce the company's amount by $100,000.

"We have been very active in trying to maintain the economic viability of Garrett County," he said, noting that DNR has had a long-time commitment to the lake, with the state providing $500,000 or more for DNR police, fisheries, and erosion control effort, to name a few. The amount spent by the state at Deep Creek Lake is "in keeping" with the amount spent at Rocky Gap."

Hafer then concluded that Garrett County benefits "considerably more than any other governmental body" from Deep Creek Lake. He also noted that the money from the county would have come from the accommodations tax, a significant amount of which is generated by properties at the lake.

Penelec recently proposed raising dock fees for commercial property owners at the lake by as much as 800%. Property and business owners then countered with an alternate plan that would, instead, allow the fee increases to be shared more evenly by all users of the lake.

Rate Increase costs, he said.

The consultant has recommended the following rate increases for the district's water and sewer systems. For water, the universal water fixed quarterly minimum will increase from $36 per quarter to $39 per quarter; the universal water usage (over 6,000 gallons) will increase from $4 per 1,000 gallons to $4.25 per 1,000 gallons; the Mtn. Lake water ready to serve charge will increase from $12 per quarter to $13 per quarter; and Mtn. Lake water usage (all usage) will increase from $2.30 per 1,000 gallons; to $2.55 per 1,000 gallons.

The universal sewer fixed quarterly charge will be increased from $49.75 per quarter to $53.75 per quarter.

The Sanitary Commission accepted the consultant's recommendation and adopted the rate increase at their regularly scheduled meeting held on March 14. This is the first rate increase since the universal rate method was initiated in January of 1992, said Beitzel.

The new rates will increase water service fees by nine percent and there will be an eight percent increase in sewer service billings. The increases are essentially in line with the rate of inflation, he added.

Dorothy Leuba, chairperson of the Sanitary Commission, stated, "I regret that there is a need to raise user fees. The commission believes that cost containment measures are in place and it is committed to maintaining the financial strength of its utilities to properly deliver water and sewer service to meet regulatory requirements and safeguard the users."

Southern High Softball Team To Open Season Against Salisbury

With five full-time starters back from last season's 13-3-2 team, the coaches and members of the Southern High School girls' softball team are optimistic about this year's campaign, slated to get underway next Wednesday at Salisbury.

The Rams will begin a 17 game regular season with hopes of earning a spot in the regional playoffs. Southern is competing this year in Class 1A with Northern, Hancock, Clear Spring, Williamsport, Smithsburg, Boonesboro, Brunswick, Catoctin, and Francis Scott Key.

Returning starters include second baseman Wendy Craver, a junior, who batted a sizzling .481 last year, sophomore center fielder Nicole Bosley, who hit .316; senior catcher Crystal Sines, who hit .308; Christy Stoner, senior first baseman; and junior outfielder Meghan Price. A returning part-time starter from last year is junior right fielder, Tina Reese.

Others expected to see action on the varsity team are: sophomore pitcher/shortstop Alisa Rugg, freshman shortstop/pitcher Brandi Stoner, sophomore outfielder Annie Ashby, sophomore third baseman Teresa Nelson, junior third baseman Chrystal Elsey, junior first baseman April Paugh, and sophomore first baseman Jenny Panther.

"Our goals and expectations this year are to win enough games to get into the regional playoffs, make a good showing in the playoffs, and to improve our performance throughout the season," stated Coach Dave Bosley.

Bosley believes that the toughest opponents on the schedule will be University High of Morgantown, a 2A-size school, and Preston County, which is now equivalent to a 4A Maryland school. Assisting Bosley is Diane Arnett.

All of the Rams' home games will be played on the softball field adjacent to the track, with most of them beginning at 4:15 p.m.

For the first time in the SHS program, there will be a junior varsity team, which will play an eight- or 10-game schedule that is still being finalized.

Rams Defeat Defending Area Champ Vikings

The Southern High School varsity baseball team opened its 1994 campaign Friday with a big 5-3 victory over defending Area and Potomac Valley Conference champion Petersburg on the Vikings' diamond.

The Rams got strong pitching from starter Jeremy Fitzwater and reliever Mark Elliott, who allowed just two hits, while Fitzwater also led the Rams' six-hit attack.

Fitzwater, who pitched into the fifth inning, recorded eight strike-outs and three walks to earn credit for the win. Elliott worked his way out of a bases-loaded jam in the sixth by striking out two batters.

The Rams took the lead for good in the first inning by scoring two runs, one of which was a solo homer by Fitzwater.

The Vikings cut the lead to 2-1 in the third, but the Rams scored three more runs in the fifth behind a two-run double by Fitzwater to make it 5-1. Petersburg rallied for single runs in the bottom of the fifth and sixth innings, but could get no closer.

Also recording two hits and scoring twice for Southern was Matt Newcomb, who singled twice, while Josh Woods added a run-producing single.

Wes Alt, who was relieved by Jason Foutz in the fifth inning, took the loss on the mound. It was the first defeat in two starts for the Vikings.

"This was a great win for us," stated Southern Coach Jim Bosley. "We only had six hits, but we were really pleased with our defensive play, especially since we have yet to practice outside."

The Rams were to have played at Beall Tuesday afternoon, but wet weather postponed that contest until April 11. They are slated to play at Keyser this afternoon.

Huskies Mash Westmar, 16-5, For Second Win

The Northern High baseball team trailed by a run going into the fourth inning yesterday against host Westmar, but then erupted for nine runs in that frame to crush the Wildcats, 16-5, and up their record to 2-0.

Coach Phil Carr's squad took a 2-0 advantage in the top of the first, but the Wildcats came back for two runs in the bottom of that inning and then took a 3-2 lead in the second. Southern led briefly, 4-3, after two and one-half innings before Westmar added two more runs in the bottom of the third to take a 5-4 lead.

The Huskies' nine-run fourth was led off with a single by Aaron Blocher. Tim Sines then reached on an a throwing error, Brad Williams and Ryan Folk followed with back-to-back singles, and then the Westmar pitchers issued five straight walks. Williams came back to the plate later in the inning and doubled home three more runs to put the Huskies up, 13-5.

Alan Sebold paced Northern's hitting with a triple and two doubles, while Williams finished with a double and a single and Folk singled twice.

Eric Johnson, Nathan Beeman, Aaron James, and Chris Keller all doubled for the 0-1 Wildcats, who were out-hit by the Huskies, 11-7.

The Huskies will play again this weekend in the Hancock Easter Tournament, slated to get underway Saturday.

Lakers Record DH Sweeps Over Beaver And Harford

The Garrett Community College baseball team is picking up where the Laker basketball team left off; winning, that is.

The Lakers rolled to a pair of doubleheader sweeps this past week, coasting past host Community College of Beaver County on Friday, 9-0 and 15-1, and then taking a pair from Harford Community College on Sunday, 9-6 and 9-3, in Bel Air. The victories up Coach Ed Wildesen's team's season mark to 6-1.

Bill Wilcox went the distance and allowed only two hits in the first game against Beaver on Friday, after which Mike Pertko took the mound for the Lakers in the second game and did not yield a single hit in the five-inning win.

Wilcox struck out a dozen batters and walked just one in recording his win.

Meanwhile, the 10-hit performance by Garrett was paced by Mike Crosby, who rapped a two-run homer and a double, Chris Swaney, who added two doubles and a single, Darren Godby with two singles, and Pat Donahue and Joey Pecarro who each provided two-run singles. Swaney and Godby also each scored twice.

The second game, during which Pertko struck out four, was called after the fifth inning because of the 10-run rule.

The Lakers recorded 13 hits in those five frames, as Aaron Cook and Todd Blackburn each smacked two-run homers and RBI singles, Crosby sent home two runs with a double and a single, Derick Namak doubled and singled, Swaney singled twice and scored three times, and Godby added a two-run double.

Beaver's only run, which was unearned, was scored in the first inning.

In Sunday's first game against Harford the Lakers' defense struggled, as it recorded five errors. However, Garrett never trailed in the contest, taking a 3-0 lead in the third inning and then scoring four in the fifth and two insurance runs in the sixth.

Blackburn pitched the first four innings before giving way to Jason Fitch, who recorded the save.

Aaron Cook went three-for-four for Garrett and scored three times, while Crosby smacked a home run and a double to send home four runs.

Derek Griffith went the distance in the second game, as he scattered five hits.

The Lakers trailed in the nightcap, 3-1, after three innings, but rallied for five runs in the fifth to take the lead for good. Donahue's two-run double in that frame tied the score at 3-3.

The Lakers are scheduled to play at home today against Westmoreland Community College, then play at Allegany CC next Tuesday.

Md. Trout Season Now Underway

Maryland Department of Natural Resources (DNR) Secretary Torrey C. Brown, M.D., announced this week that trout season opened Saturday, March 26, for anglers in Maryland's put-and-take trout fishing areas. DNR Freshwater Fisheries Division has stocked Maryland steams with more than 100,000 trout ranging from 10 to 17 inches in length.

During this spring season, DNR will stock more than 230,000 additional trout in more than 100 rivers, streams, lakes, ponds and impoundments across the state, including several new areas.

"For the very first time, trout were stocked in the North Branch of the Potomac River at Kitzmiller in Garrett County," Dr. Brown said. "It is very gratifying to know that efforts to clean up acid mine drainage in the North Branch have paid off to this extend."

New stocking areas include the Youghiogheny River at Friendsville, from the bridge at I-68 downstream to the Youghiogheny Reservoir.

DNR's stocking program allows anglers to catch and keep up to five trout per day in most put-and-take trout fishing areas. The 1994 Freshwater Sportfishing Guide, published by DNR, provides details concerning all Maryland trout fishing waters.

has never been found, but Ferrell was convicted after numerous pieces of evidence were introduced by prosecutors.

Lonnie Simmons, Ferrell's Charleston lawyer, said the blood found on a blanket in Ferrell's patrol car was recently tested and the conclusion was that the blood was not Ford's. Simmons claims that the newer DNA testing tools are more accurate than what was available at the time of the trial, and therefore he is requesting a new trial for Ferrell.

However, Prosecutor Dennis V. DiBenedetto said that blood evidence was one small part of the entire case, and that this one part was not a critical issue in Ferrell's conviction. He stated that the primary focus was on evidence found inside the trailer.

"Every Marylander deserves safe, affordable housing," said Governor Schaefer. "The Trust will help us increase the supply of much needed housing and provide crucial services to some of the state's neediest citizens."

MAHT was created by the Maryland General Assembly in 1992 and is funded by a portion of the interest generated by title company escrow accounts. To date, more than 150 title companies doing business in Maryland have generated more than 1.4 million dollars for the Trust.

"We were impressed with the variety of projects that were presented to us," said Alice G. Pinderhughes, chairman of the MAHT Board of Trustees. "We are glad that in its first funding round, the Trust is able to help 10 organizations that are so committed to affordable housing."

MAHT fosters housing assistance for households with incomes of 50 percent or less of area or state median, with a strong preference given to projects that assist households earning 30 percent of median or less. MAHT favors projects that provide, both, housing and support services for families with minor children or single adults in need of housing.

Karen E. Beitzel And Jason B. Maust Are Married In October Ceremony

Karen Elaine Beitzel and Jason Boyd Maust were united in marriage on October 9, 1993. The double-ring ceremony took place at the Cherry Glade Mennonite Church, in Accident, with Rev. James Brenneman officiating.

The bride is the daughter of Cleland and Mildred Beitzel, Bittinger, and the groom is the son of Markel and Miriam Maust, Accident.

Randal Beitzel, brother of the bride, was the vocalist. Prior to the ceremony, Robert Bender, cousin of the bride, and Gary Maust, cousin of the groom, lit candles on the altar candelabra.

The bride chose a gown of white prima satin. The beaded Alencon lace featured a sculptured portrait neckline and short sleeves, and the Basque waistline held tiers of bouffant tulle over satin, accented with tiny Alencon lace flowers swept to a chapel train. The headpiece was made of white satin flowers with pearl trimmings and pearl and satin sprays with a four layer white tulle veil. She wore matching lace-up granny boots. She carried a bouquet of cascading white lilies and spider mums with sprigs of black flowers accented with green and black streamers.

Serving as maid of honor was Teresa Yoder, cousin and friend of the bride. She wore a short, iridescent taffeta emerald green dress with the skirt overlaid with layered green netting and black lace. A large black bow with wide ankle-length streamers enhanced the back.

Bridesmaids were Twila Yoder, cousin of the bride; Tina Yoder, cousin of the bride; and Sherry Beitzel, sister of the bride. They wore dresses of iridescent taffeta emerald green with V-necklines and Basque waisthnes. The skirts were above the knee in front and tapered to calf length in back. All bridesmaids and the maid of honor wore black velvet chokers, black velvet gloves, and black high-top lace-up granny boots. They carried matching bouquets of cascading spider mums and lilies.

The groom wore a white tux with tails and a corsage with two white roses. The groomsmen wore black tuxes with tails and corsages with one white rose.

Whitney Maust, niece of the groom, was flower girl and carried a basket of white flower petals.

Serving as best man was Brian Bender, friend of the groom. Groomsmen were Luke Maust, brother of the groom; Urban Maust, brother of the groom; and Darrin Yoder, cousin of the bride. Dayne Maust, nephew of the groom, was the ring bearer.

The church pews were decorated with white doves, white gladiolus, and green and white paper ribbon strung on both sides of the aisle with large black bows. Green and black candles and lilies accented the candelabra.

The reception was held in the church fellowship hall, which was decorated with green and black balloons hung from the ceiling in bunches, green and black wedding bells, and white doves. An ice sculpture of two doves accented the buffet, which was catered by the bride's cousins, Twila Yoder and Charlotte Tice.

The wedding cake, baked by Lela Yoder, featured white icing and black rose buds with a cake top of doves.

Beth Bicker, distributed programs and Kim Fost, friends of the bride, was in charge of the guest book.

Conrad Maust and Edna Bender were the photographers and Melvin Beitzel was the videographer. Doug Beitzel served as sound technician. Flowers were supplied by The Flower Loft and put together by Ruth Beitzel and Fannie Bender, aunts of the bride.

Following the wedding the couple traveled to the Poconos, Pa. for the honeymoon.

The bride is a June 1987 graduate of Northern High School and is employed on her parents' Holstein dairy farm in Bittinger.

The groom is a 1992 graduate of Catonsville Community College, Baltimore, and is currently employed by Beitzel Corporation.

The bride is the daughter of Joseph "Pete" and Linda Buckel, Bittinger. The groom is the son of Karen Collins, Oakland, and John Collins, Friendsville.

Prior to the ceremony, the mothers of the bride and groom lit candles on the altar. During the ceremony, the couple lit the unity candle and presented their mothers with pink roses.

Escorted to the altar by her father, the bride wore a petal blush pink gown of rich brocade French satin, featuring a scoop neckline with hand-pearled and sequined re-embroidered Alencon lace. The intricate elbow-length sleeves were etched with re-embroidered lace medallions, and the fitted bodice, which was enclosed in the back with tiny fabric-covered buttons, ended with a Basque waist. The flowing, ball gown skirt swept to a full, semi-cathedral train topped with an elaborate, hand-rolled cabbage rose, and highlighted with Alencon lace appliques.

The bride wore a crystal and pearl tiara with a large double pouf and two layers of rolled-edge fingertip bridal illusion. She also wore diamond earrings, a gift from the groom, and her grandmother's 25th wedding anniversary diamond ring. She carried a cascading bouquet of silk flowers, including white and pink roses, gardenias, lilies of the valley and springeri.

Serving as maid of honor was Tina Buckel, sister of the bride. Bridesmaids were Missy Lowery, cousin of the bride; Katherine Hanlin, friend of the bride; and Lisa Collins, sister of the groom. Shayla Collins, cousin of the groom, served as flower girl.

Each carried a bouquet of mauve and burgundy alstroemerias, sweetheart roses and baby's breath. All silk bouquets and silk flower arrangements at the church and reception were designed by Carol Cervi of McHenry, friend of the bride.

The flower girl wore a white satin and lace dress with a halo of mauve alstroemerias and pink sweetheart roses in her hair. She also carried a white satin basket with matching flowers and ribbon. The basket was hand-crafted by Frances Roth, friend of the bride's family.

Best man was Robert Fousek, friend of the groom. The groomsmen were Jay Paugh, friend of the groom; Alex Lowery, cousin of the bride; and Mike Paugh, friend of the groom. Scott Collins, brother of the groom, was the ring bearer. He carried a white satin and lace pillow, hand-crafted by Hilda Gellner, friend of the couple.

The altar flowers were placed in memory of Rex Buckel, Bruce Brenneman, and Betty Buckel, grandfathers and aunt of the bride, and also in memory of Fred Collins Sr., and Hagar Tichinell, grandfather and grandmother of the groom. The altar flowers were arranged by Green Acres Flower Basket.

Lectors for the ceremony were George Tichinell, uncle of the groom, and Joseph Buckel, father of the bride. Sheila Southerly was the organist. Marcie Beiler, friend of the bride, sang, Looking Through The Eyes Of Love, and Lana Roby, aunt of the bride, sang, Love Of A Lifetime and The Wedding Song.

Holiday Closing
First Federal Savings Bank of Western Maryland has chosen to close all offices on Friday, April 1 in observance of Good Friday as we have done in the past.
Until this year all financial institutions in Maryland had to close in observance of Good Friday. This year closing is voluntary. We have chosen to close because we think it is a very important time of the year for all Christians. We may not be able to continue this practice, but so long as the thinking of the present Board of Directors prevails, we will close on Good Friday.
All branch offices will be open regular hours on Saturday, April 2.

Rolls Declining

efforts between the training place and social services.

Members of both agencies form a team that reviews and selects enrollees for the training programs, and help to resolve such typical problems as adequate housing and personal matters, said Beverly Beard, assistant director of Income Maintenance at the Department of Social Services.

The Training Place has served 59 participants since October 1993 in the areas of job training and work experience. Case workers are directly involved with the Project Independence clients as they move through the training programs.

"The baffling thing is that other counties who don't show the same decreases in welfare enrollment also have this program in place," said Shaffer.

Shaffer also speculated that the decreasing numbers might be the result of recent increasing efforts within the Social Services Department to coordinate the welfare eligibility program with the child support enforcement program.

"Of course, it's hard to measure that kind of thing," he said, "but there seems to be an increasing flow of clients from AFDC into the child support enforcement program. Sometimes, that support check coming in is just enough to nudge them out of the welfare program."

Shaffer also offered an explanation for the increasing numbers evidenced in the food stamp program, saying that the program is utilized, in part, by what he calls "marginal" income families, who find that food stamps are enough assistance without having to rely on a monthly welfare check.

He reported that, as of the end of February 1994, 1,174 individuals were receiving food stamps; with 1,128 in 1993; 1,124 in 1992; and 1,027 in 1991.

Man Convicted

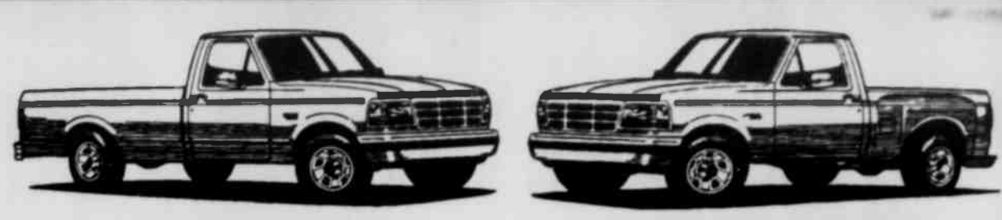
activity with an intoxicated 28-year-old woman who was unable to defend herself. He also pushed her to the ground on the same evening, and she sustained a fractured ankle in the fall.

Original charges of second, third, and fourth sexual offense were not prosecuted.

A jury found a Terra Alta, W.Va., woman guilty of resisting arrest, but not guilty of assault, battery, driving with a revoked license, and driving while intoxicated (DWI). Nancy J. Delauder, 29, was arrested in October 1993 by a Garrett County Sheriff's deputy after he reportedly observed her vehicle exceeding the speed limit and crossing the center line of Rt. 219 North.

According to the officer's account of the incident, he conducted several sobriety tests with Delauder, which she failed. When he attempted to arrest her, she allegedly fought with him and resisted being handcuffed. She continued to resist, according to the report, by kicking the windows in the back of Green's patrol car and cursing at the officer. She also is reported to have kicked the officer in the chest and legs several times.



Thayer ordered a presentence investigation for Delauder and bond for her release at $5,000, with 10% of that amount acceptable for release.

Dutton Family To Perform At PSC April 14

The Dutton Family, a nine-member family of "accomplished, versatile" musicians, will bring their blend of country, folk, classical and bluegrass music to the Church McKee Arts Center at Potomac State College, Keyser, W.Va., on Thursday, April 14, at 8 p.m.

The Duttons have received praise from critics and standing ovations from audiences all over America and Europe. The family performs more than 250 concerts and travels about 180,000 miles per year.

Each of the seven children, who range in age from 12 to 22, plays a variety of instruments, ranging from violin and fiddle to guitar, banjo, and mandolin. Several have won recognition in national fiddling contests, and also garnered awards in classical violin competitions. In addition to their musical talents, all seven also perform clogging, and the entire family sings.

"I, for one, have never witnessed anything like this instant rapport between performers and ticket-buyers -- and I've been attending concerts for almost six decades," said critic Mike Karvelas of the Sumter, S.C. Item. "In short, the Duttons are showmanship personified."

After opening a concert with an engaging mixture of folk, country, bluegrass, and clogging, the Duttons switch to formal clothing and classical music of Handel and Bach, then switch back again for a folk/country finale.

Parents Dean and Sheila, in addition to playing the band, take care of the many details involved in performing. Dean plays the guitar and sings bass, and is also a professor of economics at Brigham Young University in Provo, Utah. Sheila plays the bass fiddle and serves as the group's business manager.

Ticket prices are $9 for adults and $5 for children. For more information, persons may call 788-1235.

KIDS ARE PEOPLE TOO — Don't know what to do with all those brown paper bags? Have children who like to draw? Do this for them: Cut the bottom off a brown bag. Cut the bag lengthwise and you have a large brown drawing paper. Have fun, kids!

MILK CARTON MAGIC — I can put 10 empty one-quart milk cartons in one carton. How? Cut the top off the first carton and clean it. Cut the tops and bottoms off all others. Fold the square box lengthwise. Insert into first carton. You can get 10 in one carton. — Steven C., Port Chester, N.Y.

TRAILBLAZING — As my aunt used to do, I keep a small notebook in my car with directions to family and friends I may not visit often. I usually add landmarks and other information before making a permanent entry. I include the address and phone number at the top of the page. Linda G., Gainesville, Fla.

BLESSED ORGANIZATION — Housekeeping can be pleasant and efficient if you have a place for everything and put things away after using them. Articles that are seldom used can be sold at yard sales and flea markets.

The want-ad section of the newspaper is ideal for putting on the floor of the kitchen cabinets, especially under the sink. It looks neat, absorbs spills, is already paid for and has the date on it, so you know when it was changed last. Jenny P., Des Moines, Iowa

I.D. LABELS — When I take film in to be developed, I copy the dates from the label onto the envelope in which the photos will be returned to me. Once they are developed, I sit down with my calendar and write the date and names of those photographs on the back of every one. It's a big job but it saves time and frustration.

Leasing accounts for more than two in 10 retail car sales, and some experts predict that figure will double over the next several years.

One factor driving the trend is the rising cost of automobiles, says "Everybody's Money," the consumer magazine for credit union members published by the Credit Union National Association.

Leasing has appeal if you look mainly at the size of the initial payment and the monthly payment, rather than the total cost of the transaction, "Everybody's Money" says. But over the long run, leasing usually costs more than buying, the magazine cautions.

"When you lease a car, you're basically renting it and not purchasing equity in the vehicle. Some lease agreements apply the payments toward the purchase of the car if you decide you want to buy it when the contract ends. However, the total cost is usually greater than if you had gotten a conventional car loan, especially from a credit union," says "EM" editor Susan Tiffany.

If you go from lease to lease, you never acquire a car and do not benefit from that payment-free period between the time you pay off a conventional loan and the time you trade in for a newer car, she points out.

"Leasing is a convenience rather than a savings," Tiffany says. "You may enjoy driving a recent-model vehicle all the time. If you do decide to lease, treat it like any other major buying decision. There is a wide variety of leases available in the marketplace. Shop around for the best mileage allowances, fees, and trade-in deal."

Make sure the lease is based on a realistic estimate of your annual mileage. If you exceed the annual mileage provided in the contract, you may have to pay a stiff penalty, Tiffany warns.

The contract should spell out in detail the conditions under which penalties may be imposed, what happens if the car is stolen or wrecked, and the remedies available if the car turns out to be a lemon.

Choose a closed-end lease that guarantees the vehicle's value at the end of the contract, rather than an open-end lease that holds you responsible if the car's actual value is below the target set at the beginning of the lease.

For a free "Everybody's Money" brochure on calculating how big a monthly car payment you can afford, send a self-addressed, stamped envelope to "How Much Car Can You Afford?," CUNA PR, Box 431, Madison, Wis. 53701.

SHIRLEY TEMPLE DOLLS GROW IN VALUE

Each year, toy makers try to make the doll that every child wants for Christmas. Last year, it was Barney. In recent years, it was a troll or Cabbage Patch doll or Barbie. In 1934, and for many years that followed, it was the Shirley Temple doll that was found under the tree. The child movie star also inspired dolls and other collectibles, including paper dolls, dishes, sheet music and jewelry.

Many version of the doll, ranging in size from 12 to 35 inches high, were made by the Ideal Toy Co. When TV reruns of her old movies made her a star again, a new set of dolls was made by Ideal. The dolls have been made of vinyl since 1957. Prices for Shirley Temple dolls range from $60 to more than $1,000, depending on age and condition.

Q. My pressed glass goblet has a stem that looks like a tree trunk with three branches. The top of the glass is decorated with oak leaves. Can you tell me the maker and age of the goblet?

A. The goblet is in a pattern called "Maple Leaf" or "Maple Leaf on Trunk," made in the 1870s and 1880s by Gillinder & Sons. The leaves are stylized and not easy to recognize as maple leaves. Goblets were made of clear glass or of yellow, blue, emerald green, light green, amber, strippled or frosted glass. The pattern was very popular, and pieces were given away as premiums for buying coffee or baking powder. The pattern has been reproduced.

Q. I have a very large gunpowder box that is shaped like a bin with a lift door in the front. The gunpowder must have been scooped out. The red tin has painted trees, flowers, pagodas and a picture of a woman. Was this a general store container? It seems strange to sell loose gunpowder.

A. Gunpowder is the name of a type of tea, not an explosive. Tea tins can be found with names like oolong or English breakfast. Sometimes store tea bins were made with several names on a roller that could be turned so the name could be changed and a different variety of tea could be sold.

TIP: You can list your phone number and not your street address in the local phone book. Ask your phone company. It's a good idea for known collectors.

Friendsville Mayor Sentenced For Exposure Charge

State's Electronic Filing Can Help Some Taxpayers Who Owe Uncle Sam

Maryland's electronic filing program for state income tax returns could be a boon to taxpayers who find they owe additional tax to IRS when they compute their 1993 federal income tax return, according to State Comptroller Louis L. Goldstein.

"We know that some taxpayers are finding that they owe additional federal income tax for 1993 because of the changes in federal tax law," Goldstein said. Many of these taxpayers are waiting to file their federal income tax returns until close to the April 15 tax deadline.

"Unfortunately, some of these taxpayers may mistakenly believe that they will also owe additional Maryland tax because of the federal tax change," said Goldstein. "However, the federal changes had no impact on state taxes. This means that some taxpayers could be using their Maryland tax refund to help pay the additional income tax they owe to the IRS."

About 70% of Maryland's taxpayers receive refunds. The current average refund check is $393.

Goldstein said those taxpayers who are just now realizing that they are due a refund from the state of Maryland should consider electronic filing for an exceptionally quick turnaround of the refund check.

"We are putting refund checks in the mail three days after receiving a valid electronically-filed return," Goldstein said. "This means there is still time for taxpayers to file electronically through one of the more than 800 professional tax preparers participating in the Maryland program. An electronically filed return is not subject to the delays caused by the large numbers of paper tax forms filed in April."

In addition to the rapid turnaround of refund checks, the Maryland electronic filing program saves taxpayer dollars because it ehminates the labor intensive step of entering information from the tax return into the computer. "This side benefit of electronic filing with help the processing of all tax returns during the April filing rush," Goldstein said. In addition, electronic filing almost eliminates errors entirely."

Taxpayers can take advantage of electronic filing even if they complete their own returns. Most professionals participating in the electronic filing program will transmit the return electronically for a lesser fee, even if they did not complete the return for the taxpayer.

Taxpayers can find professional preparers participating in the Maryland program throughout the state.

WHAT IS A HERNIA?
When an organ protrudes through an opening in the surrounding walls it is called a hernia. Most hernias are in the abdominal, groin area. This hernia weakness can be there at birth but it may be much later in life that it is discovered.
At one time having a hernia repaired surgically was a long drawn out process. Often the patient was out of commission for many, many weeks. Some preferred to wear a support, rather than have the operation. But today recovery is much more rapid and it is more advisable and common to have it taken care of. If you suspect a hernia, see your physician.

THE BIBLE SPEAKS
BY LAWRENCE W. ALTHOUSE

WHERE IS YOUR DESTINY?
April 3, 1994

Background Scripture:
Mark 16:1-8, Romans 8:12-27
Devotional Reading:
Luke 24:1-11

Someone has said that "Easter is nothing more than wishful longing for pie-in-the-sky by-and-by." Perhaps that's what it is for some people, but for many of us it is a lot more.

For some of us, Easter is primarily the celebration of a monumental event in the past. Jesus Christ resurrected from the tomb almost two thousand years ago. Without a doubt, Easter is that--all history turns on that single event--but it is also much more.

For others, Easter is seen as essentially the promise of a future deliverance for Christ's followers: as he was victorious over the grave, so shall we be. And Easter is that, too--all our hopes and fears turn on that assurance--but it is still much more.

For still others, Easter is the reality that helps us to meet the challenge of the present moment: the resurrection and eternal life can be experienced now as well as then. Surely, Easter is that, too--without that power daily life would crush us and we would emerge as victims instead of victors.

ALL OF THE ABOVE

Actually, Easter is all of the above. Because of Christ's victory over the grave two thousand years ago, you and I trust in our own survival of death some time in the future. And, because of that future assurance of victory, we can live victoriously in the present moment. No, it is not just ancient history or pie in the sky, but power for the present--so long as we understand what it means for us human destiny lies, not in the material world, but in the realm of the spirit.

Now the importance of that statement lies in the fact that most of us do not live as if that is true. To the contrary, we live as if our destiny is to be found in the material world, nowhere else. We find our security, our pleasure, our success in material things. We treat the physical body as if it is the chief vehicle of our selfhood. But if life has any message for us it is that the physical, material realities of life are the one thing we can count on losing. And the one thing that lives beyond the veil of death is that which is of the Spirit. As Paul says to the Romans, "So then, brethren, we are debtors, not to the flesh--for if you live according to the flesh you will die, but if by the Spirit you put to death the deeds of the body you will live" (8:12).

BY THE SPIRIT

That does not denigrate material things or the physical body. I love the material world in all of its beauty and wonder. I enjoy the flesh that God has given me. There is nothing wrong in the material world so long as we understand that it is not our destiny. Our destiny is with the Spirit. When the physical world and the spiritual worlds collide, go with the latter.

As Paul put sit, "For those who live according to the flesh set their minds on the things of the flesh...but those who live according to the Spirit set their minds on the things of the Spirit. To set the mind on the flesh is death, but to set the mind on the Spirit is life and peace" (8:5-7).

Easter reminds us once again that human destiny is to be found, not with the body, not with the physical realities, but with the Spirit. So, to what destiny are you journeying?

COVER STORY

Producers make 'Christy' a labor of love

BY SUZANNE GILL

Tyne Daly

A bold experiment in television programming begins Easter Sunday, April 3, on CBS — and it doesn't involve nudity, raw language or special effects.

"Christy" is the first screen adaptation of Catherine Marshall's best selling novel based on her mother's journey of faith as a 19-year-old mission schoolteacher in the Smoky Mountains of Tennessee. The drama stars Tyne Daly, Tess Harper, and Kellie Martin ("Life Goes On") in the title role. It begins with Sunday's two-hour movie and continues on Thursdays with six one-hour episodes, starting April 7.

Although "Christy" will be looking for the same family audience that embraced CBS' "Dr. Quinn, Medicine Woman" a year ago, its element of spirituality takes it beyond other TV sagas harkening back to another time. It is a rare opportunity for millions to see their beliefs represented in prime time.

"Frankly, I didn't see it as my kind of material," admits executive producer Barney Rosenzweig ("Cagney & Lacey"). But it took Rosenzweig to bring together two men who did see this story of a young woman in turn-of-the-century Appalachia as their kind of material: Producer Ken Wales and CBS entertainment chief Jeff Sagansky.

Wales ("Pocketful of Miracles," "Darling Lili"), a friend of the Marshall family, has sought to make the film since he read the book 18 years ago. Sagansky, too, was impressed when he read it at the suggestion of his wife. Rosenzweig, who has known Wales since college days, became the point man in negotiations with the network. "This has been a very, very unique and special experience on a lot of levels," he says.

Following the success of the 1955 film "A Man Called Peter," based on Marshall's biography of her late husband, the first chaplain of the Senate, the author sold the rights for "Christy" to MGM in 1969. But the film was never made. Wales became interested in 1976, but it wasn't until a decade later that an opportunity arose for him to buy the rights.

"I literally mortgaged the house and went deep into life savings over this period of time," Wales says.

Seven years passed. After the success of "Dr. Quinn," Rosenzweig offered a similar idea to Sagansky for a possible series.

" 'Well, that's interesting,' he says, 'but you know what I've always wanted to do? Have you ever heard about a book called "Christy?" ' Rosenzweig was in the catbird seat: "I said, 'Sure, I know the guy who owns it. We'll get it for you.' "

Rosenzweig helped again when it came time to cast the part of Alice Henderson, Christy's Quaker mentor. He suggested Daly and Sagansky enthusiastically agreed. Once on location, the actress was impressed by local affection for the story.

"Down there in Tennessee," she says, "everybody knows the book. You go to have dinner at the local greasy spoon, and the waitress comes up with her old copy and says, 'Would you please sign it?' "

'Ghostwriter' drug tale has room for two heroes

BY SUZANNE GILL

David Lopez, who plays Alex Fernandez on PBS' serialized mystery series "Ghostwriter," says he hasn't given much thought to the idea of being a role model for the 7-to-10-year-olds who tune in each Sunday (check local listings).

"I don't feel obligated at all," says the Manhattan ninth-grader in an after-school interview. "I never even gave it that much thought."

But the "Ghostwriter" staff is well aware of his influence, and that's part of the reason Alex was chosen as the focus of a storyline dealing with drugs. It begins airing Sunday, April 3.

"Alex is a really powerful role model for kids," says Eve Hall, the head of research on the series. "Kids really like him and think he's cool, that he is somebody to emulate. Also, we wanted to use the Fernandez family because they are a very strong family, and we really love them as characters. We thought through them we could explore some of the complexity of this problem."

In the two-hour story, airing over four weeks, Alex is anxious for more freedom from his parents' rules. When he is offered marijuana by a new friend, he must decide whether his friendship or his family comes first. Even before his parents know, his sister, Gabby (Mayteana Morales), becomes worried and writes him a letter to tell him how she feels about drugs.

"As it turned out," Hall says, "(using Gabby) was a really high point of the show. Kids thought of her as a hero, and they thought of Alex as a hero, for very different reasons. But both of them emerged as playing really key roles in making things work out in this story."

Kellie Martin stars in "Christy," the story of a schoolteacher in turn-of-the-century Appalachia. The Thursday series begins with a two-hour movie, Sunday on CBS.

Kevin (Dennis Staroselsky, left), the neighborhood's basketball star, tries to pressure Alex (David Lopez) into trying marijuana in a four-part "Ghostwriter" starting Sunday on PBS.

Emmy Award-winning actor Edward James Olmos looks at the growing national crisis of gang violence in NBC's "Lives in Hazard," Friday, April 8.

In the special, gang members in Olmos' native East Los Angeles discuss why they joined gangs as well as share their fears and stories of their shattered lives.

The program examines the dearth of positive role models for urban teens and the glorification of gang culture that inexplicably draws them in.

Roseanne Arnold

Q: I watch "Roseanne" religiously and was shocked to see the episode in which Dan, Roseanne and Jackie smoked marijuana. I think they really set a bad example for young people. Where can I write to them? I love John Goodman and Roseanne Arnold, but they should have thought twice about that storyline. –Debbie Hoskins, Nampa, Idaho.

A: I'm sorry that I had to edit your letter for space, Debbie, since it was one of the best and most thoughtful I've gotten in a long time. The short answer is that you can write to the show at ABC Television Network, 4151 Prospect Ave., Los Angeles, Calif. 90027. Since you generally are a fierce champion of "Roseanne," though, I urge you to watch this episode again, if you can. Bad example? Dan, Roseanne and Jackie turned into brain-dead goofballs, with Jackie trembling in the bathtub from drug-induced paranoia. Even Darlene's teenage boyfriend, David, was disgusted by their behavior. Since producer Tom Arnold has been very open about his own recovery from drug and alcohol addiction, neither he nor his wife would approve a script that glamorized recreational drug use. "Roseanne" is underappreciated for its courage.

Q: I recently enjoyed "Tales of the City" on PBS. Is it available on video? –David Witt, Yreka, Calif.

A: Not yet, David W., but the critically acclaimed miniseries should be out on video by year's end. The British producers already have begun preliminary work on "More Tales of the City," the second book in the series, but it is not definite that PBS will carry it in the United States. David M., write Campbell C/O "Moon Over Miami," ABC Television Network, 4151 Prospect Ave., Los Angeles, Calif. 90027. Thank your local PBS affiliate for airing "Tales."

Q: I have been watching reruns of "The Waltons" and have noticed the strong resemblance between Judy Norton (Mary Ellen) and Brenda Epperson (Ashley on "Young and the Restless"). Are they one and the same? My friends say no way. What do you say? –M.R.M., Fort Wayne, Ind.

A: I say there is a good reason why these performers people keep asking me about have different names. They aren't the same person. Apart from Hans Gudegast of "Rat Patrol," who became the more melodious Eric Braeden for later roles (including Victor on "Young and the Restless"), few actors change names in mid-career.

Getting in gear for 'Connections²'

James Burke

While the information superhighway is still under construction, take a tour of the historical roadmarkers of human understanding in "Connections²," debuting Easter Sunday, April 3, on The Learning Channel. James Burke, host of the first "Connections" 15 years ago on PBS, returns with 10 new half-hours.

"I've been putting together this thing called a web," Burke says. "I suppose it'll be another four or five years before the technology is ready, but these (episodes) are explorations on the way to that. What I want to do is create a very large structure about the interrelated nature of all knowledge. These are journeys, if you like, through this web."

Each show follows a thread of history to see how science, politics and even acts of nature have affected future generations. While the first series had about 15 sequences in each hour, "Connections²" makes 18 stops in half the time. "People are simply in a higher gear than they were then," Burke says.

"At one level it is a kind of romp, and at another level it tells you something serious about how history works."

The father of three peoples comes to life in "Abraham," a four-hour epic airing Sunday and Monday, April 3 and 4, on TNT. Richard Harris and Barbara Hershey star as Abram and Sarai (renamed Abraham and Sarah by God himself) in a generally faithful retelling of the story found in Genesis 11-23. The film begins as Abram deals with a greedy king, an aging father and a sense of spiritual emptiness, while the barren Sarai is on hand for one of several anguished childbirth scenes. "Abraham" faces all the usual pitfalls of a biblical epic and picks up steam in Part 2.

"Full Access: Trisha Yearwood on Tour" goes backstage with the singer during a Tacoma, Wash., concert. The special airs Wednesday, April 6, on The Nashville Network.

"A Body to Die For" is the latest edition of HBO's "Life stories: Families in Crisis" series. Debuting Wednesday, it tells the true story of Aaron Henry, a determined young athlete who compromised his future with steroid use.

The 100-year life of the father of film comedies is recalled in "Hal Roach: Hollywood's King of Laughter," debuting Thursday, April 7, on The Disney Channel. Roach, who died in 1992, is best remembered for his teaming with comic actor Harold Lloyd. Steve Allen, Mel Brooks, John Hughes, Robert Klein and Rich Little are interviewed.

SOAP TALK

Reader says 'GL' is headed downhill

BY CANDACE HAVENS

Barbara Crampton

Dear Candace: I watch "Guiding Light" and I have to tell you that Bridget (Melissa Hayden) was right about Julie (Jocelyn Seagrave). Julie is a conniving little witch, and if she comes between Frank (Frank Dicopoulos) and Eleni (Melina Kanakaredes), I am never going to watch "GL" again.

The people at "GL" made a mistake with the new Mindy (Barbara Crampton) as well. She is mean and whines all the time. It makes me want to turn off my television.

I am very happy with the new Alexandra (Marj Dusay). She is a real pit bull, just like the old one. –Gina Smith, Brainerd, Minn.

Dear Reader: A year ago, I was getting complaints that Julie was too much of a goody-two-shoes. My, how times have changed. The character has become much more three-dimensional, and the witchiness is what makes her fun to watch.

Crampton is doing a good job as Mindy, but viewers have to remember that she is acting the material that has been written for her. If she seems too mean or whiny, then it is most likely the writers' fault.

Marj Dusay is a marvelous actress and she has stepped into the role of Alexandra perfectly.

Dear Candace: I have a few things that I would like to express to the Bells, who created and write "The Young and the Restless" and "The Bold and the Beautiful."

I do not like the way they handle murders on the shows. When Leanna Love killed Ashley's husband, she got off scot-free. Leanna became a TV star and gave advice to the lovelorn. She was never punished for her crime.

Now they are doing the same thing with Sheila. This evil witch has gotten away with so much and has never been punished because Lauren is such a wimp and will not say anything. I think it stinks that they let the killers get away. –Sandy in Tyrone, Pa.

Dear Reader: This happens all the time on the soaps, especially when a bad character becomes popular with the audience. Look at Vivian Alamain on "Days of Our Lives," or Roger Thorpe on "Guiding Light." Both of these characters have gotten away with horrendous deeds.

It isn't right, but it does make for interesting viewing.

TIME OUT

Ladies first on NCAA championship schedule

BY SARA BENNETT

Ann Meyers

The NCAA men's championship basketball game will be played Monday, April 4, on CBS. But, as they say, ladies first.

CBS airs the women's championship Sunday, April 3, capping an expanded March Madness. For the first time, the women's tournament included 64 teams, like the men's.

"Going to 64 teams is fabulous," says game analyst and former player Ann Meyers, UCLA's first four-time All-American. "It gives the top-seeded teams an opportunity to get an extra game under their belts. It gives teams that are underdogs and have never been to the tournament a chance to have upsets, and it helps their recruiting programs because they get more exposure."

Sounds good, right? But why don't the early rounds get nationally televised?

"We've come a long way, but I still think there's a big audience out there," Meyers says. "The print media has not helped whatsoever. They have made more of an effort to put in scores and write about teams, but leading up to the women's Final Four, I'd still like to know about the teams that get in and the seeding selection there."

Many women's teams, including Stanford, Texas and Tennessee, outdraw their male counterparts, according to Meyers, but still don't get the coverage.

"It's a Catch-22," Meyers says. "As much as we (women) want to be on TV, we have to make changes (such as changing start times) to get exposure. But then when it's the other way around, they (television) don't bend."

As far as tournament competition goes, it's as tough to pick two finalists for the women as it is for the men. Meyers likes a number of teams.

"You can't pick a team," she says. "I think with the regionals being in Palo Alto (Calif.) this year, Stanford (second seeded in the West) has to be the favorite. Tennessee (first seeded in Mideast) was one of the favorites last year, and (1993 made) two years in a row that they did not make the Final Four. I'm sure Pat Summit will have her team prepared.

"You've got some teams that can come out of nowhere. Colorado (No. 3 in the West), as good a year as they've had, got beaten in the Big Eight tournament by Missouri (12-17 record). You just don't know when it's going to happen." Meyers says. "It's like the men's – somebody throwing in three-pointers, or something could be really hot on the boards."

MOVIE MARQUEE

A good film is bad, and a bad film is good

BY TED KUSIO

Richard Harris

Isn't it odd how some forgettable, unsuccessful films leave memorable impressions of quality?

That's the case with TNT's "Abraham," a four-hour film based on the Old Testament of the Bible. Richard Harris stars in the title role with Barbara Hershey as his wife, Sarah. The two-part film begins Easter Sunday, April 3, and concludes on Monday, April 4.

Abraham is probably best known as the man who almost sacrificed his son to prove his devotion to God. Based on this film, Abraham seems to have been the man who practically discovered God.

The production values on "Abraham" are excellent. And the cast includes talented actors in some very good performances, especially Hershey.

But something's not right.

Perhaps it's Harris' impassioned performance that seems too passionate. Maybe it's the incredible amount of information that's stuffed into four hours. Or perhaps the film demands that viewers have personal knowledge of the Bible, instead of clearly presenting the story on-screen.

Miraculously, it's still an interesting film that's worth watching. Not great, not awful, but interesting. Very interesting.

Fox has similar results with "The Counterfeit Contessa," which airs Monday. Only this time it's a predictable and sappy film that somehow manages to be enjoyable.

Tea Leoni stars as a woman who impersonates a wealthy Italian countess in hopes of finding love.

The film works by creating charming characters and scenarios that overcome their simplicity and lack of originality.

Who cares what the cake looks like, as long as it's sweet.

Of course this week also includes one of the biggest and best films of all time, which can be said without waffling. Charlton Heston stars as Moses in the epic "The Ten Commandments," Sunday on ABC. Also, James Belushi aims for adventure as "Royce," premiering on Showtime.

Victoria Principal plays a cold and abusive mother who may have been murdered by her daughter in "Beyond Obsession," Monday on ABC.

The USA Network features Kirstie Alley, Tom Berenger and Sidney Poitier in the suspenseful adventure "Shoot to Kill" on Wednesday, April 6.

"Spoils of War," with John Heard and Rhea Perlman, tells of a young boy who tries to reunite his divorced parents. It airs Saturday, April 9, on ABC.

Recent District Court Cases Placed On Stet Docket

Several persons had charges levied against them placed on the stet docket in Garrett County District Court proceedings last week.

A case placed on the "stet" docket does not clear the defendant of the charges against him; rather, it is held open for a year pending the behavior of the defendant.

Tammy L. Fogle, 33, Oakland, had been charged with two counts of battery stemming from a November, 1993, incident. Her case was placed on the stet docket providing she has no physical/violent contact with the victims.

Charges of malicious destruction of property against Jeffery R. Giger, 19, and Michele L. Paul, 21, both of Meyersdale, Pa., were also placed on the stet docket, with the condition they pay $375 restitution, within two weeks, to Sharon Miller and Earl Miller, for destruction of six tires and a garage window on Oct. 7, 1993.

Stephen R. Wiley, 38, McHenry, was not prosecuted on a trespassing charge at the request of the complainant, Kathy A. Wiley.

Probation before judgment was handed to Randy W. Sweitzer, 28, Swanton, for casting rays of light on fields and woodlands. He had been charged with the offense on Oct. 6, 1993, by Natural Resources Police Officer M.G. Sloan. Judge Ralph Burnett fined Sweitzer, $20 in court costs and placed him on six months of unsupervised probation.

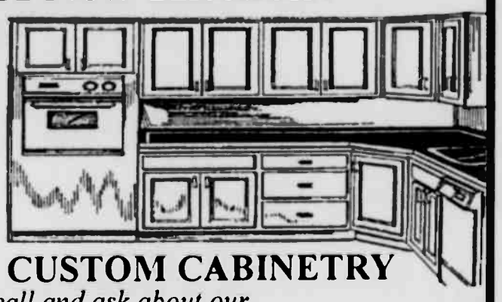
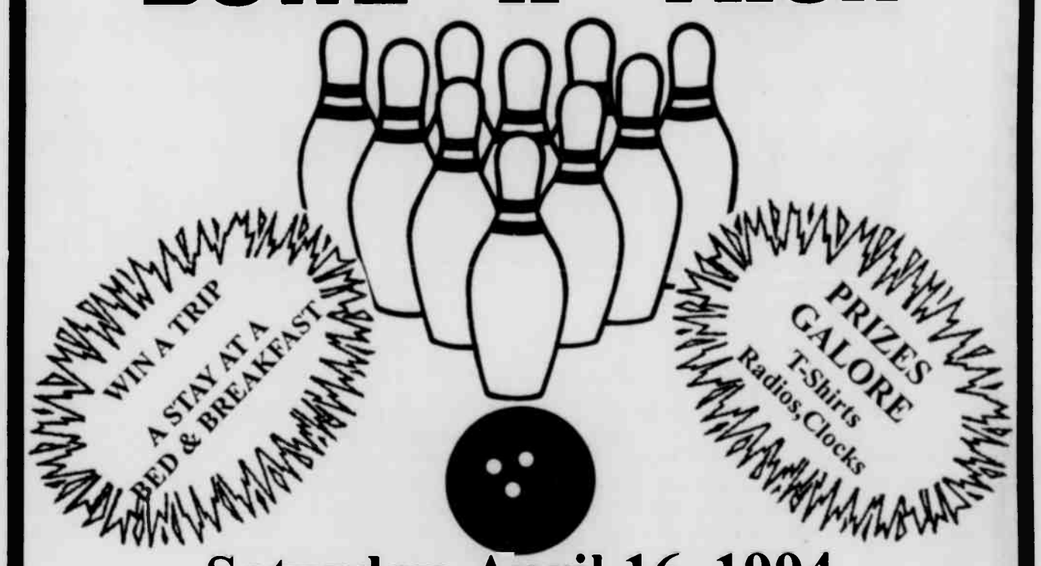
Science Fair Set In Salisbury Elk Lick District

The 1993-94 school year has brought new ideas and cooperation between teachers, students, and parents in the Salisbury-Elk Lick School District. An example of this is the Salisbury Elementary Science Fair, scheduled for Thursday, April 7, at 7 p.m. in the Salisbury-Elk Lick High School Gymnasium. Elmer Smith, advisor for the project, is working with the sixth grade enrichment class to plan an evening of entertainment and education with the display of projects from students, grades 1-6. "This is the first year we have tried this kind of event," explained Smith, "however, teachers, students, and parents are working hard to make it successful."

Students in grades 4-6 will develop individual projects around ideas of their own. Grades 1-3 will display exhibits that are part of their ongoing science class programs. Teachers are an integral part of motivating students to become involved in the projects, while parents help develop ideas, and students proceed with building the display, Smith said.



All participants in the Science Fair will receive a certificate donated by the Print Shoppe in Grantsville. The top three award winners in grades 4-6 will be given plaques donated by the Salisbury-Elk Lick PTO. Projects will be judged on creativity, level of difficulty, neatness, presentation, and how well the project follows the scientific process.



Science projects will be displayed on the afternoon of April 7 for the students to view. The evening will begin with a PTO business meeting at 6:30 p.m. when discussions concerning the Talent Show, 5K Run/Walk, and Teacher Appreciation Week will be held. Following this at 7 p.m., parents, teachers, students, and community members are invited to view the projects displayed in the High School Gymnasium. Refreshments will be provided by the PTO.

- ½ cup evaporated milk
- 1 egg
- 2 tablespoons sugar

Powdered Sugar Frosting (recipe follows)

Select loaf size recommended by the manufacturer of your machine.

Measure all ingredients except dates, candied fruits and frosting into bread machine pan in the order that the bread machine manufacturer suggests.

Process in sweet bread or dried fruit nut cycle; if machine does not have these cycles, use basic bread cycle on lightest crust setting. Add dates and candied fruits at the signal or 5 to 10 minutes before the last kneading step ends.

Remove baked bread from pan; cool on wire rack. Drizzle or pipe frosting on bread to make a cross.

POWDERED SUGAR FROSTING: In small bowl, combine ½ cup sifted powdered sugar, 1 to 2 teaspoons evaporated milk and ¼ teaspoon vanilla extract. Stir until smooth.

Hot Cross Buns

(Conventional)

- 5½ to 6 cups all-purpose flour
- ½ cup sugar
- 2 packages Fleischmann's Active Dry or RapidRise Yeast
- 1 teaspoon ground cinnamon
- ½ teaspoon salt
- ¼ teaspoon ground allspice
- ¼ teaspoon ground nutmeg
- 1 cup evaporated milk
- ½ cup water
- ½ cup butter or margarine, cut into pieces
- 2 eggs
- 1 cup imported chopped or snipped pitted dates
- ½ cup chopped mixed candied fruits
- 1 egg white, lightly beaten

Powdered Sugar Frosting (recipe follows)

In large bowl, combine 2 cups flour, sugar, undissolved yeast, cinnamon, salt, allspice and nutmeg. Heat milk, water and butter until very warm (120° to 130°F). Gradually add to dry ingredients; beat 2 minutes at medium speed of electric mixer, scraping bowl occasionally. Add 2 eggs and ½ cup flour; beat 2 minutes at high speed. With spoon, stir in enough remaining flour to make soft dough. Knead on floured surface until smooth and elastic, about 6 to 8 minutes. Place in greased bowl, turning to grease top. Cover; let rise in warm place until doubled in size, about 45 to 60 minutes. (With RapidRise Yeast, cover kneaded dough; let rest on floured surface 10 minutes. Proceed with recipe.)

Punch dough down. Remove dough to floured surface. Knead in dates and candied fruits. Divide dough into 18 equal pieces; shape into smooth balls. Place balls, spacing apart, on 2 greased baking sheets. Cover; let rise in warm place until doubled in size, about 30 to 45 minutes.

Brush egg white over rolls. Bake at 375°F for 15 to 20 minutes or until done. Remove from pans; let cool on wire racks. Drizzle or pipe Powdered Sugar Frosting onto each roll to make a cross.

POWDERED SUGAR FROSTING: In small bowl, combine 1½ cups sifted powdered sugar, 1 to 2 tablespoons evaporated milk and ½ teaspoon vanilla extract. Stir until smooth.

Making delectable Easter breads is easier than ever. Whether you employ quicker conventional methods or use your bread machine, you'll have scrumptious results with recipes from the Fleischmann's Yeast test kitchens.

Conventional bakers pressed for time can use RapidRise Yeast for Hot Cross Buns to skip the first rising, or make Lemon Spice Puffs which requires no kneading. When making Fresh Fruit Kuchen, you can stretch the preparation over two days.

Even easier, use a bread machine to make variations of these traditional favorites. Of the three breads, only the Kuchen is hand-shaped and baked conventionally.

Power Company Asks To Resume Energy Surcharge

The Potomac Edison Company this week filed with the Maryland Public Service Commission to reinstitute an energy conservation surcharge which was approved in April 1993 by the Commission.

The March 21 filing, if approved, will allow for the collection of expenses associated with newly implemented energy conservation programs in Maryland. These programs, residential new home construction program, which promotes the building of energy-efficient homes, and a commercial and industrial lighting program, that offsets the costs of retrofitting new and existing businesses with high-efficiency lighting fixtures, are now benefiting Potomac Edison customers in Maryland, according to a PE spokesman. The surcharge requests made with the Commission was for $6.3 million.

The company has asked that the surcharge become effective May 5. If approved by the Commission, residential customers using 1,000 kilo-watt hours of electricity each month would see an increase of 66 cents. An average monthly bill would increase from $69.47 to $70.13, or one percent. Commercial and industrial customers would see an increase of 3.5 percent on a monthly bill.

Potomac Edison serves more than 187,000 customers in all or part of seven Maryland counties.

Energy Assistance Applications Now Being Accepted

Garrett County Community Action Agency is still accepting applications for the Maryland Energy Assistance Program (MEAP).

MEAP will provide assistance to eligible low-income, elderly and disabled households. Renters, roomers, and boarders are also eligible to apply. To date, nearly 2,100 applications have been filed.

Individual MEAP benefits are based on the type of fuel used and households income. The gross income eligibility standards for one is $871 maximum; two person, $1,179 maximum; three person, $1,486 maximum; and four persons, $1,794.

The benefit is sent to the heating supplier after certification of the application. renters, whose heat is included in their rent, will receive a letter indicating a benefit was sent to the landlord. That amount is deducted from rent payments.

MEAP is a one-time per year assistance benefit. Clients are urged to continue making regular payments for utilities and heating to avoid shut-offs. In the event of emergency situations, it is possible to have delivery of the fuel benefit provided in advance of emergency delivery, and these deliveries will be deducted from the regular benefit.

Applications can be filed at Garrett County Community Action Agency, 104 E. Center Street, Oakland, on a walk-in basis. Persons may call (301) 334-9431 Monday through Friday, 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m., for more information.

LET'S WORK TOGETHER

by Ed King

Don Sincell's editorial of March 25, 1994, titled "A Slap in the Face," is applauded. It was great. Possibly it was the spark that prompted me to write this article.

To quote from Mr. Sincell's editorial, "The lake property owners, who already pay the highest taxes of any particular group in the county and receive virtually no services for their money, will be asked to pay still more. As it is, the (County Commissioners) appear to be totally uncaring and unconcerned about the lake, which is without a doubt Garrett County's greatest economical asset."

Garrett County's leadership over the years has perpetuated the polarity between the lake population and County resi-dents. This should never have been permitted. The fact is that we need each other. There is no reason for the way Deep Creek Lake property owners and business owners are being taxed only to receive little or no services in return.

Deep Creek Lake properties represent more than 42 percent of the County's tax base. Additionally, the resort accounts for a very significant percentage of all goods & services sold in the County. Almost every resident of the County is touched by these factors — everything from insurance, groceries, building supplies, restaurants, construction work, and recreational items, just to name a few.

The number of new resort homes has increased greatly since the early 1980's. Because of appreciation, the assessed value has also increased dramatically. In turn, this has given the County millions of dollars additional income over the past ten years. These monies have made it possible to enhance schools, roads, and other needs of the County.

Owners of property in Election District 18 (Deep Creek Lake) have not complained about contributing their tax dollars to such things as education or roads. We realize that we own recreational property in a rural county in which these cost items exist. On the other hand, it seems to be a one-way street with the County government refusing to give back any-thing to the lake community. As Mr. Sincell mentioned in his editorial, a $35,000 contribution to the lake would have been a very inexpensive gesture of good faith, and one whereby the whole County would have profited. This money is not to pay anyone's dock fees! It is a management fee for the lake —the lake which generates income for all of Garrett County.

Through the years, I have not been a complainer or a writer of Letters to the Editor. But this $35,000 issue outrages me. As I touch on several issues which are bothersome, I want to air not only the complaint but a possible solution or benefit to help the County leadership bring us together and wipe out the polarization of lake owners and other County residents.

The Glendale Bridge

I love this charming old structure, possibly because of my background with American Bridge Division of U. S. Steel, and also the romance of the structure created by the late artist, Aza Stanton. I also find it a pleasant local courtesy to alternate traffic and then exchange a friendly wave as one passes the drivers waiting at the opposite end of the bridge.

The fact remains that, in the interim while the bridge is not being replaced, it is deteriorating. The photo above shows abridge member that is completely rusted away. It has been this way for several years, which means one of two things: 1) that the law requiring inspections and repairs to Public Works has been ignored, or 2) simply that no one cares. The pictured member, along with possible other problems, should be repaired and the entire structure painted.

It was at least ten years ago when I first suggested to the County that the Glendale Bridge required maintenance. Recently I mentioned it again during a Planning Commission meeting, only to hear one Commissioner say that the load limit would just have to be continually lowered until such time as it was less than the weight of a car and then close the bridge altogether.

Is that our leadership mentality? In fact, the bridge is not just the lake's bridge. It is used heavily on a daily basis, year-round, by hundreds if not more Garrett Countians to travel to & from work, to doctor & hospital appointments in the Cumberland area, etc. Closing of this structure would not only sever a main north/south artery through the County and split the resort community but would seriously hamper emergency fire & rescue services in this County.

The issue of replacing Glendale Bridge on a 70-year-old pier with poor alignment and taking the bridge out of service for more than a year is also something I consider unacceptable. The cost of doing the job correctly on a new alignment is reported to be about one million dollars more than using the 70-year-old pier on the old alignment. The value of the immediately-adjacent properties (Glendale Shores, The Pinnacle, and the two private cottages) is far in excess of that sum. In fewer than thirty years, these properties alone would produce more than enough tax revenue to retire the million dollars difference in the cost of the new bridge.

A County Swimming Pool

Last summer the County had a recreational study done by a local engineering firm. A swimming pool was the facility placed at the top of the list by this study. When it was determined by the Planning Commission that placing a county-wide facility under the umbrella of the Community College was not fair to the population of the whole County, the idea died. The residents of the County as well as lake visitors could benefit from many days of enjoyment from a community swimming pool and, thus, everyone would profit.

The Lake Management Fee

In my opinion, Commissioner John Braskey is on target, and the County should willingly and gladly pitch in to help manage its greatest asset.

I might add here that the Property Owners' Association of Deep Creek Lake has been heavily involved in this juris-dictional issue for more than three years. First, there was the effort to preserve the Federal jurisdiction mandating the recreational use of Deep Creek Lake. Second, the POA tried to participate in the management lease between D.N.R. and Pennsylvania Electric Co.

The County leadership has done virtually NOTHING to assist with either issue until just recently. Only after extreme pressure was placed on the Commissioners for help did they do anything to protect the investments around Deep Creek Lake and the revenue base for the entire County.

New County Transfer Tax

This is another shot at Deep Creek Lake properties. Why? Last year, the County Commissioners enacted a County Transfer Tax with a $50,000 exemption. This tax is directly targeted at the lake community, and provides an exemption for most transfers within the County. There are more transfers of lake properties, and the average price is much higher than $50,000. Don't the lake properties pay enough taxes? And yet, the Commissioners hit us again with this additional tax.

Upcoming Solid Waste Disposal Costs

Rodney Glotfelty, Director of Solid Waste, recently spoke to the Deep Creek Lions Club on the subject of the new landfill and its cost. Glotfelty reported that an ad valorem tax based on property value is being considered by the Commissioners to pay for the landfill construction and its operation.

Hold on! A resort property generates waste approximately two to three days a week from June through August and possibly several full weeks during a year. Full-time residents throughout the county generate waste 7 days a week year-round.

Deep Creek Lake has been endorsed by many families who have built second-homes here in excess of three hundred thousand dollars and higher. Why or how could anyone conceive of an ad valorem tax for solid waste disposal based on property values? I just don't understand. Enough is enough! Why not consider exempting any amount over $50,000 value, similar to what was done — in reverse — on the transfer tax.

Yes, the County needs this facility and the lake property owners will pay their fair share based on waste generated. Let's consider a win/win formula rather than putting the lion's share of the burden again on the Deep Creek properties.

Snow Plowing of Private Lanes

If a road or lane is not a county-designated roadway, there are no county services for that road including snow plowing. Let me cite as an example the Clark Lohr Subdivision area of the lake. The assessed tax base of the improved properties at the end of this lane is more than three million dollars. The market value is much higher. Don't ask me why this lane cannot be kept open during the winter months. There is no good reason for this type of non-service. This lane is only one example of many similar ones.

Lake Clean-Up

Through the years, a concerted effort to clean up the lake area has been organized through different interest groups. It is a joint effort and it has been effective in removing thousands of old metal drums and other dock-related debris. Individual property owners are asked to place such materials by the roadside for pickup by crews with trucks to be taken to a central site. Volunteers from the residential and business community, along with crews from the D.N.R. take part in this function.

The County, until 1993, supplied weekend use of equipment and crews to crush the barrels and haul them to the landfill. At the last minute, after last year's Spring clean-up weekend had been coordinated, the County withdrew its crews and equipment for this work. The cost for the equipment and overtime for the crews was less than two thousand dollars total. A late-night phone call to Commissioner Braskey resulted in the reversal of this decision, and the debris was picked up the following Monday morning.

This effort helps to beautify and enhance Deep Creek Lake —Garrett County's showplace. Restricting funds for such activities is anti-productive for the whole County.

In Summary

I want to make the point that I am not angry with the people working in the ranks of County government. They are fine people trying to do a good job for the whole County. Nor am I angry individually with any of our County Commissioners. They, too, are fine people doing what they think is best. However, the lake community is going through a major renaissance. This change dictates the need for better management decisions.

I do suggest that our leadership should take advantage of the fact that we need each other. The lake has the ability to pay more, and the County has programs that need to be funded. All it takes is some understanding of each other's needs and a little consideration. You cannot work a horse to death without feeding it. Many of the issues about which I have spoken are food for thought for both the lake property owners— hundreds of whom are permanent residents and business owners —and other residents of the County.

I have no personal interest in politics. I am, however, very upset at some of the recent decisions, or lack thereof, and felt moved to share my personal thoughts publicly. I love this County and its people very much. We can and need to work together.

ARMED SERVICES REVIEW

Promoted To Sgt.

Roger L. Tasker, of Company C, 121st Engineer Battalion (CBT), Maryland Army National Guard, Oakland, was recently promoted to the rank of sergeant.

Sergeant Tasker has been in the service for over six years. He is in the support platoon as a equipment operator. He has completed the primary leadership development course, as well as track mechanic and SEE (small emplacement excavator) School.

Tasker resides in Oakland with wife, Cheryl, and daughter, Alicia. He is employed by Glotfelty Lumber Company.

Marine Pvt. Timothy A. Wilt, son of Homer and Bertha A. Wilt, Rt. 2, Swanton, recently completed recruit training.

During the training cycle at Marine Corps Recruit Depot, Parris Island, S.C., recruits are taught the basics of battlefield survival, introduced to typical military daily routine, and personal and professional standards.

All recruits participate in an active physical conditioning program and gain proficiency in a variety of military skills including first aid, rifle marksmanship and close-order drill. Teamwork and self-discipline are emphasized throughout the cycle.

Although the Marine Corps is scaling back, its investment in high-quality recruits continues, according to a Marine Corps spokesman. The Marine Corps has more than 38,000 job openings this year.

Wilt is a 1993 graduate of Southern High School.

Glimpse Of The Past . . .

THE ORGANIZERS of Mountain Lake Park are pictured above in front of the Assembly Hall and Auditorium, a building that was built in 1882 and still stands on several acres of ground along G Street. The founders of the town resolved that the Park should have a high moral character and the charter that was created contained absolute restrictions against dancing, card playing, drinking alcoholic beverages, and gambling, both in public and in private homes. It was stipulated that deeds could be revoked from property owners guilty of these "offenses." Nearby Loch Lynn had no such restrictions, which led to the saying, "If you want to sin, go to Loch Lynn; for Jesus' sake, go to Mtn. Lake." Pictured from left to right are: Dr. C.P. Masden, Mayor J.C. Alderson, and C.W. Conner, all of Wheeling, W.Va.; Dr. C.W. Baldwin, Baltimore; J.M. Davis, Oakland; and S. Allen, Wheeling. This photo is from the files of the Garrett County Historical Society Museum in Oakland. It is published courtesy of the Society and The Republican.

Clarification Noted

In a photograph that accompanied a feature story about Friendsville's involvement in an art project titled "Boarders," the cutline indicated that Friendsville resident Espy Hook's grandfather was killed at the Riverside Hotel. He was, in fact, killed near his farm in a field outside of town, according to a spokesperson for the family.

League To Host Luncheon; Phyllis Trickett To Speak

The Garrett County League of Women Voters has invited the public to lunch next Wednesday, April 6, at noon, at Cornish Manor, Oakland, to hear Garrett County resident Phyllis Trickett, chair of the Maryland Commission for Women, discuss the newly formed Garrett County Commission for Women.

The local commission was established last October by the county commissioners. However, Del. George Edwards has introduced enabling legislation (HB 1543) that would allow the county commissioners to establish a permanent commission for women and provide for its operation and administration. Other counties that have already done so include Allegany, Anne Arundel, Baltimore, Calvert, Carroll, Frederick, Harford, Howard, Montgomery, Prince George's, St. Mary's, Washington, and Wicomico.

The first item on which the Garrett County Commission for Women will focus is to establish a crisis shelter for victims of domestic violence, be they women, children, or men.

This meeting, like all other public meetings held by the League, is open to the public. For more information on this meeting or to RSVP (for planning purposes), persons may call Edith Brock at 334-4889 or Donna Aspinall at 334-1804.

The League of Women Voters is a nonpartisan organization which neither supports nor opposes any political candidate or party. Its purpose is to promote political responsibility through the informed and active participation of citizens in government. Membership is open to all citizens over 18 years of age. The public is welcome at all unit public meetings. For more information write to LWVGC, P.O. Box 115, Oakland, MD 21550 or call Connie Margison at 334-1109.

World War II Committee Meets

At the second meeting of the Garrett County World War II Commemoration Committee held at Garrett Community College recently, plans were discussed for various activities to be carried out during the year-long commemoration, according to Paul Shogren, coordinator.

A list of World War II veterans, especially those who participated in the D-Day invasion of Normandy June 6, is being compiled in preparation of a planned veterans picnic at the college on the 50th anniversary of that event.

Taping of oral histories of area residents who participated in World War II has already begun by John Grant. Other plans discussed at the meeting include having travelling exhibits and veterans to assist public school and college students to understand the signilicance and scope of the war.

The next meeting of the commemoration committee has been set for April 22 at 1:30 p.m. in Room 306 of the Continuing Education building. Shogren asks that any persons who participated in World War II on the home front or in the military contact him at 387-3013 or 334-1386.

AREA HOSPITAL ADDS SCANNER - Frostburg Community Hospital announced recently that it has purchased and installed a computed tomography (CT) scanner to provide diagnostic imaging for its patients. Pictured above with the new unit are: Jon Conway, registered radiologic technologist; Ethel McCray, a patient from Ellerslie (seated); and Carole Bowen, Radiology Department manager. See story for details.

Frostburg Hospital Adds CT Scanner, Other Equipment

In the three years since new management took over the old Frostburg Community Hospital, the hospital has turned itself around to become a high-technology community hospital for Frostburg and vicinity, according to its administrator, Earl Slater. As part of its improvement, Frostburg Hospital recently installed a high-quality computed tomography (CT) whole-body scanner. Now, patients can get local treatment with the latest equipment in diagnostic imaging.

The new Shimadzu SCT-3000TX scanner enables physicians to view anatomical features and make quantitative evaluations by rapid scanning and reconstruction. It provides quick response with an ultra-high speed processor and intelligent, high-speed data memory.

"The new CT scanner provides reliable, high-quality imaging, with maximum cost efficiency and space utilization," said Slater.

The CAT scan combines the latest in x-ray and computer technologies, he said. A beam of radiation, similar to that used in x-ray imaging, is aimed in a transverse direction. Unlike traditional x-ray imaging, the beam applied in computed tomography is then rotated rapidly around the patient's body. The x-ray beam exposes a highly sensitive electronic detector. Digital data is transferred to a computer and the reconstructed image is then displayed on a television monitor.

As a companion to the new CT scanner, Frostburg Hospital has also installed a laser imaging system from 3M. This new system produces sharp, clear diagnostic images directly from the electronic data produced by the CT scanner.

Carol A. Bowen, Radiology Department manager, said the laser imager provides "extremely detailed" x-ray type images from medical equipment hke Frostburg Hospitals CT scanner and ultrasound unit. It also can produce multiple "original" images quickly and inexpensively on a single sheet of x-ray film, or multiple full-size "originals."

"We see the laser imager as an extremely valuable asset for improved patient care," said Bowen. "Our doctors and radiologists depend on the quality of images from our diagnostic equipment, and we believe that the laser imager provides the best available. And, speed can be critical. When we are dealing with accident victims, for instance, a patient's life may depend on the speed and accuracy of our imaging equipment."

This new equipment is valuable for a number of medical uses, including identifying critical areas in heart attack and stroke patients, examining internal organs without exploratory surgery and determining the condition of a patient after or during treatment.

Slater said he sees this new combination of laser imager and CT scanner as a valuable asset for improving the hospital's ability to meet the needs of patients in diagnosing hemorrhages and strokes, evaluating cancers, studying the spine and lymph nodes, and evaluating other diagnostic conditions.

Other changes made recently at Frostburg Community Hospital include:

- An expanded extended-care facility for transitional care between the hospital and home.
- The most up-to-date mammography equipment for early detection of breast cancer.
- High-technology ultrasound equipment for diagnostic procedures without exposure to radiation.
- Improved operating rooms for performing the most-current surgical procedures.
- A modernized laboratory for fast, accurate test analysis.
- More parking for easier access to the hospital.

Frostburg Hospital is accredited by the Joint Committee on Accreditation for Healthcare Organizations (JCAHO).

As part of its campaign to show community members how it has improved, Frostburg hospital recently started its "20-Minute Guarantee" program for emergency room care. Slater said that once a patient signs in at the emergency room, his or her examination will begin within 20 minutes.

Md. Farmers Urged to Get State Approved Nutrient Management Plans

Maryland Department of Agriculture (MDA) Secretary Robert L. Walker has issued a reminder to farmers urging them to obtain a state-approved nutrient management plan as they prepare for the spring planting season.

"For Maryland to meet the 40 percent nutrient reduction goal of the Chesapeake Bay Agreement through voluntary means, we'll need to enroll over a million acres--or 70 percent of Maryland's farmland--into our Nutrient Management Program by the year 2000," said Secretary Walker.

"Although many farmers practice some form of nutrient management, unless they are working with a state-licensed nutrient management consultant, their efforts to help the Bay could go largely unrecognized," he explained.

"By working with an MDA-approved nutrient management consultant, farmers will be assured that agriculture gets the credit it deserves for its conservation efforts."

Maryland's Nutrient Management Program, a cooperative effort between MDA and the Cooperative Extension Service, helps farmers manage nutrients from animal wastes, commercial fertilizers and urban sludge. The goal is to make certain that crops are getting the right amount of nutrients at the right time in the growing season so that few, if any, unused nutrients escape.

Farmers enrolled in the Nutrient Management Program work closely with a specially trained nutrient management consultant. Using soil tests, manure analyses, and sophisticated computer technology, consultants provide farmers with a "prescription" approach to fertilizer use. This helps ensure that nutrients applied are used by crops and not lost to the environment.

Private consultants are certified through MDA's Nutrient Management Certification Program. These consultants are available to take soil and manure samples and develop a field-specific nutrient management plan. In addition, the Maryland Cooperative Extension Service also has nutrient management consultants available to provide farmers with a state-approved nutrient management plan.

Farmers should make certain to verify their consultant's credentials by asking to see his or her MDA certification card and Nutrient Management Program business license. An MDA-published quarterly list of certified consultants is available at local soil conservation district offices, county Extension offices and MDA headquarters. Farmers may also call MDA at (410) 841-5863 to verify credentials.

"If agriculture is to remain free of mandatory regulations, all farmers must stand up and be counted as part of the Bay restoration effort," added Secretary Walker. "Taking part in Maryland's Nutrient Management Program is one of the best ways to do this."

For more information on Maryland's Nutrient Management Program, those interested may call (410) 841-5863.

Farming In Maryland.....

Governor Schaefer Announces Departure Of Agriculture Secretary

Governor William Donald Schaefer has announced that Maryland Secretary of Agriculture Robert L. Walker will be leaving his post to take a diplomatic overseas assignment with the U.S. Department of Agriculture as the U.S. agricultural policy adviser in Ukraine. The appointment which begins next month, will last at least a year. Lewis R. Riley, deputy secretary, will serve as acting secretary until a successor is named.

"I am very sad to lose someone with the drive and enthusiasm that Secretary Walker has displayed, but I know he will do an outstanding job in Ukraine. He is an expert in the agricultural affairs of the former Soviet Union and he has helped us in Maryland to forge agricultural alliances and exchange programs with the emerging nations in that part of the world. I wish him nothing but the best, and thank him for a job well done," Governor Schaefer said.

Walker became Maryland's Secretary of Agriculture in 1991 succeeding Wayne A. Cawley Jr. He has been at the Maryland Department of Agriculture since 1985, both as executive assistant to the secretary and deputy secretary.

"I am proud that while at the Maryland Department of Agriculture, I was able to promote Maryland agriculture all around the globe. We have opened up seldom tapped markets in Canada, Mexico, the Middle East, Europe and Asia. Here at home, we expanded the state's farmers' market program, opening some 22 new producer-only markets reaching 50,000 customers," Walker said.

Walker devoted an equal amount of energy to environmental programs. Under his leadership, the department initiated a comprehensive Nutrient Management Program to help farmers plan the use of fertilizers to achieve maximum crop yields while reducing pollution from excess nutrients.

"Most of all, I will miss the outstanding people at the Maryland Department of Agriculture. Its reputation as the best run agency in state government, is well deserved," said Walker.

Gov. Announces Approval Of Land Easement Purchase

Governor William Donald Schaefer has announced Board of Public Works approval of 11 option contracts for the purchase of agricultural preservation easements on 1,593 acres in nine counties. The state will pay $2,130,972 for the easements.

Chaired by the governor, the Board of Public Works is also comprised of Comptroller Louis L. Goldstein and Treasurer Lucille Maurer. The board is empowered by the General Assembly to approve major construction and consultant contracts, equipment purchases, property transactions, and the procurement actions.

"The purchase of these easements ensures Maryland will continue as the nation's leader in agricultural preservation acreage," said Governor Schaefer. "This is added evidence that we have a strong group of dedicated farm families who are committed to agriculture.

"Over the last seven years, 413 agricultural easements totaling 57,626 acres have been acquired."

The Maryland Agricultural Land Preservation Foundation and the Maryland Department of Agriculture recommended approval of the easement agreements. Under this program, the land owner relinquishes all rights to develop or subdivide the land for industrial, commercial or residential use and agrees to manage the land in accordance with sound agricultural practices. The Department of General Services' Office of Real Estate supports the Department of Agriculture by securing appraisals to determine fair market value and represents the state at settlements.

The easements are located in Carroll County (95.17 acres), Cecil County (346.63 acres), Frederick County (100 acres), Garrett County (155.64 acres), Kent County (296.5 acres), Somerset County (109.76 acres), Talbot County (261.85 acres), Washington County (125 acres), and Wicomico County (102.46 acres).

"Farmers in every area of our state have demonstrated a tremendous commitment to preserving agricultural land for future generations," said Maryland Secretary of Agriculture Robert L. Walker. "This will have a positive long range impact on both the economy and environmental quality of life for all Marylanders."

Maryland leads the nation with 107,035 acres in agricultural preservation districts. Since 1977, a total of 725 easements have been purchased.

The Maryland Agricultural Land Preservation Foundation was created in 1977 to implement the Agricultural Land Preservation Program. The program's intent is to preserve productive agricultural land and woodland in Maryland, provide for continued production of food and fiber, curb the extent of urban sprawl, and protect agricultural land and woodland as open space.

Maryland has 15,000 farms with total land of 2.2 million acres.

MDA Provides Service To Help Spot Ticks

Maryland Secretary of Agriculture Robert L. Walker has announced that the Mosquito Control Section of the department will continue to provide free tick identification services at its headquarters laboratory in Annapolis, as well as at the regional laboratories in Riverdale, Salisbury, and Leonardtown.

"Our goal is to help health care professionals and the general public to identify ticks that may be carrying Lyme disease or Rocky Mountain spotted fever," Walker said.

According to Cyrus R. Lesser, chief of the Mosquito Control Section, 329 ticks were identified during 1993. The most common species found was the lone star tick, characterized by a white dot on its back. This tick is a pest species, but is not known to transmit disease. The American dog tick, which comprised 25 percent of the collection, is a vector of Rocky Mountain spotted fever. Lyme disease is transmitted by the black-legged tick in Maryland and this species comprised 10 percent of the 1993 collection.

Based on the number of ticks submitted for identification, the Coastal Plain of Maryland appears to have the highest population of ticks. This includes all of the Eastern Shore region, Southern Maryland and those counties bordering the Chesapeake Bay. Only one tick specimen was submitted from the mountainous Western Maryland region.

In 1994, the Maryland Department of Agriculture again will offer free tick identification and information services for Maryland residents. Information on ticks and Lyme disease, including color pamphlets, fact sheets and bookmarks, is available on request at no charge. Community service organizations will be loaned VCR tapes upon request.

Ticks to be identified should be placed in a zip-lock plastic bag along with the name, address and telephone number of the donor, date and location where collected and type of host, whether it be human, pet, livestock, equine, etc. The container should be delivered or mailed to the nearest laboratory. Results of the identification will be available within two working days.

"Our staff will also be available to answer questions about tick life cycles and offer advice on how to avoid tick bites. However, we cannot determine if a tick carries a disease-causing agent," Lesser said.

For details on the Maryland Department of Agriculture's tick identification and information program, persons may contact a regional Mosquito Control Office: Annapolis (410) 841-5870.

Will The Family Child Stay?

By Bob Dunaway of Ag Executive

It's hard for many parents to let their children grow up. It may be even harder to realize that they have grown up and have become adults, capable of making good decisions. The "Father knows best" idea often extends to the attitude that "Father's way is always the best way."

One example is a 33-year-old son. Dad has "retired" for Social Security reasons. But the son is still paid only a wage and feels like a hired man. In fact, the wage isn't much more than typical for a hired man, despite the fact that the operation is profitable and the parents are still adding to their net worth. The son doesn't have the opportunity to gain financially from the management expertise he has developed. So he feels his management abilities are being stilled because Dad is still making all of the major decisions. Dad just can't, or won't, let go of the reins. In a case like that, the son never gets to try his new ideas. He may have attended seminars and regularly goes to meetings to learn new farm innovations, but Dad still thunks, "The old way (my way) is the best way."

Then, there's the father who prides himself in allowing his son to make many decision but he constantly looks over his shoulder. The son actually does make decisions, but then Dad says something like, "Are you sure that's really how you want to do that? I always...." One theory is that a person who is never allowed to make a mistake, never has a chance to learn from his mistakes. Another is that a person who never gets to make a decision, never gets to experience his own success. Some of the best results come from the farming child being allowed to make some of the smaller decisions to start with, without any interference. Some success and some failures will, in most case, make him consider decisions more carefully as he moves on to bigger decisions.

MDA Headquarters Dedicated To Wayne A. Cawley At Open House

Governor William Donald Schaefer and Maryland Secretary of Agriculture Robert L. Walker officially dedicated the Maryland Department of Agriculture's (MDA) headquarters building in honor of former Secretary Wayne A. Cawley Jr. at ceremonies at the department's Open House March 19. The highlight of the festivities was the unveiling of the sign naming the building for Cawley. He served as Maryland's Secretary of Agriculture from 1979 to 1991.

"Wayne did a wonderful job as agriculture secretary. No man deserves this honor more for the contribution he made to keeping agriculture strong in Maryland," said Governor Schaefer.

"It is extremely appropriate that we dedicate our headquarters complex in honor of Wayne. After all, it was Wayne Cawley who oversaw the final design and construction of our entire complex," Secretary Walker said.

More than 6,000 people attended MDA's 7th Annual Open House. The day began with a Four Mile Race and a kid's fun run. The Annapolis High School Ceremonial Band played music for the ceremonies and then the visitors toured the buildings and laboratories. In addition, there was lots of food, a petting zoo, a farm coloring contest, a farmers' market and craft demonstrations. New this year was an ice sculpture demonstration. "This was our most successful Open House ever. The crowds were tremendous and everywhere I went our guests seemed to be enjoying themselves. I am proud that this annual event has grown so much in popularity," said Secretary Walker.

The Maryland Department of Agriculture holds its Open House each year on the third Saturday in March.

Survey Finds Md. Farmers Using Widespread Conservation Practices

Nearly half of Maryland farmers who responded to a recent survey had reduced their use of fertilizer and pesticides in the past three years and had put aside an average of 67 acres per farm for conservation uses such as wetlands, woodlands, lakes, streams, and ponds.

The Maryland Farm Bureau undertook the survey to gain baseline information about voluntary conservation practices undertaken by farmers -- many of which are not tracked by government agencies -- and to help show the public that farmers are working to protect the environment, said Dennis Stolte, the Farm Bureau environmental resources specialist who coordinated the survey.

"After being out on the farms in Maryland, it was clear there were a lot of good management practices commonly used on Maryland farms that I didn't think were recognized by the non-farming public," Stolte said. "If you get out on the farms in Maryland, you get an idea of how far ahead of producers nationwide Maryland farmers are with their use of conservation practices."

For example, the survey found that conservation tillage -- which helps reduce erosion and runoff from fields -- is practiced on 55 percent of Maryland's cropland compared with an estimated national average of 35 percent.

The results came from a survey the Farm Bureau mailed to the state's 15,232 farmers. About 15 percent of the total 2,145 responded. Together, they represent a quarter of the state's 2.2 million acres of farm land.

Nonetheless, the Farm Bureau said the data appeared to be statistically valid as survey results in areas for which data is available corresponds closely. For example, the proportion of farmers who indicated they have developed nutrient management plans (18 percent) is close to the state Department of Agriculture's number (14 percent).

"Beyond the public relations side of it, I think there was a need for good data," Stolte said. "And with respect to many voluntary practices, this is the best data that's available now."

The survey found that farmers routinely use soil testing on 60 percent of all cropland. Soil tests help farmers optimize their use of fertilizer and reduce the potential for runoff. Nearly half of the farmers, 45 percent, said they had reduced their use of fertilizer during the past three years. Half said their fertilizer use had remained the same, and four percent said it had increased.

Also, 52 percent of the respondents said they had adopted some practices that helped reduce the need for pesticides, such as scouting fields for problem pests, using natural predators and other biological controls, or using tillage practices that reduce the need for chemical controls. More than half, 55 percent, said they had reduced their use of pesticides during the past three years. Only one percent said their pesticide use had increased.

When asked the most important reasons for using good conservation practices, 35 percent cited reduced production costs, 34 percent said concern for stewardship and environmental quality, and 31 percent said increased yields.

The farmers responding to the survey, who collectively manage 511,485 acres of farmland, reported putting 27 percent of their land to some kind of conservation use. That total, 143,127 acres, is an average of 67 acres per farm.

Farmers reported setting aside 34,479 acres for wildlife habitat, 4,309 acres for streams, lakes and ponds, 9,823 acres for wetlands, and 94,519 acres for forests or woodlands.

The survey was conducted by the Farm Bureau with technical and financial support from the Maryland Department of Agriculture, the Maryland Grain Producers Utilization Board, and the Chesapeake Bay Trust.

The survey was developed with input from farmers, agricultural agencies, and environmental groups.

Hosts Needed For Exchange Persons From Kyrghystan

The Maryland Department of Agriculture and the Maryland International Center will be hosting 20 agribusiness persons from Kyrghystan. Kyrghystan is one of the Central Asian Republics of the former Soviet Union.

The State of Maryland was recently the first state to receive a United States Information Agency grant to conduct agricultural training for participants from Kyrghystan.

As part of the four-week agribusiness training program, we are in need of farmers and agribusinesses to host these international visitors for three days from June 17 through June 20. We hope this on-farm stay will help to show the visitors how farm families in the United States live and how private farms operate.

Anyone interested in acting as a host for one or more of the trainees, should contact Steven Connelly at the Maryland Department of Agriculture, (410) 841-5880.

CRELLIN NEWS

HOLY WEEK SERVICES

The United Brethren Church will hold a Communion and footwashing service this evening, Holy Thursday, at 7 p.m. A preaching service focusing on "Jesus's Atoning Blood" will be held there tomorrow evening, Good Friday, also at 7 p.m. On Easter Sunday morning, there will be a Sunrise Service at the United Brethren Church (eastern daylight savings time goes into effect that morning). The children of the church will have a program during the 11 a.m. Easter Service, and there will be an Easter music program for the 7 p.m. service.

The Assembly of God Church will present an Easter musical, "Hallelujah! Praise the Lamb!," for the 7 p.m. service on Easter Sunday evening.

PUBLIC MEETING SET

United Community Services, Inc. (the non-profit organization which owns and operates the Crellin Community Building) is in the process of applying for funding for local improvements from the Maryland Small Cities Community Development Block Grant (CDBG) program. They will hold a Public Meeting for Crellin residents on Thursday, April 7, at 7 p.m. at the Crellin Community Building. At that time, the various aspects of the project will be explained, with opportunity for residents to ask questions and make suggestions.

The group is applying for grant money to fund the following works:

1. Community Building renovations (new roof, windows, siding, floors; foundation repair; two apartments upstairs; paved parking).

2. Engineered storm drain system along Crellin (main) Street.

3. Re-grading and re-paving Crellin Street.

4. New concrete sidewalks along both sides of Crellin Street from the Snowy Creek Road bridge to Cannon Park.

5. Basketball court, curbing, and paved parking at Cannon Park.

6. A concrete sidewalk along Kendall Drive from Cannon Park to the elementary school driveway, and guardrails along the riverbank.

7. Other possibilities (a pedestrian footbridge across the river near the Route 39 bridge; site acquisition for a bandstand, etc.)

At the conclusion of discussion at the public meeting of the CDBG project, the floor will be opened to discussion of the February 9 flood. If sufficient interest is expressed, a separate public meeting will be called to explore the possibility of a flood control project.

COMMUNITY BUILDING

United Community Services, Inc. lost one of its last charter Board members last month when Mildred Peterson died on February 21. At its last two Board meetings, (January 11 and March 24), United Community Services expanded its Board membership to 17 local persons. Officers remain: Michael Mudge, president; George Zimmerman, treasurer; and Ann Martin, secretary. Board members are Kay Baker, Barney and Fran Bolyard, Keith Harvey, Harold and Bette Joe Hudnall, Dave LaRue, Martha McCartney, Judy Martin, Jeff and Gloria Uphold, Judy Upole, Harold Wildesen, and Ellen Zimmerman.

SURVEY BEING CONDUCTED

As a requirement for the Community Development Block Grant application, a local income survey is currently being conducted. United Community Services board members are going through the community in teams of two to ask residents to answer two questions. Each resident is asked the number of persons living in the household and whether their total annual income is "above" or "below" a designated figure. Residents should note that the forms will not include any names, and no one will be asked to give their actual income. The purpose of this survey is to demonstrate that Crellin is an eligible community for the CDBG grant. Cooperation of local residents is essential for completing the grant application.

A letter concerning the CDBG project, the public meeting set for April 7, and this income survey was mailed last Saturday to everyone on the town water system; however, other local residents who may not have received the letter may also be included in the survey.

ELEMENTARY SCHOOL

The PTA will be putting together the 1993-94 school yearbook soon. Anyone interested in purchasing one should remit $8 to the school office by April 22. Kindergarten registration will be held at Crellin Elementary School on May 24.

Persons are asked to continue to save Campbell's Soup labels and two-liter Coca-Cola caps for the school drive. Drop-off locations other than the school for these items are Hutton Auto ("Ganks"), Crellin Service Center ("Gibsons"), and "Dream Images" Beauty Salon.

A "Maryland, You Are Beautiful" writing contest was held in February to promote drug-free schools. Fifth-grade student Joanna Virts was chosen as the overall winner. Her essay has been submitted to be judged at the county level. Other winners chosen for their grade level are: Dawn Powers (5th grade), Josh Beckman (4th grade), and Brianna Byers (3rd grade). Contest judges were principal Keith Harvey, enrichment teacher Maureen Sharps, and Pastor Michael Mudge.

Alayna Shaffer won the "Guess the Number of Kix" contest held during National Breakfast Week. Eleven family members shared school breakfast with their children on March 8.

OPEN HOUSE SHOWER

Miss Rhonda J. Fleming, fiancé of Pastor Michael Mudge, is to be honored with an open house bridal shower. Crellin residents are invited to participate in the event, to be held at the Crellin Community Building on Friday, April 15, from 7 to 9 p.m. Miss Fleming and Pastor Mudge are to be married May 7 in Cumberland. Persons may telephone 387-4182 or 334-4369 for more information.

Pastor Beahm and his family have concluded a ministry of 16 years and three months at the church. They previously served an associate pastorate in Cumberland and a term as missionaries to Algonquin Indians in Quebec, Canada. They will continue to reside in Garrett County for the next 18 months as they raise support for future mission work in Athens, Greece.

Pastor David Snodgrass will begin his ministry at the Crellin Assembly of God Church on Easter Sunday morning. A native Texan moving here from Mississippi, he and his wife, Kathryne, have two sons, Joseph and Jacob.

The Picture Of Health

I Never Thought I Would Need Surgery.
But Today, My Picture Speaks For Itself
Five months into her pregnancy, Kim Dement experienced severe heart burn and stomach cramps. She just thought it was part of the typical symptoms of pregnancy.
After the birth of her child, the discomfort not only continued, it got worse. Concerned and puzzled about the pain, Kim called her doctor.
As it turned out, Kim, a 24-year-old new mother, had to have her gall bladder removed. To Kim, this news came as a surprise and left her feeling a little out of sorts. But Kim's surgeon was reassuring and took the time to answer all her questions. According to Kim, the laparoscopic surgery that was performed to remove her gall bladder went remarkably well. She was actually discharged the next day and feeling like herself in no time.
Kim was elated with the care she received at Garrett County Memorial Hospital. She has a new respect for the abilities of the medical staff who work there.
Thanks to their expert skills and the latest medical technology, today Kim Dement is a picture of health.

McDonald's To Help Prepare For Science Testing

McDonald's Restaurants in Maryland, through their local restaurant operators, have teamed up with the State Department of Education and dozens of volunteers to help local school systems prepare for science tests that 175,000 students in grades 3, 5, and 8 will take May 2-13.

In addition to science, the Maryland School Performance Assessment Program (MSPAP) tests cover reading, mathematics, social studies, and writing and language usage. The tests, part of the state's improvement effort, require students to apply the knowledge and skills they have learned to real-life problems. The science tests include hands-on tasks calling for cups, liquids, and other materials.

State School Superintendent Nancy Grasmick announced the partnership last week at a warehouse in Baltimore County that was made available for the work of organizing more than 700,000 individual items students will need for the tests. Dr. Grasmick said McDonald's and the other firms have agreed to donate, or to provide at cost, items worth $75,000. The items include 105,000 12 oz. plastic cups, 77,000 plastic sandwich bags, 1,600 bottles of vinegar, and 2,000 boxes of pasta.

"Today we celebrate a very important partnership that brings together private firms and volunteers to support the public schools," Dr. Grasmick said. "I commend McDonald's owners and operators for their extraordinary backing of our efforts to improve instruction in science and other disciplines in every school in Maryland."

"McDonald's and the other organizations helping prepare for the tests know that everyone benefits when our schools are strong and when all children are learning the skills they will need in their adult lives," she said.

This is the second year that McDonald's Restaurants have made a major contribution of materials for the MSPAP science tests. The private-public partnership also includes B. Green & Company, Inc., Merritt Racquet Clubs and developers, McCormick Company, Sweetheart Cup Company, Inc. and Anheuser-Busch Companies. Helping organize the materials will be volunteers from the Lions Club, U.S. Army (Baltimore Recruiting Battalion), Bell Atlantic Maryland Pioneers, Retired Senior Volunteer Program (RSVP), and the General Services Adnumstration.

At the warehouse, volunteers spent the day packaging the materials according to specific requests of the local school systems. The donation of the materials leaves local school systems with more funds for staff development and other activities directly related to school improvement.

Swanton Area Artist Receives Galbreath Award

Robert Yonke, a part-time resident of the Turkey Neck area, received the Galbreath Company award at the Pittsburgh Watercolor Society's annual member show currently hanging at the US Steel Tower in Pittsburgh.

The Galbreath award recognizes use of design and color in watercolor. Yonke's award winning painting, "Salmonidae," is a wildlife interpretation of sockeye salmon on a spawning run.

His recent paintings have focused on wildlife themes, particularly trout, streams and fly fishing. Much of his source material and inspiration has come from time spent fishing the streams of Garrett County, particularly the Savage River. "I've been gratified by the recognition and acceptance of my trout fishing paintings by people knowledgeable in art as well as others interested because of the subject matter," Yonke said.

Waterworks '94 was juried for awards by Lee Steadman, noted watercolorist, illustrator, and author. The Pittsburgh Watercolor Society was established in 1946 as a charter member of the Pittsburgh Center for the Arts.

Yonke is a member of the Deep Creek Yacht Club at Turkey Neck and the Mountain Lake Park Tennis Club.

Should the Owner not execute the Agreement within such period, the Bidder may, by Written Notice, withdraw his signed Agreement. Such notice of withdrawal shall be effective upon receipt of notice by the Owner.

A conditional or qualified Bid will not be accepted.

Award will be made by the Owner to the lowest responsive and responsible bidder.

All applicable laws, ordinances, and the rules and regulations of all authorities having jurisdiction over the work shall apply to the Contract throughout.

Zion School Sets Dinner Theatre

The Zion School of Christian Education, Grantsville, will host a dinner theatre the evenings of April 7-9 and 14-16.

The dinner will begin at 6:30 p.m., followed by the theatre performance at 8 p.m. The original comedy, written by George McDowell Jr., is titled "The Beverly Billhillies."

For more information or ticket reservations, persons may call 301-895-5978 or 301-895-3840. Tickets are also available at the Zion School and Beachy's Pharmacy, Grantsville.

Spring Opening Dates Announced At State Park

The Maryland Department of Natural Resources (DNR) has announced the scheduled opening of the recreational facilities at Deep Creek Lake State Park as Friday, April 1.

The park's campground will open on this date, offering wooded campsites complete with a central heated washhouse facility. The fees for this facility are $15 per week night, and $19 on Friday, Saturday, and holiday nights. Deep Creek Lake State Park's reservation line can be reached by calling (301) 387-5563.

Weather permitting, the boat launch facilities at the park will open Saturday, April 9. According to Deep Creek Lake Recreation Area Manager Paul Durham, the delay in opening the launch area can be contributed to the ice conditions on the lake. As of the end of March, the lake was 90% covered. When open, the launch facility will be available 24 hours a day.

Boaters are advised to call the recreation area office before planning a trip to confirm the availability of the launch facility. Boat launching is also available at several other private marinas on Deep Creek Lake.

Deep Creek Lake State Park is a facility managed by the Public Lands Unit of DNR, State Forest and Park Service. Information on services and programs at the park can be obtained by calling (301) 387-5563.

BLACK BEARS, CUBS, TAGGED FOR TRACKING -- The Maryland Department of Natural Resources (DNR) Wildlife Division recently conducted its annual black bear collaring and tagging operation for the purpose of keeping tabs on their longevity and mortality factors, as well as tracking their choice of habitats. Shown above and at right is Frostburg State University (FSU) wildlife management graduate student Dorothy Dateo, who is shown assisting DNR Regional Wildlife Manager Tom Mathews with the re-collaring of one of the black bear sows, and then comforting one of its two-month old cubs, taken from the mother at a site in Potomac-Garrett State Forest after she was anesthetized. The cubs were weighed and their ears were tagged before wildlife officials returned them to their 10-year-old, 225-pound mother, who has given birth twice before. She was first tagged and radio-collared in 1989 when deer hunters reportedly found her hibernating in an abandoned strip mine. Maryland's black bear population is currently estimated at between 175 and 200, according to DNR officials. The four-year study by Dateo and another FSU graduate student will lay the groundwork for continuing research of the black bear. The students utilized telemetry equipment to track a number of radio-collared bears from April through November in Garrett and Allegany counties.

Juveniles Apprehended After High-Speed Chase With Police

Three juvenile boys who escaped from the Backbone Mountain Youth Center, Swanton, were arrested early Sunday morning by Maryland State Police after a high-speed chase from Westernport to I-68 near Frostburg.

According to a report filed at MSP Barrack W, McHenry, the juveniles, all aged 16 and 17, allegedly stole a 1991 Chevrolet truck belonging to Stanley Taylor, Swanton. Taylor saw the truck being stolen and notified the police.

The truck was observed in Westernport and when police there tried to stop the vehicle, a chase ensued. According to police reports, speeds reached in excess of 100 miles per hour. Several MSP troopers and police officers joined the chase, including a K-9 unit from the Allegany County Sheriff's Office. Also assisting was MSP helicopter Trooper 5.

At a junction near I-68, the driver of the stolen truck attempted to make a turn, lost control of the vehicle, and ran onto a grassy median where the vehicle reportedly became disabled. The three occupants attempted to flee on foot and were apprehended.

The boys allegedly escaped from the youth home on Saturday. Charges on the three are pending.

TWO ESCAPE SERIOUS INJURY

A motorcycle mishap on the Hoyes Road late Friday afternoon resulted in slight injury to the operator and passenger, according to state police.

Willie F. Friend, 18, McHenry, operating a 1988 Honda motorcycle, reportedly traveled off the right side of the road, proceeded 210 feet on the shoulder and struck an embankment. He and his passenger, Cynthia A. Kolbfleisch, 17, Accident, were thrown from the motorcycle.

Northern Garrett County Rescue Squad responded to the scene and transported both to Garrett County Memorial Hospital, where they were treated and released, according to a hospital spokesperson.

Reports indicate neither the operator nor his passenger were wearing helmets. Friend was charged with negligent driving, operating an unregistered motor vehicle, operating an uninsur-

Oakland Man Is Arrested On B&E And Theft Charges

An Oakland man accused of breaking into Madigan Auto Sales in August 1993 was arrested this week by officers of the Garrett County Sheriff's Office. Christopher J. Oldham, 22, was charged with breaking and entering, theft of $300, and destruction of property, according to the report.

The defendant is allegedly to have thrown a rock through the window of the business and removed cartons of cigarettes and sodas, as well as some cash. The incident has been under investigation for over six months.

In other sheriff's office news, deputies responded to a possible theft in progress on March 31. The officers had been contacted by an employee of the Mettiki Coal Company who reported that two suspicious persons had been seen leaving the office building, carrying property away from the vicinity. When confronted by the employee, the suspects fled into nearby woods.

Officers responded to the scene and utilized Deek,

School Board Discusses Building Accessibility; Teen Survey Results

The Garrett County Board of Education met Tuesday for the regular monthly session and discussed among other things the accessibility of the board office to persons with disabilities. The board members were also presented with the Garrett County Health Department's Teen Health Survey results.

Director of Personnel Henrietta Lease addressed the issue of accessibility to the school board office. The building is currently inaccessible to persons with disabilities, although the public meetings are held in the meeting room of the building. The issue has been a topic of discussion for several months, and Lease and Eleanor Sloan, a pupil personnel worker, have met with David Thompson, educational equity specialist of the Maryland State Department of Education, to discuss the building's noncompliance with the American Disabilities Act.

Thompson, who uses a wheelchair, met the two representatives in another area because the school board building is not accessible. Persons with disabilities, therefore, are unable to attend public meetings of the school board or visit any office in the building. Michael Sines, maintenance supervisor, told the board that an estimated cost of upgrading the building to make it accessible would probably be $250,000. These renovations would include an elevator, adequate public restroom facilities, ramps, and expanded doorways.

Sines also told the board that this would have to be discussed at length, mainly because the rest of the school board building is in dire need of many other repairs.

"We have to decide if we want to do these renovations on a building that we may not be in for very many more years," he said.

Board members said they would be willing to meet elsewhere for the regular meetings, but the problem of general accessibility would remain. Persons with disabilities would still be unable to visit the offices during regular working hours.

Lease and Sloan were then directed to take the issue back to the committee currently working on the problem, and to prioritize the needs of the office building to ultimately bring it in line with the American Disabilities Act.

Teen Health Survey

Representatives of the Garrett County Health Department presented to the school board the results of a Teen Health Survey, which was given to seventh through twelfth graders at both county middle and high schools in December 1992. Questions in the survey covered a wide range of topics, including safety, student concerns, fitness, work experience, accomplishments, and self-esteem, as well as questions about health and social behaviors.

The survey was conduct-

Additional Funds Requested For Pike Festival

Chairperson of the National Pike Festival Committee Jack Caruthers appeared before the Garrett County Commissioners this week to request that more funds be appropriated for the annual National Pike Festival, explaining the difficulties in raising money in a limited area of the county, especially in light of the fact that the annual Grantsville Days event is held the following week.

In making his request, Caruthers reported that last year's $1,600 budget was made up of about $250 from the county commissioners, $250 from the town of Grantsville, and approximately $300 from the Garrett County Arts Council. The remainder of the budget came from money carried over from the previous year's budget, he said.

Scheduled for May 21 and 22, the National Pike Festival celebrates the history of the National Road (U.S. Rt. 40) from Muskigum County in Ohio through Washington County in Maryland. The Garrett County portion of the festival is celebrated in historic Grantsville, and features wagon trains, buckskinner encampment, and working craftspersons.

Caruthers further explained that the festival drew about 2,000 people last year and "if those 2,000 people each spent $5 in the Grantsville area, that's $10,000, and if you keep in mind that every dollar spent in the county turns over at least three to five times, then the total fiscal impact of the festival would be $60,000."

When Commissioner John Braskey asked Caruthers it he had talked to the Deep Creek Lake-Garrett County Promotion Council about funding possibilities, he replied that the organization already provides support in the DCL Lease Management Agreement Given Final Approval By State Bd.

The lease management agreement between the Maryland Department of Natural Resources (DNR) and the Pennsylvania Electric Company (Penelec) was given final approval by the Maryland Board of Public Works yesterday, in effect, clearing the way for DNR to set user fees at Deep Creek Lake just in time for the summer tourist and boating season to begin.

Even though the board, which is made up of Governor William Donald Schaefer, Treasurer Lucille Maurer, and Comptroller Louis L. Goldstein, had tentatively signed the agreement between the two in December, the official signing did not take place until yesterday when representatives from both the Deep Creek Lake Property Owners' Association and the Deep Creek Business Association took a final opportunity to testify.

The plan was endorsed by District 1-A Delegate George C. Edwards and District 1 Senator John J. Hafer.

The Garrett County Commissioners also made their opinions known by forwarding a letter to the Board of Public Works urging them to "support the authorization" of the agreement between Penelec and DNR.

"The consummation of this agreement is critical to assure that management of growth along the shores of Deep Creek Lake is continued and that the same level of service is maintained for property owners," stated the letter.

The commissioners, however, objected to several aspects of the agreement. In particular, they said, is the assessment of a fee for the dry storage of boats off the Penelec buffer strip which they call an "unwarranted revenue practice.

"The board believes that while it would be appropriate to assess a special launching fee for such operations, it is not acceptable to collect a fee which is based upon the storage of boats on private land."

At the present time, only S&H Marina will be affected by the $120 dry dock fee.

The commissioners also made it known that they believe DNR should give "careful and favorable con-

Three Injured In Monday Mishap On Md. Rt. 560

Three persons were injured and treated at Garrett County Memorial Hospital Monday evening, according to a hospital spokesperson, following a one-vehicle mishap on the Loch Lynn-Gorman Road (Md. Rt. 560), near the Bethlehem Road.

Treated and released were Teresa A. Schroyer, 32, Oakland, and her 1-year-old daughter, Cortney C. Schroyer. Treated and later transferred to Ruby Memorial Hospital, Morgantown, W.Va., with severe lacerations to both hands, was Cole D. Schroyer, 8. He was listed in "fair" condition on Wednesday afternoon, according to a hospital spokesperson there.

According to reports filed by the Maryland State Police, Barrack W, McHenry, the mishap occurred when Teresa Schroyer, operating a 1993 Geo Metro, traveled off the road on a low shoulder and lost control of the vehicle. The car then skidded across the road, overturned and came to rest on its roof.

Southern Garrett County Rescue Squad responded to the scene and transported the injured to Garrett Memorial. No citations were issued, and police reports indicate speed was not a factor in the mishap.

Raley is a member of the Eastern Garrett Volunteer Fire Company and currently serves as fire chief. He is a certified emergency medical technician and a former member of the Garrett County Republican State Central Committee.

NOT SO BUSY - The busyness of this lady bee was rudely interrupted this morning, as yet another blast of snow hit the mountaintop to remind us that, although the calendar says spring has been in progress for over two weeks, Mother Nature does not necessarily pay much attention to the seasonal schedule. Light snow began falling early this morning and is predicted for the afternoon, but the sun and warmer temperatures are expected to return by tomorrow. Photo by Craig Phillips.

Oakland Man Found Guilty On Several Charges In Dist. Court

An Oakland man was sentenced to several years in the Maryland Department of Corrections in Garrett County District Court last week, after being found guilty of numerous charges that occured between July 1992 and Nov. 11, 1993, by Judge W. Timothy Finan, district court judge of Allegany County. (Garrett County District Court Judge Ralph M. Burnett had recused himself from this case.)

Jerry A. Welch, 20, was handed a five-year sentence after being convicted on one count of felony theft. Court documents indicate he had stolen a Kawasaki four-wheeler, valued at $1,500 from Ronald Sweiger m July 1992. Welch then traded the four-wheeler for a 1992 Honda motorcycle.

Welch was also sentenced to 60 days in jail for malicious destruction of property, stemming from a June 4, 1993 incident in which he destroyed the side window of a 1988 Chevrolet truck owned by Jon Thayer and stole a sunvisor. The judge ordered Welch to pay $282 restitution to Thayer, and in a plea agreement with the state's attorney, the petty theft charge was not prosecuted.

An 18-month sentence was imposed on Welch for one count of petty theft, stemming from an Aug. 30, 1993, incident where he stole gasoline from vehicles parked at the Garrett County Board of Education.

A 17-month sentence was reimposed on Welch for violation of probation from an earlier felony theft charge. In a plea agreement with the state's attorney's office, one additional count of petty theft and one additional count of felony theft were not prosecuted. His sentences will run concurrently.

In other district court news, a charge of first degree arson against Clinton R. Harvey, 18, was amended to malicious destruction of property. Judge Finan granted Harvey probation before judgment, fined him $100 and placed him on three years of unsupervised probation for the offense.

Harvey was initially charged with arson by James A. Martin from the office of the state fire marshal on Jan. 2, after he was observed burning a ceiling tile in a hallway at the Wisp Hotel.

David E. Huffman, 19, Morgantown, W.Va., pleaded guilty to possession of controlled dangerous substance (CDS) paraphernalia with intent to use, in Judge Burnett's court last week. He was granted probation before judgment for the offense, fined $350 and placed on six months of unsupervised probation. One count of CDS possession was not prosecuted because of a plea agreement with the state's attorney's office.

Huffman, a passenger in a vehicle stopped as the result of "Operation Intercept," a highway interdiction program initiated by the Garrett County Narcotics Task Force and Maryland State Police Drug Enforcement Division, was arrested on Sept. 17, 1993, after a search of the vehicle and its occupants revealed that he was in possession of two baggies filled with marijuana. The driver of the vehicle, James R. Christie II, and the other passengers, Larry A. Steele and Paul R. Vincent, were also arrested on drug related charges. Their cases in district court were continued until a later date.

James H. Zeigler, 24, Middletown, pleaded guilty to CDS possession in last week's court proceedings. He was handed a 90-day suspended sentence, fined $350 and placed on two years of supervised probation. He must also attend a drug and alcohol treatment program and perform 80 hours of community service.

Zeigler was arrested July 10, 1993 after he was stopped at a drug check point on I-68 by state police. The officers noticed Zeigler begin to drive in an erratic manner as he approached the check point. According to court records, Zeigler consented to the search of his vehicle and, as he stepped out, one officer noticed a large bulge in his clothing. A patdown and search revealed a large plastic baggie containing two individually packaged baggies filled with marijuana. A search of the truck also revealed a small baggie filled with marijuana in a book bag on the passenger seat.

David P. Shaffer, 36, Swanton, was handed guilty verdicts for DWI (driving while intoxicated) and possession of CDS paraphernalia, stemming from his Nov. 11, 1993 arrest by Garrett County Sheriff's Deputy J.B. Sowers. He was given an 18-month suspended sentence for the DWI charge, fined $450 and placed on 18 months of supervised probation. He must also seek alcohol treatment at the health department. For the CDS offense, he was fined $100 and placed on 18 months of unsupervised probation. One count of CDS possession was not charged by the state's attorney.

Court documents indicate Sowers had stopped Shaffer's vehicle for a routine traffic violation. When he approached the defendant he noticed a strong odor of alcohol. Shaffer failed a field sobriety test, resulting in his DWI arrest. He was also found to be in possession of a baggie containing marijuana, but refused to submit to a chemical test.

A passenger in Shaffer's vehicle, William W. Sweitzer, 22, Oakland, had also been arrested by Deputy Sowers in the same incident, and was found guilty of CDS possession by Judge Burnett. Probation before judgment was granted and Sweitzer was fined $100 and placed on 12 months of unsupervised probation. One count of possession of CDS paraphernalia with intent to use was not prosecuted because of a plea agreement with the state's attorney.

According to Deputy Sowers' report, after he determined Shaffer was too intoxicated to drive, he approached Sweitzer to see if he could drive, but noticed a strong odor of marijuana coming from the vehicle. A subsequent search revealed a brass pipe with burned marijuana residue and a plastic baggie filled with marijuana, in Sweitzer's pockets.

Margaret E. Cosner, 25, Oakland was found guilty of giving a false statement to a police officer. She was fined $250 and placed on two years of unsupervised probation.

Anita D. Messer, 40, Oakland, pleaded not guilty, but was found guilty of indecent exposure. She was handed an 18-month suspended sentence, fined $500, and placed on three years of supervised probation, on the condition she obey all laws, attend psychiatric counseling and have no contact with Bradley Upole or his family. Court documents indicate Messer had indecently exposed herself in public places in Oakland between August 1992, and July 11, 1993.

Victor J. Cosentino, 33, Baltimore, had a charge of possession of CDS paraphernalia with intent to use, placed on the stet docket because of a letter from James Ayersman, vice president of Genesis Steel Services, Inc.

Also placed on the stet docket was a battery charge against Donald W. Tucker, 43, Mtn. Lake Park. He had been charged with the offense on July 18, 1993, by Bonnie R. Tucker.

Albert W. McKenzie, 56, Frostburg, pleaded not guilty, and was found not guilty of felony theft. He had been accused of stealing a flatbed trailer, valued at $2,000, from Carl W. McKenzie.

Two counts of battery against David J. Upole, 22, Oakland; two counts of battery against Harold R. Upole, 45, Crellin; and one count of battery against Bobbie L. Upole, 20, Grantsville, were not prosecuted because in each case the witnesses refused to testify. The majority of the charges stemmed from an altercation on Dec. 22, 1993, and one was on Nov. 17, 1993.

DWI CASES

Several DWI and DUI (driving under the influence of alcohol) cases were heard in Judge Burnett's court last week.

Terry W. Sharpless, 32, Md., failed to appear in court on DWI and CDS charges and bench warrants were issued for his arrest. Sharpless had been arrested on a DWI charge on Jan. 21, and a DWI/CDS charge on Jan. 30. New bond was set at $5,000 for each offense.

Michael W. Paugh, 30, W.Va., had his DWI charge amended to DUI. He was handed a 30-day suspended sentence, fined $350, and placed on one year of unsupervised probation. Paugh had been arrested by Garrett County sheriff's deputies on Nov. 13, 1993.

Ricky D. Kent, 31, Md., was handed a guilty verdict for DWI and sentenced to two years in jail, with all of the sentence suspended except 180 days. He must also perform 180 days of community service and pay a $1,000 fine. The judge placed him on two years of supervised probation upon his release. Kent had been arrested by Maryland State Police on Dec. 23, 1993.

Terrance W. Whitacre, 46, Ohio, was granted probation before judgment on a charge of DWI. He was fined $350 and placed on one year of unsupervised probation. He had been arrested for the offense on Dec. 3, 1993.

Md. Assembly Approves $13.3 Billion Budget

With the state's economy showing significant signs of recovery, the Maryland General Assembly has this week approved a $13.3 billion spending plan for the state that will provide a large amount of funding for public schools as well as a three percent general pay raise for state workers -- the first in three years.

The House of Delegates approved the budget Monday in a 118-19 vote after the Senate had passed it in a 36-10 vote just three hours earlier.

Reportedly, the budget was passed without being tied to any new taxes or fees. In fact, a six percent income tax increase on the state's wealthiest citizens (approved on a temporary basis during the state's recent budgetary shortfall problems) was allowed to expire.

Under the spending plan that will begin in Fiscal Year 1995, the governor's request for $81 million for school construction was increased to slightly over $100 million by lawmakers, even without raising taxes. In addition, the governor's proposed $80 million increase in aid for education (targeted at specific student populations or jurisdictions) was boosted by another $15 million.

The salary raise for state workers was reportedly designed to most benefit the lower-paid employee, with an $800 annual increase or a three percent raise -- whichever is greater -- as the two options. Those who make $26,667 or less (nearly half of the state's employees) are expected to qualify for the raise.

With the session set to adjourn on Monday, legislators might still vote to approve a measure that will link the state's cigarette tax with the federal tobacco tax, even though any revenue the state might receive from such an increase is not being relied upon to help balance next year's budget, according to reports.

In an effort to link the two taxes, lawmakers have reportedly convinced the governor to submit supplemental budgets that would re-appropriateapproximately $95 million that had previously been cut by them from the governor's budget. That money would fund programs such as those that help poor or non-English speaking students and that help fund health care for the frail elderly.

A two percent increase in benefits for welfare families was also approved by Governor Schaefer. The $32 million increase will raise the grant level for a family of three by about $7 per month.

McClives Restaurant

Elegant no-bake dessert starts with a purchased angel-food cake, raspberry sherbet, raspberry pourable fruit and fresh berries. Prepare and freeze seven or eight little scoops of sherbet and pack the rest into the center hole of the cake. Freeze.

At serving time, drizzle half the pourable fruit over the cake, place sherbet scoops on top and drizzle on the rest. Sprinkle fresh raspberries on top and serve with pride.

Something exotic: braised chicken with seafood over couscous or rice. About 8 to 10 minutes before chicken is done, add scrubbed clams and mussels to the pot. Cook until shells open.

Fork tines won't stick when you press them into rounds of cookie dough if you dip them in cinnamon or ginger first.

Splurge: There's no real substitute for certain foods like top-quality parmesan or sharp cheddar cheese, extra-virgin olive oil, real vanilla and the like. Use the best, even if you have to use less of it.

Southern High Will Present Classic Comedy

Arsenic and Old Lace, the classic three-act comedy by Joseph Kesselring, will be presented by students of Southern High School on Friday and Saturday, April 15-16, at 8 p.m. in the school cafetorium.

The farce centers on two sweet elderly sisters whose "entertainment" of their guests includes routinely lacing beverages with arsenic and thus sending them to the "great beyond." The quirks and wacky personalities of other members of the family, coupled with the investigation by a rather zany group of police officers provide hilarity from the opening to the closing scenes.

Jane Avery is director of the production, which involves students from all four grades at the school, ninth through 12th. The cast includes: Megan Price as Abby Brewster, Avery Johnson as Martha Brewster, James Witt as Rev. Dr. Harper, Dane Huxford as Teddy Brewster, Matthew Sincell as Officer Brophy, David Peterson as Officer Klein, Krysta Stacy as Elaine Harper, Andrew Wildesen as Mortimer Brewster, Adam Chorpenning as Mr. Gibbs, Jeff Battista as Jonathan Brewster, Andrew Lane as Dr. Einstein, Mike Purdy as Officer O'Hara, Jon Finkel as Lieutenant Rooney, and Jason Huber as Mr. Witherspoon.

Ainsley Powers is serving as stage manager.

The play will also be presented several times to the student body during regular school hours.

Tickets, which will be available at the door, will cost $3 for adults and $2 for students.

The play is being presented in cooperation with Dramatists Play Service, Inc., New York City.

State Jobless Rate Increases; County's Lower

Maryland's unemployment rate rose slightly from 6.4 percent in January to 6.5 percent in February. Although increases in joblessness are typical for February, this year's increase in unemployment is quite modest, particularly considering this year's harsh winter weather.

Meanwhile, Garrett County's jobless rate dropped slightly, from 14.8 percent in January to 14.6 percent in February. The February 1993 rate was 14.1 percent.

"The severe weather conditions this year had a significant impact on businesses and employment," said Mark L. Wasserman, secretary of the Department of Economic and Employment Development (DEED). "However, it is encouraging that a number of Marylanders also found jobs, keeping the jobless increase minimal."

The statewide unemployment rate increased in February because an additional 9,100 people entered the labor market. However, only 7,154 job seekers found employment. The 1,964 people who were unsuccessful in their job search pushed the jobless number up from 170,366 in January to 172,330 in February.

When seasonally adjusted, the state's unemployment rate dropped slightly from 6.2 percent in January to 6.0 percent in February. (This rate reflects the removal of expected changes which occur the same time each year, eliminating routine changes and clarifying any economic trends.)

Maryland's unemployment rate continues to be lower than the national rate, which fell slightly from 7.3 percent in January to 7.1 percent in February.

Maryland's business establishments posted an overall employment gain in February. However, the increase in industrial activity was attributable largely to recall activity rather than to new job generation. Within the public sector, the reopening of schools following semester breaks was the primary factor responsible for job gains in state and local government. In the private sector, employment in the services industries grew due to recalls in educational services and hiring in personal services and engineering and management firms.

The latest economic indicators suggest that the economic recovery is continuing, although the pace and direction remain uneven. Most indicators for February reflect the severe winter weather that gripped the state. During February, both employment by place of residence and employment by place of work were higher than a year ago. Manufacturing employment and average weekly hours fell somewhat in February, due partly to the cold weather, but average hourly earnings increased. Initial claims for unemployment insurance fell sharply between January and February, but continuing claims and benefit payments rose slightly.

Statewide, unemployment rates in February ranged from a low of 3.4 percent in Montgomery County to a high of 16.5 percent in Worcester County.

Parent Information, Training Center Is Now Open

A Parent Information and Training Center (PITC) has been established in Garrett County, and parents of children with disabilities are invited to visit the center and obtain help with rearing their children.

The PITC was established to provide parents with information and skills they need to help them be effective caregivers for their children with disabilities. The goal of the PITC is to promote a partnership between parents, educators, and the community to better serve children with special needs.

All Maryland PITC's are initiated through the Division of Special Education of the Maryland State Department of Education, in cooperation with the local board of education. There are 17 PITC's in Maryland currently.

The center is located at Garrett Community College's Continuing Education Division, McHenry. The office is open on Tuesdays and Thursdays from 2-7 p.m. The PITC phone number is 387-7303, which, if not answered by a staff member, will be answered by an answering machine, which is checked daily for messages.

the K-9 unit, to track the two suspects. The dog first found a $500 red tool box, hidden by tree branches, in the woods near the main office. Deek was also able to follow the scent of one suspect, who then appeared as he exited the woods. Gerald E. Friend Jr., 21, Oakland, was then arrested and charged with felony theft and conspiracy to commit theft. The other suspect was able to get away.

Several days later, following an investigation, detectives arrested Alvin I. Schrock, 39, Cumberland, and charged him accordingly as the second person in the incident.

A DWI (driving while intoxicated) arrest was effected on April 2. Susan J. Santos, 32, Oakland, was arrested on Rt. 219 in McHenry at approximately 2:14 a.m.

A 20-year-old Oakland man was charged in the early morning of April 3 following a reported police chase. Jeremiah Swartzentruber was apparently speeding in his vehicle and a bystander had contacted the police. Dep. Green located the driver and activated his emergency lights to direct Swartzentruber to stop, but the driver allegedly continued on for approximately one mile before coming to a stop. Green reported that in that mile, the two vehicles exceeded speeds of 70 miles per hour.

Swartzentruber was charged with two counts of speeding and one count of fleeing and eluding a police officer, according to the report.

A bench warrant was issued for the arrest of Thomas J. Myers, 21, Mtn. Lake Park. He is accused of failing to make a deferred payment in the amount of $180 to Garrett County District Court.

Gary C. Moore, 35, Oakland, was arrested on the strength of a bench warrant. He was charged with failing to make deferred payments.

Robert C. Glass, 24, Accident, was arrested on the strength of a bench warrant for violation of probation, according to the report.

Bloodmobile To Be At Southern High School

The Southern High School Student Council and Administration has announced that the American Red Cross Bloodmobile will be at the school on Friday, April 15, from 10 a.m. until 2 p.m.

The goal for this visit is 75 units of blood. Donors must be 17 years of age and over 105 pounds.

Tatum Shomo, president of the student council, noted the school's appreciation of area businesses that plan to provide food for the donors. They are Subway, Tomanetti's Pizza, Pizza Hut, Fox's Pizza Den, Food Lion, and McDonald's. She also expressed thanks to all students who plan to participate in the blood drive or help with the event.

Assault Weapon Ban Approved By Md. Legislators

State lawmakers voted last week to ban the sale of military-style assault pistols, including the sale or transfer of 18 types of semi-automatic pistols and the sale of ammunition magazines that carry more than 20 rounds.

They have also required a seven-day waiting period and a background check for anyone attempting to purchase 21 types of shotguns and rifles.

The legislators failed, however, to ban hundreds of other models of handguns legally sold in Maryland. Those weapons were reportedly the target of some of the session's toughest gun control proposals.

Braskey then said that the board would have to look at what other towns with similar events had been given in the past and what their requests were for the upcoming year before making a final decision on Caruthers' request.

Extremes in Justice...

The arrest and sentencing of an American youth in Singapore has received considerable attention during the past several weeks, as 18 year-old Ohio native Michael Fay is facing the savage punishment of caning. Unless this part of his sentence is stayed by the Singapore government, Fay will receive six lashes with a moistened rattan cane, administered by a martial arts master. The punishment bloodies the buttocks, leaves severe scars, and sometimes maims the victim. If the victim loses consciousness after the first few blows, which often happens, he is revived before the lashing is continued.

The punishment, according to U.S. standards, is excessively cruel and brutal, and far outweighs the severity of the crime, that being in Fay's case the vandalism of 18 automobiles. However, it is a punishment that is administered an average of 600 times per year in Singapore for some 30 different offenses.

While we do not condone this particular form of punishment, Fay had lived in Singapore for two years and certainly knew what the consequences of actions would be if he were caught. Singapore is a separate nation with its own government and its own legal system. Abiding by the laws of the land in which one is a visitor is exceedingly wise advice, and a foreigner who is justly arrested should not expect officials from his own nation to come to his rescue.

We have here in the United States the other end of this spectrum, as we house, feed, and provide free medical care and free legal services to the hardest, most savage of all criminals; those who are perhaps sitting on death row for murder and other heinous crimes that make the vandalism of autos look like nothing more than a boyish prank. We spend millions of dollars providing for these people, all the while trying to make sure we don't "violate their human rights," despite the fact that they have seriously violated and completely ignored the rights of their victims. For some reason, our legal system continues to maintain and protect the rights of criminals, even if the criminals themselves don't want their rights protected by the system, as in the case of condemned murder John Thanos.

Again, while we do not condone caning as a punishment for vandalism, perhaps our lawmakers have something to learn from the judicial systems of other nations.

HELD HOSTAGE

Letters to the Editor

Editor's note: The writer of the following letter to Garrett County Commissioner Brenda Butscher requested that it be published in this column.

Dear Ms. Butscher,

Cindy Stacy's article in the Cumberland Times-News of March 23, 1994 quotes you as follows: "I don't think the average taxpayer or the majority would want the county to pay for dock permits on the lake when probably nine out of ten couldn't afford to live on the lake with or without a boat." That may be true. But you miss the point. You are not subsidizing docks for presumed wealthy lake area property owners; you would help pay someone to manage a resource that through tax district 18 provides 45 percent of the property tax base of Garrett County! If that tax base weren't available, and the lake jobs were gone, where would Garrett County be? You are very short sighted not to provide the requested $35,000.

It is possible there will be no agreement between Penelec and DNR. There would be no summer season, hundreds of lost jobs, millions not spent in Garrett County stores.

I do agree with you that our State Senator and Delegate were late to become involved with this problem. So was county government. So was the DNR. They ignored Penelec's proposals for a whole year.

Please support one of Garrett County's most valuable resources. Help DNR, Penelec, POA, and the lake business community re-solve the lake management issues.

I have studied the District 18 tax records. I believe there are about 1,000 people who own lake residential or business property, and reside in Garrett County. That is a sizable group to ignore and insult with your quoted statement.

The originally proposed management agreement between Penelec and DNR has several serious flaws--not that lake users would pay higher fees, but that some could use boats on Deep Creek free, others would pay $50 for each boat slip, while others up to $175--not an equitable fee structure. A second, even more important problem, was that the proposed agreement appeared to allow Penn Elec to set any charge it wished after the first five year period. The DNR ignored the Maryland residents who are lake property owners. Will County government continue to do the same?

Yours truly,
Ted Rissell
Swanton

To the Editor:

National Volunteer Week is soon approaching and I would like to take this opportunity to publicly thank the people I believe are among the most dedicated volunteers in our community: the volunteers of Hospice of Garrett County.

Most people know that hospice provides a very special kind of care for terminally ill persons and their families, but it's less known that if it were not for volunteers, our hospice could not function.

Hospice care is provided through an interdisciplinary, medically directed team. This team approach to care for dying persons typically includes a physician, a nurse, a counselor and a member of the clergy. We also rely on volunteers to provide assistance at all levels of skill.

Nationally, almost 100,000 people serve as hospice volunteers, and last year, they gave well over five million hours of their precious time to serve terminally ill patients and their families!

Locally, 50 persons donated their service to our community hospice during the year.

Volunteering for hospice differs from some other community work, in that patient-care volunteers are required to attend training classes and in-services before being allowed to work directly with a patient or family as required by the National Hospice Organization.

Our volunteers do many tasks, but often the most important thing they can do is just "be there" for patients -to reassure them they are not alone, to hold a hand, to offer a smile, or to just listen. It is not an easy task, but the personal rewards are enormous. The strength and courage of patients provide a constant source of inspiration, and volunteers usually feel they gain more then they have been able to give.

Our hospice is growing as more and more persons need our help. For this reason, we have a constant need for new volunteers. Our new training classes will begin April 9, 1994. If you would like to attend or learn more about hospice volunteering, I invite you to call or visit us at 334-5151.

In the meantime, we should all be grateful to the volunteers of Hospice of Garrett County and thank them very much.

Sincerely,
Wayne R. Johnson,
President
Hospice of Garrett County

To the Editor:

My congratulations to you for the editorials of March 24th and 31st. I strongly support the opinions presented regarding the enormous contribution the non-resident property owners make to the tax base and thus the treasury of Garrett County.

My primary residence is in a county where the local property tax rate is very comparable to Garrett County's rate of $2.24. Carroll County's taxpayers are nearly all residents who place heavy demands on the county for the highest caliber public educational system, public health services, libraries, recreational facilities, waste management, etc. Commissioners Butscher and Groves would find themselves in a real financial dilemma if the property tax dollars paid by non-residents in Garrett County were equally matched by such demands. The real question concerning this issue is not why Garrett County should support the Lake's operation, but why not? What part of my tax dollars are being returned to me in county services and where is the rest of it going?

We are owners of a vacation home in Garrett County because we admire and enjoy the friendly people and the environment they maintain there (we also help maintain it), but I am completely baffled by the County Commissioners' failure to acknowledge the importance of Deep Creek Lake and the non-resident people who place little or no demand on the county for "high-cost" services, yet support the county with tax dollars--only because of the Lake's existence.

What public official in his right mind wouldn't make the token investment, requested by the lake business and property owners, to sustain such a heavy cash generating facility as the Lake? The attitudes expressed Commissioners Butscher and Groves on this matter appear to be "senseless political stances" which is counter to my prior opinion of both Commissioners. I urge the Commissioners to reconsider their refusal to do what is best for all Garrett County taxpayers, both resident and non-resident!

Sincerely,
K. Wayne Lockard
Westminster

To the Editor:

Thank God that there is a paper like yours for us to rebut other newspaper accounts of what is going on in our county.

There was an article in the Cumberland Times/News and the Garrett County Weekender about the proposed hunting regulations. I object to both of these articles because of the report and the reporter's lack of knowledge of the facts.

Two years ago the Allegany Garrett Sportsmen's Association proposed an early muzzleloader season to the Department of Natural Resources. The Department didn't respond to our request, so last year we had a bill introduced in the House to have an early muzzleloader season. The Department of Natural Resources promised that if the bill was pulled they would do something about an early muzzleloader season. They had a Deer Hunters Preference Survey which cost the sportsmen $12,000. That is how the early muzzleloader season came about.

When the Allegany and Garrett Sportsmen's Association purposed the early muzzleloader season there were approximately 32 organized clubs which represented the knowledgeable sportsmen in our two counties. The vote on the early muzzleloader season was unanimous by all clubs present.

At the end of the meeting, the show-of-hands vote did not include the clubs of Allegany and Garrett County who asked for the early season.

As for the Maryland Bow Hunters Society's comments about the "impact on the deer resource," they should look at the bow harvest report. If the organized bow hunter groups, (I bow hunt) is so concerned about the deer resource then they should also be the first ones to request a reduction in the bow season. The state of Maryland is the only state that has 18 weeks to hunt with a bow. I also know that the bow hunters always seem to get their first deer and check it in within a short time and then they never seem to get their second one. Why's that?

Concerning Mr. Parks' comments about the "illegal hunters out there," does he believe that that is the only time they could be out there? As for "killing buck before the rut" then all hunting, including bow hunting, should be stopped at that time.

There was no research done on the reporter's part for this article. Otherwise she would have been more objective on her report. The organized clubs felt that there was no excuse to show up, since the proposals that were presented was what they had asked for, including zoning off the two counties.

Thank you,
Frostburg

GOOD MOVIES

BY BEVERLY ROBIN

The Paper

Universal Pictures; directed by Ron Howard; starring Michael Keaton, Robert Duvall, Glenn Close, Marisa Tomei, Randy Quaid, Jason Robards, Jason Alexander and Spalding Gray.

It's frantic. It's escalating madness. It's comedy. It's drama. It's a day in the life of a daily newspaper, and its spirit is captured with gusto in Ron Howard's The Paper.

The Front Page and His Girl Friday traded on madcap wit. Citizen Kane and Call Northside 777 were ground breaking, hard-edged journalistic exposes. The Paper is a far more traditional entertainment: well-paced, character based and pretty much devoid of moral ambiguity. As such, it is engaging and terrific fun to watch but not cinematically pivotal.

Director Howard's gift is in his capacity for orchestrating overlapping stories, much as he did in Parenthood. Here, his family home is the newsroom of the tabloid paper The Sun. Henry Hackett (Michael Keaton) is its wisecracking metro editor, caught between his instincts for truth-seeking in what he considers the wrongful arrest of two black youths accused of a racially motivated murder and his personal ambitions to join the staff of the more upscale, uptown paper The Sentinel.

Meantime, he must contend with a wily, antagonistic managing editor (Glenn Close), a hard-nosed, soft-hearted chief editor with serious medical problems (Robert Duvall), a gun-totting ace columnist who sleeps on his office couch (Randy Quaid), and a pregnant ex-reporter wife (Marisa Tomei) who tears that her impending motherhood will signal the end of a fulfilling professional life.

The action takes place over a frenetic 24-hour period. There is an intriguing conglomeration of personal and professional crises faced by each of the principals, and a fabulously unlikely physical fight between two of the journalists.

Ironically, the best serious reporting is done by Henry's pregnant wife, whose expressed concerns about responsibility and the balance between work and family seem totally beyond her control in her own life.

The Paper's cast is first rate. Its rhythms are right-on. Only a Type-A obsessive might find its newsroom portrayal irresistible. Only a die-hard romantic might find its pat ending plausible. But the headline reads the same for all: THE PAPER IS GREAT SHOWBIZ.

Rated R for profanity.

1-10 Rating: 8. A frantic day in the life of a tabloid newspaper.

NEWS from THE MARYLAND FOREST, PARK & WILDLIFE SERVICE

ARBOR DAY

Wednesday, April 6, marked the 111th year that Marylanders have celebrated Arbor Day. Garrett County Project Forester Ernie Metz is reminding county residents that the first Wednesday in April is always Arbor Day in Maryland and it's a good time to start thinking about spring and tree planting.

"The many trees and seedlings that are planted on Arbor Day really focuses attention on the values of our trees and forests", commented Project Forester Metz. "It's important to plant trees every year so that future generations can enjoy their beauty, appreciate their ability to reduce soil erosion, moderate temperature and wind, and provide wood fiber, wildlife habitat and recreation opportunities."

Each year to help commemorate Arbor Day, the Department of Natural Resources - Forest Service gives pine seedlings to public school third graders. Working with the cooperation of the county school system, the seedlings are distributed to the children with the hope that the young pine trees will be planted, nurtured, and recognized as important renewable resources. Trees planted on Arbor Day help bring attention to a resource essential to the quality of life.

For adult or child, Arbor Day is a good time to reflect on the importance of planting trees for the future. Forest landowners are encouraged to contact the Department of Natural Resources, Forest Service, at Mt. Nebo Work Center, Route 6, Box 1990, Oakland, MD 21550, of call 334-3296 for free information about how managing forest land can benefit them and the environment.

"Manage trees, enjoy and use trees, and continue to plant more trees for tomorrow," Metz said.

Sure air bags work great in front end collisions, but only a safety belt can protect you from side and rear end collisions. So buckle up. And you'll cover all the angles.

"DOLLS AND MORE" ON DISPLAY AT LIBRARY - Hand-sculpted dolls created by Sheila Sweitzer, pictured above, are now on display at the Ruth Enlow Library in Oakland. Mrs. Sweitzer began as a doll collector, and after being laid-off from her job, decided to attend school for doll repair and restoration. This led to her attempt at sculpting them and making clothes for the final product. "My first doll was very rough around the edges," she said, "but to my amazement, it won a blue ribbon at the Garrett County Fair." She has since created numerous dolls and sculptures, and plans to continue, naming her small manufacturing company "Dolls and More by Sheila." Her husband Michael builds the display cases and stands. "He is a great help and support to me," Mrs. Sweitzer said. "If it weren't for his support and that of my mother and children, I don't think my dolls would be here." They will be on display at the library throughout the month. The artist also makes children's clothing. Person may contact her at 387-5497 or 387-6979.

Lease Approval

sideration to the implementation of a boat sticker fee system. This sticker fee would more reasonably distribute the cost of lake management to all users of the lake rather than exclusively to dock owners."

Penelec recently released its finalized fee schedule for Deep Creek Lake that reflects a $70,000 reduction in the fees following an agreement reached in March to reduce their request by $35,000. DNR also agreed to a $35,000 reduction in its charge for maintenance.

Penelec President Robert L. Wise also announced that DNR would study, "at Penelec's direction," the possibility of starting a boat sticker system for the lake for 1995, which would allay at least one of the concerns of the commissioners and lake group members.

"DNR will use the secretary's advisory board and a public involvement process to determine the feasibility of using a sticker system as an alternative source of revenue," Wise said.

Wendell Beitzel, representing the Deep Creek Lake Business Association, was in Annapolis yesterday to testify before the board and reported that the business association did endorse the ratification of the agreement in order to allow lake businesses to begin their summer operations, even though all the concerns of the group were not entirely resolved.

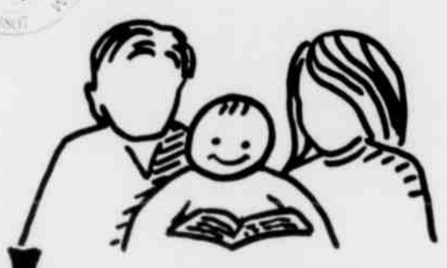
"We were satisfied that there would be a movement on the part of DNR to institute a sticker program which would eventually help to reduce fees and bring Penelec's fee schedule more in line with the alternative proposal made by the association, and endorsed by the Deep Creek Lake Property Owners' Association, the county commissioners, and the promotion council," said Beitzel.

He also pointed out that the dry dock fee is still at issue and the business group intends to pursue its resolution.

"What Penelec has basically done is assess private property, which would set a precedent that could lead to a situation where restaurant and bar seat are assessed a fee," he said. "We don't feel Penelec should have that taxing authority."

At the request of Garrett County Commissioner Brenda Butscher, the board of commissioners voted this week to establish a Deep Creek Lake advisory committee to the commissioners in an effort to more efficiently hear concerns of local residents regarding lake fees and management on an ongoing basis.

Citizens' concerns would be streamlined through the committee which would report to the commissioners and make recommendations.



The nine-member committee will be comprised of representatives of lake property and business owners as well as the general population of the county. The three commissioners will each appoint three members, according to Butscher.

The lease management agreement between DNR and Penelec calls for the continued recreational management of Deep Creek lake by DNR for a renewable five-year term.

The State of Maryland and Penelec have negotiated an agreement that will ensure the continued operation of Deep Creek Lake for the next five years," said Jim Dunmyer. "Considering that we started two years ago with nothing, and having no precedent to draw on, I believe that the deal is a good one. It protects the various interests as well as the utility's needs to generate electricity, accomplishes that fairly and reasonably."

DNR officials reported that dock permit mailings should begin in the next two weeks in time for businesses and property owners around the lake to prepare for the summer season.

ELECTRIC BREADMAKERS

For any one thirty years and older the smell of baking bread is like a trip home. Today's frantic, stressful life style makes us increasingly long for those trips but the time to bake bread is rarely available. People who make baking bread a priority are able to do it, even though at the expense of some other activity.

Electric Breadmakers may just solve this dilemma for many would-be bakers, men and women. Breadmaker machines are food mixers and a mini-oven in one. Overall size of the machines range from 9x13x12 to 14x10x14 inches. Today over thirteen models are available in price ranges up to $400-$500; most regular loaf models are around $200-$300. Never settle for the full price though because they are often on sale for much less.

A breadmaker has a small paddle (you may have to insert) and a pan into which the mix (bought in one package or individual ingredients) is poured. The paddle mixes the dough a set amount of time then lets it rise. This process may be repeated a second time on some models. When the dough has risen, the machine heats and the bread starts to bake in the pan. Loafs may be round, square or rectangular and are higher than wide. A regular size breadmaker takes three to four cups of flour and makes a loaf of about 1 1/4 pounds. Small machines hold a little more than half that amount. The baking cycle can take between 2 1/2 and 4 hours to complete.

Many options are available. Some machines have a rapid cycle that reduces the above time by one hour. In some machines you can take the dough out of the machine after mixing and make your own bagels, rolls, pizza crust to bake in a conventional oven. You may be able to start the machine at night and have the bread freshly baked in the morning. Pre-programmed cycles allow you to lower the temperature for sweet breads or extend the rising time for rye flours. A window may let you see the doneness of the loaf.

In spite of all that having experience in baking bread manually still comes in handy. A machine is not sensitive to high humidity, cannot tell if the yeast is too old and does not tell you to remove the loaf from the pan before it becomes soggy from the condensation. Recipes come with the models, but using your own may take some experimenting. Some recipes must be adjusted to work well in the machine.

Some of the machines are as noisy as dishwashers, others quieter. Some resume the set cycle after power disruption. Some keep the baked loaf warm for you, some cool it. Some machines have a 90-day warranty, offers a three-year warranty.

Breadmachines can make excellent loafs of fresh bread, but this bread comes as expensive as what you buy in the store. If you want fresh loafs of bread, these machines can produce it without the time and manual work you have been used to. Consumer reports, December 1993, has tested 17 models and provides detailed descriptions of the features and how they perform. Be a wise consumer and shop around, wait for sales to get the best possible price for a breadmachine from a reliable company.

This workshop has been developed to help those seeking jobs get ready for the Garrett County Job Fair that will be held from 12:30 to 3:30 p.m. on Saturday, April 23. Any member of the community of any age who is seeking a job is encouraged to attend the workshop. Both the workshop and the Job Fair are being sponsored by the Deep Creek Lake Business Association in coordination with the Garrett Community College Job Placement Center, the Maryland Job Service, and the Western Maryland Consortium. Ms. Flochart, of Flochart & Company, said, "Going on a job interview is more than penciling in an application, slapping on a clean shirt, and showing up at the place of employment. A lot of time and effort needs to be put into the interview and job search process." During the workshop Ms. Flochart will teach what's expected, how to prepare oneself positively. Lloyd Day of the Maryland Job Service will help workshop participants understand how to complete applications and prepare resumes effectively. The workshop will be held from 6:30 to 9:30 p.m. It is free, but those planning to attend need to register by calling the Garrett Community College Job Placement Center at 387-3080 by April 11.

AAA Re-Schedules Life Planning Presentation

Because of the weather related closing of the Mary Browning Senior Center, the Area Agency on Aging has re-scheduled the presentation pertaining to the Maryland Health Care Decisions Act. The presentation at the senior center will be held Wednesday, April 13, at 12:30 p.m.

The "life planning" presentation will emphasize the importance of making early health care decisions. In addition to showing a video which depicts the need to plan ahead, the Agency will make forms available (Living Wills and Advance Directives). The forms may be used by seniors now to specify what type of life sustaining medical treatment, if any, they choose should they become incapacitated and unable to make such decisions in the future. The information disseminated will help individuals make appropriate and planned decisions about personal health care.

Anyone 60 years of age or older interested in learning about this matter is welcome to attend. For additional information, persons may call 334-9431.

A WINTER SWIM IN DEEP CREEK was taken on March 30 by several employees of the Maryland State Forest and Park Service Rescue Team and local rescue squad and fire company members who were all learning "ice rescue techniques." Clothed in wetsuits, the swimmers spent only a short time in the icy water during the all-day session. They were instructed by Roger C. Simmonds, deputy chief of the Anne Arundel County Fire Department Emergency Management System and the Special Operations Bureau. Simmonds is pictured at right, center. The day consisted of classroom instruction and field work, which took place at Deep Creek Lake Recreation Area.

Board Discusses

ed by researchers at the University of Maryland and coordinated through the Western Maryland Area Health Education Center.

"Surveying teens is not a new concept and actually has been done for quite some time nationally, although this is the first of it kind given in Garrett County," said Ann Sherrard, director of community outreach and nutrition.

While some issues were raised about the accuracy of the data collected, Sherrard said the researchers had several ways of cross-checking or validating the results.

"This process has led us to believe that we have reasonably reliable base-line information and certainly have a better understanding than we did prior to the survey," she said. Sherrard also noted that the results in Garrett County were quite similar to national test results. This, too, she said helped to validate the results.

Dr. Rex Archer, health officer for Garrett County, told the board members that there may have been a small number of students who did not take the survey seriously, but that the researchers had no reason to believe that Garrett County students are any more likely to answer falsely than any other students in the country completing similar surveys.

Natalie Messer, health educator, went over several of the survey results, noting that 26.1% of all 11th and 12th graders had smoked within the past month.

"While this is unfortunately high, we should also note that 53.9% of all those answering the survey said they have never smoked a cigarette," she said.

Archer also noted that some attention has been drawn in the county to the differences between schools.

"While it is true that there are some differences observed, this certainly cannot be presumed to be because of any differences at the schools themselves," Archer stated. "Rather, it more likely reflects the varying environments in which these students live."

Messer concurred, noting that one business close to Southern High School was very accessible and several students claimed that they bought cigarettes there. However, Northern High School is located in a more remote area where few or no businesses are accessible by the student body.

In a national survey, 33% of the survey participants had "smoked cigarettes within the last month." In Garrett County, the percentage was 25%. Sherrard said the goal for the year 2000 is 15%.

"So, while it is encouraging that we are below the national average, we do have a long way to go to reach the 15% goal by 2000)," she said.

The representatives stated that tobacco use is the single most preventable cause of death in the United States, and that approximately half of smokers start smoking regularly before 18 years of age.

The national percentage of students who had "five alcoholic drinks in a row" within the past month was approximately 27%. Garrett County's percentage was approximately 18%. The use of alcohol and other drugs is associated with the leading causes of death and injury among teenagers and young adults, the representatives said. They also noted that young adults may be less likely to develop serious alcohol and other drug problems if age at first use is delayed beyond childhood and adolescence.

Several other topics were covered in the survey, including what time a student is required to be home on a school night, how much television per day does the student watch, how many days in a month does the student's parent or other adult listen to him and talk with him, how does the student feel about herself, is she physically fit, and how many students are sexually active. The results of the survey are available for public perusal at the health department.

Archer explained that the need for local data recently became more apparent to local community leaders during the Garrett County Healthier Year 2000 process. Local health task forces worked for many months to set county objectives and, in many cases, found that accurate data to aid in setting future goals was not available. The Healthier Year 2000 committee has now identified six priorities that will be targeted, and the survey results aided in that process, according to a committee member.

"I hope that the survey results will help all of us to focus more of our attention on these issues," Archer said. "In many areas our youth are choosing healthier behaviors than in other communities. However, even in areas where our county results are better than the state or national data, most of the parents, clergy, and youth I have spoken with agree that we can do even better."

School board members commended the health department representatives on the survey and all the work it involved. Sherrard noted that some results have yet to be returned, and the research will continue.

In loving memory of my son "Dink" who died on Good Friday, April 1, 1983.

It is lonely here without you, so sad along life's way. Life does not seem the same to me, since you were called away. it broke my heart to lose you, but you did not go alone, for part of me went with you dhat day God called you home. They say time heals all sorrow and helps us to forget, but time so far has only proved how much I miss you yet.

Local Gymnasts Qualify For WV Championships

Nine members of the Garrett County Gymnastics Club, the Aerodynes, recently qualified to compete in this Saturday's West Virginia State Championships by virtue of their scores at a meet at Frostburg co-hosted by the Aerodynes and the Floorettes Club. Sixty-three gymnasts from four teams participated in the event.

Level 5 gymnasts and new team members competed during the morning, followed by the upper division levels and optionals competition in the afternoon. All competed in floor exercise, vault, balance beam, and uneven parallel bars.

Randi Beiler and Katrina Iden both earned sufficient all-around scores in Level 5 to qualify for the state championships. Miss Beiler earned a 29.55, placing her third in the 9-year-old division, while Miss Iden finished with a 27.9. It was on the bars that both recorded their best scores of the day, with Beiler receiving an 8.45 and Iden, a 7.45.

Holli Harris and Erica Irwin also competed in the Level 5 age 9-10 division.

In the Level 5, age 11-12, division, Emily Nemith finished with a 30.25 to place sixth and qualify her for the state meet. Her best score was an 8.6 in the floor exercise.

Other Aerodynes competing at Level 5 were Katie Richter and, in the 12-14 division, Nichol Moreland.

New members of the Aerodynes competing in the Level 2 and 4 divisions were: Marsha Harkins, Lindsey Perry, Kim Beiler, and Sarah Groves.

In Level 6 competition, ages 12-14, Shasta Steffan and Amanda Miller both qualified for the state meet, as they finished with AA scores of 32.55 and 32.35, second and third places, respectively. Steffan's top score was an 8.85 in the floor exercise, while Miller earned a 9.25 on the beam to win first place in that event.

Megan Lilley and Megan Mahaffey also competed in this division for the Aerodynes.

Competing in the Level 8 optionals, ages 10-11 division, for the Aerodynes was Heather Hanline, who qualified for the state meet with an AA score of 26.50.

Andrea Bender and Bryann Miller competed in the Level 8 optionals, and both qualified for the W.Va. state meet, as Bender finished in first place with an AA score of 32.30, her personal best, and Miller recorded a 29.55, also a personal best. Bender's best score of the day was an 8.45 in floor exercise, while Miller earned an 8.15 on the vault.

Aerodyne Cassie Tressler, 8, was the only competitor in the Level 8 optionals, ages 8-9, but was the top gymnast of the afternoon, as she finished with an AA score of 35.4. Her top scores were a 9.1 in floor exercise and a 9.0 on balance beam. Scoring in the Level 8 optionals is based on a possible 9.6, rather than a 10.0.

Tressler also competed in a meet the following Saturday (Mar. 20) in Beckley, W.Va., at which she again dominated the Level 8 optionals for her age group. She finished with an AA score of 35.55, the top score of the day in all divisions.

Also at the Beckley meet from the Aerodynes was Toni Sullivan, 13, who qualified for a spot in the Level 6 division of the W.Va. state championships by recording finishing fifth overall in her division.

Head coach of the Aerodynes is Tammy Tressler.

Rams Flatten Golden Tornado For Second Win

The Rams of Southern High School's varsity baseball team had no trouble recording their second win in as many starts this season, as they crushed host Keyser last Thursday afternoon, 20-3, in a Potomac Valley Conference contest. The game was shortened to five innings because of the 10-run rule.

The Rams put the game away early and were assisted by the Keyser defense, which committed seven errors and gave up 10 runs in the first three innings. Southern added eight more runs in the eighth, as the Keyser coaching staff tried five different pitchers throughout the game. The Rams finished with a total of 15 hits.

Matt Newcomb batted four-for-four on the afternoon, smacking a triple, a double, and a pair of singles to send home three runs, while freshman Seth Tressler rapped a home run and two singles to plate five runs. Rich Warnick and Mark Elliott each finished with two hits and Mark Dawson added a home run.

Meanwhile, Southern hurler Doug Copeland pitched into the fifth inning and was relieved by Elliott, who wrapped up that frame and the game. The duo allowed just one hit while striking out 10. Brad Smith connected for a double to record Keyser's only hit.

"The fact that we hit so well was a pleasant surprise, especially since we have had almost no opportunity to practice outside," stated Ram coach, Jim Bosley.

The Rams finally made it onto their own diamond for practice this week, after removing three pick-up loads and 150 wheelbarrow loads of snow from the field this past Saturday. They will play a doubleheader this Saturday at Preston County, beginning at 1 p.m., and then play a make-up game at Beall on Monday at 4 p.m. They will then play a single game at Tucker County on Wednesday.

TOMMY SWEITZER

JOHNNY HAYHURST

GEOFFREY TRESSLER

SCOTT WILDESEN

Eleven members of the Southern Mat Club competed in the Middle Atlantic Wrestling Association's District Qualifying Tournament at Shepherd College, Shepherdstown, W.Va., recently, and four of those 11 fared well enough to advance to the Western Regional Championships, which will be held this Saturday, April 9, at Millersville State College, Millersville, Pa.

Tommy Sweitzer, Johnny Hayhurst, Geoffrey Tressler, and Scott Wildesen will compete in the regional event and, if successful there, move on to the Eastern National Championships in Salisbury on April 16.

Sweitzer, who resides with his grandparents Terry and Bonnie Sweitzer and is a seventh grade student at Southern Middle School, has a 13-4 record this year. The 13-year-old, who is competing this year in the 120-pound division, has been in wrestling for seven years. He has been to the regional competition five times and to nationals four times.

This year at the district championships, Sweitzer pinned his opponent from Easton, who was the national champion last year in his weight class.

Hayhurst, son of John and Connie Hayhurst, is a fifth grade student at Dennett Road Elementary School and has been in wrestling for five years. The 11-year-old is presently competing in the 115-pound class. He will enter the regional event with a 19-6 record, with many of those wins coming over much taller opponents. This will be his third trip to the regionals.

Tressler, son of Ken and Beth Tressler, is 26-10 on the season and has been involved in wrestling for four years. The 9-year-old competes in the 65-pound class and has qualified for regionals two out of the last three years. He went to the district tourney this year undefeated against all other 9-year-old wrestlers. He is a third grade student at Dennett Road.

Wildesen, a 6-year-old first grader at Broad Ford Elementary, has been in wrestling for two years and is competing this year in the 50-pound division. His 29-10 record this year includes a streak of seven straight wins, with six of those being pin victories. This will be his second year in the regional tournament.

Mike Sines is the head coach of the Southern Mat Club.

Lakers Eke Out Two Victories From Nationally Ranked Opposition

The Garrett Community College Lakers faced nationally ranked teams throughout the past week and finished with two wins, three losses, and one game that was called incomplete.

Garrett edged Westmoreland Community College last Thursday in La-Vale, 12-11, defeated Penn State-Beaver Campus in the first game of a doubleheader on Friday, 7-6, dropped a pair to powerful Potomac State College in Keyser on Saturday, 11-2 and 1-0, and were then nipped by Allegany Community College in Cumberland Tuesday, 5-4. The second game with Beaver on Friday was called incomplete with Garrett ahead, 7-4, after the Beaver pitcher complained of an elbow injury during a three-run spurt by the Lakers.

The results left Coach Ed Wildesen's team with an 8-4 record. The Lakers were slated to play at Frederick CC yesterday, but the game was apparently postponed because of weather conditions. Their game with Cecil CC slated for this Saturday was cancelled and Wildesen said yesterday that he hoped to arrange a doubleheader with the West Virginia Wesleyan jayvee team for Saturday at the McHenry Campus. They will host Baltimore City CC on Sunday for a 1 p.m. doubleheader and will then entertain the Frostburg State University junior varsity in a single game next Wednesday at 3:30 p.m.

An RBI single in the ninth inning by Eddie Mata proved to be the winning score last Thursday over Westmoreland CC.

The Lakers went into that inning trailing 11-9, but recorded three runs to pick up the win over the Pennsylvania team that was ranked number five in the nation in Division III preseason standings.

Derick Namack led off the inning by reaching on Westmoreland's only error of the game. Former Southern High standout Shane Skipper followed with an infield single and Tom Benco walked, loading the bases. Chris Swaney sent Namack home on a fielder's choice, a single by Aaron Cook knotted the score at 11-11, and Mata followed with his single that scored Swaney and won the game.

Cook went three-for-three with three singles for the Lakers, while Mike Crosby added a single and a home run.

In Friday's opener against Penn State-Beaver, the Lakers recorded all seven of their runs in the first three innings of the game and then held on for the one-point victory. Tom Benco scored twice in those innings, while Crosby tripled home a run and Swaney added a run-producing double.

Beaver cut Garrett's lead to 5-4 in the bottom of the second inning before the Lakers added two more runs in the third. Beaver scored a single run in the sixth and another in the seventh before a base runner was thrown out at the plate and the final batter was struck out by Darrick Griffith.

The controversial second game was deemed incomplete by the umpires after the Lakers took a 7-4 lead with three runs in the top of the eighth and the Beaver pitcher suddenly complained of an injury. The umpires, who had considered calling the game in previous inning because of darkness, then did call the contest after Beaver pitcher Ron Meiss said he had injured his elbow.

The Lakers went into the seventh with a 4-0 lead. Beaver came back in that inning with four runs and then begged the umpires not to call the game, since the host team had rallied. GCC Coach Wildesen agreed to keep playing.

Wildesen said it was obvious from the comical reaction of the Beaver players after the game was called that the injury to Meiss was suspect.

Jamethro Rogers finished with three hits to pace the Lakers, while Deron Godby finished with two singles.

Beaver was ranked ninth in the national Division III standings pre-season.

The Lakers then faced another national power in Keyser, W.Va., on Saturday when they met the Division II number one ranked Catamounts of Potomac State.

The Lakers were hammered in the first contest, as the PSC batters recorded 13 hits.

Mike Marcishack sent home three runs for the Catamounts with a homer and a single, Tim Oakes plated four more with two hits, Jason Vindich recorded a triple and a single, and Branden Dougherty and Mike Cenate each added two singles.

A two-run homer by Crosby in the fourth inning accounted for the Lakers' two runs.

The second contest was a pitcher's dual between Garrett's Griffith and PSC's John Murphy, who was relieved by Steve Beiler in the sixth. Griffith allowed only four hits, while Murphy gave up six.

The Catamounts scored the only run of the game when Marcishack led off the second inning with a single, advanced on an infield grounder, and came home on a single by Mark Salvatore.

Patrick Donahue rapped a double for the Lakers.

Coach Wildesen said that the fact that a portion of the Catamount outfield does not have a fence determined the outcome of the game.

"We had several long hits to right field, most of which would have been over the fence on our field and on most other fields," he said. "But because they don't have any fence there, the outfielder just ran back and caught them.

"We played very well, though, against an excellent team, and the game could have gone either way," he added.

"We were lucky to come up with a timely hit that gave us our run," stated PSC Coach Doug Little. The sweep upped the Catamounts' record to 12-4-1.

Tuesday's contest in Cumberland against arch rival Allegany Community College was likewise an evenly played game, but the Lakers again came up short.

The first four innings were a pitching dual between GCC's Todd Blackburn and Allegany's Greg Stouffer, as neither allowed a run. Then the Lakers took a 2-0 lead with a pair of runs in the fifth, as Donahue drew a walk, moved to second on a sacrifice bunt, and scored on a double by Swaney. Aaron Cook followed with a single and Godby then sent Swaney home with a single.

The Trojans then took a 4-2 lead with four runs in the sixth inning, as the Lakers' aided their cause by committing three errors. Chad Chabala and Shane Reed each singled and Tony Myers reached on an error to load the bases. Chabala then came home on an infield error on a ball hit by Shannon McKenzie. Then Troy Englehart singled to send home Reed and Bill Ellis followed with a hard rap to second base that was mishandled, allowing two more runs to score.

The Lakers knotted the game at 4-4 with two runs in the seventh, as Swaney walked and later scored on an error in the outfield on a base hit by Godby. A single by Rogers then scored Cook, who had reached on a single after Swaney's walk.

ACC won the game in the eighth when Jason Leader came home on a wild pitch.

The Lakers out-hit the Trojans, 10-8, with Swaney recording a double and a single, Cook adding three singles, and Godby finishing with two singles.

Huskies Top Hancock, Williamsport In Easter Tourney; Record Is 4-0

The Northern Huskies kept their baseball record unblemished this past weekend in the Hancock Easter Tournament, as they won both of their games, a 9-3 victory over Hancock and a 10-9 edging of Williamsport. The pair of wins upped Coach Phil Carr's team's mark to 4-0.

Rob Speicher scattered six hits and struck out six batters in the game against Hancock, as he received seventh inning relief from Danny Butler.

Chris Wright led the Huskies' offensive effort, as he rapped two doubles to send home a pair of runs. Jeremy Brenneman recorded three RBI with a pair of singles, while Speicher and Bob Fritz also finished with two hits. Alan Sebold picked up two RBI with a single.

Conley finished with a triple and a double for the Panthers.

Sebold hit a triple and a double for two RBI in the game against Williamsport, while Aaron Blocher pitched the final three innings to guarantee a win for starter Brenneman, his second of the season.

The Huskies were trailing 2-0 after one complete inning, but recorded four runs in the bottom of the second. With the bases loaded, Brad Williams sent a blistering shot down the first base line, which went under the glove of the first baseman and allowed all three runners to score. Williams came home later on an error.

Williamsport came back to tie the score at 7-7, but the Huskies scored three runs in the bottom of the fifth to take the lead for good. In that inning, Williams reached on a bunt single and then stole second. Speicher followed with a walk and Sebold smacked his triple to send home Williams and Speicher. Fritz then singled home Sebold to give the Huskies what would ultimately be their winning run.

Williamsport did not quit and scored single runs in the sixth and seventh to cut the Husky lead to 10-9. They had runners on second and third with just one out in the seventh, but Blocher struck out Reeves and then forced a ground out to preserve the win.

Tim Sines finished with three hits for the Huskies, while Williamsport was led by Andes, who recorded four singles.

Dollars & Sense
by Bryon Elson

Proper insurance coverage is vital to your ability to protect your earnings and assets if a disaster strikes. Although your specific insurance needs will vary based on your financial status, age, occupation, marital status, and number of dependents, most individuals need homeowners', health, disability, and life insurance coverage. This week, I will discuss homeowners' insurance and life insurance only.

Homeowner's insurance can protect your home from losses resulting from thefts, fires, hurricanes, and other disasters.

To obtain adequate protection, base the amount of your coverage on your home's replacement value which is the amount it would cost you to rebuild your house, not its market value. Some companies write policies for as little as 80 percent of replacement values, but you are better off paying higher annual premiums to obtain coverage for 100 percent of replacement costs. You also should obtain replacement cost coverage for the personal contents of your home.

Additionally, homeowners' insurance usually provides liability protection in the event someone suffers an injury on your property. In today's litigious environment, this can be important coverage.

Life insurance enables you to provide a source of income to your family at the time of your death. Generally, you have the option of purchasing "term" or "whole" life insurance, or a combination of the two. Term life insurance, which requires the smallest initial cash outlay, only provides a death benefit that is, there is no cash or savings buildup. On the other hand, if you choose whole life insurance, part of your premium is invested by the insurance company, and the cash value of your policy usually rises steadily. Although you generally collect just a modest interest rate on the savings, the accumulation of tax-deferred earnings can provide the nest egg you need during an emergency or at retirement.

You should carefully consider the tax implications of your life insurance investment, amount of the premium relative to coverage, and the administrative and commission expenses involved.

Home Tips

TRASH CAN TIP — My husband and I bought a trash can to hold our aluminum cans for recycling. When it was time to empty it out, it was very sticky and smelled horrible.

One night when my husband was out, I looked at the trash can and tried to find a way to clean it out. I decided I needed something with a handle. So, I took my mop and cleaned out the can. I emptied the water out the back door. It no longer smelled, and was not sticky. My back was not used very much, either. Danielle M., Staples, Minn.

EASY REPAIR — I am a residential property manager and have learned a lot from repairmen, landlords and tenants. One tenant taught me a better way than I have ever heard elsewhere to fill nail holes in walls.

Take a putty knife or something with a straight edge to fill the hole with spackle — or toothpaste if you must. Then wipe over the spots with a wet cloth or sponge. There is no need to sand or touch up with paint unless the room paint is such a contrasting color that the little white dots show up too much.

Due to paint fading over the years, the touch-ups usually look worse than the little white dots, so think carefully before doing any. Henry W., Des Moines, Iowa.

TREASURE ON CEREAL BOXES

Looking for an inexpensive collectible? Walk down the cereal aisle at your grocery store and notice the hundreds of different boxes just waiting to be saved. For many years, collectors of Disneyana, TV and radio characters like Tom Mix or Superman, and sports and movie fans have saved boxes that advertised special offers. The secret decoder ring, Shirley Temple glassware, or the cutout houses and figures from Snow White made the boxes special.

Each promotion dates the box. The collectors of the old boxes pay the highest prices for any Ralston Tom Mix or Space Patrol boxes. The Cheerios Lone Ranger Frontier Town boxes are high-priced and are hard to find because the box was cut up to make the town. Other good boxes are Sergeant Preston Yukon Trail packages from Quaker, Superman Pep and early Wheaties boxes picturing sports stars.

There are two ways to save the boxes. Some collectors carefully pry open the box, remove the cereal and reseal the box so it can be displayed. Always remove the cereal because eventually it will "hatch" and small insects will grow, eat the cereal and then eat through the cardboard box. Other collectors open the box, carefully flatten it with all of the flaps intact, then store it in a safe plastic cover. A complete box, with full top and bottom and flaps, is of more value than a damaged one, but it is the design on the box that gives the value.

A 1937 Joe DiMaggio Wheaties box sold for $1,540 and a 1951 Stan Musial Wheaties box for $1,210 in recent sports collectibles sales. A 1992 Larry Bird Olympics Kellogg's box is already selling for $25.

Q. We have an old tankard that has been in our basement for years. We think it originally was silver but the finish seems to have worn off. We had it silver plated. My friends say that it was more valuable without the silver. Can you help me? The bottom of the tankard says, "Manning, Bowman & Co. 83." The front is engraved, "Compliments of the United Pleasure Club to Mr. and Mrs. Feldotto on their silver wedding, August 28, 1878."

A. The tankard was originally silver-plated. It was made by a company that specialized in electroplated silver. A tankard with original silver plate still intact would be worth more than a resilvered piece. New silver plating will not detract from the value. Collectors usually pay a premium for original finish, a good price for a restored finish, and a low price for a piece that needs refinishing or repair. Very early Sheffield silver-plated wares made in England in the 18th century were plated by a process that is not used today. Electroplating those pieces does not add to the value.

Household Help
by John Amantea

Q. I own a home in a rural area with about a third of an acre in property. A good part of my backyard is enclosed by a fence made of cedar wood. The design is a post and rail type with two entry gates. The problem I am experiencing after approximately four years since the fence was constructed is wobbly gates. The gates are well built and have not decayed or rotted out. However, upon opening them, they rock and waver very unsteadily. I have tried to reinforce the gates with extra nails and even installed a chicken wire fence to it, but still had no success. Do you have any useful suggestions to remedy this problem?

A. A good percentage of your dilemma is plain old settlement of the wood due to aging. Cedar wood is extremely sturdy, but will actually shrink in girth and length over a period of time. The process of cedar aging begins with the gradual peeling of its skin (or bark), and then the wood slowly compresses itself. The heartwood or center of the cedar is very firm and that's what gives it the strength.

At this point in time you probably already know what will cause your gates to behave in a rickety manner. One sure solution to end a wiggly gate is to install a common "turnbuckle" with a threaded steel rod on each end. This item can be put in place in a short time and is fairly inexpensive in price. Any building home center or hardware store will carry a wide variety of turnbuckles.

One turnbuckle with the two threaded steel rods installed diagonally will steady even the most wobbly gate. The store where you will purchase this item can advise you if any other hardware is necessary.

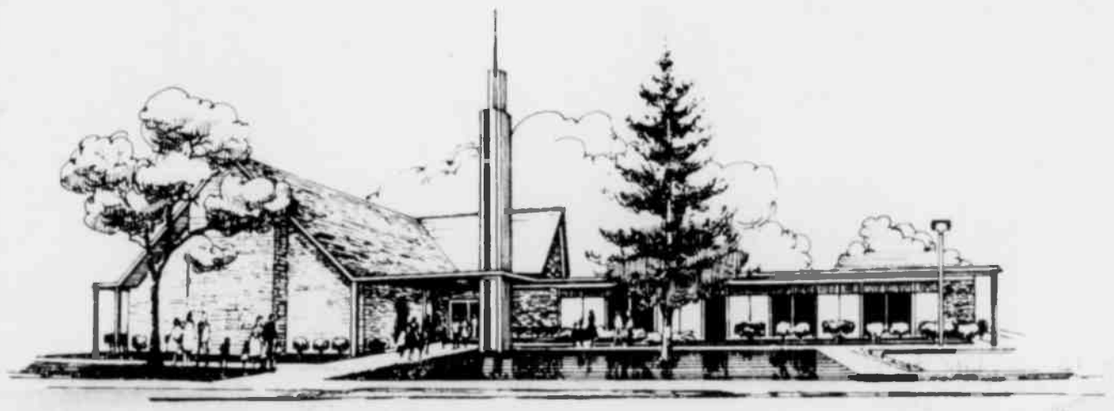
"Can I Touch God?"

"Can I touch God?", asked a little one.
"Yes, my child, with every ray of sun
That warms your feet as through the grass you run...
You can touch God."



"Can I see God?", the tiny voice went on.
"Yes, my child; with each morning's dawn
As the birds in the heavens swoop and sail along...
You can see God."

"Can I hear God?", the little one then wondered.
"Yes, you can; in every clap of thunder
His voice rings out casting any doubt asunder...
You can hear God."

"Do I know God?", the innocent one then mused.
"Yes, my love; you need not be confused.
For if your senses you wisely use...
You will know God."

God is waiting to speak to a child in your life this Sabbath. "Let the little children come to me" (Matt. 19:14).

THE BIBLE SPEAKS

ARE YOU SURE YOU'RE ALIVE?

April 10, 1994

Background Scripture: Romans 8:1-11

Devotional Reading: Romans 8:26-28, 35-39

I'm sure you've heard the story about the rich Texas widow whose last request was that she be buried in her Mercedes. As she and her luxury car were being lowered into the huge grave, one of the gravediggers was heard to exclaim, "Man, that's living!"

Actually, we have a hard time in determining what is living and what is not. Very often that which we identify with living is in reality a kind of death. Just because the body goes through the motions of living doesn't guarantee that the person is alive. Living, in its deepest sense, involves a lot more than breathing and animation.

On two different occasions I've had the opportunity to go to the famous marionette theater in Salzbur, Austria. As the show began, I found, I was aware that the figures on the stage were marionettes and not human actors. But soon I found myself thinking of them as human. The skill of the marionette masters had made them come alive. On one occasion, I had the chance to go back stage after the presentation and I was struck by how lifeless the marionettes were. Hung on a hook or lying on the floor, it was obvious there was no life in them.

SPIRITUALLY DEAD

I've noticed that with some people, too. They go through the motions of living, but they do not live. They are not alive. Paul says, "To set the mind on the flesh is death." (Romans 8:6). Paul is not speaking of mere physical flesh itself, but of the lower nature of humanity that drags us down instead of lifting us up. Paul is not putting down the human body, but the baseness of a life that is lived just on a material or physical level. It is a life that rises no higher than physical appetites. A person so focused on his or her life is spiritually dead. Things have separated that person from God. "For the mind that is set on the flesh," says Paul, "is hostile to God" (8:7). So, it is possible to be clinically alive and yet spiritually dead.

Wonderful as the physical material world may be, it dies not, cannot satisfy our deepest longings. But that is so hard for us to understand, for these material things are so attractive. For example, have you ever looked forward to a special lunch or dinner--perhaps a birthday or anniversary celebration--that promises to be something spectacular. No matter how wonderful the meal and the occasion are, the satisfaction is fleeting. We may be quite hungry the very next morning and bored by late afternoon.

ACCORDING TO THE SPIRIT

In John 6 Jesus reminds his listeners that "Your fathers ate the manna in the wilderness, and they died." No material things can keep us alive forever. Only the spiritual can do that: "I am the bread of life," said Jesus, "he who comes to me shall not hunger" (6:35). When we walk "not according to the flesh but according to the spirit," Paul says, we are set free of the corruption of all materiality. "For the law of the Spirit of life in Christ Jesus has set me free from the law of sin and death" (8:2).

The key is that upon which we set our minds and hearts. "For those who live according to the flesh set their minds on the things of the flesh," Paul tells the Romans, "but those who live according to the Spirit set their minds on the things of the Spirit" (8:5). A mind set upon skim milk doesn't produce whipped cream. A heart that is given to prejudice, jealous, envy and material things cannot have room for the life-giving Spirit.

If you want to check to see if you're alive, don't feel your pulse, check your mind and see whether it is focused on "things of the flesh" or "things of the Spirit."

These firms invite YOU to a House of Worship each week.

COVER STORY

Family at '704 Hauser' not new Bunkers

BY TED KUSIO

John Amos

Here's the bait: A new CBS comedy features a family living in what used to be the home of Archie Bunker, the infamous bigot of "All in the Family." Now here's the hook: The family is black.

To insure that audiences bite, the house at "704 Hauser" is once again filled with hot topics and heated debates. It premieres Monday, April 11.

John Amos stars as Ernie Cumberbatch, a very liberal auto mechanic. Lynnie Godfrey plays his wife Rose.

The Cumberbatch's college-age son, Thurgood Marshall "Goodie," (T.E. Russell), is quite conservative. However, for some reason mom and dad don't approve of him dating a white Jewish woman (Maura Tierney).

The setting, the relationships between conflicting characters and the overall feel of "704 Hauser" all seem familiar.

So is it "All in the Family: The Next Generation"?

"I think the comparisons are inevitable," Amos says, "especially in the pilot episode."

But from there, Amos says the show hopes to stand on it's own, without any references to Archie.

"If I know Norman (Lear, the show's creator and executive producer), he will put the audience in a position where they'll have to choose sides or they'll have to take a position.

"But he won't lay out a position on paper or through the actors and say, 'Now this is right and this is what the audience should be believing in.' Hopefully we'll be able to provoke them into thinking about what it is they've seen and about their own lives."

That there is no obvious right and wrong is made clear in the premiere episode. Father and son argue about the role race plays in the success or failure of a black person's career. Both make valid points while never resolving the issue, unlike most "All in the Family" episodes, where Archie was usually seen as being wrong.

It takes some great performances to realize the sharp writing, and the audience attending the show's filming, according to Amos, approved.

"The audience really, really appreciated the acting," Amos says, "they really have a great appreciation for the writing, and the fact that we're not pandering to the lowest common denominator on television. And we're not providing them with the usual run of stereotypes for African-American behavior, with caps on backwards and crotch grabbing and that type of thing."

It may be hard to believe that this kind of material is coming from a show with a white man as executive producer.

"Well Norman is secure enough with his success in that he doesn't propose to know the nuances of every culture," Amos says.

He explains that although it requires extra effort, the show's staff includes people who do understand these nuances, such as conservative black consultants.

"The objective is not just to make us work harder, it's to put the very best thing on the tube that we can possibly do."

So far the effort is paying off, because what's on the tube is pretty good. And they did it without Archie, more or less.

TV-PIPELINE

BY TAYLOR MICHAELS

Judy Holliday

Q: What can you tell me about Judy Holliday? Are there any books about her? What movies did she do besides "Born Yesterday"? –E. Craig, Lanesville, N.Y.

A: Born Judith Tuvim in 1922, Holliday got her start in Greenwich Village cabarets, performing with then-unknowns such as Leonard Bernstein. She made her screen debut in the small but important role of the murderess in "Adam's Rib." When movie producers later were reluctant to let her re-create her Broadway role in "Born Yesterday," her "Rib" co-star, Katharine Hepburn, "helped" them see the error of their ways. She then went on to win that year's Oscar as wisecracking bimbo Billie Dawn (Holliday herself was blessed with a near-genius IQ). In addition to the above two titles, three of her other films are readily available on video: The comedies "It Should Happen to You" and "Phffft!," plus the musical "Bells Are Ringing." She died of cancer in 1965. Two 1982 biographies are in print: Will Holtzman's "Judy Holliday" (Putnam) and Gary Carey's "Judy Holliday: An Intimate Life Story" (Seaview Books).

Q: Can you tell me whatever happened to the little boy who supposedly is a ghost in the movie "Three Men and a Baby"? –C.R., Holly, Mich.

A: The "ghost" was a cardboard cutout figure that a careless stagehand left standing behind the apartment set being used in that film.

Q: My husband and I are having a friendly argument. Was Ann-Margret ever married to Merlin Olsen? –D. Clifton, DeLeon Springs, Fla.

A: No. She was born Ann-Margret Olsson. That's probably at the root of the confusion.

Q: I have a $10 bet with my brother-in-law as to who played the neighbor in "Pet Sematary." He says Fred Gwynne. I say Jason Robards. Who is right?–Janice Cowperthwaite, Brooksville, Maine.

A: He is. It was Gwynne.

Q: A very large bet is riding on this: Was Dionne Warwick ever married to Burt Bacharach? –Peggy Rahn, Lanark, Ill.

A: Nope.

CLEANUP: Seems the Covington, Ga., address I was given for "In the Heat of the Night" is not working for some of you. Try writing to the cast C/O the show at MGM Worldwide TV, MGM Plaza, 2500 Broadway St., Santa Monica, Calif. 90404-3061.

Also, the address for William Forsythe was omitted from a recent column. You may write to him C/O "The Untouchables," Paramount Television, 5555 Melrose Ave., Hollywood, Calif. 90038.

Send questions to TV Pipeline, Features Dept., TV Data Technologies, Northway Plaza, Queensbury, N.Y. 12804. Because of the volume of mail received, personal replies cannot be sent.

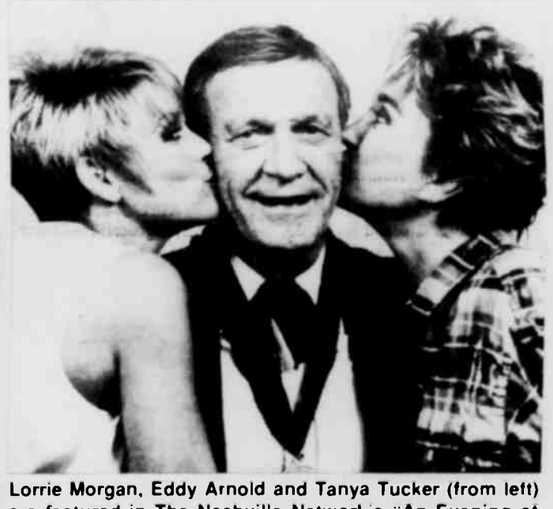
Glittery lineup salutes country music legends

BY JOHN CROOK

Some of the hottest stars of the industry salute their heroes in "An Evening of Country Greats: A Hall of Fame Celebration." The 90-minute special airs Wednesday, April 13, on The Nashville Network.

Featured in the telecast are Vince Gill, Tanya Tucker, Carlene Carter, Emmylou Harris, Marty Stuart, Mark O'Connor, Shelby Lynne and Trisha Yearwood.



"The best stars of country music are coming together to pay tribute to the legends who created their legacy of country music," says Fred Tatashore, the show's producer. "This will be a musical journey filled with human interest, nostalgia and laughter."

During the program, Gill pays touching tribute to his own musical idol, Chet Atkins, who, at age 49, was the youngest living entertainer inducted into the Country Music Hall of Fame at the time. Fiddle virtuoso O'Connor, who made his first appearance on the Grand Ole Opry at age 12, recalls the man who introduced him that night, the late Roy Acuff.

Harris sings "You Don't Know Me" in homage to Eddy Arnold, the Country Music Association's first Entertainer of the Year and a Hall of Fame inductee in 1966. Country superstar Lorrie Morgan salutes record producer Owen Bradley in a medley of songs.

Carter, third generation member of what is truly a country music dynasty (headed by Johnny Cash), honors the original Carter Family, inducted into the Hall of Fame in 1970.

Tucker, a musical maverick herself, pays tribute to Loretta Lynn, whose progressive lyrics opened many doors for women in country music.

Lorrie Morgan, Eddy Arnold and Tanya Tucker (from left) are featured in The Nashville Network's "An Evening of Country Greats: A Hall of Fame Celebration" Wednesday.

IN FOCUS

Juliet Aubrey stars in "Middlemarch," a six-part presentation of PBS' "Masterpiece Theatre." The miniseries begins on Sunday, April 10, and continues on consecutive Sundays (check local listings).

Set in England at the brink of the Industrial Revolution, the story centers around Dorothea Brooke (Aubrey), an innocent young idealist who seeks to lead a meaningful life.

"Middlemarch" is based on the work of 19th-century novelist George Eliot.

IN FOCUS

PBS examines the history of China under the rule of Mao Zedong in "The Mao Years," airing Wednesday, April 13 (check local listings).

The two-hour documentary explores the years of social and political upheaval that China endured during his reign.

It was a time when the Chinese built the foundations that enabled them to become one of the world's economic powerhouses.

It was also a period of violent political campaigns marked by brutal purges.

CABLE OVERVIEW

Ballard scuttles theory; new movie channel rolls

Stockard Channing

"Last Voyage of the Lusitania" airs Sunday, April 10, on TBS' "National Geographic Explorer." Oceanographer Robert Ballard, who has visited the wrecks of the Titanic and the Bismarck and the lost fleet of Guadalcanal, sets out to test the theory that the luxury liner Lusitania sank when a German torpedo hit a cargo hold full of munitions. Using specialized deep-sea exploration equipment, Ballard is convinced that the torpedo triggered a tragedy he dubs "bad luck" rather than military scandal.

The program also features interviews with survivors of the ill-fated 1915 voyage and some period photographs that may be too vivid for younger viewers.

Stockard Channing ("Six Degrees of Separation") guest stars in two episodes of "Avonlea," airing on The Disney Channel this Monday, April 11, and the next. Channing upsets more than one apple cart as the high-spirited wife of the town's new minister.

Turner Classic Movies, a new basic cable service, sets sail Thursday, April 14, with Robert Osborne as host. A longtime writer for The Hollywood Reporter, Osborne previously filled the host's shoes at The Movie Channel. The channel will present the cream of the crop of Turner-owned films, plus additional acquisitions, all exclusive. That's bad news for viewers without access to TCM, since the playlist includes favorites like "Mister Rogers" and "Casablanca." Ironically, the premiere movie is "Gone With the Wind."

All joking aside, has the case of Lorena Bobbitt set a precedent that justifies women in a violent response to violence? Bill Kurtis explores this and the increasing involvement of women in drug and gang activity in "American Justice: Lorena Bobbitt, Women and Violence," Wednesday, April 13, on A&E.

Infiniti pitchman Jonathan Pryce tangles with telepathic twins in "Thicker Than Water," Sunday on A&E. Theresa Russell plays the two women, one of whom is violently murdered.

"Space Ghost: Coast to Coast," an animated talk show spoof, debuts Friday, April 15, on The Cartoon Network.

Ted Shackelford, last seen as J.R. Ewing's brother, looks uncomfortable in "Harvest for the Heart," a prodigal son story debuting Saturday, April 16, on The Family Channel. Ron White is the setting to watch in this Canadian production. "Snowy River: The McGregor Saga" begins a new season, also Saturday on Family.

SOAP TALK

Davidson breaking hearts on 'Days'

BY CANDACE HAVENS

Eileen Davidson

Dear Candace: The actress who portrays Kristen (Eileen Davidson) on "Days of Our Lives" is one of the luckiest women alive. She gets to work with two of the most gorgeous actors in daytime, Drake Hogestyn (John) and Thaao Penghlis (Tony).

I was wondering if she liked working with one more than the other, and who would she like her character to end up with? Kristen is married to Tony right now, but once she finds out about his lies, I think she will go back to John. I like Tony, but the show needs to find another love interest for him so that Kristen can return to John were she belongs.

Davidson is very beautiful and my husband tells me she used to be on a prime-time show. Could you please tell me more about her? –D.H., Kansas City, Kan.

Dear Reader: Davidson is a true diplomat and says, "I love working with both men. But they are very different."

The actress says she has no idea what is going to happen with her character; it's up to the writers. Davidson says she will go along with whatever they write for her.

Many of Davidson's fans know her from her days as J.R. Ewing's brother, looks uncomfortable in "Harvest for the Heart," a prodigal son story debuting Saturday, April 16, on The Family Channel. Ron White is the setting to watch in this Canadian production. "Snowy River: The McGregor Saga" begins a new season, also Saturday on Family.

People were really surprised when I walked away from 'Y&R,' Davidson says. "I needed to face certain things in my life about who I am and what really makes me happy. I have discovered a great deal about myself, and I am proud of my accomplishments.

"Now I'm back on daytime after doing prime-time television and movies, and I have more appreciation for the medium. It is hard work, but it definitely has its pluses. Really great parts for women in this business are few and far between.

"I think daytime, by far, has some of the most rewarding roles for women in terms of quality and quantity," Davidson says. "Kristen is a very interesting character, and I am enjoying this experience."

Prior to joining the cast of "Santa Barbara," Davidson was a regular on the prime-time series "Broken Badges." Her film credits include "Easy Wheels" with Paul Le Mat and "Eternity" with Armand Assante.

Dorothy Hamill has put years of watching and performing in ice shows to great use in her latest venture.

The 1976 Olympic gold medal-winning figure skater purchased the vaudevillian Ice Capades of old and came up with an established, yet unique, new format.

"Ice Capades: Cinderella... Frozen in Time" airs Saturday, April 16, on ABC. The special caps Hamill's 7-month North American Ice Capades tour and gives viewers who missed the live show a chance to see what the excitement is about.

The big change between Hamill's production and others is the implementation of a theme – one idea carried through the show.

"Let's face it," Hamill says in reference to the old-style Ice Capades, "even Las Vegas has gone away from variety."

"Cinderella" is an elaborate ballet on ice. The costumes, original music score and first-rate skating (with Hamill as Cinderella) combine to make even the TV version breathtaking.

"I guess the thing I saw mostly was Ice Capades was trying to be something to everyone, and not really satisfying anyone," Hamill says. "They would have a kiddie number with the fuzzy animals for the little children and then they'd have somebody come out and do magic tricks, and then they'd have somebody come out and do skating."

Hamill, convinced ice shows could offer more than magicians and world-class skaters in bunny suits, set out to dazzle the audience from beginning to end.

"Cinderella" will take audiences on an emotional ride. They like to laugh and they like to cry and they like to be mesmerized by the beauty," Hamill says.

"I think it was just sort of the next step for skating," she adds, regarding borrowing from the theater, "because it's really taken its lead from Hollywood and Vegas, and I think it was time for it to take its lead from theater."

The theatrical elements won't be lost on TV viewers. Hamill made sure to include the essence of the live "Cinderella" performance, along with some new additions to the classic.

"We've been able to do a lot with montages instead of showing all the solos," she says. "In a lot of ways, it's more entertaining. We tried to keep as much of the highlights and the exciting parts and the funny parts between the stepsisters and Cinderella's little pal, Buttons."

MOVIE MARQUEE

'Lifeforce Experiment' could use some pruning

BY TED KUSIO

Donald Sutherland

Like a collage randomly created in darkness, "The Lifeforce Experiment" is a mess.

The Sci-Fi Channel premieres "The Lifeforce Experiment" on Saturday, April 16. Mimi Kuzyk stars as a scientist sent by the CIA to investigate Dr. James "Mac" Maclean (Donald Sutherland), who is attempting to capture human energy as it leaves the body upon dying. Corin Nemec ("Parker Lewis Can't Lose") also stars.

If this was all that happened in the film, it would have been a success. The moral ramifications of such experiments as compared to the potential benefit to mankind would have been ample fuel for a fine film.

Instead the film's plot is stuffed with all sorts of subplots, some that make no sense, others that merely take up valuable film frames. Each character is given a detailed tragic past, the purpose of the experiments shifts and the CIA involvement is just plain dumb.

The actors all nobly try to make sense of this, especially Nemec, who finally ditches his goofy high-school kid image. And Sutherland's thin Santa look isn't too distracting. But it still can't clean up this mess.

Other films this week include "David's Mother," Sunday, April 10, on CBS. Kristie Alley portrays a mother who learns that her autistic son may need more than her unconditional love. Stockard Channing and Sam Waterston also star. Veronica Hamel stars as a college professor stalked by a deranged man in "Shadow of Obsession" on NBC. And before he was "Unforgiven," Clint Eastwood was a "Pale Rider." The Western airs on ABC.

The dangers of fraternity hazing are the basis of NBC's "Moment of Truth: Broken Pledges" on Monday, April 11. Tom Cruise learns, "If you can't say it, you can't do it" in "Risky Business" on Fox.

Michael Keaton and Christopher Lloyd are part of "The Dream Team," Wednesday, April 13, on the USA Network.

Movies to watch after income tax forms are in the mail on Friday, April 15, include Sherilyn Fenn in the tale of a contemporary love triangle in "Three of Hearts," debuting on Showtime. USA premieres Michael Ironside and Bruce Dern in the Western "Deadman's Revenge." And NBC offers "In the Line of Duty: Siege at Marion."

With tax refunds on the way, would $1 million justify an "Indecent Proposal"? Robert Redford makes the offer on Saturday, April 16, as the film has its HBO premiere. And remember, it's only a movie.

Centenarians To Be Honored At Special Ceremony

Governor William Donald Schaefer and Rosalie S. Abrams, director of the Maryland Office on Aging, have announced that a special ceremony and luncheon will be held on May 19, to recognize the lives and contributions of Maryland citizens who are 100 years or age or older.

This special event, "Maryland Centenarians: Celebrating 100 Years of Life," is being held in observance of "Older Marylanders' Month, as proclaimed by Governor Schaefer.

"This special observance seeks to pay due tribute to a population of individuals who represent the bountiful history of America and, indeed, the very fabric of our society," said governor Schaefer.

The ceremony and luncheon will take place from 11:30 a.m. to 2 p.m. at Martin's West, 6821 Dogwood Road, in Baltimore. Any resident of Maryland who will reach 100 years of age by December 31, 1994, is eligible to attend the ceremony and luncheon free of charge. The cost for all other participants is $15 ($150.00 per table of 10). Persons who wish to attend may do so by calling the Maryland Office on Aging at 410-225-1100 in Baltimore, or toll free 1-800-AGE-DIAL for a luncheon registration form. The deadline date to register as one of Maryland's centenarians is Friday, April 15.

"We look forward to joining the centenarians, their relatives and their friends in celebration on May 19," stated Mrs. Abrams.

Citizens in their 80s and 90s are also invited to attend the luncheon. Centenarians unable to attend the luncheon should call to register so that they can be given a special certificate of recognition.

Throughout the month of May, local Area Agencies on Aging and senior centers around the state are planning special activities and events in observance of Older Marylanders' Month. For more information about these events, contact the local Area Agencies on Aging or call the Maryland Office on Aging toll free 1-800-AGE-DIAL.

Opportunities To View, Study Dance Offered At FSU

Dancers, teachers, and students of dance will have an array of opportunities to develop their expertise in and their understanding of the art of dance during the month of April at Frostburg State University.

On Monday, April 18, interested persons may participate in a lecture/demonstration on Alvin Ailey American Dance Theatre style to be offered by Alvin Ailey Repertory Ensemble Dancers at 10 a.m. and (repeated) at 11:30 a.m. in the Recital Hall of the Performing Arts Center.

Later that same day, a workshop by the Ailey Repertory members will be conducted for dance students from this region at 3 p.m. in the Dance Studio, Room 106, of the physical Education Center. A master class will be presented by the Ailey principals for dancers, dance teachers, and students from this region at 4:30 p.m. in the Dance Studio.

A second master class by the Ailey Repertory dancers is tentatively scheduled at 4:30 p.m. on Tuesday, April 19, in the Dance Studio.

These opportunities in dance are part of an ongoing relationship developed between the Alvin Ailey Dance Theater Foundation of Maryland and FSU. The University offers them to its own students and to other dance enthusiasts throughout the Western Maryland community free of charge through the region's Arts Alive! consortium.

Dancers and dance students may take class with Beatriz Rodriguez, principal dancer of the Joffrey Ballet, on Monday, April 25, at 10 a.m. in the Dance Studio. One of this country's leading ballerinas, Ms. Rodriguez will be among the Artists of The Joffrey in residence on campus April 23-25.

That residency will also include a symposium on "The Joffrey Achievement" featuring several internationally known authorities in the world of ballet on Sunday, April 24, at 12:30 p.m. in the Studio Theatre of the FSU Performing Arts Center. These opportunities are also free of charge.

On Thursday and Friday, April 28 and 29, at 8 p.m. in the PAC Recital Hall, the FSU Dance Company will perform its annual "Dimensions in Dance," a student-faculty concert. This event, too, is admission-free and open to the public.

For further information, persons may contact the director of the FSU Dance Program, Ms. Claudia Palumbo (689-4487 or 689-4461), or the Dean's Office, School of Arts and Humanities (689-7459).

A Victorian Wedding Shower

From top to bottom: Blueberry Cheesecake, Peach Melba Pie, Tropical Magic Cookie Bars and Chocolate Banana Nut Pie

Today weddings have reached the height of romance, and a Victorian-themed shower is a wonderful way to indulge the bride and other guests with an extraordinary step back in time. Named for Queen Victoria's reign in England from 1837 to 1901, the Victorian period was an era of romance, high fashion and sentimentality unequalled in modern history.

Beautiful floral or antique invitations will alert revelers to the stylish shower to come and inspire guests to select creative gifts such as a music box, sachet or ornate picture frame. When preparing decorations, evoke a state of grace by draping tulle around tables and chairs, adding fresh flowers and classical music on the stereo. Your table might feature footed cake stands, lace napkins and, of course, your best china and silver.

The Victorian age was the apex of confectionery art, so a sweetly sensational dessert buffet featuring luscious fruit and chocolate treats is especially appropriate. And if you're not a professional baker, don't worry! Time-saving steps and quality, ready-to-use ingredients such as Eagle® Brand sweetened condensed milk ensure delectable desserts that are easy to prepare.

Offer your guests an array of pick-up goodies to nibble while watching the bride-to-be open her gifts. Tropical Magic Cookie Bars will win raves for the Island flair of tart crushed pineapple and flaky white coconut. Crowned with macadamia nuts, these crunchy-chewy squares are sure to be a hands-down favorite. For something new, spoil your guests with Creamy Lemon Bars. Buttery and sweet, these sunny yellow squares misted with white powdered sugar are a beautiful addition to the dessert buffet. Dense, moist Chewy Fudge Brownies nestled in a crust of vanilla wafer crumbs offer a delicious familiar taste that's "something old," but the recipe for these contemporary, two-tone brownies is sure to be something borrowed.

An elegant cheesecake and two impressive pies, all made luxuriously smooth with sweetened condensed milk, round out the sumptuous spread. For something blue, present extra-creamy Blueberry Cheesecake, a classic that never goes out of style. Each party-goer is sure to want a slice of this rich cheesecake, studded with blueberries and napped with a delicate blueberry sauce.

Peach Melba Pie showcases golden peaches glistening with peach preserves atop a light and airy pie filling with a surprise inside for the guests: a middle layer of vibrant red raspberries. No one will be able to resist the pure chocolate pleasure of Chocolate Banana Nut Pie. Here, chocolate pie reaches new heights with the sublime additions of ripe sliced bananas and crunchy chopped pecans.

A Victorian shower is a grand way to celebrate one of life's happiest occasions. Host a unique party that gently speaks of romance, elegance and cherished friendships.

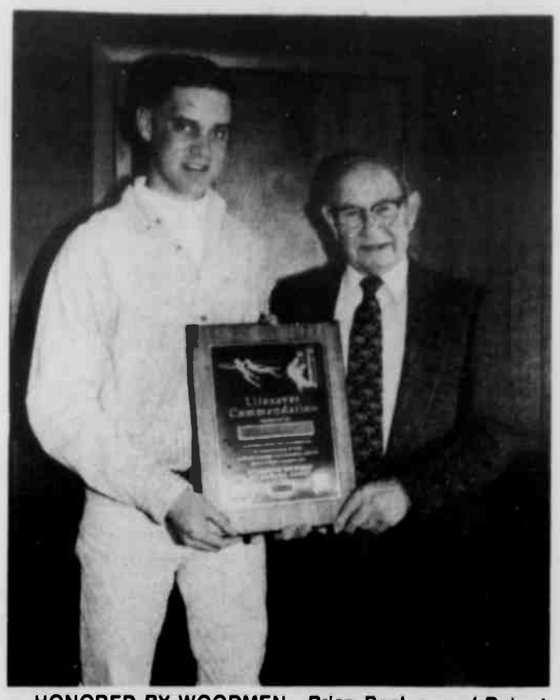
Fire Marshal Now Charging For Inspections

Maryland State Fire Marshal Rocco J. Gabriele has announced that the Office of the State Fire Marshal now charges a fee for fire safety inspections. Effective April 1, the Agency began to charge fees in conjunction with those fire safety inspections performed by deputy state fire marshals statewide.

The fire marshal began charging fees for plan reviews of new building construction and fire protection systems February 1.

The state office joined other local and county fire marshals throughout the state who have begun to charge fees for services provided. During the 1992 Maryland General Assembly Session, the Legislature passed House Bill 1165, which authorizes state, local, and county fire marshals to charge fees for fire safety inspections and plan reviews for fire code compliance.



The state fire marshal will follow a fee schedule, when charging for services provided, that has been established through the Code of Maryland Regulations (COMAR).

Additionally, an information management system has been established to help track information for each plan review and fire safety inspection performed, as well as for the invoicing of the work completed by Agency personnel.

All fees collected through the program will be deposited in the State General Fund.

Anyone with questions regarding the new fee schedule or the charges for services performed by the Agency should contact the Office of the State Fire Marshal at 410-764-4324, Monday through Friday, during normal business hours.

Ads For Unclaimed Property Yield 10,000 Calls

Maryland State Comptroller Louis L. Goldstein said the Unclaimed Property Section of his office received more than 10,000 telephone calls between March 22 and March 29, as a result of full-size advertising supplements placed in Maryland newspapers. The ads are designed to help find about 21,000 individuals and businesses who are the rightful owners of unclaimed funds worth millions of dollars.

The supplement lists all of the most recently reported names, regardless of the county of last known address, to help people who moved from one place to another place in the state. "The large number of telephone inquiries show the statewide publishing of supplements is a great way to reach thousands of people who have money due them," Goldstein said. "If you see your name or the name of someone you know, please call the unclaimed property office toll-free 1-800-782-7383 outside the Baltimore metropolitan area."

The comptroller noted that the names in the current list are mostly reported by financial institutions, rental companies, utilities and corporations. "The unclaimed funds include dormant bank accounts, which had no deposit or withdrawal activity in the last five years, unclaimed wages, contents of safe deposit boxes, unclaimed security deposits, and stocks and bonds," Goldstein said.

The comptroller advertises recently reported names of unclaimed property owners each spring and fall. "Our statewide advertising campaign during the fall of 1993 was very successful, generating thousands of calls and letters," he said.

The advertising campaign is just one of the many outreach efforts to locate owners of unclaimed funds. Other efforts include computer file match-ups with other government agencies and computer booths at state and local fairs, trade shows and shopping malls to allow people to check the unclaimed property files.

In another outreach effort, the IRS will be sending notices during May to 12,824 individuals for whom they have a current address. "This is an excellent way to locate individuals who have moved out of Maryland and for whom we do not have a current address," the comptroller noted.

Because of all these efforts, in fiscal year 1993 - which ended June 30, 1993 - the unclaimed property section returned $5,248,400 in unclaimed funds to 7,188 individuals. Among the claims paid in fiscal year 1993 were two accounts worth $87,211 and $29,806. The average claim amount was $730.

"Whether your name is in the current ad supplement or not, it's worth contacting the unclaimed property office periodically because our computer records cover more than 160,000 accounts worth about $60 million reported to us over the past 25 years, and there is no time limit on claiming the money that is rightfully yours," Goldstein said. "You can claim the funds any time, and legitimate heirs can claim the funds after the original owner's death."

Maryland law requires financial institutions, utilities, insurance companies and other corporations to report to the state comptroller any bank accounts, security deposits, wages, insurance benefits and the contents of safe deposit boxes which are unclaimed after five years.

Geriatric, Nursing Assistant Training Underway At GCC

"Teamwork has been a vital part of this training program from the moment it was conceived during a Private Industry Council meeting last fall," stated Sandy Major, Garrett Community College coordinator of the new Geriatric and Nursing Assistant Training Program. Members of the Private Industry Council were brainstorming about training opportunities when they recognized the need to prepare employees for future positions in the health care field. All agreed that in addition to offering immediate employment opportunities, health care jobs offered strong possibilities for advancement through additional training.

Consequently, the Private Industry Council recommended that The Western Maryland Consortium work in partnership with Garrett Community College to put together a training program to prepare JTPA eligible clients for placement in entry level positions in health care settings.

Working closely with Sue Shockey, Robin Witt, and Eve Edwards of the Western Maryland Consortium, Sandy Major and Lynne Glotfelty of GCC began to develop the various components of the new training program. Their first step was to seek the input of those working in the health care field. They invited representatives of local health agencies to a special planning session, during which representatives from Garrett County Health Department, Garrett County Memorial Hospital, Goodwill Mennonite Home, Hopemont Hospital, Cuppett-Weeks Nursing Home, Area Agency on Aging, and Garrett County Lighthouse worked together to define the types of employees that are needed in their settings. They agreed that this training program should meet the growing need for nursing assistants, restorative aides, and geriatric aides. They also identified characteristics, skills, and knowledge needed to work successfully in these jobs as well as specific training classes that should be a part of the program.

Members of this group were asked to continue to work as advisory board members to the new program and all agreed to do so. According to Mrs. Major, the technical advisement of members of this board has continuously guided the development of the training program.

All present during the input session agreed that it is critical that these trainees be able to work as responsible members of a team. As the curriculum was developed this issue became a foundation for the training. In addition to learning technical skills, trainees are strengthening their interpersonal and team member skills so that they will be valuable team members n their new work places.

The need to strengthen team building skills influences all aspects of the program, Mrs. Major said. Primary instructors for the class, Kris Graber, Judith Ramer, and Lynne Glotfelty, are team oriented as they help students develop their technical skills. Prior to starting classes, these instructors participated in six hours of training in interactive instruction and team building.

As the official coach for the program, Lynne Glotfelty is working with the trainees to help each achieve his or her individual potential. She is also working in partnership with Robin Witt of the Western Maryland Consortium to assure that training and work place barriers are minimized and that the program offers maximum opportunities for all involved.

Mrs. Major said that members of the class already are working together to create a "warm learning environment" that enables each person to succeed. Their training will consist of 375 hours of classroom training and 163 hours of work site training. Participants in the program are high school graduates or GED completers who have demonstrated strong interest in the health care field. They participated in extensive testing prior to acceptance in the program.

The curriculum during the remaining months will consist of training in technical skills areas as well as in interpersonal skills. The technical training areas will include classes in restorative aide training, human growth and development, the aging process, risk management and safety, legal and professional issues, child care, and exercise and nutrition principles.

Students will participate in paid work site training throughout all but the first month of the program. They will be placed either in nursing homes, hospitals, health departments, doctors' offices, or other public health agencies and will be given the opportunity to work in several settings whenever possible. This work training experience will enable them to practice the skills that they are learning in the classroom setting. Class members will be seeking employment when they complete the program on June 30th.

"We're all excited about this program and the doors it will open for future possibilities," states Ms. Glotfelty. "We're aware that the Private Industry Council is highly supportive of the program because it will prepare our class members for employment in our county where employment possibilities are limited. Staff members of the Western Maryland Consortium have made every effort to support the cooperative development of this program and have given us the flexibility needed to develop the training. Our instructors are delighted with the high level of motivation and capability that the students are demonstrating in the classroom. Our trainees are excited about the doors the training will open for them for future careers. Most are interested in pursuing additional training that will enable them to advance in the health care field once they have established themselves as valuable team members in their new work settings. We all believe that this program will give them the opportunity they need to make exciting things happen in their future."

Earns Scholarship

A Oakland resident has been awarded a memorial scholarship at David Lipscomb University, Nashville, Tenn.

Tara Lynn Wildesen, a senior general studies/interdisciplinary studies teaching, was awarded the Gladys Chunn Memorial Scholarship. Wildesen is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Franklin Wildesen, Star Rt. 2, Oakland.

Memorial scholarships are established by alumni and friends of the university who wish to honor or remember a loved one or other close acquaintance. Contributions are usually used to create endowments, which provide scholarships from the interest generated.

David Lipscomb University offers nearly 100 major programs of study leading to bachelor of arts, bachelor of science, master's degrees in Bible, and the master's degree in education. An Accelerated Adult Degree Program is also available.

Lipscomb is associated with churches of Christ.

State To Allow Mortgage Loan Points Deduction

Maryland State Comptroller Louis L. Goldstein said the expanded deductibility of mortgage loan points, recently announced by the Internal Revenue Service, also applies to Maryland state income taxpayers if they itemized deductions on their state income tax returns.

"Because Maryland law follows federal law, the points will be deductible to the extent they are deductible for federal income tax purposes for those taxpayers who itemized deductions on their Maryland income tax returns," Goldstein said.

Those individuals who have not filed their 1993 Maryland income tax returns may report the deduction on federal schedule A, which should be attached to Maryland Form 502. A copy of the settlement statement, HUD-1, should also be attached to the Maryland tax return.

Anyone needing an extension of time to file the 1993 Maryland income tax return in order to obtain information to support this deduction should use Form 502E, which grants an automatic four-month extension of time to file. "However, the extension is an extension of time to file the paperwork," Goldstein said. "Any additional tax anticipated for 1993 must be paid with Form 502E, which must be filed on or before April 15, 1994."

Taxpayers who have already filed tax returns for the years 1991, 1992, and 1993 must file amended Maryland income tax Form 502X for each of the years involved. Taxpayers should not file an amended 1993 Maryland return until they receive the original refund check.

"On the amended Form 502X, write 'seller-paid points,' as the reason for the amendment," the comptroller said. "You should attach a copy of your federal amended Form 1040X and a copy of the settlement statement HUD-1."

Amended Maryland income tax returns must be filed within three years of the filing of the original return. Therefore, the 1991 amended return must be filed on or before April 15, 1995.

High School Band Festival Set At Frostburg State

Frostburg State University will be hosting a High School Band Festival this Saturday, April 9, in the Performing Arts Center Recital Hall beginning at 11 a.m.

Eight bands from Allegany, Garrett, and Washington counties will be participating in the full day of high school band performances, which is free and open to the public.

The line-up begins with Braddock Middle School performing at 11 a.m.; Northern Garrett High School, 11:30 a.m.; Fort Hill H.S., 12 p.m.; Southern Garrett H.S., 12:30 p.m.; Westmar H.S., 1 p.m.; Williamsport H.S., 1:30 p.m.; North Hagerstown H.S., 2 p.m.; and Allegany H.S., 2:30 p.m.

According to festival chairman Dan Davis, the competition is unique because the bands are "competing against an ideal, rather than against themselves."

"There are no prizes," he says. "The bands are playing for a ranking, from 1 to 5, with 1 being superior. That way there is no first or last place."

The bands will be judged by three adjudicators in the public performance as well as by a sight-reading judge to a closed audience. The results are averaged for a final grade.

The event marks the return of adjudicated festivals to the area and is sponsored by the FSU Department of Music.

For more information, persons may contact Dan Davis, Director of Bands, (301) 689-4109.

Numerous Local Organizations Seek Support From Club

Representatives of 18 Garrett County organizations made presentations to The Civic Club of Oakland membership at the Club's monthly meeting on March 29.

Organizations making requests for financial contribution for 1994 are: AAUW; Ruth Enlow Library; Big Brothers/Big Sisters; Habitat for Humanity, Inc.; American Red Cross; Dream Come True; Hospice of Garrett County, Inc.; Garrett County Council on Alcohol and Drug Abuse; Garrett Organization for the Handicapped; Garrett County Lighthouse, Inc.; Garrett Lakes Arts Festival; Maryland Salem Children's Trust; Garrett County Humane Society; Alliance for the Mentally Ill; Garrett County Memorial Hospital Foundation; Garrett Choral Society; The House of Hope and Mountain Laurel Garden Club.

Glimpse Of The Past . . .

THE FRANTZ HOTEL was located along Railroad Street in Oakland many decades ago, and was a popular hotel in the days when steam engines and passenger trains rolled in and out of the town several times each day. Before being purchased by the Frantz family, the structure was known as the Schley Hotel. Note the water tower in the left background that was used to replenish the locomotives after their long climbs up the 17-Mile Grade to Oakland. This photo is on loan by Joann Bardsley and is published courtesy of the Garrett County Historical Society and The Republican. Persons desiring information on how to become members of the Historical Society may obtain it at the Ruth Enlow Library in Oakland or at any of the Ruth Enlow branches throughout the county.

The Garrett County Crime Solvers organization is currently seeking information about a breaking and entering at a McHenry residence.

On February 10, between the hours of 9 a.m. and 2 p.m., unknown person(s) broke into the garage of Richard Perando, McHenry. Taken from the garage was a 1987 Yamaha Warrior 350cc four-wheeler. The vehicle was described as blue and white in color with a 55 sticker on the front head lamp and tires on gold rims.

The vehicle has been valued at $1500.

Any person with information about this or any other unsolved crime is urged to contact Crime Solvers at 334-1975. Persons do not have to give their names nor appear in court. Rewards of up to $1,000 are available to persons who provide tips that lead to arrests.

DNR Personnel Attend Seminar

Garrett County Department of Natural Resources (DNR) Forest personnel Wade Dorsey and Ernie Metz recently attended a Forest Pest Management Safety Seminar at the Maryland Department of Agriculture headquarters in Annapolis. This training was a re-certification for Forest vice personnel involved in the Gypsy Moth Spray Program.

Joe Fitzpatrick, Abbott Laboratories, updated the group on "Bacillas thuringiensis" or "BT", a bacterial disease which his company manufactures.

Dr. Ray Choban, Uniroyal representative, presented the group with information on Dimilin, which his company manufactures. Dimilin is a "growth regulator" that effects only growing insects and their relatives.

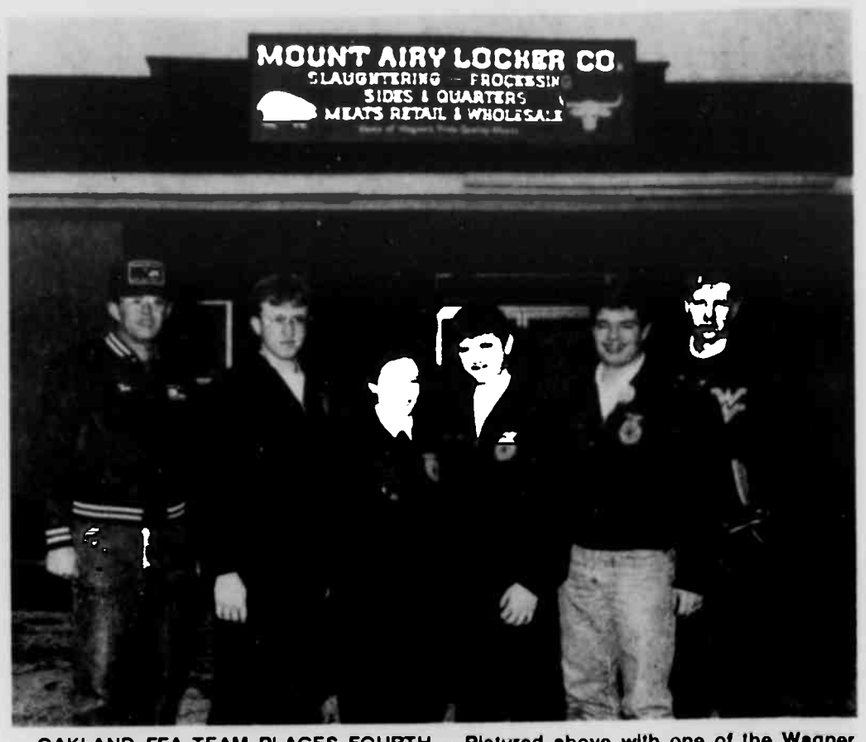
Oakland FFA Places Fourth In Meats Event



A team from the Oakland FFA Chapter placed fourth in the Maryland FFA Meats Contest. The Clear Spring FFA Chapter had the first place team in the event on March 25 at Mt. Airy Locker Company in Mt. Airy. The Wagner Brothers of Mt. Airy Locker annually host the contest. The contest is sponsored by the Montgomery County Agriculture Center as a special project of the Maryland FFA Foundation. The Walkersville FFA Chapter took second place and Frederick FFA Chapter took third place.

Individuals from the Oakland Chapter who scored were Wayne Mayfield, seventh and bronze medal; and Laah Broadwater, 10th, bronze medal.

According to contest superintendent and official judge, Dr. John Buric, a retired member of the Animal Science Department at the University of Maryland, College Park, there were seven teams registered with 34 members participating. Elaine Bailey of the University of Maryland's Institute of Applied Agriculture, Cherri Morris, Montgomery County 4-H leader, and the Wagner Brothers assisted Dr. Buric with the contest.

The contest consisted of a written test section including meat formulation problem solving, a section on retail meat cuts identification, a section on beef quality, yield grading, and carcass pricing. Also included were four placing classes selected from carcass classes as well as retail and wholesale cuts of lamb, pork and beef.

The other members of the Oakland team were Jonathan Farmer and Jason Friend.

MDA Will Help Dispose Of Unusable Pesticides

Maryland Department of Agriculture (MDA) Secretary Robert L. Walker has announced that the department will be sponsoring and funding a pilot program during 1994 to dispose of unusable pesticides that are currently being stored by agricultural producers. The pilot program will be conducted as a cooperative effort with support from the Cooperative Extension Service and various farm organizations.

"The storage of unusable or unwanted pesticides is an environmental issue that needs to be addressed, I am pleased to announce that MDA has received a $75,000 grant from the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency to help remove these unwanted pesticides," said Walker.

Proper disposal of unusable pesticides has been recognized by the Chesapeake Bay Program as a high priority because of the potential threat of improperly stored pesticides contaminating the Chesapeake Bay. Similar pesticide disposal programs recently have been conducted in Virginia and Pennsylvania. All parties involved--the agricultural community, state regulatory agencies, and environmental groups--agree that disposal programs are successful in protecting surface water and ground water resources from potential environmental contamination.

In 1994, Maryland's pilot disposal program will be targeted for farmers in three counties on the Eastern Shore. Caroline, Dorchester, and Talbot counties have been selected, based on past disposal activities and interest within these counties, as the areas to conduct a disposal program.

GCC Agriculture Open House Slated

An Agriculture Open House will be held at Garrett Community College on April 23 from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. This will be an opportunity for the public and prospective students to learn more about the Agricultural Management program, according to Willie Lantz, instructor in the program.

Instructors from the University of Maryland as well as GCC will be on hand to explain the program, and admissions and financial aid officials from the college will be available to answer questions. Participants will also have the opportunity to explore the computerized distance learning system.

The Agricultural Management Program is a cooperative effort between the University of Maryland, Institute of Applied Agriculture (IAA), and GCC. Students will be jointly enrolled in IAA and GCC, with all of the classes offered on the GCC campus. The computerized distance learning system will allow instructors from the University of Maryland to offer classes at GCC and will also offer flexibility in allowing student to complete some class work from home.

Anyone interested in further information about the Open House or the Agricultural Management program may call Lantz at 387-3021.

Persons planning to attend the Open House should call Lantz to make a reservation.

U.S. Hog Inventory Down Two Percent

U.S. inventory of all hogs and pigs on March 1 was 55.6 million head. This was two percent below March 1993 and one percent below the March 1992 inventory.

Breeding inventory, at 7.03 million head, was down slightly from March 1, 1993, and two percent below March 1, 1992. Market hog inventory, at 48.6 million head, was two percent below March 1, 1993, and one percent below March 1, 1992.

The December 1993 through February 1994 U.S. pig crop was 22.6 million head, one percent less than 1993 and three percent below the same period in 1992. Sows farrowing during this period totaled 2.80 million head, down one percent from last year and three percent below a year earlier. Pigs saved per litter was 8.08 compared to 8.14 during December 1992-February 1993. U.S. producers intend to have 3.15 million sows farrow during the March through May 1994 quarter, two percent less than actual farrowings during the same period last year and seven percent below 1992.

The Picture Of Health

But Today My Picture Speaks For Itself

January 19, 1993 seemed like just an ordinary day in the life of 58-year-old David Stemple, a dairy farmer from Aurora, West Virginia. But during a chase after a cow, he began to feel a slight pain in his chest and numbness in his arms and neck.

Because of his EMT training, David knew he could be having a heart attack but he dismissed the thought because he wasn't having all the symptoms. He thought it was only heartburn. He went home, told his wife and she insisted on calling the rescue squad. It's a good thing she did. Minutes after the emergency crew arrived, David Stemple's heart stopped beating. He had indeed suffered a heart attack.

David was transported to Garrett County Memorial Hospital where he was admitted to the intensive care unit. David was successfully treated and went back to the hospital for rehabilitation. In David's own words, the care he received at the hospital was "mighty good". He felt that the medical staff was "right on the ball".

DHIA/Holstein Association Holds Annual Awards Dinner

The Garrett County Dairy Herd Improvement Association (DHIA) and the Garrett County Holstein Association held its annual combined meeting Tuesday, March 29, at the Bittinger Community Building.

Dr. Ron Kling, president of the Garrett Holstein Association, was master of ceremonies. After the turkey dinner, Dr. Kling discussed the goals of the Holstein Association; goals such as increased activities and enthusiasm with club members and youth. This would include holding more educational meetings, barn meetings and fitting and showmanship workshops, as well as a calf raffle and more promotional activities.

Kling also announced that July 27 would be the date of the Garrett County Holstein show. This year it will also be open to qualified grades. Also discussed was a Maryland dairy 4-H fun weekend (see separate article).

State Holstein Association Director Delvin Mast told the group that he has enjoyed his term as state director. He reported that the state is also active in coordinating programs for youth. Mast noted that Charles Yeager, state Holstein president, sent compliments to Garrett County for the state convention the county hosted last March, one that all attending will remember because of the snow storm of 1993.

Bob Hope, field supervisor for the Maryland DHIA, explained some new DHIA reports that are available, and said that barn meetings are being planned in July to go over the new DHIA reports in detail.

DHIA awards were announced by Randall Beitzel, president, and presented by those sponsors attending; Earl Clark, First United National Bank & Trust, and Lisa Dabson and Aurelia Wilt, West Virginia Farm Credit, ACA.

Presented awards for low somatic cell count were Cove Winds Hill Holsteins and Piney Run Farms.

Receiving the award for high energy corrected milk for Holsteins was Philip Beachy, for Jerseys, Paul Petersheim, and for Guernseys, Jerry Yoder.

Awards for herd management were given to Piney Run Farm, first; Philip Beachy, second; Jerry L. Yoder, third; Cove Winds Hill Holsteins, fourth; and tied for fifth were Paul and Henry Kinsinger and Ernest and Dan Ganoe.

Thank-you awards were presented to all the youth who had shown at the Holstein show and at the Garrett County Fair last year.

Garrett County Extension Agent Jim Simms congratulated all those receiving awards, and noted that there were five cows in the county that had produced over 200,000 pounds of milk in their lifetime. Two of those cows are in their 11th lactation. Jerri, belonging to Andy Mason, has produced 222,120 pounds; and Perlie, belonging to Delvin Mast, has produced 234,900. Socksy, owned by Cleland Beitzel, in her 10th lactation has produced 251,380 pounds of milk. Edgar R. Yoder's cow, Mae, is in her ninth lactation and has produced 225,850 pounds of milk; and #237, owned by David Peachy, is in her seventh lactation and has produced 208,200 pounds of milk in her lifetime.

Election of directors was held by both organizations. Outgoing directors on the DHIA board were Randall Beitzel and Wayne Schrock. They were replaced by newly elected directors Jeff Bender and Richard Bender. Outgoing directors of the Garrett Holstein Association were Kenton Bender, Alice Bender and Becky Lichty. Newly elected directors were Robert Bender, Wayne Schrock and Dennis Bender.

George Gramling, DHIC state general manager, complimented Roman Yoder, county supervisor, and Elizabeth Fullerton, county technician for their "outstanding" work. He stated that they are among the "best in the state." "I love to see the enthusiasm Garrett County has for the dairy industry," he said.

An announcement was made that the Extension Office has copies of a video on dairy nutrition by Penn State University that had been dial-linked by satellite to Garrett Community College. It covers a lot of nutrition information and can be borrowed free on a first-come basis.

The meeting was concluded after business was completed and the crowd enjoyed entertainment, which was a high point of the evening, by Wayne and Cindy Tiemersma.

Increasing Litter Size

There are a lot of reasons or factors that influence the litter size from gilts. One factor that may be overlooked, is the number of male sperm available at the time of ovulation when the eggs are released from the ovaries. The problem arises in knowing exactly when the gilt is going to ovulate. Unfortunately, there is a wide variance in time after the onset of standing heat. Research has shown that ovulation can vary from 24 to 96 hours after the onset of heat. Therefore, to assure that maximum sperm populations are available for fertilization of the eggs the gilt should be mated more than one time. Research at North Carolina State University showed that gilts mated four times had the highest number of pigs born alive.

Lady Bugs! Lady Bugs!

I have had dozens of calls concerning the invasion of lady bugs. If you recall, last fall a large population of lady bugs moved into our area. They are a new strain of lady bug that was released in the southern part of the country and now have migrated north. The lady bug is a very beneficial insect in that it feeds upon aphid insects. One of the problems with the new lady bug is that they will invade the home. However, they will not do any damage other than just being present. The easiest way to get rid of them is to vacuum them up. I would not particularly recommend the use of chemical pesticides. Since they are not eating anything in the home, you would have to use a contact-killing pesticide. These types of pesticides should not be used in your living quarters.

Local Radio Shack Dealer Receives Award

Allen's Antennas & TV, owned and operated by Allen Friend in Oakland, has been recognized as a top-performing dealership in its district by the Radio Shack division of Tandy Corporation.

The award, presented each year at Radio Shack's Dealer Franchise Division annual meeting, is open to dealers who have been established for two or more years, and who have regularly attended product training workshops, carry a reasonable line of Radio Shack's quality electronic products; have modernized the store in keeping with the company's new "technology store" look; have done an outstanding job of advertising and promotion; and who have won awards for exemplary performance in competition with other Radio Shack dealers.

"We're very proud to see Allen and Penny Friend receive this year's award," said Paul C. Rickels, Radio Shack's regional sales manager for the local area. "It represents a dedicated member of our team, who concentrates on providing local customers with the very best in high-quality products, service, and after-the-sale support."

LOCAL RADIO SHACK DEALERS ARE HONORED - Allen and Penny Friend, pictured above, were recently recognized by the Radio Shack division of the Tandy Corporation as having the top-performing dealership in its district. The couple expressed gratitude to the residents of Garrett County and the surrounding area for supporting the business. "We are looking forward to many more years," Mr. Friend said. See story.

The Friends received congratulations from John V. Roach, Tandy Corporation chairman, Radio Shack President Leonard Roberts, and Division Vice President Robert Owens.

The local business was also honored recently by being selected to be a member of Radio Shack's focus group. This group has 12 members selected from over 3,000 franchised dealer stores and meets in Fort Worth, Texas, four times each year. The goal of the group is to receive information from dealers and to set new policies to promote good business.

"We'd like to thank the people of Garrett County and the surrounding area for all their support of our business," Allen Friend said. "Penny and I are looking forward to many more years."

Clean-Up Day Slated At Park

The Maryland Department of Natural Resources, Forest and Park Service, announces the Annual Clean-Up Day will be held at New Germany State Park on Saturday, April 16, commencing at noon.

This activity is being sponsored by the Friends of New Germany, a group of volunteers who assist New Germany Park personnel in various ways throughout the year. Scout troops are encouraged to participate.

"This is an excellent opportunity for students to satisfy their student service requirement," stated a Park Service spokesman.

Maintenance personnel from the Park will be available to provide assistance and equipment. For additional information, persons may contact Bill Martin, volunteer coordinator at 301-895-5453.

Tandy Corp. Recognizes Local High Achievers

The Tandy Corporation recently conducted its annual Tandy Technology Scholars awards presentation, and six students in the county's high schools received certificates of recognition for their academic achievements.

Those honored for outstanding math, science, and computer science were Christopher M. Wright, Accident, Northern High; and Rachna Magoon, Oakland, Southern High.

Students recognized for being in the top 2% academically were Northern's Jennifer E. Theriot, Accident, and Southern's Jason A. Barr, Jeffrey M. Cook, and Richa Magoon, all of Oakland.

This is the fifth year for the Tandy awards program, which is administered by Texas Christian University. The program recognizes academic excellence of teachers as well as students, with 100 teachers receiving $2,500 each, and 100 top students receiving cash scholarships of $1,000 each. A total of 34,000 individuals have been presented with certificates of recognition.

More than one-third of all high schools participated in the 1993-94 program, according to a spokesperson. It is open to students and teachers in accredited high schools throughout the United States.

Special Revival Service Set At Shady Dell Chapel

Evangelist Robert E. Teel will be ministering in a revival service Saturday, April 16, at Shady Dell Chapel, Oakland.

Born in Ada, Okla., and reared in southern California, Teel was a national ring champion gymnast, earning a total of 150 first place trophies and medals. At the height of his gymnastics career, he began to abuse drugs and alcohol, banishing all hopes of Olympic competition.

Teel will give his testimony on how he was delivered from a five-year drug and alcohol addiction, and tell how he has invested his time and efforts since then, proclaiming the gospel through his ministry.

The service will begin at 7 p.m., and the public is invited to attend this special service.

They are Heather Davis, second grade, and James Mou, third grade. Both won the school-wide competition, and James went on to win at the county level and will now compete in the state contest. Both students wrote on the theme "Drug-Free Schools - You Make It Happen!" The contest is sponsored by the state.

Stress, Time Management Seminar Set

A Stress and Time Management Seminar for managers, supervisors, and secretaries has been scheduled at Garrett Community College for Wednesday, April 27, from 8:30 a.m. to 3:30 p.m., according to Tammy Manthos, director of the Office Technology program.

Key topics of the seminar will be: recognizing and dealing with positive and negative stress, using relaxation techniques, dealing with demands of multiple bosses, balancing priorities, and handling last minute "crisis." Planned in conjunction with Professional Secretaries Week, the seminar is designed to help a person discover ways "to work smarter, not harder and to accomplish more every single day," Manthos said.

Following the morning program which will begin at 8:45 and conclude at 11:45 a.m., a luncheon will be served. During the luncheon, Rebecca Knox McKenzie, image consultant for Beauti Control Image Cosmetics, will present an image make-over demonstration.

The afternoon session will consist of a series of "hands on" activities led by Sandy Major, Lynne Glotfelty, Ann White, Ruth Pinter, and Tammy Manthos, all of whom have experience in teaching stress and time management.

Reservations for the seminar must by made by April 20 by calling Manthos at 387-3015 or the Small Business Development Center at 387-3089 or 387-3080. The fee for the seminar will be $10.

Power Seminar On ADA Slated For Employers

The Small Business Development Center at Garrett Community College will be sponsoring a Power Seminar on "The Americans with Disabilities Act" on April 29 from 7 a.m. to 9:30 a.m. The seminar is designed to provide the opportunity for employers to: understand ADA issues; determine appropriate ADA policies; and define practices to prevent discrimination and potential lawsuits.

"In July the Americans with Disabilities Act of 1990 will begin to impact employers with 15 or more employees. Depending on how they address the requirements of this important Act, employers could find themselves faced with significant opportunities to tap into a tremendous resource, or with serious legal problems. Employers can not afford to ignore either the opportunities or the problems that are associated with the ADA," stated Sandy Major, coordinator of the Small Business Development Center at GCC. "Employers need to protect themselves against possible lawsuits and employees need to be given direction on acceptable workplace practices. At the same time local business owners and managers need to recognize the special opportunities inherent in this legislation."

This seminar will be presented by John Major, who has over 20 years of experience in corporate administrative and/or operational positions in human resources management. He has also had consulting experience with small businesses and has specialized expertise in labor relations and compliance issues. In his current position he manages the labor relations, human resources, benefits, training, real estate and total quality management areas of the Dravo Corporation.

Major recognizes that small business owners and managers have limited time and resources to assure that they are protecting their companies and their employees. He has designed this seminar as a short interactive program to provide companies with the information critical to addressing ADA issues.

"For millions of Americans, the American Dream -- a good job, a family, good income and watching their children grow up -- has been just that -- a dream. Far too many of the 43 million Americans with disabilities have found doors that would not open and opportunities that they could not realize. Among this segment of our population, unemployment or underemployment runs close to 70%, 10 times that of the general population. When Congress passed the Americans with Disabilities Act, it was the intent to provide clear, strong, consistent, enforceable standards that address this discrimination," Major said.

"Under the ADA, it is now unlawful to discriminate against an otherwise qualified individual because of a physical or mental disability," stated Major. "It is up to the employer to ensure that the company is not discriminating against applicants who are qualified, but have a disability that could be overcome with reasonable accommodation. During the Power Seminar we'll be exploring ways to offer opportunities for businesses and disabled employees and protect against legal problems."

This breakfast seminar is one of a series of GCC Power Seminars designed to increase the awareness of the managers and owners of local businesses about vital and timely business topics. "The session will also include the opportunity for participants to network over breakfast," Mrs. Major said. Those wishing to register or acquire additional information should call The Small Business Development Center at 387-3080 immediately.

The seminar is being co-sponsored by the Garrett Community College Small Business Development Center and the Western Maryland Small Business Development Center. Both are programs of the Maryland Department of Economic and Employment Development and U.S. Small Business Administration. Special provisions of the handicapped will be available if requested in advance.

BANK SPONSORS EDUCATIONAL PROGRAM - "How to do Your Banking" is the name of a program sponsored by American Trust Bank designed to benefit local high school students. Teachers and principals from Northern and Southern high schools met recently with Wayne R. Johnson, coordinator of the program for American Trust. The bank provides booklets and videos to juniors and seniors to help make them more aware of banking and financial skills they will need in the near future. Topics include: financial planning, budgets, checking accounts, savings accounts, interest rates, electronic banking, loan applications and processing, and the importance of establishing and maintaining good credit. The teachers will present the information and bank staff will meet at least once with each class. "Executive management at American Trust Bank believes it is most important that young adults have the opportunity to practice money management in the classroom," Johnson said, noting that the local program will assist over 1,200 students in the bank's market area. Pictured left to right above, front row, are: Lisa Bender, Vera Graham, and Glenda Newcomb, all Southern High School teachers; and in the back row, same order, are: Art Refosco, principal; Johnson; and teacher Harry Biggs.

Former Girl Scouts Sought

The Deep Creek Service Unit, Girl Scouts of America, is seeking former Girl Scouts to participate in a special program slated for this Sunday, April 10, at Northern High School.

"The History of Girl Scouting" is the theme of the event, at which present scouts from the Friendsville, Accident, McHenry, and Grantsville areas are hoping to meet former scouts who will be asked to share memories and memorabilia from their years of active scouting.

The program, which will get underway at 2 p.m., will include a Girl Scout flag ceremony, a song fest, a fashion show of old uniforms, and a memorabilia table.

"Our girls need to have good role models," stated Pat Williamson, coordinator of the event, "and this is one way for former scouts who have become successful adults to serve as a role model."

Persons desiring more information about the event may contact Ms. Williamson at 746-8790 (home) or 746-8485 (work).

Money Magazine Acknowledges Error In Tax Rankings

Maryland State Comptroller Louis L. Goldstein said Money magazine's May issue will include an acknowledgement that it overstated Maryland's tax burden as part of its ranking of the states in January. The comptroller also said he has written the magazine's managing editor to protest the more than two months the publication took to provide information necessary to verify the calculations.

Goldstein said the Money calculations overstated the Maryland taxes on its sample two-income family of four by $214. "The magazine included sales tax on residential electricity and natural gas as well as the family telephone bill, neither of which is taxable in Maryland," he said. "In addition, the calculation did not take advantage of the state's two-income deduction. This is the second year Money has made that error."

Aside from those errors, Goldstein said that Money unfairly includes the local income tax imposed by the 23 counties and Baltimore City as part of its tax calculation. "Those tax rates are set by local governments and the revenue is returned to them," he said. "To include that money as part of state taxes for Maryland but not for states where the local taxes are collected by local governments not only presents an unfair picture but also penalizes Maryland for its efficient collection method." The Maryland State Comptroller's office collects the local income tax as a convenience to local governments, avoiding the necessity of a separate bureaucracy in each subdivision.

Instead-of ranking 48th as Money reported in its January issue, Maryland should rank 23rd, if the overstated taxes and the local income taxes are subtracted to make the comparison with other states more valid. Money assigns its rankings from lowest to highest tax burdens for its sample family.

"A more accurate picture of state tax burdens is made by the Advisory Commission on Intergovernmental Relations, which incorporates all sources of state and local taxes instead of just a select group," Goldstein said. Figuring the tax burden as a percent of personal income, the most recent ACIR data shows Maryland's state and local taxes to be 10.4% of personal income, the 11th lowest among the states. This approach was used in a February Business Week story on state taxes.

"I believe it is in the best interest of both Money and its readers for Money to be more forthright in providing details about the information it gives its readers," Goldstein wrote to the magazine's editors.

NUTRITIOUS MEALS that are low in calories, fat, and cholesterol were the focus of a recent four-week course presented to the community as part of the Wellness Together program of Garrett County Memorial Hospital and the Garrett County Health Department. Held at the Cooperative Extension Office in downtown Oakland, the course was offered as part of the National Nutrition and Heart Month and provided the opportunity for participants to learn about and sample low-fat foods. Pictured enjoying nutritious, low-fat foods during one of the sessions are Doris Gaskill and Millie Rodeheaver. According to co-facilitators, Debora Nichols, Wellness coordinator for GCMH, and Ann Sherrard, director of Nutrition and Community Outreach for GCHD, the message of this course and National Nutrition Month is "eating healthy foods doesn't have to be boring. It's possible to enjoy a variety of low-fat foods that are delicious."

Building Quality Customer Service Classes Scheduled

"Quality customer service that brings customers back can only be delivered when both front line service employees and managers possess skills in customer service," stated Sandy Major, coordinator of Training for Business at Garrett Community College. Two customer service classes are being offered this semester to help both managers and service employees strengthen these skills.

The first class, "Service Excellence," is designed to equip front line service employees and managers with the skills and knowledge they need to deliver customer centered services. "Hands-on" learning activities will be included in the areas of: building and keeping customer goodwill; making all customer contacts positive; using actions that build trust; improving communication skills; and dealing calmly with difficult situations. This class will meet on two Monday evenings, April 18 and 25, from 6:15 to 9:30 p.m. at the McHenry Campus of GCC.

The second class, "Attitude Adjustment Hour," is designed to help managers build a business that values customers and empowers front line service employees in delivering top quality service. This power seminar will be held May 17 from 6:30 to 9 p.m.

Persons may call Ann White or Sandy Major at 387-3080 to obtain registration information for these classes.

YEAR'S FIRST HABITAT WORK CAMP TAKES PLACE - Three Loyola College professors and 10 students came to Garrett County on March 24, spending their spring break working for Habitat for Humanity. While in the county, the group built a ramp for a four-year-old, put a roof on a trailer, and replaced a kitchen floor. They also fixed water lines for a local man and hung two exterior doors for another, and ceiling tiles were replaced and drywall finished in yet another home. The group was housed at St. Paul's United Methodist Church and was fed by St. Mark's Lutheran Church. Southern High School, Garrett Community College, and Will 'O the Wisp all provided shower facilities. Local organizers commended the students and instructors for giving generously of themselves for the benefit of the county. Any person who is a low-income homeowner and is unable to make repairs such as these may call Barbara Briggs at 334-9431, extension 113, to receive an application.

DNR Advises Residents On How To Save Storm- And Ice-Damaged Trees

The Maryland Department of Natural Resources (DNR) anticipates that the recovery from this winter's ice storms may take many months and perhaps years. State, county and local maintenance crews have been working along roadways and public areas to remove downed trees and hazard trees, and to repair the damage of broken limbs, on a priority basis. But the DNR says there is still much cleanup to be done.

"The trees were no match for the weight of the ice and the strength of the winds from those storms," said DNR Secretary Torrey C. Brown, M.D. "There has been considerable damage to the trees, especially in Southern Maryland and on the Eastern Shore."

Many trees were blown down or had their canopies sheared off by the winds and weight of the ice. Major branches were split or broken off, leaving jagged-edged breaks and torn, peeled areas of bark. These types of open wounds rarely are able to heal by themselves, Brown said, and leave the trees susceptible to invasion by insects and disease, and ultimately cause many more trees to die.

The downed trees and branches also posed significant problems for people, such as knocking out power lines and telephone service and damaging homes and other structures. They are creating a fire hazard and some of them are still blocking portions or even entire roadways and fire lanes. Cracked, hanging branches and leaning trees pose a hazard to whatever is below them.

In Southern Maryland, Calvert County was the worst hit and DNR Forest Service personnel have determined that about 75 square miles (34 percent of the county) suffered severe damage and about 50 square miles (23 percent) received moderate damage.

On the Eastern Shore, approximately 20 percent of the forested land in both Caroline and Talbot counties suffered severe storm damage. An additional 12 percent in Caroline and 15 percent in Talbot were moderately damaged. Forest land comprises about half of both of those counties.

While state and local crews work on the public areas, many private landowners are experiencing similar problems on their own land. Although there are some steps individuals may want to take on their own, DNR Urban Forester Lisa Spelker recommends private citizens seek the services of a licensed tree expert for all tree work.

"Properly pruning broken or cracked branches is vital to the continued health of the tree," Spelker said. "An expert can help ensure the pruning is done right."

Professionals recommend a three-cut pruning method. A first cut on the underside of the branch reduces resistance. A second cut on the top side of the branch slightly outward of the first cut, removes the branch. A final cut just outside the branch collar removes the resultant stub. "Never top a tree," Spelker added. Topping is cutting the major branches and primary vertical trunk, leaving only stubs.

"When limbs are too big for a hand pruning saw or too high to reach with a pole saw, it's time to call in a tree expert," Spelker said. "I don't recommend that landowners do that kind of work themselves." She added that a tree expert can also help a tree regain strength.

When choosing a tree expert, landowners should always check with the local DNR Forest Service office to ensure they are properly licensed and insured. The Maryland Tree Expert Licensing law ensures that persons and companies involved in tree care are appropriately trained and possess adequate liability insurance. This law is designed to protect the tree care worker as well as the consumer. All licensed experts must pass a tree care practices examination and show proof of coverage.

Local DNR Forest Service offices can provide a list of licensed tree experts in the local area. For more information, persons may contact the local DNR Forest Service or the Forest Service's main office in Annapolis at (410) 974-3776.

Seedlings From Wye Oak Gone, Others Available

Maryland Department of Natural Resources (DNR) Secretary Torrey C. Brown, M.D., announced this week that Wye Oak seedlings have been sold out for the spring planting season, but about 20 other tree species are still available, including oaks, walnuts, dogwoods, pines and spruces.

"Seedling sales of the offspring of our state tree, the Wye Oak, have reached nearly 8,000," Dr. Brown said. "We are pleased with the success of this program to continue the support of our forest and tree resources in Maryland."

DNR's Buckingham Forest Tree Nursery in Harmans took 1992's bumper crop of 14,000 Wye Oak acorns and planted them at the northern Anne Arundel County location. That bumper crop produced 12,000 seedlings.

Forestry officials became concerned with the health of the 450-year-old tree. A healthy crop of acorns from the Wye had not been produced for three years. When a species is dying, it seems to make an extra effort to produce more seeds in order to assure its continuation, and 1992's bumper crop had all the earmarks of that type of extra effort.

Buckingham has offered Wye Oak seedlings since the 1930's, but interest in the Wye increased when the public learned of its possibly threatened existence. With the assistance of local as well as international media interest, seedlings were offered for sale at $25 each, with volume discounts. Each seedling sale included a print of the state tree and national champion white oak, a letter of authenticity, history of the tree which has its own state park, and planting instructions. Inquiries about the seedlings came from every state in the union as well as from around the world.

"The seedlings we distributed, not only in Maryland, but across the country, will continue the tradition of this fine representative of our state, the Wye Oak," Dr. Brown said.

In less than three months, nearly 8,000 seedlings were sold and distributed. This winter's severe weather damaged the remaining 4,000 seedlings, and so there will be no additional sales for this year's plantings. Surviving seedlings will be offered for sale and planting next year.

GCMH SMOKE-FREE -- Garrett County Memorial Hospital enacted a smoke-free policy beginning April 1. The previous policy allowed patients to continue using tobacco products during their stay with the authorization of their physician. Ben Rosenthal, president of GCMH, said that the establishment of a total smoke-free environment "will guarantee the elimination of environmental tobacco smoke and its hazards for the staff, patients, and visitors to the hospital." Rosenthal, pictured left, accepted a certificate of appreciation for the new policy from Dr. Rex Archer, health officer for Garrett County. Dr. Archer presented the certificate on behalf of the Garrett County Tobacco-Free Coalition.

DNR's Forest Service has begun a waiting list for those citizens interested in acquiring this scion of Maryland history.

About 20 of the 35 species of trees handled by the Buckingham Nursery are still available for planting this season. Interested persons are encouraged to act quickly to take advantage of the best planting times. To order tree seedlings or to be placed on the Wye Oak waiting list, citizens should contact the Buckingham State Nursery in Harmans at (410) 859-7730 or call 1-800-FREESMD and leave your name and telephone number.

In Loving Memory of
who passed away 4 years ago April 8, 1990

God looked around his garden and saw an empty space.
Looking down from Heaven, He said you were to fill the place.
Gently He whispered, "Come to rest."
Beautiful must be the garden for you were one of the best.
As the years slowly pass, our thoughts of you never depart.
And though we know only God's works last,
Our memories of you remain forever in our hearts.

HEAD START SEEKS ENROLLEES

The local Head Start Program is currently recruiting three and four-year old children for enrollment in September.

Head Start is a pre-school child development program for children from families who fall within federal income eligibility-guide-lines. Head Start has six major components: education, health, nutrition, parent involvement, social services and services for disabled individuals.

Children with disabilities participate with other enrolled students and receive all the same services, plus services for their individual special needs.

Parents are the most important influence on a child's development and an essential part of every Head Start project is the involvement of parents in all aspects of the program.

Centers are located in Friendsville, Crellin, Oakland, Jennings, Accident, Kitzmiller and Dennett Road. We also offer a home-based program.

Applications are being accepted now for the fall term. If you are interested, now is the time to apply. You will find applications at any center, or at the Community Action Building, 104 E Center Street, Oakland, Maryland.

Parents are requested to bring verification of family income, parents social security numbers, and their child's birth certificates when applying.

For more information, contact the Head Start Office at 334-9431, Extension 126. We will be pleased to receive your call.

U.S. Marine Lance Cpl. Daniel R. Sisler, son of Richard D. and Shirley L. Sisler, Route 1, Friendsville, recently received a Certificate of Commendation.

Sisler was cited for superior performance of duty while assigned with Marine Corps Security Force Battalion, Atlantic, Norfolk, Va.

"He consistently performed his demanding duties in an exemplary and highly professional manager," stated the citation.

Sisler joined the Marine Corps in January 1992.

U.S. Marine Pfc. David E. Greer, son of David E. Greer of Grantsville, and Helen F. Arrants, Elkton, recently completed the basic Engineer Equipment Mechanic Course.

During the course at Marine Corps Engineer School, Marine Corps Base, Camp Lejeune, N.C., students studied the inspection, maintenance and repair of engineering and earth moving equipment used by the Marine Corps. He also received instruction on gasoline and diesel engine troubleshooting, hydraulic, clutch and brake systems and related repair shop safety measures.

Greer joined the Marine Corps in July 1993.

Senators Help Kick Off New National Service

U.S. Senators Barbara A. Mikulski (D-MD) and Paul S. Sarbanes (D-MD) have helped launch the National Civilian Community Corps (NCCC) by announcing the first of four national training sites, which will be located at Aberdeen Proving Ground (APG) in Harford County.

"I'm proud to announce that Harford County's Aberdeen Proving Ground will be the site of the first NCCC training site in the country," said Mikulski, who chairs the subcommittee that partially funds NCCC. "What more appropriate name for this campus than 'the proving ground?' Aberdeen Proving Ground has a rich history of contributing to our national defense. And now it's going to be the testing ground for volunteerism in America."

Senator Mikulski helped author the 1990 law that established a national service demonstration model.

NCCC, a part of AmeriCorps, President Clinton's national service program, is an 11-month program that will train volunteers in four main areas: the environment, education, human needs, and public safety -- focussing on the environment. In return they will earn room and board for the time of their service and an education award of $4,725 for college, graduate school, or training programs.

In June, 250 young people between the ages of 18 and 24 will spend six weeks training to serve communities. They will learn leadership skills, how to be good citizens and how to be strong physically and mentally. APG will serve as a training site for volunteers from 13 states -- Virginia to Maine -- plus the Virgin Islands, Puerto Rico, and District of Columbia.

Once their training is complete, they'll spend the rest of the 11 months working to meet crucial community needs. They'll help communities clean up after earthquakes, floods, hurricanes and other natural disasters. They'll clean up inner city neighborhoods and parks. They'll help youth at Head Start centers. They'll help make communities safer places by running seminars on personal and neighborhood safety.

"By the end of summer, you might find an NCCC volunteer participating in a Harford County stream clean up effort, or tutoring your kids at school," Senator Mikulski said. "I'm proud that years from now, when these first volunteers have practiced a lifetime of the habits of the heart that they learned as a member of the NCCC, they'll tell their children and their grandchildren that they got their start in Maryland at Aberdeen Proving Ground."

Seventy-percent of their service will be performed within 90 minutes of Aberdeen Proving Ground. The remaining three NCCC training sites have yet to be named.

SELLER'S STRATEGIES – Attract potential buyers by making sure your house looks inviting from the curb.

Make Your Home Appealing To Buyers

By Priscilla Lister
Copley News Service

If you're planning to sell your home, naturally you want the most you can get for it.

There are several improvements you can make to assure that you get top dollar, but beware that you don't spend more than you can expect to recoup.

And it's the savvy seller who uses a real estate professional to help get that top dollar.

Nearly 80 percent of those who responded to a 1991 survey by the National Association of Realtors sold their homes through a real estate professional. The majority of those who decided to sell it on their own cited such problems as inability to sell in the length of time desired, inability to sell for the top price and difficulty in understanding and processing the paperwork.

Real estate professionals, while they will cost you money in commission upon sale of your home, can help market your home properly through advertising, advise you on profitable improvements and can help you negotiate with a potential buyer for the best deal for both parties.

He also can help you set a fair market price by comparing other properties in your neighborhood and can screen potential buyers so you only deal with serious clients.

Don't underestimate the time it takes to sell your home. The agent will handle all the phone inquiries, appointments, showings and negotiations of the contract. He can also can help you figure the net proceeds from your sale after all closing costs.

One more financial point. Home sellers who are 55 years and older can take a one-time tax exemption for up to $125,000 on the capital gain from the sale of a primary residence.

CONSIDERING OFFERS

While your first concern is the dollar amount of the offer, there are other considerations, advises Century 21, five considerations before accepting an offer:

•Price. Is it a reasonable offer?

•Terms. Do the buyers want financial help; who will pay points, transfer taxes, etc.?

•Financial strength. What is the buyer's buying power? What is the source of their down payment?

•Contingencies. Do the buyers have a home to sell first? Will they have an inspection of your home? What items do they want repaired?

•Moving timetable. When do they want to move in? Will they rent back to you until you are ready to move?

WHAT REMODELING RECOUPS

"Most homeowners wrongly assume that improvements will pay for themselves when the house is sold," say Warren Boroson and Ken Austin in "The Home Buyer's Inspection Guide" (Wiley & Sons).

In fact, few remodeling jobs return 100 percent of their costs.

Those that return the most are new or remodeled bathrooms, new or remodeled kitchens and family room additions," say Boroson and Austin.

Century 21 offers a list of fix-up dos and don'ts that also may help you sell your home efficiently:

•Do fix the little things, like doors that squeak, leaking faucets.

•Do clean, paint and shine.

•Do concentrate on kitchens and baths. If you need to update your home, you'll see the greatest return on renovations to a kitchen or bath.

•Don't outdo the neighbors. Homes that are over-improved rarely see a full return on the investment upon sale. Don't buy to have the biggest or best in the neighborhood.

•Don't stray from the norm. Pink counters or gold fixtures in the bath don't appeal to everyone.

•Don't overspend to increase your sales price. Today's buyers don't care what you recently spent to improve your home; what they want is a home that's competitively priced.

Keep good records of what you've spent on your home. The amount spent on certain improvements can be deducted from the capital gain you'll incur when you sell your house. Find out if your past projects will qualify.

DRESSING IT UP

Here's a checklist from the National Association of Realtors to help you prepare your home for sale:

•A fresh coat of paint may be the one improvement that creates the most positive first impression.

•Gutters sealed and downspout clean.

•Storm windows and screens cleaned.

•Painting inside walls can pay dividends far beyond time, effort and expense.

•Tend to the little things-oil squeaking doors, tighten loose knobs, take out removable stains, replace damaged floor tiles.

•All windows, doors and drawers should open and close easily.

•Cleaned windows and clear, uncluttered closets and basement contribute to a more attractive home.

•Make your kitchen and bathrooms spotless.

Tips for showing your home:

•Make home as light, airy and spacious as possible; draw back drapes; turn on extra lights.

Century 21 offers these few tips on boosting "curb appeal":

•Remove or trim overgrown shrubs, replace dead with new ones.

•Remove toys, lawn tools, pet equipment from yard.

Two good tips from "Getting the Most for Your Home, Second Edition" (Bob Adams Inc.) by Dan Lieberman and Paul Hoffman: "Don't reveal your personal problems to anyone," and "The follow-up phone call is almost as important as the ad itself."

Lieberman and Hoffman concentrate on how to get your house ready for sale and how to market it to maximize profit. They tell you how to price it, advertise it, show it, renovate it for profit, make it light, make its exterior special and discuss how to choose a real estate agent and how to negotiate the price.

Consider Choices When Buying New Abode

By Priscilla Lister
Copley News Service

Buying a home remains one of the most popular investments around.

It's still true that in many markets today, owning a home is cheaper than renting when you consider tax advantages, appreciation and even monthly out-of-pocket expenses. A house remains one of the few investments that increases in value over a number of years, making it an inflation hedge.

Home ownership is an especially attractive security upon retirement because you can actually pay off the mortgage and own your home free and clear in 15 to 30 years, when you will probably have less income.

The only way you can figure the advantages of home ownership for you are to take a pencil to paper and determine the costs, compare them with renting and what you could invest in other vehicles, including stocks and bonds. Try to calculate your returns in 15 to 30 years.

How much home can you afford? Most lenders require 10 percent to 20 percent down payment on a purchase price; FHA and VA loans may require only 5 percent down. Most mortgage lenders try to limit the amount anyone can borrow to about 25 percent of the borrower's income, figured on a monthly outlay basis. Lenders also look at the borrower's total long-term debt, which includes car loans and other financial responsibilities, typically limiting it to about 36 percent of the borrower's income.

The National Association of Realtors offers a worksheet to determine a buyer's estimated costs. Calculate your ownership potential by listing a potential home's purchase price, down payment and balance owed; gross monthly costs including principal and interest, real estate taxes, and fire or homeowner's insurance premium; monthly tax deductions including mortgage interest, real estate taxes; and the net monthly cost calculating your monthly cash outlay against your monthly tax savings.

EMPLOY A PROFESSIONAL

It usually makes sense to use a professional real estate agent licensed by your state or province when buying a home. A Realtor designation in the United States means the agent has also become a member of the National Association of Realtors and so has taken additional steps and has agreed to adhere to a strict code of ethics.

A professional agent can help you figure out how much home you can afford, can supply information on local real estate values, taxes, utility costs, municipal services and facilities, and can hone in on the house of your dreams by searching a multiple listing directory that covers what's on the market where and for how much.

That directory-usually available only to professionals--can also reveal what properties in the surrounding neighborhood have sold for recently, which can help you negotiate your purchase price.

Speaking of negotiation, while it's rare that a counteroffer is below 10 percent less than the original asking price, an agent can help you determine how low you should go so that you can come to ultimate agreement with the seller while making your best deal.

INSPECTING A HOUSE

"New home or not so new, it pays to know what to look for in its structure, equipment and surroundings," says the National Association of Realtors. While you will likely have a bona-fide housing inspector make the final assessment, the NAR offers a buyer's checklist to help you make a wise decision.

•Foundation. No evidence of water seepage or moisture problems. Minor settling cracks usually not significant.

•Drainage Sump pump for sanitary and foundation draining. Crawl space dry.

•Termite and wood rot may require qualified inspection.

•Condition of flooring. Solid construction of bridging and joists.

•Condition of walls, whether drywall or plaster. Absence of watermarks.

•Attic. Sufficiently insulated and ventilated.

•Fireplace. Damper in working order, flues to chimney clear.

•Heating. Consider type of heat used and maintenance required.

•Hot water system. Check type and gallon capacity and age of present unit.

•Electrical. Number of circuits, outlets, fuses or circuit breakers sufficient? Check condition of wiring.

•Lot and landscaping properly contoured, in good condition.

•Exterior walls. Type suitable to weather. Consider maintenance needs.

•Doors and windows. Easy to open and close.

•Roof. Gutters and downspouts in good condition.

LOCATION, LOCATION, LOCATION

You've heard the old adage about those three most important considerations when buying a house. Not only can location make a difference when it comes time for you to sell your home, but it can make a difference while you're living there.

"Buying the house instead of the community is the biggest mistake people make," says Chris Siepert, manager of corporate services in Fairfield, N.J., as part of Coldwell Banker Realtors. He's quoted in "The Home Buyer's Inspection Guide" (John Wiley & Sons) by Warren Boroson and Ken Austin.

But buying a house in too rich a neighborhood for you can also be a big mistake, say Boroson and Austin.

"Buying a house in Upper Crust can be a mistake if you can't afford it or if the lifestyle isn't your lifestyle," they say. "If you go unshaven on weekends or don't believe in dressing to the nines on your days off, Top Shelf may not be your cup of beer."

It's also a mistake to buy a house that's too good for its own neighborhood.

And if you think you're buying a fixer-upper with plans to remodel it extensively, beware that you haven't upgraded the house beyond its neighbors; you may not only fail to recoup the investment, but you could actually lose money.

Boroson and Austin offer some "red flags" when considering the neighborhood:

•The house is far better than the street it's on.

•You might be able to afford the house but not the litestyle.

•The house and community are fine but not quite right for you and your family.

•You want top-notch schools, and the reputation of the local system is mixed.

SHOPPING FOR A MORTGAGE

Should you get an adjustable rate mortgage (ARM) or a fixed rate mortgage, for 15 years or 30 years?

Interest on ARM's is usually tied to a specified market rate, often Treasury bills or a money market index in your state. Consider how many percentage points a year it can rise (what is the rate's history?) and the cap, or the maximum number of points the ARM can rise over the life of the loan.

"Choose an ARM under these circumstances," advises financial columnist Jane Bryant Quinn.

"(1) You're a first-time buyer or want to move up to a much more expensive home. (The lower your payments, the more house you can afford.) (2) The first-year ARM rate is more than 2 percentage points below that of a fixed-rate loan. (3) You'll be in the house only four to five years. (4) You're willing to bet that ARM's will be cheaper in the long run and you'll be able to afford higher payments in the years to come."

Choose a fixed-rate loan if you don't like uncertainty and you want "a predictable house payment," advises Quinn.

"Choose a 15-year mortgage if you're middle-aged and want your house paid up by the time you retire," she says.

While the payments on a 15-year loan are higher than on a 30-year loan, since the term is halved, your interest costs over the life of the loan are substantially lower.

DO DOUBLE-DUTY

It's a sign of the times that rooms in today's houses pull double duty, and so, too, does the furniture in them. Daybeds are perhaps the most classic example -- they function as a sofa by day, a bed by night.

Consider, as additional examples:

•A drop-leaf table used daily as a work surface or game table can double as a formal dining table when the need arises.

•Cedar chests or antique travel trunks provide storage while doubling as a seating bench or coffee table.

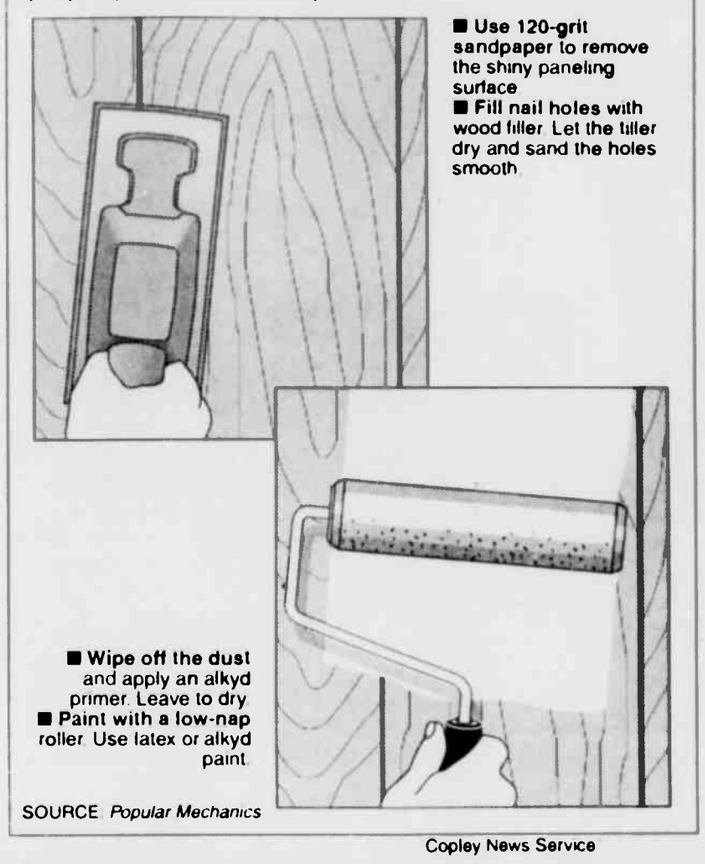
SIMPLIFY SHOPPING



To help simplify any shopping spree, take along a floor plan showing the placement and size of windows, doorways and any special architectural features. Make sure to measure the width of hallways, as well, to ensure that any purchases made will fit into the home.

Also take along paint chips, swatches of fabrics and carpet samples with which your new purchases must coordinate.

Painting over paneling

Have a roomful of dark or old paneling? It is possible to paint over paneling successfully, but proper preparation is important.

Copley News Service

Don't forget to wipe down canisters when cleaning off counter tops.

• In general. Make a clutter run just before you begin, picking up odds and ends around the house so you don't have to work around them when cleaning. Start with the windows, dusting the sills and tracks before creating a muddy mess. Always finish with the carpets. Don't forget to wash all the light fixtures and spot clean picture frames, switch plates, door knobs and knickknacks.

SAFETY FIRST

As much as we hate it, we usually don't consider cleaning as a hazard to our health. The bad news is it can be. Keep safety in mind as you work and reduce the risk of accidents.

Don't stand on chairs, benches or boxes to reach high places. Keep a sturdy stepladder nearby, and wear rubber-soled shoes to increase traction on wet surfaces. Don't try to lift or move furniture or equipment that is too heavy.

Finally, be aware of the often-toxic chemicals in cleaning solutions. Many of them are not meant to be used together. Read labels carefully and heed their warnings.

Comfort And Quality Are Keys To Home Furnishing

By Sharon Achatz
Copley News Service

Before you head out on a furniture shopping spree for your home, be forewarned: It's going to be anything but comfortable.

Due to design innovations the furnishings themselves are likely to be more comfortable then ever before, but the variety of styles and silhouettes in vogue is going to make making a selection anything but easy.

Wicker and rattan are winners, as are Colonial reborn and roughhewn Western wooden beds and chairs.

You'll find plenty of English country looks, as well as Far Eastern and classic designs.

In short, anything goes in the world of home furnishings. There are, however, a few general trends that can help a consumer tailor his choices.

STAY AWAY FROM SUITES

Trend No. 1: Stay away from suites -- that is, groupings of tables, sofas and chairs that match. From bedrooms to dining room collections, mixing, but not necessarily matching, is being touted as a more inventive way to go.

The trend is toward eclecticism -- developing a room over a period of time by investing in individual quality pieces.

BUY QUALITY

Plan to buy the best furnishings you can afford. Consumers today, for the most part, are looking for something classic-timeless designs of high quality that will endure structurally and aesthetically for years, even generations.

Even if an entire room of high-quality furnishings isn't within your budget, it's essential to the success of eclecticism to have a couple of high-quality pieces. Use them as an anchor around which to build a mix of furnishings and accessories of personal preference that fit the times -- whether a colorful overstuffed sofa, ethnic artifact or funky furniture as art.

Some guides to selecting high-quality furniture: Make sure the piece feels sturdy, that it doesn't wobble or creak. It should not feel light for its size. Check all drawer glides and stops. Test the comfort of chairs, benches and sofas by sitting on them. Squeeze the arms and back: The less frame you feel, the better. Push down on areas with interior springs: They should be bouncy and close together.

CONSIDER ANTIQUES

Antiques and antique reproductions are classics that never go out of style and that fit in with practically any decor.

Before buying a piece of history, however, consider its age and condition. A true antique should be at least 100 years old; the most valuable are signed, dated or otherwise documented as to their age. A piece's value also depends on its condition-naturally, near-mint is more valuable than something that's falling apart.

For some people, antique reproductions make for a better buy. Not only are they less expensive than true antiques, but reproductions are sturdier.

Some artful antiques to consider include styles such as Chippendale, Colonial, Queen Anne and Shaker, furniture pieces such as camelback sofas, ladder-back chairs, wing chairs and chaise lounges; rattan and wicker furnishings that can be topped with a variety of fabric cushions for innumerable new looks.

CHOOSE COMFORT

Comfort is another indispensable idea for today's furniture industry. As evidence, just take a look at the abundance of available recliners, rockers, gliders and ottomans -- as well as beds that mechanically adjust to practically any posture its user finds comfortable.

Slouchy couches and ample cushions also are in vogue, as are sensuous, rich upholstery fabrics that practically call out for

Spring Cleaning Gives Fresh Start To Season

By Jennifer Plantier
Copley News Service

One of the most difficult things about that yearly spring cleaning is actually getting motivated to do it. If the singing of the birds and the buzzing of the bees do everything but inspire you to clean up, you're not alone. But try to get some satisfaction from the fact that once it's done, you'll feel great. At least until it's time to do it again.

So turn up the music, gather the cleaning supplies and get to it. Call on the rest of the family if they're old enough to do the job right. It could take hours off the task if several people pitch in. Others prefer to kick everyone out of the house and out of the way until they finish.

Either way, make sure to plan a reward for yourself and any helpers. The prospect of a relaxing dinner out, a good movie or some new clothes may dull a little of the pain along the way.

WHAT TO DO

No two homes are alike as far as what needs to be done come springtime. Walk from room to room and make a list of chores that could stand to be performed, and then prioritize them. Remember to include the many tasks that rarely get handled on a regular basis. Consider the following things when compiling your own list.

• Carpets, drapes and upholstery should be cleaned once a year. If they're not quite due yet, at least remove the cushions and vacuum out the dust and crumbs that have accumulated underneath.

• Baseboards, walls and - ugh - windows tend to get neglected, so make sure you get them in your yearly once-over. Carry a bucket of soap and water from room to room and wipe down walls and baseboards from the bottom up.

Washing windows and screens is time-consuming, so don't feel guilty about hiring a professional if you have many windows in your house. It will free up time for lots of other chores.

• Think about tackling the dirt you can't see-under and on top of appliances and cabinets.

• Garages and basements have probably been ignored over the winter. Sweep out the dust and do a little bit of organizing.

• Once the cleaning is done, spend some time eliminating clutter in closets and cabinets. If you haven't used an item in the last year, you probably don't need it anymore. Many charities require only a phone call to pick up usable items such as clothing, furniture, housewares and appliances.

Your eyesight and a white glove can tell you more about what your particular home needs.

PLAN YOUR ATTACK

Once you have your tools (mops, brooms), cleaning solutions, helpers and a list, all you need is a plan. It's a good idea to start with high-traffic areas first, then move to lesser-used rooms. Finish up in the kitchen, as it will serve as a base while you clean the rest of the house.

Following are some strategies to consider as you move from room to room.

• Bathrooms. Apply cleaners to tub, shower, toilets and tile as soon as you enter the room. They can get to work removing the grime while you do easier tasks such as sorting out the medicine cabinet and cupboards under the sink.

Throw the shower curtain in the washer (it probably needs it by now). Spiffy the mirrors and light fixtures before finally wiping and rinsing out the tub, shower and toilet.

• Kitchen. As much as you hate it, now is the time to clean the oven and stove top. If your oven if self--cleaning, then you have something to be thankful for. The refrigerator is another thankless job. Wipe it out, reorganize a little and you'll know you've accomplished something.

COOK'S CORNER – Central islands remain a popular feature in many remodeled kitchens.

Kitchens Today Mean More Than Work

By Priscilla Lister
Copley News Service

Kitchen design has undergone a transformation in the last 25 years, says Ellen Cheever, ASID, vice president with Heritage Custom Kitchens Inc.

Where the kitchen was a walled off space designed only for work by a full-time homemaker, today "it is an open area that interacts with adjacent living/gathering/socializing areas," Cheever says in The ASID Report, the publication of the American Society of Interior Designers.

Contemporary kitchens also respond to today's nesting instincts, believes Regina Kurtz, ASID.

"We literally live in the kitchen," she says in The ASID Report." People are looking for warm, inviting, livable-looking spaces that provide convenience and function."

Interviews with designers across the United States might suggest some ideas you can use to make your kitchen a warmer, more inviting room.

NEW IDEAS

"We see predominantly more wood flooring, which is warmer, quieter and more comfortable underfoot than tile, and gives the room a feeling of being like every other room in the house-a place where you can be with family and friends and entertain as well as work," says Carolin Schebish, ASID, of Design Exchange in Fairfax, Va.

"We wouldn't necessarily recommend it for a family with young children, but for most people it's a workable solution. As an alternative, we'd go in a minute with sheet vinyl flooring for its practicality, ease of maintenance and comfort underfoot-and it's so much prettier now than even five or six years ago," Schebish said.

She chooses ceramic tile for back-splash areas, "because it's easy to clean and the patterns and colors available are absolutely gorgeous."

For counter tops, Schebish prefers solid surfaces, from granite to Corian, Shirelle or Gibraltar, for ease of maintenance and for the "luscious colors available" today.

"Islands are a very big thing," says Schebish. But you need enough room to allow passage, at least 36 to 42 inches of clearance around it, she added.

For cabinets, "there is a trend back to medium wood tones, again because we're all trying to warm up our homes and make them cozier," Schebish said. "There are still white kitchens out there, but many clients, especially on the East Coast, seem to want wood."

LIGHTING CHANGES

As for lighting, Schebish says "everyone still loves to have a window in the kitchen, particularly by eating areas or over sinks." But as for fixtures, awe walk a fine line on lighting for kitchens. It has to be strong enough to provide for safe use of the kitchen. "Yes, we know we should be using fluorescent lighting and we do use a lot of it in kitchens, because it's better for the environment as it uses less energy. However, it doesn't make food and people look as wonderful as incandescent," she said.

Schebish often chooses deluxe fluorescent tubes that attempt to duplicate the color of incandescent lighting, and often uses recessed down lighting on work surfaces.

The last two kitchens Rita Carson Guest, ASID, of Carson Guest Inc. in Atlanta, has designed have been anchored by white cabinets and black granite counter tops.

We're seeing bigger and bigger kitchens, large islands, and we're continuing to use appliance garages, which probably started about 10 years ago," Guest said. "They're a clean, nice way of handling all the appliances we have today."

Guest usually uses incandescent lighting in a combination of low voltage and regular fixtures.

"And we use parlamps over stoves-a type of incandescent light that projects down onto the work surface in a concentrated light so you get very well lit surfaces, which of course you need in a kitchen."

She also used a low-voltage track lighting fixture over an island recently.

"This is a very contemporary looking fixture that hangs down on a stem with tiny heads that contain MR16 lamps that can be adjusted to project light down onto the island top," said Guest. "It's a really nice, up-to-date contemporary look instead of hanging pots over the island."

For those white cabinets, Guest chooses painted lacquer on wood with Melamine inside for easy cleaning.

"And on the floor, we like a new product that Armstrong makes called Components. Components are basically 9-inch-square tiles that come in quite a few different colors that you can lay out in patterns or grids to make it interesting," said Guest. "And it's a soft floor, easy to stand on and to keep clean."

AMAZING STORAGE

"There are amazing things going on in storage units," offers Ruth Stanton, a design partner in Ross Thiele & Son in La Jolla, Calif. "For example, in little tiny corners where we used to have to find spots to build in places for cans, now they're making storage units that will fit right into little corners, even those 6 inches wide.

"And there are beautiful units that pull out from the wall, some even made to look architectural, like columns on either side of the cabinets that actually pull out and inside are just like pantries," said Stanton.

She also points to new cook tops available "where you can take the actual counter-top material you're using-say granite or tile-and into the center of that material you place the burners so the whole counter top looks the same."

She also likes the convertible burner units that can combine gas and electric features, such as gas burners and an electric barbecue or rotating skewer. Stanton said the glass stove-top units today have improved since they first came out and "are very contemporary, very sleek, in black or white."

"There are some marvelous new tiles on the market," said Stanton, "that give a wonderful kind of old French Provincial or Italian country look."

In her own condominium's kitchen, which has limited storage space, Stanton has placed a "beautiful old Welsh dresser on one wall where I put canned things, pasta, pretty herbed vinegar bottles, with cookbooks on the top shelf and a wine rack.

"It makes people want to come in and cook. It's a way you can create charm but still maintain storage space."

She also uses an old flour bin from England for her wastepaper basket which she found in an antique store.

"You can do a lot of things like that to add interest to a kitchen," Stanton said.

"And one thing I love to use, depending on the feeling of the room, is rugs on a kitchen floor. Whether ethnic, like Guatemalan rugs or Oriental runners, they work well because they don't show a lot of dirt. But m a contemporary kitchen, I might not be as apt to use something like that."

Stanton uses lighting experts for many of her jobs.

"Lighting is so interesting for the ambience you can create today. It's become so

HOME HOW-TO

Stopping air leaks

There are two commonly overlooked cracks in most houses that allow large amounts of external air seepage. Stopping these leaks will improve air conditioning or heating efficiency.

■ Fill the spaces between the basement wall sills and the floor joists. Similar type cracks may exist in the attic.
■ If large, fill the crack with plumber's oakum or twisted strands of fiberglass. Caulk shut, then fit batt insulation pieces to areas (left).

■ Lots of air can seep under doors. If there is any gap between door and threshold, you are losing money.
■ Install good weatherstripping that has multiple layers, usually vinyl, to ensure firm contact (right).

What It Takes To Tackle The Big Jobs

By Priscilla Lister
Copley News Service

"Mid pleasures and palaces though we may roam,
"Be it ever so humble, there's no place like home"

While John Howard Payne wrote those famous lines in 1823, today we also know there's no pocket drain like our home.

But because it's the single most important investment most of us ever make, our home requires constant maintenance if we're vigilant about its value.

But before you get out your checkbook to hire help with that maintenance, consider what a little learning can contribute to the bottom line.

One excellent source is the "Stanley Complete Step-by-Step Book of Home Repair and Improvement" (Simon & Schuster).

The book guides readers through such interior repair and improvement projects as insulating cold floors; eliminating squeaky floors; installing tile, carpeting or hardwood; repairing drywall or plaster, soundproofing walls or ceilings; installing a suspended ceiling; painting ceilings and walls as well as woodwork; stripping and hanging wall covering.

Other topics include installing moldings; refacing cabinets; organizing closets; weather-stripping windows; installing a wood stove or fireplace kit; improving attic insulation or ventilation; repairing a roof; installing a skylight; solving foundation drainage; installing a garage door opener; painting the exterior, laying stepping stones; constructing a patio or deck; repairing toilets; replacing faucets; repairing a doorbell; replacing light fixtures; maintaining a hot water system or air conditioners.

One improvement that can make a big difference is organizing closets. Think of the clutter you could hide if your closet offered 50 percent more storage space.

Most clothes closets feature a single rod with a shelf above it.

"To get nearly 50 percent more hanging space, put a tier of two rods for short clothes on one side of a center tower of shelves or drawers, and a single rod for longer apparel at the standard height of 62 inches on the other side," says the Stanley book.

This project takes about one weekend, requires plywood or an unfinished shelf unit and standard closet hardware. With a prefabricated closet organizer kit, you can achieve the same results in much less time.

How about building that deck you've always wanted? You believe it will increase the resale value of your house, right? According to Remodeling Magazine, multilevel decks are in demand, but you can't expect to recoup more than 75 percent of their cost. The remodeling projects that bring the greatest resale return remain kitchens, baths and family room additions.

But the deck will extend your living space to the outdoors, which can be worth more than money.

The Stanley book guides you through two basic types of wood decks: grade-level and elevated. It tells you how to plan one, select materials, install the posts and beams and headers and joists as well as the decking, railing and stairs.

"The cost of a deck will depend on its size, complexity, materials, workmanship, labor and contracting fees. you eliminate the last three if you do it yourself."

Another worthwhile home improvement project is to install moldings. Whether they're base moldings, casing, cove or crown moldings, these finishing touches add decorative interest to your house and help define its architectural style.

One of the most valuable improvements is a security system. every effort you put into making security improvements will repay you many times in increased protection against loss and damage, and greater safety and peace of mind for you and your family," says the Stanley book. And adding security measures may reduce your homeowner's insurance premiums.

First you must evaluate the security situation of your home. Does it have adequate outdoor lighting? Are doors and windows equipped with true security locks? Is there an alarm system?

A good door lock is a very basic security measure, but the door itself must be strong and secure. You might want to install a peephole, or replace sidelight glass with shatterproof plastic.

Effective outdoor lighting is a major deterrent to burglars. Install a microwave sensor that turns on the lights whenever it detects movement in its field.

"Reader's Digest Book of Skills & Tools: A Step-by-Step Guide to Do-It-Yourself Techniques" (Reader's Digest) offers details on such Wendy projects as how to paint your interior walls with decorative techniques including distressing, sponging, stippling, rag-rolling or combing.

The book even gives you a recipe for making your own glaze, which is the basic, semitransparent paint material applied over a base coat that's used in most of these decorative techniques.

Before you undertake any home improvement project, plan it carefully. Begin by making a sketch or diagram-it doesn't have to be elaborate or artistic.

Transfer the sketch to graph paper, letting each square on the paper represent a clear-cut measurement. You can buy ready-drawn plans at many home centers or copy them from books or magazines. Then make a list of the major steps required, put them in order and break them down into substeps. Make a list of tools you'll need; many tools can be rented.

Once you've drawn up plans, estimate the costs by the materials you'll need.

"A rule of thumb when estimating materials is to add 10 percent to allow for miscalculations, errors, damage and waste," says Reader's Digest.

Not only will you save money if you do the work yourself, but you'll gain the satisfaction of a job well done and you'll make that house even more of your own home, be it ever so humble.

Pool Energy Management

Pool Energy Loss Characteristics

Pools lose energy in a variety of ways, but evaporation is by far the largest source of energy loss in both indoor and outdoor pools. In addition to evaporative heat loss, outdoor pools also lose energy through radiation to the sky, convection to the air, and conduction to the ground. This means that areas with low humidity and cool clear nights will have the highest pool heating costs.

A common misperception is that indoor pools do not use much energy! Indoor pools actually use considerable energy Indoor pools are not subjected to the fluctuations in day and night temperatures such as outdoor pools, or radiate heat to the night sky, or have winds that carry the heat away from the pool.

Indoor pools do require significant room ventilation to control indoor humidity caused by the large amount of evaporation.

Without a proper ventilation system, high indoor humidity levels will cause numerous problems, including condensation on cold surfaces, rusting of structural components, etc. The energy required to run this ventilation system adds to the costs of operating an indoor pool. Also the ventilation air must be conditioned, which further adds to the costs.

Because most indoor pools are used year-around, they often have much higher energy costs than outdoor pools. Therefore, the energy savings can be far greater for an indoor pool.

Energy Saving Opportunities

Since evaporation is the chief culprit of both indoor and outdoor pool heat loss, this is where energy saving opportunities begin. Currently, the most effective method of controlling evaporation is to cover the pool or spa when not in use. Pool covers can reduce pool evaporation over 90 percent while also reducing radiation and convection. For an outdoor pool, this correlates to a energy savings of 60-80 percent when the pool cover is in use.

For indoor pools, reducing evaporation also reduces the need for ventilation. Since these two components make up 97 percent of an indoor pool's energy losses, using a cover for an indoor pool can save upwards of 85 percent of energy costs during use.

Other energy saving measures that can further reduce energy costs are:

*Windbreaks for outdoor pools;

*Solar pool heating systems;

*Heat recovery ventilation for indoor pools;

*High efficiency motors for pumps and fans;

Savings Potential

The U.S. Department of Energy estimates that the cost of heating swimming pools and spas is in the billions of dollars annually. Covers for pools and spas as well as solar heating systems can save a significant amount of energy.

HOME HOW-TO

Protect your deck

Wooden decks take a lot of abuse because they absorb the full forces of sunlight and wet weather

- Keep debris from collecting between cracks in the boards
- Keep loose nails or boards hammered down. Exposed nails will rust. Aluminum or galvanized nails are best.
- Sand or replace splintered boards. The cracks hold moisture.
- Seal deck with a sealer that contains a mildewcide and resists ultraviolet light.

■ Use a long-nap paint roller for the surface and a sponge brush for the cracks.

Smart Tools

By Priscilla Lister
Copley News Service

To a do-it-your-selfer, a hardware store is like a candy store to the chocaholic. There are so many goodies to be had, it's almost impossible to choose.

Many of today's tools are much the same as they were 100 years ago. But with technological advances, some tools are more clever or handier.

Prime examples of updated versions of old standbys are the new Handy-Driver Cordless Screwdriver from Black & Decker and the Power Roller 959 from Wagner.

Powered by four AA batteries, the HandyDriver ($30) comes with a double-ended screwdriver bit and drill bit and is meant to be kept in the kitchen drawer instead of the tool box.

The Power Roller 959 ($120) applies up to one gallon of paint in 15 minutes, cutting painting time dramatically compared to traditional pan and roller methods, as it eliminates interruptions to areload."

The palm-grip sander is today's electrified version of the plain old palm method of hand sanding-a welcome update. It's a hand-held model that can perform a wide variety of tasks that once required several different kinds of sanders.

In his new book, "Bob Vila's Toolbox" (William Morrow & Co.), he says the palm-grip sander "makes quick work of finish sanding, even on curves and corners." And some models come with a dust-bag attachment which results in a cleaner work area.

As for traditional tools that are multipurpose, Vila

How To Decorate On A Budget

By Sharon Williams
Copley News Service

Time once was when a room that looked like a million bucks probably cost about that much. Perhaps a little more, perhaps a little less. But the thinking behind it all was that high style carried a high price tag.

Today, the sky is hardly the limit for most homeowners. And design trends have followed suit by coming considerably more down to earth.

Simply put, budget design, frugal decor and shoestring chic are the names of the game for those who want a great room without great debt.

Today's home designers, owners, renters and decorators are stretching their dollars and their imaginations as they shop for bargains, embrace do-it-yourself projects, find innovative ways to make use of what they have and search for low-cost, high-quality objects and materials for the home.

Inspiration and ideas come from magazines, books such as "Decorating on a Mini-Budget" by Brenda Gitlin and Leslea Harelick (Granite Press) and interior designers themselves.

All are full of money-smart ideas - so many, in fact, that they're practically a dime a dozen. And worth every penny in terms of impact and aesthetics.

If you plan to tackle a decorating project in the coming months, you can achieve some marvelous money-saving results.

Following are some suggestions for getting the most for your decorating dime.

FURNITURE FINDS

Furniture often is the obstacle blocking the way into an otherwise great-looking, low-cost room. After all, good pieces are expensive, while economy ensembles often smack of a low-end showroom.

There are, however, some creative ways to acquire fantastic home furnishings. Smart suggestions include:

• Find a piece with "good bones." If your budget is tight, purchase one classic piece of furniture, then decorate around it with inexpensive finds from a flea market or your attic. Over time, the piece will grow with you and fit into any scheme you decide to play out.

If you can't afford to buy it, you probably can rent it. Check out rent-to-own emporiums and comparison shop for the best deals.

• Create folk-art furniture. Let your creative muse run wild as you transform a piece of unfinished or secondhand furniture-such as an end table, sideboard or chair - with painted-on patterns and motifs.

For a more traditional, tone-down look, consider stenciling, sponge-painting or brushing on a faux finish.

Or simply highlight interesting features by using contrasting colors.

• Get a "head" start. If you don't want to splurge on a headboard, create one instead. Look for details in do-it-yourself and decorator magazines.

Make a padded fabric headboard, for instance, with plywood, a staple gun and fabric. Camouflage an existing but unsightly headboard with a fabric slipcover that matches dust ruffle and cushions or turn something unexpected - such as a portion of an old fence or an old window frame-into an innovative headboard.

• Give your furniture the slip. Breathe new life into worn upholstered chairs, footstools and sofas by creating-or commissioning-slipcovers for your beloved pieces. Slipcovers usually are less expensive than having the furnishings re-covered.

If recovering the pieces is what you really want to do, look for labor-free sales offered periodically by department stores, furniture emporiums and upholstery shops.

• Table the issues. Fill empty corners or spaces alongside the sofa with skirted round tables.

Use any kind of base to support a padded plywood top, then cover with tablecloths of varying sizes and patterns.

• Seek out secondhand finds. To make your decorating dollar go the distance, scan the classified ads for secondhand furnishings, attend auctions and estate sales if you're looking for antiques and keep abreast of the sales.

Bargain buys that have seen better days often can be revitalized through refinishing or reupholstery-with the total price still coming in at less than the cost of a brand-new piece.

TERRIFIC TREATMENTS

Windows, walls and floors all pose tremendous money-saving possibilities for the budget-minded decorator-especially do-it-yourselfers. Ideas include:

• Place something underfoot. Deck out a ho-hum floor with a canvas floor cloth or inexpensive sisal.

Dress either one up with stencil painting, or adorn the floor cloth with the patterns or graphics that suit your scheme.

You also could invest in some inexpensive area rugs to cover the bare or cold spots until you can afford a more substantial investment.

• Open up a world of windows. From lace panels and swags to miniblinds and balloon shades, it seems the affordable wonders for window treatments never cease.

Today's trend toward breezy, light-filled windows open the curtain on an array of penny-wise possibilities that the do-it-yourselfer can easily tackle-among them smart cafe curtains, breezy fabric panels and flounced and fluffy valances that require little or no sewing.

• Add architectural impact. It's easy to add inexpensive decorative moldings or chair rails to a boring room, or to create divinely draped window treatments with the installation of tiebacks in interesting shapes.

Paint in contrasting tones or bright white can bring out the best in trim, enliven dull rooms or enhance flow throughout the house. Free-standing screens can help define boundaries in open floor plans, pictures and photographs can be propped instead of hung for aesthetic appeal and new knobs can revitalize tired kitchen cupboards without a major remodel.

• Spread the sheets. For lots of washable, long-wearing yards, use sheets for duvet covers, folding screens, dining room appointments, decorator pillows, cushions, bedroom ensembles, window keatments, slipcovers, shower curtains, bed canopies and such.

Inexpensive yet commanding fabrics such as muslin or decorator fabric designed to be tossed throughout the house also present yards of possibilities.

"Simplicity's Simply the Best Home Decorating Book" (Fireside) is filled with ideas for decorating with fabric.

AFFORDABLE ACCENTS

An extra hour or so and some spare change is often all that's required to pull together a great accessory. Possibilities include:

• Frame or shade it. Make them-yourself picture frames and lampshades are two hot and haste accents on the home design front. Craft classes, home decorating books and magazines are filled vwith ideas and how-to tips.

For frames, faux finishes, painted-on designs and unusual materials such as buttons, cutout illustrations, canceled stamps and objects of nature such as pine cones and seashells are all the rage.

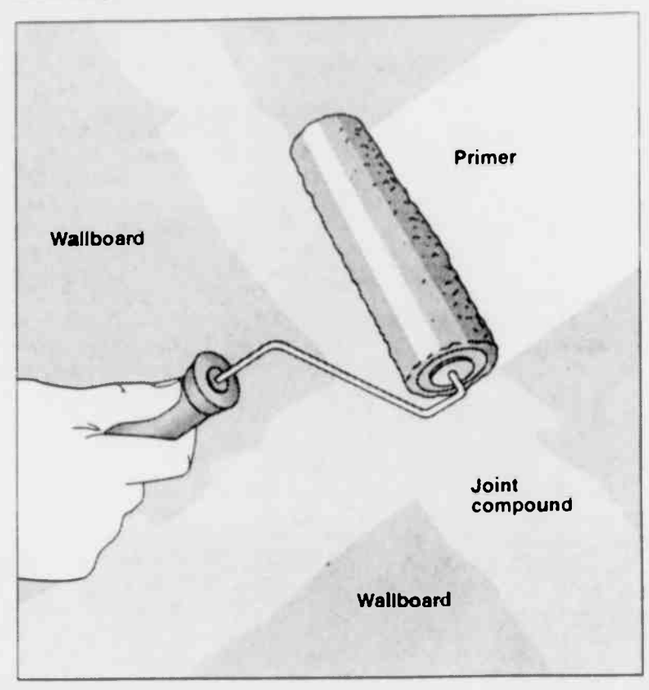
With lamps, meanwhile, fabrics, stenciled-on designs and ornate dims such as fringe and beads transform an ordinary shade into something spectacular.

• Acquire some artistic iuspirations. Forget the uptown galleries. If you've a spare art book, dismantle prints or photographs, then mat and frame them for a unified presentation in a hall or entryway.

Flea markets, garage sales and estate sales often are meccas for interesting prints, drawings and paintings that might mesh with your decorating scheme.

Or if you've an artist in the family, consider putting his or her works in the spotlight. Your child's kindergarten masterpieces will take on new importance when they're given a frame and a place to hang.

• Say it with flowers. Flowers are among the most affordable- if not somewhat temporary-accessories around. Wreaths of dried flowers, bulb vases with new blooms, bowls brimming with potpourri and simple arrangements of garden-fresh flowers are just a few of the many stunning and scented possibilities.



• Hire a pro. Since you're on a budget, you'd never think of hiring an interior designer, right? Try again. In most instances, design professionals can actually help you save money - at the very least usually enough to cover their fees.

Most have a knack for finding inexpensive treasures and revitalizing the objects that one already owns through artful reintroduction and rearranging. Additionally, many design professionals have insiders' access to merchandise, labor and materials sources that are out of reach for the average consumer.

HOME HOW-TO

New wallboard: the first coat

- Because there are two surfaces on newly installed wallboard — the board's paper surface and the joint compound on the corners, seams and nail heads — a water-based primer is advised.
- United States Gypsum makes a primer called First Coat. It is available pre-mixed or as a powder.
- The experts advise professionals to cover all wallboard with a thin layer of compound to eliminate the two surfaces.
- Do not paint until the two surface types have been primed.

Refinishing Furniture

By Sharon Williams
Copley News Service

When it comes to old furniture, yesterday's trash is truly today's treasure. Smart both environmentally and economically, furniture recycling and refurnishing are among the hottest decorating trends going today.

Both also offer loads of opportunity in the way of creativity since there are dozens of ways to refurbish and refinish a wooden piece. To get started:

• Find a great piece. Search for great possibilities. Check the classified ads, and search flea markets, garage sales, antique stores, thrift stores, estates sales, swap meets and auctions for secondhand finds. Don't overlook unfinished furniture stores.

Who knows? You might even uncover something worthwhile in your neighbor's trash heap.

• Read up. It's easy to get an education on practically any area of the restoration process. Magazine articles, home decorating books and do-it-yourself manuals are filled with great explanations and step-by-step instructions for painting, stripping, staining, repairing-you name it.

Two great tomes to start with are "The Complete Guide to Restoring and Maintaining Wood Furniture and Cabinets" by Brad Hughes (Betterway) and "The Wood Finisher" by Bruce Johnson (Ballantine).

You also could learn all the basics through a class taught at your local college, craft emporium or through community education.

• Make a decision. At some point, you'll have to decide what you're going to do. Will you, for instance, revive a distressed or worn piece of furniture by restoring its original finish, or create a brand-new one through refinishing?

Or perhaps you hope to work magic with paint by applying a sponged, stenciled, faux or antique finish.

From there, it's off to the home improvement or craft store, where you'll find a wide array of strippers, paints, stains and sealants-some that are environmentally friendly-tools galore and a bevy of brushes and sponges for application. In other words, there's everything you need to get down to business.

• Turn the job over to a pro. After some thought and close inspection of your piece, you might decide to take a hands-off approach. It's an acceptable and often times wise move-considering that many projects can greatly benefit from a professional's touch.

You could, for instance, hire a professional to strip your piece, or let him or her take the entire job start to finish. If you're thinking of re-covering your piece, consider an upholstery professional who can hide sins of the past with the fabric of your choice-something that fits perfectly into your present scheme.

No flights, no fares, no fuss. The perfect vacation is waiting for you, everyday, in your own backyard. Call us and we'll show you how easy it is.

You Can Improve Your Own Home

By Sharon Williams
Copley News Service

Maybe the bathroom tub looks like it was borrowed from your great-grandmother, or the kitchen cabinets are creaking both visually and audibly. Then again, maybe you're just after a room with a view.

Whatever the reason, you've decided remodeling is the solution. You've probably made the right choice.

Remodeling allows you to customize your living space, update and upgrade your home and increase the value of your four walls -all for less than what it would cost to move into a new house.

You're hardly alone. Even with the recession still blocking the slots on many piggy banks, Americans spent more than $100 billion on remodeling projects last year. The National Association of the Remodeling Industry predicts that this fix-it-up and add-it-on trend will continue.

Look at today's market and it's easy to see why many people are putting up with the sounds of hammers and nail guns.

While it's great to have the addition of a new family room or hot tub, remodeling is a necessary pleasure these days. Most home owners undertake renovations to make their homes more marketable, so that they can compete in the world of real estate.

TOP PROJECTS

Forget stocks, bonds and commodities. The best investments lie in bathrooms, sinks and cabinets.

Some remodeling jobs can boost a home's value enough to practically pay for themselves, while others raise a home's comfort and aesthetic quotients more than its price.

Payback does vary by region but, in general, kitchen and bathroom remodels rank highest among those seeking to substantially increase the value of their home.

Other popular large-scale projects include the addition of a deck or a family room, or the expansion of a master bedroom.

Finished basements and swimming pools are not-so-hot in terms of investment, but rank as true winners in terms of fun and function.

On the small scale, minor remodels might include painting, replacing old windows and lighting fixtures, carpeting, installing a hardwood floor and the addition of skylights, a whirlpool or a kitchen work island.

When selecting a project, make sure you won't be over-improving your home. Keep in mind that regardless of improvements, a home is unlikely to sell for more than 20 percent above the average prevailing market price in the neighborhood.

WEIGHING YOUR OPTIONS

When it comes to remodeling, prices can fluctuate more than the stock market.

One project might cost thousands more than another and bids often vary between building professionals. Thus it really pays to think the possibilities through before getting down to business. By weighing must-have improvements against more luxury-oriented projects, you'll eventually come up with a smart solution that won't break the bank.

You might even want to consult with an architect, general contractor or design-builder. Each can help you outline options and discuss improvements that are within your budget. Remember that it is cheaper to redesign an existing space than it is to add a room.

Books such as "Home Improvements: Making Investments in Your Home that Pay for Themselves" by R. Dodge Woodson (Betterway) also can offer insight and inspiration.

Once a project is selected, there's the matter of paying for it. Home owners usually solicit bids from several different contractors, then head to the bank for financing through a home equity loan or well-nurtured nest egg. Your lender can offer further options.

You'll also need to review your homeowner's insurance policy, making adjustments for the added value of the work to be performed.

There are several ways to save some of those hard-earned dollars. In some cases, experienced and expert-level do-it-yourselfers divide up their projects by doing what they can themselves, and leaving the more difficult work to the contractor.

And, while you don't won't to go cut-rate on materials, avoid the urge to fall in love with budget wreckers such as high-end plumbing and lighting fixtures, custom made cabinets and opulent materials such marble. Instead, invest in the construction, finishing and the best hardware fixtures and appliances that you can afford.

It's also not always wise to go with the lowest bidder. Instead, discuss variations with the potential contractors and beware of bids that are substantially lower than the others.

Expect to pay about one-third of the total bill as a down payment. Other payments should be timed in accordance with the work scale, so you're paying for work that's completed.

CONTRACTOR FACTOR

Finding the right general contractor is as important as finding the right project because a shoddy job can actually subtract to a home's value.

To find someone who is right for the job, look for a general contractor who is established and comes with recommendations. See if he belongs to a professional organization such as the NARI, take a look at former jobs and make sure he's licensed if your state requires it.

Get the lowdown on past jobs by checking with consumer affairs, the Better Business Bureau and former clients.

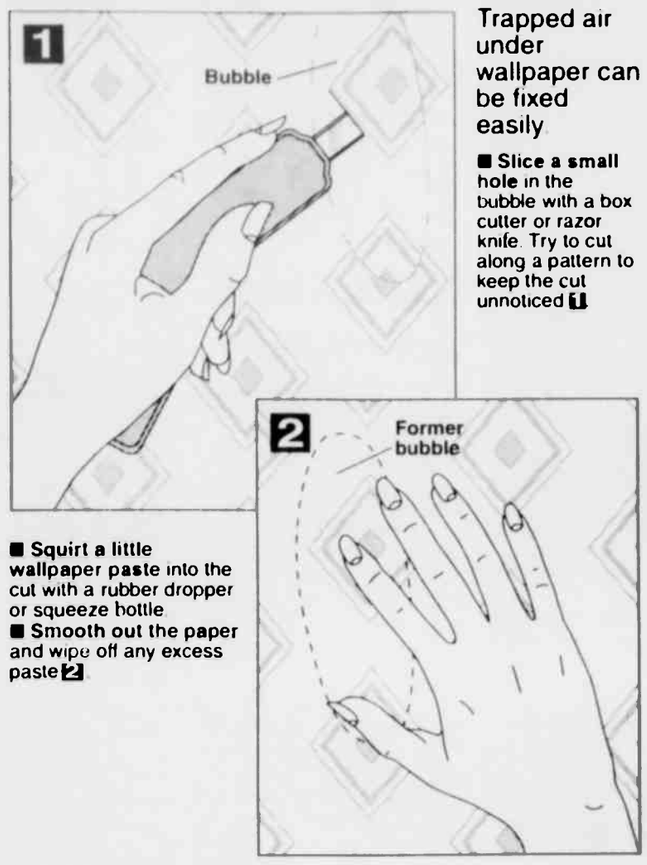
Ask questions regarding how and when the work was performed, how accurate the estimate, turned out to be in terms of time and money and whether the materials and workmanship were as promised.

Once you've narrowed the field, make sure the contractor you go with is someone you with whom you can communicate-someone willing to take charge and see the project through.

Before putting him to work, be sure the person you hire will follow local regulations, since deed restrictions, community association regulations and condo guidelines can limit remodeling efforts.

Ask to see a certificate of insurance to verify coverage, and make sure you have a contract that details what he will do, specifies materials, includes approximate starting and completion dates and spells out financial terms and warranty.

SURVIVAL TACTICS



Remodeling can be an endurance test for those who have to live in the mess for months on end. In fact, many of those who survive remodeling projects swear they'll never do it again.

To make the going easier for everyone, it's a good idea to ask your contract about possible inconveniences, then plan for them. Move personal property from the site, ban children and pets from the work zones, let workers know what areas are off-limits to them and keep a job file to ensure all the important papers are in a safe place.

If you're undertaking a major remodel, you might want to rent an apartment for a few months to be free and clear of the plasterboard and 2x4s.

HOME HOW-TO

Fixing wallpaper bubbles

Trapped air under wallpaper can be fixed easily

■ Slice a small hole in the bubble with a box cutter or razor knife. Try to cut along a pattern to keep the cut unnoticed 1

■ Squirt a little wallpaper paste into the cut with a rubber dropper or squeeze bottle

■ Smooth out the paper and wipe off any excess paste 2

Moving Day

By Priscilla Lister
Copley News Service

So you've found a new home and you're moving. Plan ahead and minimize the hassle.

And take advantage of the help that's available. All major moving companies offer pamphlets and tips about making a move from house to house, cit. to city. Send self-addressed, stamped envelope with your request to: Allied Van Lines, Box 11759, Chicago, IL 60611; American Movers Conference, 1611 Duke St., Alexandria, VA 22314; Mayflower Transit, Box 107, Indianapolis, IN 46206; or United Van Lines, 1 United Drive, Fenton, MO 63026.

Meanwhile, here are a few moving tips:

•Get plenty of rest the night before.

•Encourage friends to say farewell ahead of time so they won't be underfoot on moving day.

•Keep pets out of the way in a quiet room or leave them with a friend until the van is loaded.

•Discuss with the movers any objects that need special attention. Confirm that the driver has clear directions to the destination. Get his itinerary and his agent's phone number.

If you do your own packing:

•Collect sturdy boxes with lids; you can buy them from the mover or seek them at liquor stores. Stock up on packing tape at least 2 inches wide, plastic bubble wrap, old newspaper and tissue paper.

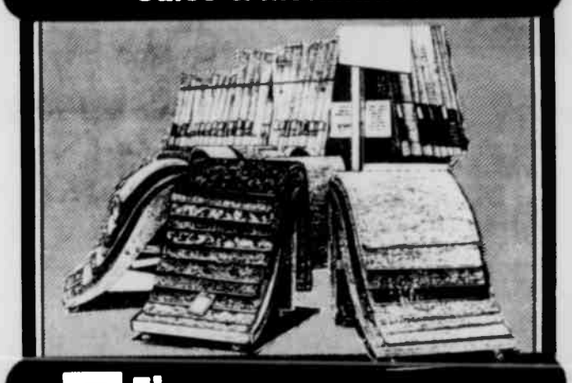
•Spread the task over several weeks.

•Pack everything in boxes, even lampshades and pillows; they're easier to move.

•Wrap dishes and glassware in tissue before wrapping in newspaper so you won't have to wash them later.

Century 21, the real estate agency chain, also offers some tips if you're moving with children:

•Be open from the start. Let them know why, when and where they're moving.



•Go with the flow. Negative reactions are common. "Tell the child you know it's scary but everything will turn out all right."

•Enlist their help. Ask the child to make decisions about decorating his/her new bedroom.

•Create a memory book to remind them of their "old" home.

likes the adjustable wrench and the utility knife.

"If space or budget considerations dictate buying only one wrench, an adjustable wrench is likely to be your best investment," he said.

And the simple utility knife "is truly a tool of a thousand uses," says Vila. It can be used for precise marking on cutoff work; it can cut through plastic, wood and other fibers; it can score soft metals; and it's invaluable for trimming wallpaper, cutting cardboard, plastic sheets or ceiling tiles and dozens of other jobs.

If you're new to the hardware store scene, consider Vila's checklist for Tools for a Kitchen Drawer."

WINNING WINDOWS – When the view is pretty and private, sometimes the best treatment is one that frames the window rather than covers it. Shown here: French door by Marvin Windows & Doors.

Treatments, Designs That Accent Home's View

By Sharon Achatz
Copley Nests Service

In some ways, Grandma had it easy. All her windows were small, rectangular creations for which it was easy to select pre-made gathered curtains from a mail-order catalog.

Today, windows are available in a wide variety of shapes and sizes -- including sunbursts, trapezoids and multiple-pane bay windows -- for which treatments often must be custom-made. And those treatments can range from valances and miniblinds to decorative wood shutters and dramatic swagged draperies.

While in Grandma's era it was chic to use only a single treatment per window, the current trend is to mix mediums -- sheers paired with heavy draperies, blinds paired with fabric valances.

It's also in vogue to opt for no treatment at all on some windows -- although folks with an eye to conserving the energy required to cool and heat a home often apply window film to dressless windows New film products on the market are virtually invisible and not only are energy-efficient, but also car protect floorings and furnishing from fading in the warm-weather sun.

If you prefer to dress a window keep in mind that room and window design help to dictate a suit able type of window treatment as well as suitable fabric weight and prints to use.

Less formal rooms, like the kitchen or bath, generally call for light and simple treatments such as eyelet cafe curtains that hide only half the window.

And while valances traditionally are used to hide the rods and rigging of other window treatments, they increasingly are being used on their own as a simple way to add color and interest to a window otherwise left bare. Valances can range from a colorful piece of paisley fabric loosely draped over a decorative pole to carefully constructed boxes padded and covered with plaid or floral-print fabric.

For more formal looks -- in the bedroom, for example-consider a balloon shade that blouses when raised, either in a sophisticated neural color or a tiny textured pattern.

For an ultraformal look in the living room, nothing compares with the pairing of decorative valances, lacy sheers and opulent draperies at a single window. This layered window treatment provides a luxurious flowing or swagged look -- particularly in today's rich fabrics -- that may require as many as three or four sets of rods, as well as a cornice or valance to cover up all the rigging.

Natural-tone wood shutters are a particularly warm and attractive option for a den or library, while white-washed shutters give an outdoorsy feel to a garden room.

If you're at a loss when trying to select an appropriate type of window treatment, realize that miniblinds work well in practically any decor.

While blinds used to be made only of metal and therefore are synonymous with a contemporary look, they now come in wood, fabric and metal. They work with antiques and draperies in a traditional setting, with cheerful prints in a child's room, or with romantic billowing valances in a bedroom. In short, they're a simple across-the-board window solution that, like accordion shades, can be topped and paired with a variety of more complex decorative treatments.

Virtually every hardware, home design and fabric store will have someone familiar with window treatments who can help in choosing brackets, rods and other rigging-as well as with providing tips on accurate measurement.

In general - regardless of whether the window is to be dressed in a single shade or elaborate draperies-experts suggest measuring the width and height of the window in at least three places before ordering, buying or sewing any window treatment. Settling may have occurred in the house and changed the shape of the window, or the original craftsmanship may not have ended up exactly even. In addition, measure the inside and outside frames, as well as the length from rod position to the sill and floor.

Bathrooms Are Made To Pamper

By Priscilla Lister
Copley News Service

"The bathroom has become the most frequently remodeled room in the '90s," says Barb Machowski and the editors of Consumer Reports Books in "Complete Book of Bathroom Design" (Consumer Reports Books).

Today's bathroom has become more than utilitarian; it has also become a place to relax, perhaps the only room where you can be truly private.

Machowski cites several bathroom design trends for the '90s that may help you plan one of your dreams.

•"Universal design trends emphasize easy-to-use bathrooms for all generations, from children to aging adults," writes Machowski. Such concerns point to wider doorways and easily activated faucet levers and lighting controls.

•"Bathrooms are designed to fit the human body." Ergonomics is finding its way into the bathroom as equipment designers take note of how our bodies move. New ideas include raising the vanity and sink and even toilet for tall folk or installing grab bars at the tub and shower.

•"Bathroom design at its best is personalized design." The working couple, for example, may choose both shared and private space provided by a separate tub and shower, two sinks and a privacy wall surrounding the toilet. Elderly homeowners may want enhanced lighting at the mirror or minilight strips to show the way to the whirlpool.

•Conservation concerns have extended to the bathroom." Machowski points to low-flush toilets, which have been made law in many areas, low-flow shower heads and fluorescent bulbs that use less energy than incandescent bulbs and today fit into standard fixtures.

•"Safety issues have affected bathroom planning and product development." Nonslip surfaces, soft tubs and anti-scald faucets are current products.

•"New standards for bathroom design professionals have become increasingly sophisticated." The National Kitchen and Bath Association now offers specialized training that leads to the designation of Certified Bathroom Designer.

If you are intending to remodel a bathroom to increase your home's resale value, be aware that anything too personalized may not appeal to potential buyers. Most experts still advise against straying from the norms. But bathrooms do remain one of the remodeling investments that can be recouped if they're done well.

HOME HOW-TO

Patching masonry cracks

Caulked masonry cracks usually return due to seasonal expansion and contraction, but modern acrylic latex caulks are easy to use and last longer than their counterparts of yesteryear.

■ Acrylic latex caulks are made for brick, concrete, stucco and other surfaces. They are adhesive and stick well, but surfaces must be clean.
■ Make sure you match the color you will need. Matching colors to brick and brick mortar is tough.
■ Try to do your crack repairs at one time. Most caulks don't store well after they're opened.

Decorate With Paint, Paper And Imagination

By Priscilla Lister
Copley News Service

Design trends come and go and seem to come back again.

Nowhere is this truth more evident than in decoration of walls. While the ever - present whites - from Navajo white to antique white to cream-seemed to be the clean, uncluttered choice of designers in the recent past, today we see a resurgence of centuries-old detail, whether you're using paint or wall coverings.

And today's colors have gone beyond the whites, once again recalling trends popular in Edwardian and Victorian times. Consider the dark green library and the scarlet or peach dining room.

PAINTS AND FINISHES

Today's most popular trend in home decorating is actually a return to painting techniques first used in Europe as early as the 1600's, say Annie Sloan and Kate Gwynn in their new book, "Classic Paints and Faux Finishes" (Reader's Digest).

"This interest began about 15 years ago when some specialty decorative oil glazes and paint finishes were reintroduced to the marketplace and there was a revival of interest in traditional techniques such as sponging, ragging and faus finishes," the authors say.

Their book guides the do-it-yourselfer through a wide range of authentic painting techniques that go beyond the flat single-pigment looks of the 1950's to 1970's.

"Classic paints and finishes offer a refreshing variation in texture - from the flat/matte, slightly uneven quality of lime wash, size paints and fresco, to the gloss of snellacs and resin varnishes, say Sloan and Gwynn.

The uneven result, where some areas absorb more color than others, produces a unique, hand crafted look.

And the return to traditional paints, the authors point out, also proves attractive because they use natural ingredients and are therefore more environmentally friendly than the modern plastic paints.

Sponging and rag-rolling techniques can create depth and texture on an otherwise flat wall, adding interest. In sponging, a slightly damp natural sponge is rotated against a freshly painted, still-wet wall, creating a pattern.

In rag-rolling, a primary color is painted on the wall and allowed to dry, then a shade lighter and a shade darker are applied over it by rolling a cotton rag. The painter who can roll a rag effectively so that it doesn't look like that's what he or she did is an artist who can create the look of stone or plaster on simple drywall.

"Limewash is a classic, durable coating that lets the wall 'breathe', it allows for passage of moisture," say Sloan and Gwynn.

Limewash matures and mellows with age and can even help strengthen and improve old walls, they add. Its alkali acts as a disinfectant, so it's especially good used in kitchens.

Lime is naturally white, but pigment can be added to a limewash, which makes it dry ito a much mellower color than the original color in the bucket," they say. Its look is smooth, soft and soothing.

A glaze is a transparent coat of paint thickly brushed on top of a base coat.

"In many decorative techniques, the glaze is brushed on thickly over the dry base coat and then partially lifted off with specialty brushes," say the authors.

This technique can create an illusion of depth, especially when using several glaze coats.

Glazing is also used when seeking a marbling effect or to imitate stones such as malachite or lapis lazuli.

The fresco is an ancient method of wall painting that goes back to Greek and Roman times. It's basically the painting of a mural on a wall that "has an intrinsic beauty in the depth and subtlety of the colors," the authors say. It can even create the illusion of a view or the atmosphere of a special place.

DECORATING WITH PAPER

Wallpaper has gone in and out of style itself over the centuries.

"The 1990's heralded a renewed interest in the wealth of patterns, textures and colours that only wallpaper could supply," says British writer Richard Wiles in "Decorative Papering" (Cassell). "One of the plus points of wallpaper is that the same design can be printed in numerous colourways, again offering you more choice."

Wallpapers can be used quite effectively to create an atmosphere, whether you want to evoke one that's rustic, authentic of a particular period or sophisticated and opulent, says Wiles.

While "Wallpaper" is a generic term that describes all manner of wall coverings, it's a misnomer, says Wiles, because only some are made from wood pulp. Here are some of the coverings available:

• Vinyls, which are washable, are especially good in kitchens and bathrooms; flocks incorporate the velvety pile effect and are reminiscent of Victorian times.

• Lincrusta relief wallcovering first developed in 1877, features a permanent embossed design that makes for a very dramatic entryway and looks as though the wall itself is a plaster relief

• Other relief wall coverings include textured designs that are meant to be painted; then there are padded coverings that can deaden the sound in a room.

• Coverings made of silk, cork, sisal and other natural materials.

ARCHITECTURAL EFFECTS

"Through the magic of printed papers, you can transform your living room into a gazebo, create a marble and granite temple fit for a Roman emperor where an ordinary dining room once sufficed, or devise an elaborately detailed sun room strewn with blossoms and trailing vines," write Donna Lang and Lucretia Robertson in "Decorating With Paper" (Clarkson Potter Publishers);

Wallpapers and borders can be used to create the illusion of architecture where none exists, while textured papers can add grace without pattern, they say. "Surely there are several that will catch your eye and change the way you think about wallpaper forever."

Lang and Robertson showcase what one artist did with lowly brown paper grocery bags: Crushed and glued to the walls within a lattice of border adhesive, they are then sponged with paint in earth colors to end up looking like a real stone wall, complete with "mortar" made with stippled paint.

They also show what you can do by applying paint to paper. They used a wallpaper with a slightly crushed texture that the manufacturer had sealed with a pearlescent glaze, "creating a gently worn, cool tone." The designers then accented the wall with a slightly darker, solid-color border in the same color palette that "adds interest at the ceiling line."

A pearlescent finish coat on paper helps to create a special glow in a room when lighted by incandescent lights.

Textured papers can also be a budget-conscious answer to creating a faux finish, if the artistic painted kind is beyond your means.

Lang and Robertson especially like to use border papers, because they can provide architectural detail, they can substitute for crown molding to visually separate the ceiling from the walls, and they can also add a touch of another color.

"We look at a printed border as merely a beginning. Cutting into the border, doubling it up, all of these tricks unlock new possibilities," the authors say.

STENCILLING

One of the simplest and least expensive ways to add color to your walls is stenciling.

You can cut your own or purchase others' designs, which you then place on the wall and paint with the myriad paints available to make your personal statement.

"Stencilling looks equally at home in a contemporary house or in a traditional one," writes Joanne Malone in "Stencilling: A Practical & Inspirational Guide" (Sterling Publishing). "You can decorate walls; change tiles; add a border or design to ceilings, floors and windows;" and much more, including decorating fabrics to furniture.

HOME HOW-TO

How to clean fiberglass tubs

Although popular because they're seamless and require little maintenance, fiberglass tubs, showers and sinks have an annoying habit of collecting mineral and soap films — making tnem hard to clean.

■ Don't clean fiberglass products with any abrasives. Purchase a fiberglass cleaner.

■ An application of automotive paste wax will make cleaned fiberglass more stain-resistant and easier to clean next lime. Do NOT wax surfaces on which people will stand.
■ Heavy mineral buildup can be reduced by buying a water filter Heavy soap scum buildup can be reduced by buying a water softener
■ If you have the time, dry the intenor of the tub or shower after each use. This will further reduce scummy buildups.

Kitchens

specialized and not expensive that you can create real moods in a kitchen.

"We did a house high up in the Colorado Rockies where they had a whole system of mood lighting. You'd walk into the kitchen and press a button to turn on certain spotlights on the centerpiece or on a cabinet where they had an interesting display of pottery. Lighting can be bright or very soft and muted, giving a whole overall background to the room."

REMODELING COSTS

As for what kitchen remodeling jobs cost today, Schebish says "you can have an effect for $5,000. You could easily spent $50,000 to remodel a kitchen, and I'm not sure it would be difficult to spend twice that, depending on appliances and surfaces you're using."

Guest estimates most kitchen remodeling jobs cost from $20,000 to $25,000, "and a lot depends on what kinds of appliances you get. But it's a lot easier to spend less on your kitchen than you had to, say, five or six years ago to get a similar look."

Whether you seek a traditional, old world or contemporary style, the kitchen has become a family focal point and that trend is likely to continue for a long time.

PAINT PRIMER

The do-it-yourself industry owes a lot to the development of ready-mixed paint in the 1880s. Prior to that, professional painters had to prepare a base and mix their own colors. (CNS)

DRESS UP WALLS

Bare walls don't have to be boring. Stencil a border along the wall to break it up, or hang a pretty tapestry. Other options include hanging old shutters or even window frames to add architectural interest. Or simply paint the wall an outrageous color. (CNS)

Smart Floors Are Functional, Stylish

By Sharon Achatz
Copley News Service

There's something new underfoot a huge variety of flooring options destined to suit every need, every decor.

While the general types of flooring haven't changed much over the years-the most popular options include carpeting, vinyl, wood and tile-folks are finding increasingly creative uses for their favored moorings.

For example, carpeting has found its way into the kitchen and bathroom, vinyl flooring into the living room and playroom. Wood floors now may be natural or decorated with painted stencils; tiles may be assembly-line creations or individually hand-painted works of art.

CARPETING

About 80 percent of the floor covering sold in the United States is carpet, according to manufacturers. Besides coming in an endless variety of styles and colors, carpet is a natural insulator-it helps keep a room cool in summer and warm in winter-and it reduces noise by cushioning steps as you walk.

Wall-to-wall carpeting of a single shade and grade throughout the entire house is popular, primarily because it's an easy way to color coordinate the house and it simplifies shopping and installation.

In terms of carpet longevity, however, it may make more sense to select specific treatments and textures to match the needs of each room of the house-from kitchen to bath to family room.

The carpet's yarn, or pile, determines its style and how it will wear. Cut pile gives a luxurious look, but doesn't hold up well in high-traffic areas; loop pile has a casual look that's durable and helps hide dirt. Nylon yarns resist matting, while olefin and polyester are stain- and fade-resistant.

Regardless of the style of carpeting, most people want to select the highest quality carpeting their budget will allow. A simple test for quality: Bend back a piece of the carpet to see how much of the backing is exposed. The less backing you see, the better the carpet.

Another key to longevity is to -- select a neural shade -- Wendy colors rapidly go out of style. Some people, however, use bolder hues, especially as a contrasting border around the edges of an area.

VINYL FLOORING

While carpeting has found its way into the kitchens and baths of some homes, vinyl flooring-also called resilient flooring-still is the most popular flooring choice in those rooms.

It is, however, no longer simply the serviceable stuff that covered your mother's kitchen floor. Due to a wide range of contemporary geometric patterns and replications of classic materials such as marble, wood and bricks, vinyl floors are becoming a fashionable way to make a distinctive design statement in living rooms, playrooms and other rooms of the house as well.

Vinyl still is among the easiest flooring to care for and maintain; however, some resilient flooring is easier to care for than others. Some require only sweeping to keep clean, others require more frequent vacuuming and washing. Look for a floor with a maintenance level that suits your lifestyle.

In order to ensure a selection of quality, look for flooring that is thicker than others. It not only will be more comfortable, but also more tear- and puncture--resistant than thinner flooring. If you're having difficulty judging the thickness of a flooring, remember that generally, the greater the percentage of vinyl included in the flooring, the tougher and more cushioned it will be.

Resilient flooring is available in various sheet widths or as tiles. A benefit of the 12-foot width is that it provides seamless installation in rooms where only one dimension is greater than the width of the sheets. An advantage of tiles is that an individual tile can be replaced in the event the floor is damaged. Another advantage of tiles over sheet flooring is the ability to create a one-of-a-kind design.

HARDWOOD OR TILE

While tile once was limited to the bathroom and wood floors to the foyer, folks now are showing a fondness for these floorings throughout the house. Today, the sky's the limit for hardwood or ceramic tile, as their durability provides a relatively maintenance-free, lifetime flooring.

When opting to install a floor that can last forever, it's essential to look for timeless colors and patterns.

Nearly any wood option will stand the test of time. The most popular finish options are oak and maple, but other species such as ash, beech, birch and cherry also are used. While it's most popular to use a single type and hue of wood in a floor-similar to the wall-to-wall carpeting concept - some people opt to create distinctive patterns by mixing hues of wood within a single room.

Hardwood floors can be bought in skips or planks or parquet tiles, depending on the look preferred. While staggered planks are the most common placement, other creative options include having the strips or planks installed diagonally or adding a parquet border. As for tile, experts suggest that tiles in neutral tones such as white or terra cotta and in classic patterns such as faus marble will ensure longevity. Color trends change quickly, and a dramaticcolor floor could easily look dated in a few years. There are, however, hundreds of patterns in neutrals from which to choose-and solid color neutral tiles can be combined in a single floor to create geometric patterns and distinctive borders.

It also is popular to use grout in fashionable colors to accent or blend with the floor-it later can be bleached, dyed or replaced to update the look.

To embellish the look of an existing wood or tile floor, consider having a professional flooring contractor cut in a contrasting border strip to run around the perimeter of the room. Another option is to have a floor refinisher or local artist use different wood stains or tile dyes paint on a border design.

Home owners who have selected a hard flooring such as vinyl, wood or tile for living areas often find themselves seeking a way to soften the look-or to jazz up the neutrality that's essential when installing an expensive and long-lived floor.

A solution for both situations is an area rug.

While most other floorings are subdued, area rugs often function as dramatic works of art that pull together the design elements of a room. In fact, many people design rooms around an area rug, pulling from it the hues used to color walls and the fabric colors used to cover furniture.

Whether woven, tufted, needlepointed or machine rugs are produced wi loomed, the most durable high-quality wools.

HOME HOW-TO

Patching and sealing blacktop

The elements may crack your blacktop driveway the same way they damage public roads, but do-it-yourself patching solutions are available

■ Remove debris from the cracks and clean the entire surface with a driveway cleaner.
■ Cracks may be partially filled with fine sand to reduce the amount of patching needed.

■ Patch cracks with caulking-gun patchers. Some patchers are available in 5-gallon buckets for bigger jobs.
■ After patching, use a squeegee and broom to smooth and spead the sealer. Both patching compounds and sealers may be applied more easily if done in the hot sun.

Garage Sales

By Alison Ashton
Copley News Service

Some people are diehard garage-sale aficionados. You might be able to drive past hand-lettered signs advertising a yard sale, but others know that one person's Wash can be another's treasure.

Anyone who is decorating on a limited budget can benefit from a day browsing at neighborhood garage sales.

And antique collectors who know their stuff have been known to pick up amazing finds.

Here's what to consider if you're doing the shopping:

• Get an early start. If you get to a garage sale early, you'll enjoy the best selection. Wait until later in the day and the best items will be gone.

• Shop for quality. Granted, items won't look as glamorous as they would in store surroundings, but look past the surface. Remember that furniture with solid construction can always be painted or refinished. A sofa might have ugly plaid upholstery, but if it's still in good shape, slipcovers will bring it back to life.

• Be flexible. Looking for chairs to go with your dining table? If you can't find a matched set, consider unmatched chairs for an eclectic look. The same goes for nightstands, end tables, etc. For an oversize coffee table, consider cutting down the legs of a dining table.

• Look for sales in the right place. If you're looking for furniture or, say, a set of china, go to an estate sale. Estate sales can be held for any estate-not only the very rich, but that's where you're more likely to find bettersuality items.

• Leave your neighborhood. Some garage-sale hounds say you'll find better items in better neighborhoods.

• Caveat emptor. Unlike shopping at a store, there are no warranties or guarantees on what you purchase at a garage sale. Inspect items carefully, but don't reject them if they're not perfect. A small - repairable - defect can help you negotiate on the price.

It might be that you have more stuff than you can handle. Instead of shopping at garage sales, hold your own.

Current Looks Are At Home On The Range

By Sharon Williams
Copley News Service

Step into a room that follows one of today's decorating trends and you're instantly transported into a different time and place.

Perhaps you've landed in a humble countryside cottage or the tony apartment of a New York socialite.

Then again, you might find yourself in old Santa Fe, surrounded by rugged, cowboy- and Southwestern-inspiredfurnishings.

If you feel that you're suddenly somewhere else, then you're right at home. Today's trends are all about the celebration of the best in American style -- a style that embraces many moods, motifs and time periods.

Each trend is distinct and different in terms of furniture, accessories, floor, wall and window treatments. Yet, all allow homeowners the freedom to express their own personal, tastes in a variety of themes and variations.

Ready for a home tour? Here's a rundown of a few of today's top design trends, followed by some tips for finding which one is best for you.

COUNTRY GOES MODERN

In the 1990s, country chic is still all the rage. Instead of piles of chintz pillows and cheerful clutter, today's twist lies in the clean, pure lines of modern country.

Yes, the feeling is still welcoming and homey. But, it's also simple and streamlined. Neutral walls, floor coverings, window treatments and contemporary lighting, along with some traditional additions such as tile, exposed wood floors, shutters and wood beams create the perfect backdrop for a most refreshing eclectic look.

The furnishings in a modern country room can be borrowed from practically any style -- even the here and now -- so long as the lines aren't too extreme.

When arranged in a casual, airy manner, weathered farm tables, simple pine armories and Shaker-inspired chairs can live happily beside thoroughly modern sofas and chairs or a stylish stereo or computer system.

Dominant colors or patterns are used to pull the room together visually, and accessories are spare and to the point.

Choices might include painted shaker boxes, small sculptures, clean-lined pottery and simple pieces of folk art.

COTTAGE INDUSTRY

Blame it on a craving for a simpler time or a back-to-basics approach to life in the 1990s. Whatever the reason, plenty of homeowners are taking their cues from the humble, rural homes of years gone by.

There's truly a lot to like about cottage style. Efficient without sacrificing charm, and comfortable without the clutter, this theme manages to be both lively and livable at the same time.

It's also affordable, thanks to the fact that the country look is built upon flea-market finds, unmatched furniture, loose slipcovers and simple antiques. Furnishings handcrafted from pine, twigs, wicker and rattan are among the top picks.

Accessories depend largely upon the cottage variation for which you're aiming. In a room inspired by Adirondack ambience, for example, you'll find lots of peeled logs, splatterware and decoys, while a farmhouse room wouldn't be complete without a butter churn, quilts, a milk stool and folk art.

Other popular cottage accents include braided throw rugs, botanical prints, quilt racks or ladders, wrought-iron lamps, lace curtains and panels, fishing reels, pine cones, shells and dried wreaths arrangements-depending on how formal or casual you want to go.

HOME ON THE RANGE

If you're trying to rustle up a look that's fashionable without frills and fuss, set a spell with this year's take on the perennial Southwestern theme.

They call it Western style, partner -- an ambience that's part "Little House on the Prairie" and part John Wayne.

As exciting as a rodeo and as cozy as a coffeepot on the fire, this look starts with big, comfortable pieces of furniture crafted from rugged wood, aged metals and weathered upholstery.

Traditional club chairs, for instance, head west when covered with buffalo checks and blanketstitching, as does a leather sofa when accented with cowhide pillows.

Log or wood-with-iron beds are strong enough to support thick, cozy Southwestern-inspired bed ensembles -- which can be coordinated with matching wallpaper borders, shower curtains and window treatments.

Key accessories might include tin lampshades with cowboy cutouts, cowhide throw rugs, Navajo blankets, sturdy fireplace tools, woven baskets and real-life accessories such as spurs, ropes and a weathered 10-gallon hat - -lest the neighbors think you're a drugstore cowboy.

CITY CHIC

You don't have to live in a major metropolitan area to enjoy high style.

Instead, acquire some classic furnishings such as a four-poster bed, camelback sofa or a metal bistro chair, then surround them with luxurious parquet floors, checkerboard marble tiles, opulently draped windows and neutral walls for a sophisticated, citified look.

Because the timeless lines of such furnishings never look dated, they're always a good investment. And you can always liven things up by dressing them in bold blocks of the hautest hues.

Accessories and floor lighting contribute the most when they're clean-lined and toned down. Simply-framed prints, a fruit still life, original art work, adjustable halogen task lamps and neat stacks of books and magazines are just some of the extras that underline the impeccable look.

HUES NEWS

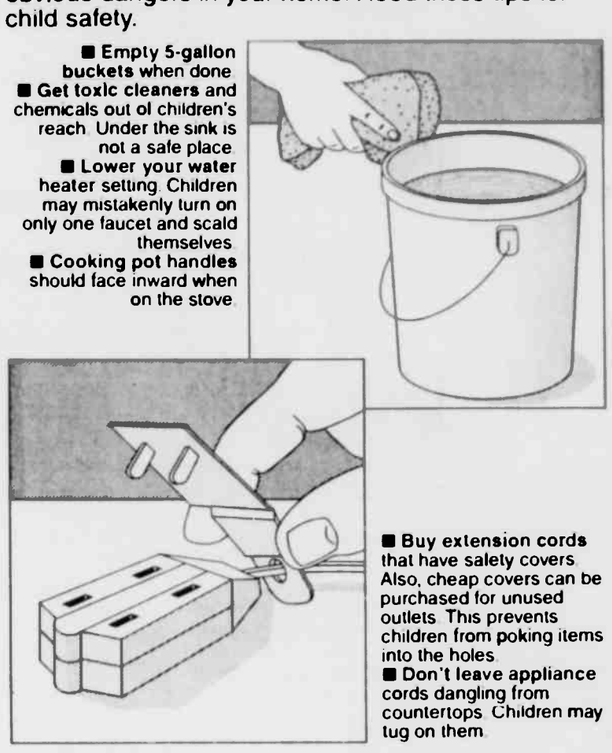
Great design trends always begin with great color schemes, and the present offerings offer a pleasing paint box of possibilities.

For countrified styles such as cottage, the palette includes a spectrum of greens ranging from celery and avocado to hunter and pine, blues inspired by the sky, sea and the Great Smokey Mountains and yellows in an array of warming, mellow tones.

A neural palette with colors such as sand, gray and bisque, meanwhile, can be a perfect and timely complement to country modern or citified ambiences while reds are red hot in tints of blush, coral, watermelon and cherry for rooms that range from classic to cowboy.

FIND YOUR STYLE

The trends above represent just a few of the many themes on the decorating front, and many more await inspection in home decorating books and magazines.



To find your style, clip or copy photos or descriptions of the rooms, furnishings and accessories you like until you start to see a pattern. Once you've developed a decorating attitude-perhaps one you can put a name to-work to pull all the parts together into one beautiful decorating scheme.

HOME HOW-TO

Common child safety hazards

Since 1985, 125 small children have drowned in 5-gallon buckets, and there are other less-than-obvious dangers in your home. Heed these tips for child safety.

- Empty 5-gallon buckets when done.
- Get toxic cleaners and chemicals out of children's reach. Under the sink is not a safe place.
- Lower your water heater setting. Children may mistakenly turn on only one faucet and scald themselves.
- Cooking pot handles should face inward when on the stove.

- Buy extension cords that have safety covers. Also, cheap covers can be purchased for unused outlets. This prevents children from poking items into the holes.
- Don't leave appliance cords dangling from countertops. Children may tug on them.

Use Nooks And Crannies To Best Advantage

By Sharon Williams
Copley News Service

It doesn't matter if square yardage is vast or virtually nonexistent. In practically every abode there's somehow never enough space.

Perhaps the newspapers waiting for the recycling bin are piling up in the corners, or your stereo system spread out in the living room leaves little room for anything else. Closets overflow with shirts, sweaters and shoes in assorted sizes and seasons.

Sure, a bigger and better house would be a nice, temporary solution. But you'd just acquire more stuff, and you'd soon be looking for more spare space.

That's why the real solution to the space crunch-whether you're decorating a tiny studio apartment or trying to control overflow-is to make the most of every inch you call your own, say designers.

Leave no square foot unturned as you uncover hidden storage areas in your home, invest in space-saving devices, employ a little elbow grease with do-it-yourself projects and work to make small spaces appear larger than they really are.

Following are some ideas for utilizing every nook and cranny.

SPACE-SAVER SECRETS

Some homes haven't a compact disc, letter or paper clip out of place. Look a little closer, though, and you'll see that such objects do exist-they're just wrapped up in attractive, practical storage solutions.

Little tools of the space-saving trade can make a big difference in an overflowing home or apartment. Some, such as rainbow bright stacking bins, filing cabinets, wire baskets and software organizers, come straight from the office. Others, such as decorator boxes, baskets, tins and glass containers double as objets d'art.

In many cases, storage equipment is object-specific. Toy boxes and plastic storage boxes come in a variety of shapes and sizes, wooden compact-disc cabinets keep the tunes in order, and overhead hanging and baker's racks for the kitchen hold cookbooks, pots and other culinary objects.

Sometimes storage equipment is designed with a certain area in mind. Toolboxes, can crushers, recycling bins, cabinets, shelves, pegboards, drawer units and freestanding sheds help save space in the busiest areas of the house-such as the garage, pantry and entryway.

Wall-mounted tools and scaled-down appliances hung or stored in an out-of-the-way spot can free up much-needed counter space.

SMART FURNISHINGS

In terms of storage, some furnishings are truly worth their floor space.

An armoire, for example, can do double duty as a home entertainment center, while an antique trunk or chest could be both coffee table and storage unit. Computer and entertainment centers provide attractive and compact solutions for high-tech treasures.

Beds present even more space saving possibilities.

Murphy beds, trundle beds, daybeds and bunk beds can help you convert a sliver of space into a sleeping area, while hideaway beds and futons make the most of vital space during the day, then offer a restful solution at night.

Do-it-yourselfers can find an assortment of space-saving projects in books and magazines. "Movable Storage Projects" by Charles R. Self (Sterling), for example, includes plans for items such as a sewing center, bar and bathroom linen storage.

OPTICAL ILLUSIONS

You can work magic in a small space if you've a few decorating tricks up your sleeve.

Mirrors, for instance, are famous for giving the impression of spacious living quarters, while light-colored walls will make a space appear larger than it actually is.

Establish an entryway with a decorative screen, hanging quilt, area rug or coat hooks.

Even the back of a sofa can be used to establish an entryway boundary line.

Artful arranging also can create the illusion of more space. Scrutinize furniture groupings in interior design magazines and books, and consult an interior decorator on ways to maximize your space by simply moving the furniture around.

SMALL SPACES -- A built-in banquette with storage under the seats squeezes seating space into a small kitchen.

It also pays to be on the lookout for "dead" space-the little-used, odd-shaped spaces in your home. Solutions can be as simple as a built-in bench built below a windowed wall for seating and storage, or as elaborate as a spacious loft constructed in the space below a cathedral ceiling or attic.

Finally, every organized homeowner knows that the secret to enough space often lies in getting rid of the extraneous, the dreary and the junky.

Ideas include sending piles of unused clothing to a thrift store or consignment shop, getting photographs and memorabilia out of the boxes and into albums, filing away important papers and tossing the rest, and holding a yard sale every year or so to further clear the clutter.

SHELF SUGGESTIONS

Shelves are the ultimate weapon against clutter and small spaces, and today's options are designed to support just about everything. In many cases, shelves aren't just functional - they're bona-fide pieces of furniture.

Today's custom-built shelves and modular units, for example, can divide and define an open area for a variety of purposes, transform a few spare square feet and a wall into a home office, home entertainment center or quiet study nook, or display a beloved collection that once was scattered about the house.

Other high-profile inspirations include high border shelving constructed around the perimeter of the kitchen for interesting or little used objects, shelving placed in spare corners for knickknacks and books, and wine racks installed in the bathroom to hold towels.

For out-of-sight storage, meanwhile, shelves can transform wasted space under stairwells or sink cavities. Metal or wire shelves that can be compartmentalized with plastic storage bins or baskets are other behind-the-scenes solutions.

CLOSET CACHE

In most homes, closet doors hide a lot of clutter. But you can set things straight.

Most closets offer much room for improvement-so much so that many design professionals have made organizing closets their job. Call one, and he or she will have your nightmare-behind-doors tamed in a jiffy.

Handy do-it-yourselfers, meanwhile, can do much the same with shelves, partitions, shoe holders and hanging and wall-mounted racks-just some of the organizers designed to make the most of your closet space.

With the right system, you'll be able to establish a place for every item-thus organizing your wardrobe. And with everything hanging neatly in its place, you'll find you've loads of space that you didn't have before.

AFFORDABLE TOUCHES

If you like the luxe look of Victorian interiors, use affordable moldings, ceiling medallions and wall brackets to create the look. They're available at home-improvement centers and can be painted to create any effect you like. (CNS)

WHITE ELEPHANT

Pristine white may look good in decorating magazines and books, but it doesn't always work in real-life homes. A sparkling white kitchen or bathroom requires constant cleaning. White rugs look great-until someone walks on them. (CNS)

QUICK FIX

Here are a few affordable, quick ways to perk up a room: Paint doors and moldings in a contrasting color, change the hardware on cabinets, install vinyl tile on a small floor. (CNS)

CARPET CARE

One way to extend the life of a carpet is to use area rugs, which add color and are easier to clean. It's also less expensive to change an area rug than it is to replace carpeting. (CNS)

GOOD FENCES

According to a Woman's Day survey, one-quarter of us have had at least one dispute with a neighbor. Noise is the most common complaint, followed by children's behavior, pets and garbage. (CNS)

CHANGING DIMENSIONS

Folding screens are an affordable way to temporarily divide a room or create a private niche. Use a small screen to hide a radiator or air conditioner. (CNS)

HELLO, SUNSHINE

Bright, white walls can open up a room, but consider a clear shade of yellow instead. Yellow harmonizes with many colors and adds brightness and warmth to a room. (CNS).

Seven Homeless After House Is Gutted By Fire

An accidental fire Friday afternoon resulted in the destruction of a one-story ranch style home along O'Brien Road, leaving a family of seven homeless.

Volunteer fire fighters from Bittinger, Deer Park, and Deep Creek fire departments responded to the residence of Joseph and Abbie Kauffman at 2:30 p.m. after a neighbor discovered smoke coming from the structure. None of the members of the family was home at the time of the fire.

The house, located just off Rt. 495, was fully involved in flames upon the arrival of fire units, according to James Martin, deputy state fire marshal, who investigated the incident.

Martin determined the cause of the fire to be combustible materials that had been placed too close to heat ducts in the basement. He estimated the loss to be $75,000.

Martin said that neighbors and family members in the Swanton area are assisting the Kauffman family.

TRUCK OVERTURNS - The driver of the above GMC Sierra 6000 that overturned last Thursday afternoon, was transported by Northern Garrett County Rescue Squad to Garrett County Memorial Hospital, where he was treated and released, according to a hospital spokesperson. Donald L. Upole, 27, Oakland, was traveling south on Rt. 495 when an axle reportedly snapped, causing the truck to overturn near the intersection with New Germany Road. Maryland State Police, Barrack W, McHenry, investigated the 3:55 p.m. mishap.

Oakland Woman Injured When Car Strikes Log Truck

An Oakland woman was treated and released from Garrett County Memorial Hospital Friday, following a two-vehicle accident on the New Germany Road, at the intersection with Big Run Road.

According to a report filed by Tfc. Glenn Seaman, Maryland State Police, Barrack W, McHenry, Jennifer L. Anderson, 21, was injured when the 1985 Subaru she was driving collided with a log truck operated by Roger L. Buskirk Sr., 46, Lonaconing, as the truck attempted to make a left turn onto Big Run Road.

Anderson was cited following the 11:30 a.m. accident. Northern Garrett County Rescue Squad responded to the scene.

STRIKES EMBANKMENT

Tammy L. Secrist, 23, Mtn. Lake Park, was treated and released from Garrett County Memorial Hospital, following a 9:45 p.m. mishap on the Kitzmiller Road (Md. Rt. 38), near the Vindex Road.

Secrist told state police the 1987 Dodge Aries she was driving began to vibrate as she descended a hill, and when she applied the brakes, the pedal went to the floor. The car then crossed to the other side of the road and struck an embankment.

Secrist was cited following the mishap. Elk Garden rescue squad transported Secrist to Garrett County Memorial Hospital.

DOP, B&E, THEFT REPORTED

Maryland State Police investigated destruction of property, and breaking and entering and theft complaints this past week.

Stephen Huber, Friendsville, told police unknown culprits damaged three pickup truck campers located on his property on the Cranesville Road, south of White Rock Road, near Friendsville, sometime between December 1993 and the beginning of April.

Mary G. Paulson reported someone broke into her vacation cabin on the Cranesville Road and stole a Coleman camp stove. The incident occurred sometime between March 18 and April 1, according to Tfc

Friendsville Community Park Issue Draws Crowd; Petition Is Rejected

In an effort to dispel rumors that had been circulating among the townspeople of Friendsville, as well as to address a petition that had also been circulating, a special meeting was held Monday evening that drew almost 70 persons at the Friendsville Town Hall.

Mayor Spencer R. Schlossnagle and town council members conducted the meeting, which centered around the town's formal agreement with the Friendsville Lions Club regarding the development and maintenance of the town's community park.

"We want people to understand what the whole story is," said Schlossnagle.

A petition bearing the names of 67 citizens was presented to the mayor and town council by Friendsville resident Christine Allen. Approximately two hours later, that petition was unanimously rejected by the council members who, instead, opted to maintain the current five-year agreement with the Lions Club. The petition had called for the town to enter into the agreement only on a year-to-year basis.

While some members of the Friendsville Lions Club maintained that the petition was an attack on the club, others representing the petitioners claimed that it was merely an attempt to "protect the citizens of the town."

President of the Friendsville Lions Club Marlin Lawson told The Republican he was "disgusted with all the criticism and if we get any more flack, we're going to walk away."

The petition names only the Lions Club (which is the organization most responsible for carrying out improvement projects and maintenance efforts at the park, but other clubs, such as the Rotary Club and the local fire department, also hold special events at the park.

Allen outlined the other main points in the petition (which an overwhelming majority of those in attendance said they hadn't even seen before that night, and which some citizens said they had signed after incorrect or misleading information had been presented to them) including the request that all grant monies ob-

Judge Burnett To Speak At GCC Commencement

The Honorable Ralph Burnett, judge of Garrett County District Court, will be speaker for Garrett Community College's 22nd annual commencement May 21, according to college president Dr. Steve. Herman.

Judge Burnett has served the people of Garrett County since 1972, both as a practicing attorney and as a member of many community public service organizations. He holds a B.A. in English literature from Dickinson College and juris doctorate cum laude from the University of Baltimore. After being admitted to the Maryland Bar in 1972, he served as assistant state's attorney for Garrett County and was elected state's attorney in 1974. In 1976 he opened his own law practice with Leonard Eiswert and taught law and political science courses at Garrett Community College between 1974 and 1982. He is currently a member of the Garrett County Board Association, the Maryland Bar Association, and the Federal Bar Association. From 1981-1982 he served as member of the Board of Governors of the Maryland

Oakland Vol. Fire Fighters Finalizing Plans For 100th

The members of the Oakland Volunteer Fire Department are asking the general public to help them celebrate an event that took place on May 18, 1894, a Friday evening 100 years ago when a group of concerned citizens met to found the Oakland VFD.

The Oakland volunteers have scheduled a full week of activities designed to celebrate that event and to show their appreciation to local citizens for their support over the years.

OPEN HOUSE

The week will begin on Sunday, May 15, with an Open House at the fire hall on Third Street, from noon to 9 p.m., to which the public is invited. A highlight of the day will be the unveiling of the department's recently restored 1930 American LaFrance fire engine known as Old Number One.

Fire equipment, memorabilia, and a large fire photo exhibit will be on display, with fire fighters on hand at all of the displays to answer questions and explain firefighting and rescue techniques. There will also be displays by the Maryland State Fire Marshal's Office, Garrett County Fire and Rescue Communications (911), the Maryland Fire and Rescue Institute (MFRI), and Ashby Fire Equipment Company. A multi-media slide program titled "Urban Fire Combat" will be presented by MFRI several times during the day.

On hand for children will be "Sparkles," the fire department clown, plus Smokey Bear from the Maryland Department of Natural Resources, who is celebrating his 50th birthday this year. The latest in children's fire safety videos will also be shown throughout the day.

Also on Sunday afternoon, Garrett County Memorial Hospital in conjunction with the Garrett County Sheriff's Office will sponsor "Kinderprints," a children's fingerprinting for safety program.

In observance of National Emergency Medical Services Week (May 15-22), the Southern Garrett County Rescue Squad will be on hand with displays of equipment and will provide free blood pressure screenings.

Weather permitting, there will also be outside displays of other fire department and rescue squad equipment.

Door prizes will also be awarded and various souvenirs will be available for sale.

The open house will be repeated both Tuesday and Thursday evenings, May 17 and 19, from 6 to 10 p.m.

PARADE

A large fire fighters' parade will be held Saturday, May 21, in downtown Oakland, with line-up beginning at 9 a.m. and the parade at 11. According to parade chairman John Feather, fire apparatus from companies as far away as Prince Georges and Baltimore counties in Maryland, Winchester, Va., and Pleasant Hills, Pa., in addition to

Co. Development Plan To Include Rt. 219 Proposal

The Garrett County Planning Commission voted last week to include a reservation for the proposed development of the Rt. 219 international trade corridor in the county's comprehensive development plan so that, if the proposal should come to fruition, provisions for funding would be more accessible, according to planning officials.

The commission heard presentations from both Dennis Yoder, a Maryland State Highway Administration (SHA) planner, and G. Stuart Menzies, representing the firm of Whitman, Requardt and Associates, Richmond, Va., both of whom explained the advantages of including the proposal in the county's comprehensive plan.

Menzies reviewed the Rt. 219 proposal and the recently renewed interest in developing the corridor as an international trade route stretching from Canada to southern West Virginia. The development of the partially controlled access highway would include the need of by-passes around the towns of Accident and Oakland in Garrett County.

He told the commission members that the proposed corridor would provide for economic development, international commerce, tourism, and employment in all areas around the highway, and noted that the proposed route would pass through 18 counties with high unemployment rates.

"The possibility of developing Rt. 219 as an international trade corridor has increased from the time the idea was first introduced," said Menzies. He added that more consideration might be given to the proposal in light of the fact that a relief route would be useful between Rts. 81 and 79, with approximately 100 miles between them.

Yoder also provided some background on the request to the members, saying that with implementation of the growth management act, the State Highway Administration "is looking to Garrett County to provide detailed ideas in the development plan for the proposed highway projects."

He reported that the project is being proposed as a "scenic highway," and also noted that the original study for the implementation of such a project, begun in the 1970's, was deemed not feasible because of the cost, right-of-way acquisition, and the potential environmental impact.

SHA was then asked to conduct another feasibility study of Rt. 219 -- especially of the proposed by-passes around Oakland and Accident. Since then, the department has come up with alignments around the Memorial Drive area of Oakland, where the by-pass would be located.

Yoder concluded that four steps would be involved in the overall project, the first of which

Sherry Upole Crowned Mrs. Maryland

A Garrett County resident has been crowned Mrs. Maryland after competing with 15 other finalists from throughout the state in the 18th Annual Mrs. Maryland Pageant held April 10 at the BWI Airport Marriott.

Sherry Upole, Mrs. Maryland 1994, is the first person from the county to ever hold the title of Mrs. Maryland. She had never before competed in a pageant.

"I almost backed out," said the 26-year-old wife and mother. "When I got to the hotel, I thought about going to the candy machine, buying a couple of candy bars, and not leave my room." She gathered her courage and went to the pageant, and "won by a landslide," according to Sid Sussman, executive director of American Pageants, Inc., which owns the Mrs. Maryland Pageant. She won first place in the swimsuit, personality, and evening gown categories, and was crowned by the 1993 Mrs. Maryland, Lisa Allman.

According to Sussman, Mrs. Upole will receive an all-expense-paid trip to Fort Worth, Texas, Sept. 1-10, to compete for the title of Mrs. America. The pageant will be filmed for syndicated television to be released at a later date. A panel of celebrity judges will judge contestants on beauty, figure, poise, personality, grooming, intelligence, and community involvement. In addition to the title of Mrs. America, the winner of that pageant will receive approximately $50,000 cash and $25,000 in prizes and awards, as well as the chance to compete for Mrs. World.

During her reign, Mrs. Upole will make personal appearances throughout the state for public, private and charitable organizations, including the Oakland Volunteer Fire Department's 100th anniversary celebration, and has already been offered a modeling contract with Cameo Coutures, Inc. Whitehead Outdoor Advertising in Cumberland plans to erect a billboard featuring the new Mrs. Maryland in the near future, and plans are also underway for her to meet Governor William Donald Schaefer, attend a Baltimore Orioles baseball game, and make appearances at the Mrs. Virginia, Mrs. West Virginia, and Miss Maryland pageants.

Mrs. Upole attended Potomac State College and graduated from the Western School of Heahh in Pennsylvania. She has been a volunteer with a variety of organizations, including the American Heart Association, the American Red Cross, the American Cancer Society, the Maryland Coal Association, and the American Medical Technologists.

She is the daughter of Gerald and Shelby (Arnold) Duckett, Mtn. Lake Park, and the late Richard Arnold. She resides along U.S. Rt. 50 near Gorman, with her husband, Mike, son of Gib and Karen Upole, and her 3-year-old daughter, Brittany Lynn.

Convicted Sex Offender To Serve 10 Years

A man convicted of second degree sexual offense was sentenced last week in Garrett County Circuit Court to ten years in the Maryland Department of Corrections. Larry P. Inglese, 45, Oakland, was handed the jail term by Judge Fred A. Thayer.

Inglese was convicted of the charge in a January trial, at which time other charges of child abuse and assault and battery were not prosecuted. The defendant allegedly sexually molested an 11-year-old girl on a nearly weekly basis between the months of February and September of 1993. Inglese was apparently in charge of the child when the offenses were committed.

The defendant reportedly took pornographic photographs of the child, which were later confiscated by investigators.

Two Canadian artist, known for their music making and story telling, will appear in concert on Saturday, April 30, at 7 p.m. in the Great Hall at Penn Alps, Grantsville.

Billed as Canadians In Concert: Music and Story, the program will feature Carol Ann Weaver, a well-known composer-pianist. Her premiere performance of Appalachian Call is a work especially commissioned and composed for this region and occasion.

Weaver has studied in the USA (Ph.D University of Indian, Bloomington, Ind.) Canada, and abroad. Currently a professor at the University of Waterlook, Ontario, she is recognized for her dramatic and innovative compositions rooted in a wide range of idioms: classical, romantic, folk, and jazz. "No one ever sleeps or is bored at Weaver's concerts," one reviewer said.

Storyteller Jack Dueck is widely known for his stories of humor and hope. His program will include not only the humor as la Sarah Binks: Sweet Songstress of Saskatchewan, but also stories of humor, grace, and ironies about growing up Russian Mennonite in western Canada.

"The program deepens into the stories of tragedy and holocaust of his people under Lenin and Stalin and moves through the tears and hope of the Russian Mennonite sojourn of faith, even in a Siberian frozen hell," a spokesperson said.

A Dueck technique is to weave songs throughout a story, and include audience participation. A reception will follow the program.

Tickets are available for the concert or dinner and concert for $10 or $18 at Penn Alps, 301-895-5985, or Spruce Forest Artisan Village, 301-895-3332. Visa is acceptable or persons may make checks payable to Spruce Forest Artisan Village, Box 5, Route 2, Grantsville, MD 21536.

This is a benefit concert sponsored by Penn Alps and Spruce Forest Artisan Village. All proceeds, will go to "Music at Penn Alps & Spruce Forest" series, the spokesperson said.

Apparent Botched Robbery Attempt Probed By GCSO

Two security alarms from 84 Lumber sounded early Sunday morning at 4:55 and 5:04, alerting the Garrett County Sheriff's Office to a possible robbery at the business, which is located on Rt. 135 just east of Mountain Lake Park. Officers were then notified by Terry King, Loch Lynn, who reported that all the phone wires to 84 Lumber had been cut.

Investigators speculated that potential burglars had cut the wires thinking that they were disconnecting the alarm system, and then attempted to enter the building. Upon further investigation, it was also discovered that the front doors to the IGA grocery store had been tampered with. The store is located in the same vicinity as 84 Lumber.

Temporary wires had to be arranged for the company on Sunday, according to the report, until further repairs could be made.

Oakland Secures Main Street Grant For Streetlights

The town of Oakland will receive $18,500 from the Main Street Improvement Program. The grant will be matched locally and used to erect streetlights at the new municipal building. Part of the money will also be used to put curb cuts at several street corners in town for the benefit of persons with disabilities.

According to Asa McCain, the streetlights planned for the entire downtown area cost $2,600 each.

"We will have to work at it gradually," McCain said. He also indicated that another improvement grant will be sought to aid with the building of a brick sidewalk in front of the burned-out buildings on Second Street.

The curb cuts will be done on Green, Alder, and Second streets.

A Swanton man was indicted by an Allegany Grand Jury this week on 44 counts of theft, according to reports. Lewis S. Bolyard, 49, is accused of stealing building supplies and labor from Carl Belt, Inc.

Bolyard was indicted along with Bradley D. Bolyard, 44, Kingwood, W.Va. The two are reportedly former superintendents with the local construction company, and the criminal investigators in Allegany County have alleged that the Bolyards used company equipment and materials, as well as company labor, to construct their residences and additions.

Bradley Bolyard faces 26 counts of theft.

FRIENDSVILLE PARK STIRS CONTROVERSY -- Approximately 70 people attended a special meeting held Monday evening in Friendsville by the Friendsville Mayor and Town Council to iron out concerns over the Friendsville Community Park, which is owned by the town and maintained by the Friendsville Lions Club. A petition, signed by 67 residents, was presented to Mayor Spencer R. Schlossnagle during the meeting. Petitioners were requesting answers on such issues as the town's liability insurance, bidding process, and funding mechanisms. The petition was later rejected by the mayor and town council, who opted to continue its five-year agreement with the Lions Club. Shown at left, standing, is Martin Lawson, Lions Club president, who answered questions from the group about how the club operates at the park. See story.

Friendsville Woman Convicted On Battery Charge In Dist. Court

A Friendsville woman was convicted on one count of battery by Judge Ralph M. Burnett in Garrett County District Court proceedings last week.

Hazel L. Uphold, 64, pleaded guilty to the offense and was sentenced to six months in jail (suspended), and placed on two years of supervised probation. Conditions of her probation state she must attend counseling with the health department as directed by the parole and probation board. Additional charges of battery, reckless endangerment, and possession a handgun in her vehicle on a public road were not prosecuted because of plea agreements with the state's attorney.

According to court records, Uphold had been charged with the offense after Tfc. M. Rodeheaver, Maryland State Police, responded to an assault complaint on Sept. 27, 1993, from her sister, Judith A. Ferguson, who stated she had gone to the home occupied by Uphold and their mother. Uphold reportedly attacked Ferguson, struck her in the head with her fist, and attempted to stab her with a knife, resulting in the charges of battery and reckless endangerment.

Court records further indicate Uphold had left the home with her mother, following the altercation, and headed toward Friendsville. When state police officers apprehended Uphold, they found a Smith & Wesson .38 Special handgun in her purse, which resulted in her arrest.

Mischele E. Ervin, 33, Elk Garden, W.Va., was convicted on one count of welfare fraud after she failed to report a change in her financial circumstances to the Department of Social Services. The judge handed her an 18-month suspended sentence. Ervin must also make restitution to the DSS. A violation of probation charge against her was dismissed, and supervised probation was extended to one year.

In other district court news, probation before judgment was granted to David G. Duckworth, 21, Lonaconing, on two counts of battery, stemming from a Nov. 11, 1993 altercation with Leslie Staup and a juvenile at a mobile home on the Savage River Road. He was handed a 90-day suspended sentence, and placed on six months of supervised probation in Judge Burnett's court. Additional charges of felony theft, assault and battery, robbery and assault with intent to rob were not prosecuted because of plea agreements with the state's attorney's office.

James A. Pancake, 21, Morgantown, W.Va., was granted probation before judgment on one count of possession of drug paraphernalia with intent to process a controlled dangerous substance (CDS). He was fined $150 and placed on six months of unsupervised probation for the offense. An additional charge of CDS possession was not prosecuted by the state's attorney.

Pancake had been arrested in May 1993 by MSP troopers on I-68 after they found him to be in possession of two smoking pipes containing marijuana residue and a film canister containing marijuana.

Eric House, 18, Grantsville, pleaded not guilty and was granted probation before judgment on one count of harassment. The judge fined him $150 and placed him on six months of unsupervised probation. Conditions of the probation state he must stay away from the Kohler family. He was also charged with vehicle violations including reckless driving and speedtained for park improvements be controlled by the town council and that the Friendsville Lions Club carry liability insurance on the town park to "further protect the citizens."

The petitioners also asked that all projects be completed before new ones are started (asking, specifically, that a fence be erected along the park's water accesses); that the Lions Club submit proposals to the town council for approval before beginning any project; that three competitive bids be taken for any work at the park; that all Maryland state rules and regulations for parks be adhered to "with no exceptions;" and that portable toilets and electricity be paid for by the user.

Allen told the group that the agreement between the Lions Club and the town "does not protect us enough from liability, and all Friendsville taxpayers can be levied for that liability. I, personally, do not have the extra money."

Allen said that information was presented to her from a lawyer who said the primary liability should lie with the club. Schlossnagle, told the group, however, that the town's lawyer, Leonard Fiswert, responded to the same issue by stating that it would be "unrealistic" to expect a volunteer organization to buy such an insurance policy.

Lawson reported that, in fact, the club does obtain insurance every time a special event is held. That insurance is in addition to the insurance held by the town 365 days a year.

He also said that the club has always obtained approval from the town before any project is initiated, and noted that all projects are bound by the limitations of the Program Open Space grant monies used for the development and improvement of the park.

Terry Spear, a former member of the town council, also spoke on behalf of the Lions Club, saying that he was "tired of defending the Lions Club to the council and others. We're only going to take so much beating and then give up. The club should be commended -- each year the town portion of park funding goes down and the club portion goes up. It if were up to the people in the town, we wouldn't have a park."

Spear then told Allen that she hadn't "done her homework."

Mayor Schlossnagle then addressed the petitioners request that a year-to-year agreement with the Lions Club be established instead of the current five-year agreement, saying that the nature of the long-term goals of the club at the park make the five-year option more appropriate and workable. He did say, however, that either party entering into the agreement has the right to cancel at any time, thus rendering that agreement null and void.

On the issue of the competitive bidding for the various projects, Spear stated that the town is bound by the same rules for securing bids as the county government, that being that any project which carries a price tag of over $5,000 must be advertized to bidders. He assured the group that the proper bidding procedures have always been adhered to by the town.

Jose Arbelada, Lions Club member, attempted to sum up the entire proceedings of the evening by saying that "not one thing in the petition has been germane to the subject. The petition is redundant to the agreement."

And as each issue was successfully addressed by either the town or the club, Scott McLean, another Lions Club member, may have asked the most pertinent question of the evening: "Why are the townspeople so opposed to what the club is doing? Is it jealousy?"

Hypocrisy At Its Best...

It is both fascinating and infuriating to ponder the current argument between Congress and the U.S. tobacco industry over whether or not the various additives to cigarettes are harmful to one's health. Until recently the fact that tobacco and nicotine without any additives kills people on a daily basis really hasn't mattered to Congress.

Although the powerful tobacco lobbyists have lost a few rounds in recent years, such as the imposition of age limitations on who can buy cigarettes and the ban on television advertising of tobacco products, they have remained a persuasive force on a rather gutless Congress, a Congress that continues to subsidize the tobacco industry, despite the fact that illness and disease caused by tobacco use cost our nation's taxpayers billions of dollars each year.

This is the same group of elected officials who pass so many other laws designed to protect us. Employers can be fined for not warning clerical staff of the dangers of White-Out. Precise measurements of noise levels are made by OSHA officials to make sure employees' hearing is not damaged. Our newspaper office was nearly fined one time for having a light socket in which there was no bulb. Day care centers and kitchens that are used to prepare food for public consumption are scrutinized to the nth degree. Farmers and contractors are watched like hawks as they go about their business so there is not the slightest slip that could even remotely be harmful to another human being(s). We put people in jail for smoking marijuana, a substance that is not nearly as addictive as tobacco.

Some of the above regulations certainly have merit, but why is there such zealous enforcement of them while smoking, an activity which has been proven beyond a shadow of a doubt to be harmful, continues to be allowed in many public areas? It is hypocrisy at its best. Smokers claim they "have rights, too," which is a correct statement, but they absolutely should not have the "right" to pollute the air that is being breathed by other people, including their own innocent children within the walls of their homes. This is an outright violation of non-smokers' rights that has been condoned by our government for years.

Granted, we do seem to finally be on the right track, as restrictions on smoking are being increased. But this is happening only because the non-smoking public and various health agencies are beginning to put as much pressure on Congress as do the tobacco lobbyists. This is the key to change, because the majority of the members of Congress have shown us that, in this situation, they on their own don't have the courage to do what is right.

Letters to the Editor

To the Editor:

For the past eighteen years, my family and I have enjoyed visiting our property on the lake. We pay substantial taxes even though we do not use the services intended. Our property is assessed at a much higher rate than other areas in the county that are not contiguous to the lake.

We have contested this time and time again only to fall on bureaucratic deaf ears. This is a consequence of cause and effect of "taxation without representation."

Now comes the "ad valorem tax." Once again our "city fathers," lacking management ingenuity, find it convenient to tap the "well" that cannot fight back! Or can we?! Does not the 14th amendment to our constitution protect our rights from arbitrary state (municipal) action? It is obvious that we cannot rely on the effectiveness of the POA. Or do we simply cave-in and find another resort area that will welcome our money without continually abusing our privileges?

Sincerely,
Serf Guerra
Midland, Va.

To the Editor,

Every year, Americans undertake the unpleasant task of figuring their tax bill. For many Americans, this stress is intensified this year by the fact that they must then pay an additional amount of taxes to the government.

President Clinton tells us that this "sacrifice" is necessary and worthwhile because it will help solve America's many problems.

Yet it seems that the President and First Lady may owe $45,411 in taxes, most of which is a result of their Whitewater investment. Reports show that during the years 1980 through 1992, the Clintons continually underpaid their taxes, overestimating deductions and making questionable write-offs.

It seems strange that the Clintons, while deducting a $15.00 charitable contribution of used underwear, chose not to deduct the loss of over $68,000 they claim resulted from their Whitewater investment.

The Clintons still refuse to release all the documents regarding Whitewater. However, if any of the allegations regarding the Clintons and Whitewater are true, then the American people have the right to know.

When the rest of America is pulling their hair out over the tax burden, President Clinton can rest comfortably knowing that their tax increases will make up for what he and Hillary have failed to pay.

The American people should carefully follow the Whitewater investigation until these questions are answered.

Sincerely,
Mrs. Nellie Holtschneider
Swanton

To the Editor:

Last week on Outdoors Maryland, televised across Maryland by means of Maryland Public Television, there was a show produced for Fishing the North Branch of the Potomac River. I should point a few things out that the viewer is not aware of.

First off, is that this show was to promote Western Maryland as a fishing area for tourist from down east. It was for the purpose of generating funds for a county by means of fraud and extortion.

The girl that was featured as catching this huge trout has close connection with the ones from the Department of Natural Resources Fishery Division. Also, I feel that the show perpetrated fraud upon the citizens of Maryland with the intent to get money by any means.

The area that was used to catch this fish is off limits to the fishermen of this state. There are lots of fishermen that have been arrested for fishing this area and tined. This is another example of abuse by state personnel who are caretakers of a valuable resource, that they are above the law and can do, what the citizens of the state are not allowed to do. And remember the fishermen and sportsmen are footing the bill for the policing of this resource and we are the only ones being fined for this.

This off limit area is another example of the state personnel using a state protected area for their own personal use and their use only. That this area is their private fishing and Warrior Mountain Wildlife Management Area is their private hunting area, (they have their own access and a gate to keep the citizens out).

I feel that all fines that have been issued to the citizens of the state be returned or that the state fined all that was involved in this fraud. The state feels that the ends justify the middle.

If you feel as others do, then call the Maryland Public Television and ask for Mike English, toll free number, 1-800-223-3678. If you call and he won't answer, leave your message on his answering machine with your phone number and ask for a return call.

To the Editor:

For one in seven people in Maryland alone, arthritis means long-term pain, limited movement, and trouble doing even simple tasks. For some, just getting dressed or writing a letter can be a major pain. For many others, in whom arthritis may be less severe, pain is still a constant companion. Fortunately there are many ways to get a grip on arthritis if people with the disease will take an active part in their own care.

Unfortunately, many people with the beginning symptoms of arthritis delay seeking treatment because they don't think it's serious enough. And those who know the full pain arthritis can bring may still be unaware of the many ways they can limit the influence of this disease on their lives.

May is National Arthritis Month, and the Arthritis Foundation encourages residents of the Allegany/Garrett county areas to take advantage of the many services available to help people with arthritis improve their quality of life.

Seeing a doctor to determine the specific type of arthritis one has is a first step because proper treatment depends on the type of arthritis. In addition to prescribed medical treatment, the Arthritis Foundation's Western Maryland Branch offers additional services such as warm-water exercise classes, support groups and more.

Arthritis can be a serious, painful, crippling condition. But it doesn't have to control your life. The Arthritis Foundation can help you get a grip on arthritis and keep that grip. I encourage everyone who has arthritis or knows someone with the disease to contact the Arthritis Foundation today for free information and a listing of local services. Call the Arthritis Foundation, Western Maryland Branch at 759-9411 or 1-800-365-3811.

Leave Your Social Security Card At Home

by Thomas W. Armbruster
Social Security Manager in Cumberland, Maryland

Leave home without it!

You may need to carry your driver's license and credit card with you, but you can leave your Social Security card at home except when you'll need it for a specific reason, such as applying for a job or opening a bank account.

It might be advisable to keep the card where you put your birth certificate, insurance policies and other important documents. This precaution could prevent your card from being lost or stolen. And it is important to protect both your card and your number.

We use the number to record your earnings and, because your future benefits are based on those earnings, you should make sure your record is accurate. You can check your record by calling 1-800-772-1213 and asking for a Personal Earnings and Benefit Estimate Statement.

If your card is lost or stolen, you can get a replacement by calling or visiting a Social Security office. You'll need to file an application and submit evidence of your identity. You also may need to prove your U.S. citizenship or lawful alien status.

Also, if your card is lost or stolen, someone else may use your number -- and that could cause you problems in the future. If you have evidence that someone else is using your Social Security number, contact us right away.

SEXUAL HARASSMENT
It's No Laughing Matter
written by Eleanor A. Sloan, Public Personnel Worker for the Garrett County Board of Education

Sexual harassment is defined as any unwanted and unwelcomed sexual advances, request for sexual favors, or other physical or verbal conduct of a sexual nature when it interferes with a person's performance or creates an intimidating, hostile or offensive working or learning environment. Under Title VII of the Civil Rights Act of 1964, the Civil Rights Act of 1991 and Title IX of the Education Amendment of 1972, employees and students are protected from any unlawful form of discrimination on the basis of sex.

It is a serious matter and therefore the Garrett County Board of Education seeks to clarify and affirm its commitment to ensuring that all students and employees are provided with a learning and working environment that is free of sexual harassment. At the same time, each student and employee has a responsibility not to engage in sexual behaviors and languages that are unwelcomed or offensive to others. They also have the responsibility to report any sexual harassment that they see occurring. The Garrett County Board of Education will not permit sexual harassment by anyone under any circumstances because it does violate federal and state laws and is inherently wrong.

There are several types of sexual harassment. One type is called "quid pro quo" harassment. This means that someone is treated differently because of his or her sex. Sexually pressured activity or favors are exchanged or proposed to be exchanged for educational advantages or for job benefits. It is behavior or words that may be offensive on a one-time basis. The existence of a hostile environment is potentially another type of sexual harassment. It is behavior or language that is repeated and causes a person to feel uncomfortable or offended and creates an environment that makes learning or working difficult. The worst cases go beyond harassment to sexual assault or rape, which are criminal activities.

There are several kinds of sexual harassment. Physical sexual harassment is any unwanted sexually oriented physical act. For example: Grabbing or touching someone, especially his or her sexual/private parts; tearing or pulling at a person's clothing; purposefully rubbing or bumping against a person; kissing or holding a person against one's will, or impeding a person's movements or preventing a person from moving freely.

Verbal sexual harassment means offensive works and comments, spoken privately to a person or in front of others. For example: Comments about body parts or rating people's bodies; sexually suggestive comments or threats; spreading sexual rumors or stories; sexual jokes, or using homosexuality or bisexuality as an insult.

Non-verbal sexual harassment includes: Staring or pointing at a person's body or body parts so that one party feels sexually threatened or humiliated; making obscene gestures; displaying obscene sexual material or placing it in someone's locker or someone's computer, or writing people's names along with sexual remarks, suggestions, or drawings in public places.

Everyone needs to know the difference between flirting or kidding around and sexual harassment. Flirting or joking are two-sided and are usually enjoyable for both people. Flirting feels good, but sexual harassment doesn't. It isn't fun, it's bullying and it hurts and demeans its victims. The difference between good-natured harmless fun and sexual harassment is how it makes the other person feel.

View From My Window

by Jeffrey Wilson

Native to Harford County, 150 miles east of Oakland along the Mason-Dixon line, I call Garrett County my second home. I was only three months old back in 1955 when my parents took me on my first airplane ride and the only time I every travelled to Garrett County by plane.

The purpose was to secure a five-generation photography with my Great-Great-Grandma King, her daughter, my Great-Grandma Stahl, her daughter, my grandmia and her daughter, my mom. It is a handsome picture of a baby boy surrounded by five, attractive and strong-willed women.

My grandmother, born Wilma Stahl, married Paul Artis whom God called to the Methodist ministry. In those days Methodist clergy committed themselves to go where they were sent, and my grandfather was sent to Whiteford in Harford County. It was there that my mother and both her sisters spent their teen years, and met the men who would become their husbands.

For my grandmother, Garrett County, and specifically the Stahl farm near Red House was "up home." She would take my brothers and me with her on what was then an all day trek by car, down through Romney, W.Va., and up Route 50. We rarely got to the top of the mountain without having to stop the car because somebody was sick. We always said our stomachs met themselves coming the opposite direction on those curves.

Grandma King died two years after my first journey up the mountain, but my Grandma Stahl lived until 1983. My other great-grandmother, Mae Artis, lived until December 1986, just two months short of her 101st birthday. For 31 years I had occasion to make regular visits to Garrett County. And since then I have chosen to do so, to see family and to revisit the scenes of so many happy memories. In 1992 the Garrett County Farm Bureau invited me to address their annual banquet, which underscored my sense of Garrett County as my second home.

The Republican has kindly consented to publish my weekly column, of which this is my first contribution. I have been writing a newspaper column since 1983. The next year, the York Daily Record published my work on a fortnightly and then weekly basis until February of this year. Since that time I have been self-syndicating my weekly column. But journalism is not my profession, rather an opportunity to share my life with others.

Like my Grandpa Artis, God called me to ministry. I serve a Presbyterian congregation in York, Pa., 36 miles from my Maryland home. When people ask my why I serve a church so far from my home I tell them I had to go that far to get past all my cousins. For my father's family is as thick on the ground in Harford County as my mother's family is in Garrett County. While I rarely write explicitly about a religious issue, my faith in Jesus Christ informs all that I am and do, and thus shapes my writing.

As if pastoring and writing were not enough to keep me busy, I am also active in my community. Since completing my education back in 1981 I have held numerous positions in the community. At present I am president of the County Council of Harford County, a position I shall lay aide the first Monday of December this year. A dozen years of community service have taken their toll, and I need a rest. My interest in public things remains high, and from time to time I may trouble you with my opinions about the way the world is going.

Like most people who keep their sanity, the center of my daily life is the family hearth. I live with my wife, Deborah, and three children in a 175-year old house on a family farm. You will get to know my family, and visit our home. My hope is that you will come to feel that you are among our relatives and friends and that this column is a letter from someone near your own heart, but who lives at a distance. You will discover too that though I do not, and perhaps could not, make my living by farming, I find that I cannot make my life without farming. As we tend our garden, fields and livestock, you will get regular reports.

And one in a while I shall pause from thinking, and describe a scene for no reason other than it is beautiful. This morning as I was doing my morning chores, I looked up the eastern rise where I saw a small herd of deer grazing against the redness of the sky just before dawn. I shall share such things with you so that you can see with me the view from my window.

NEWS from THE MARYLAND FOREST, PARK & WILDLIFE SERVICE

SAFE DEBRIS BURNING

The Department of Natural Resources, Public Lands and Forest Service, would like to remind people that spring is traditionally a time of high forest fire danger in Maryland. In 1993 more than 551 wildfires burned nearly 2800 acres in the state. Some 304 acres of this acreage was woodland.

Many of these fires occurred in spring, mostly on weekends and in the afternoon. Typically, spring is the time of the year when many property owners are conducting outdoor burning of leaves and other debris. Unfortunately, many people do not burn safely, resulting in wildfires. In 1993 debris burners caused 146 wildfires in Maryland, or 26 percent of the wildfires. Debris burning in Garrett County accounted for three fires or 33 percent of the wildfires in the county last year.

In order to prevent wildfires from occurring and causing destruction to private homes and woodlands, the state of Maryland has established open-air burning regulations. These regulations apply to activities in woodlands and within 200 feet of woodlands, or activities adjacent to or within an area where flammable materials that could ignite and carry fire to woodlands are located. These regulations are:

1) A natural or constructed fire break at least 10 feet wide must completely surround the material to be burned.

2) Adequate personnel and equipment must be present to prevent the fire from escaping.

3) At least one responsible person must remain at the burning location until the last spark is out.

4) Permissible burning hours are between 5 p.m. and 1 a.m. Daylight Savings Time.

5) Open air burning prior to 5 p.m. D.S.T. requires a burning permit from the Department of Natura Resources and from the county Health Department.

Open air burning of any type not in accordance with these regulations is subject to citations and fines ranging from $50 to $250. If you are burning, be extremely cautious and be certain that the fire does not get out of control and spread into nearby grass and woods. The protection of our forest resource is vital to the continuation of forests for water quality protection, timber, wildlife habitat and recreation.

Numerous Thefts Investigated By Sheriff's Office

Incidents of costly thefts were reported to the Garrett County Sheriff's Office this week, according to the police log. Building supplies, household items, and a large quantity of ginseng were among the lost property reported.

Robert G. Sines, Friendsville, contacted the sheriff's office on April 4 to report the theft of approximately 1,650 ginseng plants. The three-year-old plants were located on property along Old Morgantown Road, and were apparently uprooted and taken sometime between mid-March and April 4.

Sines told officers that he had experienced this sort of theft before, having several hundred plants stolen in previous years. This incident caused Sines a loss of approximately $2,000, according to the report.

In another case, Angelica M. Thayer, Mtn. Lake Park, reported a break-in at her home and the theft of several household items. Ms. Thayer left her K Street home at noon on April 6 and returned at noon on April 8. She found that the screen door had been damaged, and was off the hinges.

Inside she discovered that someone had stolen her Pioneer stereo system, including a compact disc player, two speakers, and an amplifier unit; Alpine skis and boots, and a video cassette recorder. The total loss was estimated at $2,700.

An investigation into the case is continuing.

In a third incident, John G. Blue, Oakland, contacted police to report the theft of several building materials, stolen from his home under construction. The construction site is located at the Southern Pines development, north of Mountain Lake Park.

Stolen from Blue were two rolls of wire, a spotlight fixture, a six-foot step ladder, a cable splitter, and four bundles of shingles. The total loss was set at $282.

The theft occurred within the last three weeks, according to the report.

Property Found

A motorcycle reported stolen in June 1992 was found by an officer of the sheriff's office Saturday. Dep. J. Sowers and Cpl. R. Sines was responding to a call for underage drinking somewhere on the Oakland-Rosedale Road. The officers spotted the 1982 Honda motorcycle parked along a logging road, and stopped to inspect it.

A quick check revealed that it was the property of Steven D. Bennett, a Maryland state police officer of the Hagerstown barrack. Bennett had reported the bike stolen in June 1992. It was placed in police storage and Bennett was notified, according to the report.

After conducting several interviews, officers reportedly have a suspect in the case.

Sheriff's Office Logs Six Arrests

The Garrett County Sheriff's Office arrested six individuals this week on various charges, ranging from theft and DWI (driving while intoxicated) to violation of exparte orders.

An inmate in the Garrett County Jail was charged this week in connection with the theft of lumber from private property. Joseph R. Kisselovich, 39, is reportedly accused of cutting trees on the property of Douglas Coal Company several months ago.

A Mountain Lake Park man was arrested for DWI on April 12. Rodney T. Pike III, 23, was arrested at 12:25 a.m. along Rock Lodge Road, according to the report.

John W. Parsons, 40, Midland, was arrested for violating an exparte order to stay away from Rhonda Parsons. He is accused of harassing the woman on various occasions.

An Oakland man was also arrested for violating an exparte order. John E. Filsinger is accused of entering the property of Judy Filsinger, which he had been ordered not to do, according to the report.

Leroy T. Friend, 28, McHenry, was arrested on the strength of a bench warrant for failure to appear in court. Friend was to face the charge of battery.

A McHenry man turned himself in to police in response to a body attachment order issued from Garrett County Circuit Court. Dominick J. Pisano, 50, had apparently failed to obey a subpoena to appear at a hearing.

SMS Students Participate In Recycling Project

As part of the Maryland Student Service Learning requirement, seventh graders at Southern Middle School participated in an aluminum can recycling project recently.

Students were taught lessons in science and social studies classes about collecting, sorting, and processing of recyclables. They participated in discussions and activities to promote recycling efforts to save energy and natural resources.

The highlight of the project was a grade-wide aluminum can collection drive that netted enough money for students to purchase some much-needed classroom supplies, such as tape players and computer software.

Rodney B. Glotfelty, director of Garrett County Office of Solid Waste and Recycling, applauded the students' efforts saying, "This project will not only help the county meet its mandated recycling goals by reducing the amount of waste material which must be disposed of at the landfill, but will also offer an excellent learning experience to the participating students."

Community services were utilitized as arrangements were made for the provision of a truck by the Garrett County Roads Department and a volunteer driver, Carl Spiker, so that the collected cans could be transported to B&S Scrap, a local recycling facility.

Students who participated in the project earned three credits toward the 75 credits required for graduation.

Foundation Of Hospital Holds Special Seminar

The Garrett County Memorial Hospital Foundation recently sponsored a seminar exclusively for its Partners in Health members entitled "Sweating The Small Stuff."

The seminar, conducted by Charlotte Bock, administrative director of community services at Garrett Memorial and Debora Nichols, the hospital's Wellness coordinator, focused on how the combination of regular exercise and a positive attitude assists in better managing stress.

The seminar was held, in part, as a result of a recent survey conducted by the Foundation asking Partners in Health members to list their preferred choices for program topics. The top three choices indicated were: starting and staying with an exercise program; relaxation, breathing and stretching; and stress management.

Elaine McDonald, chairman of the Foundation's Annual Giving Committee, said, "One of the benefits of being a Partner in Health is receiving invitations to lectures and special events sponsored by Foundation. Our goal is to provide educational programs that also meet the health care concerns of our Partners In Health members."

Members of Partners in Health contribute $100 or more annually per family. The membership, renewable on an annual basis, includes the following benefits: an annual reception for Partners in Health members; invitations to a series of lectures on health care and related topics; annual recognition gift; placement of each member's name on the Wall of Honor in the hospital's lobby; subscription to the "Foundation Forum," the Foundation's quarterly newsletter; and invitations to special events sponsored by Partners In Health and the Foundation.

The next seminar for Partners in Health members has been scheduled for Tuesday, June 7, in Garrett Memorial's Community Services Center. The presentation will be a follow-up of "Sweating The Small Stuff." Kathy Greaser, director of the Foundation emphasizes that it is not necessary to have attended the previous seminar in order to attend the June 7 meeting.

Persons desiring more information about the Garrett County Memorial Hospital Foundation or Partners in Health may contact (301) 334-2155, ext. 377.

Video Resources Workshop Planned At GCM Hospital

The Western Maryland Area Health Education Center (AHEC) will present a workshop titled Enhancing Staff Development Through Video Resources on Tuesday, April 19, from 1-3 p.m. at the Garrett County Memorial Hospital Community Services Center. Employees of nursing homes, senior centers, adult day care, home health service, and other agencies meeting the needs of older clients are invited to attend.

The Western Maryland AHEC recently received 21 videotapes in the Elder-Core Training Module, produced by Video Press, a program of the University of Maryland at Baltimore School of Medicine. The modules, which can be borrowed at no charge from the Western Maryland AHEC, cover topics such as understanding dementia, managing the dementia patient, and long-term care issues. Each module is divided into four training sessions. The award-winning Grace documentary series, which follows the life of Grace Kirkland, suffering from Alzheimer's Disease and the caregiving efforts of her husband over a period of many years, are part of the modules.

The video modules have been designed specifically for inservice staff training in long-term care and are ideal for meeting the need for individual and small group training. The modules can be used when employees miss a training session, are hired after a particular topic has been covered, or need additional training.

For further information, persons may contact the Western Maryland AHEC at 301-777-9150. The Western Maryland AHEC is an organization in the Maryland Statewide Medical Education and Training System working to improve health care through health personnel education in Allegany, Garrett, and Washington counties.

Agency On Aging Offering Health Insurance Guide

The Area Agency on Aging (AAA) has received the 1994 Guide to Health Insurance for People with Medicare, an informative booklet developed jointly by the National Association of Insurance Commissioners and the Health Care Financing Administration of the U.S. Department of Health and Human Services.

The guide is available to Garrett County senior citizens, who may inquire at the Senior Information and Assistant Office in the Mary Browning Senior Center, 104 E. Center St., Oakland.

The guide contains the most updated information on the Medicare program, and provides answers to questions concerning the amount of health insurance truly needed by seniors.

The 10 Medigap plans are listed and explained, along with tips on shopping for insurance to fit each person's needs. The booklet is fashioned to help seniors become aware of exactly what their needs are and then to independently make their own decisions according to their financial abilities.

Shareholders Of First United To Meet April 26

Richard G. Stanton, chairman of the Board, president and chief executive officer for First United Corporation, has announced plans for the company's annual meeting of shareholders.

The annual meeting will be held Tuesday, April 26, at 3 p.m., at the McHenry House, Wisp Ski Resort, McHenry. A reception will follow the meeting.

In discussing the meeting, Stanton commented, "First United Corporation has had a very exciting year. In addition to opening three new community offices, the company merged with Myersville Bank in November. The family of three community banks now offers a network of 23 community offices in six counties. While achieving this growth, the company posted its second highest earnings year in its history. I look forward to discussing these great strides with our shareholders."

He added, "As a special addition to our meeting, our shareholders will have the opportunity to hear Mark B. Williams, an investment consultant, who will address the current economic picture."

Williams has been associated with Heber Fuger Wendin, Inc., since 1986. He serves the firm as president and chief operating officer. As a senior investment advisor, he has the responsibility for numerous individual as well as public and corporate client relationships. In addition to his experience with Heber Fuger Wendin, Williams previously was a product marketing manager with Roney & Company in Detroit.

Williams is a graduate of the University of Michigan in Ann Arbor. Additionally, he is a chartered financial analyst and chartered investment counselor. He is a member of the Association for Investment Management Research and he is a fellow of the Financial Analyst Society, Detroit Chapter.

Stanton concluded, "Our Corporation has traditionally enjoyed a large turnout for our annual meeting. I am sure it will be even stronger with the addition of Mr. Williams to the agenda."

First United Corporation (NASDAQ: FUNC) is a multi-bank holding company having the following banking subsidiaries: First United National Bank & Trust, Myersville Bank, and First United Bank of West Virginia, N.A. As of December 31, 1993, the Corporation posted assets of $423.38 million.

Crawford Seeks Sixth District Congressional Seat

Steve Crawford, 51, Frederick, has announced that he is a candidate for the Democratic nomination in Maryland's Sixth Congressional District.

Crawford, who has never before sought political office, is a college teacher, an award-winning researcher, and a university administrator. He is also a decorated combat veteran who served with distinction in Vietnam. After serving in Vietnam, he has been active in professional, civic, conservation, veterans, and good-government organizations.

Having taught public policy at the University of Maryland and publishing articles on topics ranging from community crime control to careers in high-technology industries, he holds a master's degree from the Wharton Business School and a Ph.D. from Columbia.

Crawford has served as an infantry officer, and as executive director of two organizations. Most recently, he headed the Center for International and Security Studies at Maryland.

"The politicians in Washington are addicted to irresponsible behavior, to short-term interests over long-term planning, to sound-bite responses instead of serious solutions," he said. "I am ready to make the tough decisions on the basis of my values, my knowledge, and the values of my community. I do not intend to make politics a career."

HEAD START SEEKS ENROLLEES

The local Head Start Program is currently recruiting three and four-year old children for enrollment in September.

Head Start is a pre-school child development program for children from families who fall within federal income eligibility-guide-lines. Head Start has six major components: education, health, nutrition, parent involvement, social services and services for disabled individuals.

Children with disabilities participate with other enrolled students and receive all the same services, plus services for their individual special needs.

Parents are the most important influence on a child's development and an essential part of every Head Start project is the involvement of parents in all aspects of the program.

Centers are located in Friendsville, Crellin, Oakland, Jennings, Accident, Kitzmiller and Dennett Road. We also offer a home-based program.

Applications are being accepted now for the fall term. If you are interested, now is the time to apply. You will find applications at any center, or at the Community Action Building, 104 E Center Street, Oakland, Maryland.

Parents are requested to bring verification of family income, parents social security numbers, and their child's birth certificates when applying.

For more information, contact the Head Start office at 334-9431, Extension 126. We will be pleased to receive your call.

Marple-Carr Vows Exchanged During Double-Ring Ceremony

Johnna Renee Marple and John Robert Carr were united in marriage Oct. 23, 1993, at St. Paul's United Methodist Church, Oakland. The Rev. Doyle Payne performed the double-ring ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of John and Elaine Marple, Deep Creek Lake. The groom is the son of John and Barbara Carr, Irwin, Pa.

Organist for the ceremony was Lillian Reckner. John Paul Marple, brother of the bride, sang, Love of a Lifetime, and I Believe In You. In addition to the organist, he was accompanied by Mike Lynagh on the guitar.

The bride, given in marriage by her parents, was escorted to the altar by her father. She wore a white satin and Alencon lace gown adorned with pearls and sequins. A decolletage neckline was highlighted with lace overlays. Stem sleeves with handkerchief points accented the fitted bodice and Basque waistline. A keyhole opening, lavished with a triple drape of luster pearls, enhanced the back bodice. A bustle bow accented the waist and cathedral train which was finished in a border of scalloped lace and cutouts.

The bride's headpiece was created of white satin blossoms, pearl loop leaves, and tiny pearl sprays. It also featured a fingertip veil. She carried a cascading bouquet of white silk roses, rosebuds, angel-wing begonias and pearls. The headpiece and all floral arrangements for the wedding were hand-crafted by the bride.

Serving as maid of honor was Shawn Reed, friend of the bride. Bridesmaids were Tricia Carr, sister of the groom; Christine Toney, cousin of the bride; and Cynthia Bitner and Rita Miske, friends of the bride. They were attired in salmon-colored floor-length sheath dresses.

Acting as bestmen were Scott and Robert Germain, cousins of the groom. Darin Matson, friend of the groom, and David and John Paul Marple, brothers of the bride, served as groomsmen. Guest book attendants were Jeff Haines and Kathy Goldberg.

A reception followed the ceremony at Brodak's Private Mt. Lake Resort. Janice Hutchinson and Carolyn Germain, aunts of the couple, cut and served the wedding cake. Music was provided by David Zimmerman, D.J. Photographing the event was Matthews Photography. Spencer Graham videotaped the ceremony and reception. Roxanne Reed served as wedding coordinator.

Lakers Split With CCAC-South Before Rolling Over Frederick

The Garrett Community College baseball team won two of three games this past week, splitting a doubleheader with visiting CCAC-South on Friday and then defeating host Frederick Community College Monday, 9-1. The Lakers dropped the first game to CCAC-South, but came back for a 5-0 victory in the second contest.

The Lakers held a 2-1 lead going into the third inning of the first game against CCAC-South, but fell behind for good in the top of that inning when South scored three runs on RBI doubles by Scott Grady and Sam Tinta.

South added two more runs in the fourth inning before GCC's Sam Alvaro smacked a three-run homer in the bottom of the fourth to cut the visitors' lead to one run, 6-5.

South added insurance runs in the sixth and seventh inning and shut out the Lakers the rest of the way to preserve the win for Chad Burget, who yielded six Laker hits in going the distance.

Datrick Griffith fired a four hitter for a complete-game shutout in the second game for the Lakers, which was a scoreless pitching duel between Griffith and South's Jeff McGloughlin until the bottom of the fourth inning.

Todd Blackburn's RBI single in that frame gave the Lakers a 1-0 lead, which is all they would need. But Deron Godby added a two-run homer in the fifth inning after Pat Donahue had drawn a walk.

Then the Lakers made it 5-0 in the sixth when Alvaro sent two more runs home with his single.

Todd Blackburn allowed only five hits and one run, struck out eight batters, and allowed no walks in Monday's single game victory over Frederick.

The Lakers took a 5-0 lead in the second inning behind RBI singles by Donahue, Danny Biafore, and Aaron Cook, and a run-producing double by Chris Swaney.

Garrett added another run in the third on a sacrifice fly by Eddie Mata, and one in the sixth when Swaney reached on an error, advanced to third on a single and another error, and came home on a single by Godby.

Singles by Crosby and Iamethro Rogers in the eighth inning sent Swaney and Cook home for the Lakers' final two runs.

The Lakers outhit Frederick, 14-5, with Swaney going three-for-six with a double and three runs scored, Cook going three-for-two, and Crosby finishing with two hits in four at-bats.

"Everyone contributed to this win, which is what we like to see, especially as we get into the tough part of our schedule," stated GCC Coach Ed Wildesen.

The Lakers, who are now 10-5, are scheduled to play a twinbill at Charles CC this Friday, play at Dundalk CC in Baltimore on Saturday, and host Hagerstown Junior College in a doubleheader on Sunday, with the first game slated to begin at 1 p.m.

MSA To Hold Soccer Camp This Summer

August 1-6 will mark another first for soccer in Garrett County when the Mountaintop Soccer Association will sponsor a camp for youth ages 4 through 18.

The camp will be open to members of the MSA and other area youth interested in learning about the game. Cost for the camp will be $88, for which campers will receive daily three hours of concentrated training for five days. In addition to the instruction, each camper will also receive a camp jersey and his/her own hand-stitched soccer ball.

According to Camp Director, Karen Spirk, family discounts are available, as well as scholarship programs for those with a financial need. Camps will be held at the Southern High School practice field and at the Grantsville Elementary soccer field where the Northern Huskies practice.

"Morning and evening clinics are possible if we have enough enrollment," she said. "This all depends on enrollment numbers and age mix of the participants, so we hope that people register early. We have used North American Soccer Camps (NASC) previously when we lived in Texas and in Pennsylvania, and they really put on a first-class experience for the campers."

Mid-Atlantic Regional Coordinator Martin Bane said, "We hand-select 105 British full badge (A or B level license) coaches from among nearly 300 applicants each year. Even our experienced instructors have to re-quality before we will accept them. That's how choosy we are."

NASC spends more than $50,000 annual recruiting and training the select few who serve as coaches for their summer camp program. "In addition to specialized soccer training techniques, our lads also receive course-work in child development and youth learning methods. Our goal is the complete delight of the customer. We hope that Americans will soon develop the passion for this great game," Bane said.

MSA President Carole Ann Lovett added, "This dedication to the quality of education and development of young soccer players is what convinced the MSA to contract the organization to come to Western Maryland. Their references are incredible!"

NASC was established in 1969 and has grown into the largest supplier of soccer camps in the U.S. In 1993, they conducted approximately 500 camps and serviced more than 25,000 players. "They will also have an empathy clinic for parents to come out and try some of the techniques their children are being taught. There will also be a couple of free sessions for coaches to learn additional techniques for training their youth teams," Lovett stated.

Registration forms for the camp will be sent home in May through the schools. Early enrollment is encouraged in order to maintain the desired ratio of players (15) to coaches (1).

Three On Three League Recruiting

The Grantsville Three on Three Basketball League is now accepting new teams to its membership, according to Paul Edwards, coordinator.

The league, which is open to all ages and skill levels, competes at Grantsville Community Park from Thursday, June 2, until mid-August. Trophies, plaques, and other awards will be presented at the conclusion of the season.

Persons interested in registering a team or obtaining more information may contact Edwards at 895-5720 or Brian Kamp at 689-3253 by May 1.

Softball Tryouts Slated Saturday

Tryouts for the Oakland Junior Girls Softball League will be held this Saturday, April 16, at 2 p.m. on the American Burger field in Mtn. Lake Park.

The tryouts are open to all girls who are at least 9 years old before August 1 and not 13 years old before August 1. There is a $5 registration fee for each player. Participants should wear tennis shoes.

In the event of rain, the tryouts will be held at the same time at the National Guard Armory in Oakland.

Persons desiring more information may contact Brad Stewart at 334-2166, Rodney Houser at 334-3645, or Karen Reese at 334-1732.

Local Runners Participate In 8-K Maple Run

Several members of the Garrett Sports League participated in the annual 8-kilometer Maple Run and two-mile walk Sunday in Meyersdale, Pa.

Finishing 15th overall out of the 71 runners in the 8-K run was Dave Ritchie, of Swanton, who recorded a time of 30 minutes, 47 seconds, which was second best in his age group (25-29).

Mike Kosier, Oakland, placed 24th overall and third in his age group (40-45) with a time of 33:04, while Rudi Kremmer, Friendsville, was 45th overall and second in his age group (45-49) with a time of 37:54.

Joanne Kosier placed first in the 40-45 age group in the two-mile walk with a time of 25:19.

The race, which took place in rainy and windy conditions, is held in conjunction with the annual Pennsylvania Maple Festival.

Huskies Pound Mapletown In Twinbill To Up Record To 6-0

The Northern Huskies kept their unbeaten streak on the baseball diamond alive this week by pounding host Mapletown, Pa., in both ends of a doubleheader on Saturday, winning the opener, 9-2, and taking the second game, 20-7.

The Huskies, currently ranked the third best team in the area, are riding a 6-0 start and will face a stiff test this Saturday against region foe Clear Spring in a doubleheader, to be played at Garrett Community College, beginning at 1 p.m.

Coach Phil Carr's team recorded 10 hits in the opener against Mapletown, with a three-hit, three-RBI effort by Alan Sebold and three singles by Rob Speicher that sent home one RBI.

Bob Fritz and Brian Heslop also each contributed RBI singles for the Huskies, who moved out to a 5-1 lead after three innings.

Aaron Blocher started on the mound for Northern and upped his personal mark to 3-0 after getting some relief help from Danny Butler in the final inning. Blocher gave up just one earned run, yielded six hits, struck out two, and walked two.

Jim Bierer and Jason Speriazo each had a pair of hits for the Maples.

D.J. Durst recorded four RBI for the Huskies in the second game with a double and two singles, as the contest was called after six innings because of the 10-run rule.

Sebold scored four times in the game, Brad Williams rapped a three-run double, and Fritz hit two more singles to pace the Northern offense.

Speicher earned his second win on the mound, as he tossed four innings, struck out three, and walked three. Jeremy Brenneman took over in the fifth to record a save.

Leading Mapletown's nine-hit effort were Chad Buckwalter with a double and a single for two RBI and Scott Bate with two singles.

After Saturday's twinbill at GCC against Clear Spring, the Huskies are slated to host Beall on Monday in a single contest.

Gregg Resigns As Coach Of Southern Rams

Fred Gregg, who has served as head coach of the Southern High School football program for the past three years, announced his resignation from that position this past week, according to Tom Woods, athletic director at Southern.

Gregg, who was an assistant coach for the nine years prior to being named head coach in 1991, told Woods that he decided to submit his resignation "in order to pursue other interests." He will continue as a member of the Southern High School faculty, serving as a teacher of weight training.

In his tenure as head coach, Gregg amassed a record of 12 wins and 18 losses with one of the toughest schedules in area football. Gregg also served as head coach of the Southern track team for two years.

Woods said that advertising to fill the position would begin almost immediately. "We hope to have someone selected by May so the players won't leave school for summer break and not have an opportunity to meet their new coach until practice begins in August," he said.

Ram Netters Win Just One In Five Starts

The tennis teams of Southern High School faced Petersburg, Keyser, and Allegany this past week, with the Southern boys defeating Petersburg last Thursday, 5-2, on the Vikings' courts, losing to host Keyser, 6-1, on Friday, and falling to Allegany, 4-0, in a rain-shortened match Monday at Bel Air.

Meanwhile, the Southern girls were defeated by Petersburg, 6-1, and also lost to undefeated Keyser, 5-2.

In the match against Petersburg, Jason Barr, Derek Spirk, and Brad Boal all won their singles matches for the Southern boys, while the doubles teams of Devin Pratt and Barr, and Spirk and Boal were also victorious.

Brian DeHaven was the only singles winner for the Vikings, while Danny Kimble and Muhummad Ghalib captured their doubles match.

Pratt and Barr accounted for the Rams' only point against Keyser on Friday.

Winning singles matches for the Golden Tornado (5-1) were Pat Stanislawczyk, Eli Rhodes, Todd Rosedale, and Pun Chaissok.

The only highlight of the match against Allegany on Tuesday was that, when play was stopped by rain, the Southern doubles team of Pratt and Barr was leading.

Seth Goll, Jeff Leasure, Brett Sielers, and Brett Luhring all won their singles matches for the Campers, who upped their team record to 4-0.

Kim Rosenthal was the only Southern girl who recorded a win against Petersburg, as she topped Keli Cunningham in singles.

Winning in singles for the Vikings were Jennifer Cole, Meredith Jones, and Brandee Harman.

The doubles teams of Meghan Dabney and Rosenthal, and Hillary Garris and Julie Eiswert accounted for Southern's two points against Keyser on Friday.

Winning in singles for the Keyser girls were Jamie Woy, Jessica Woy, Jamie Bean, and Summer McDowell.

A Southern match slated for last night at Beall had to be postponed because of weather conditions. The Rams are scheduled to host Keyser this Friday, beginning at 3:30 p.m., entertain Petersburg on Monday (4:00), and host Northern next Wednesday (4:00).

Copeland, Fitzwater Pitch Rams To Sweep Of Knights

A pair of outstanding pitching performances highlighted a doubleheader sweep by the Southern High Rams over Preston County Saturday afternoon, as Coach Jim Bosley's team crushed the Knights, 12-0 and 12-2. The pair of victories gave the Rams a 4-0 start and moved them to the top of the area rankings.

Doug Copeland fired a one-hitter in the first game, as he struck out seven and walked only two in going the distance for the Rams.

Offensively, Matt Newcomb continued to lead the team in hitting with three singles, good for two RBI, while teammate Mark Dawson smacked a triple and a single to send home three runs. Josh Woods added a two-run homer in the game, which was halted after five complete innings because of the 10-run rule.

The Rams finished with 11 hits, while Jason Keener, the starting pitcher for Preston, recorded the only hit for his team, a single.

Jeremy Fitzwater nearly matched Copeland's effort on the mound in the second game, as he struck out 12 batters in six innings to record his second win in as many starts. Freshman Seth Tressler took over in the seventh inning to earn a save.

Fitzwater also paced the Ram offense in the second game, as he rapped a home run, a triple, and a single to send home three runs. Rich Warnick finished with three singles for two runs and Mark Elliott added two more singles in the Rams' 13-hit performance.

Southern traveled to Beall on Monday, but the game was called because of rain with the score tied at 3-3. They were then slated to play at Tucker County last night, but rain forced postponement of that game. They are scheduled to play a doubleheader at Berkeley Springs this Saturday, beginning at noon, and then host Westmar next Wednesday in a single contest, beginning at 4:30.

Southern Girls Split Twinbill With University

The Southern High School girls' softball team opened its '94 season Friday afternoon by splitting a doubleheader with University High School in Morgantown, W.Va.

The Rams were edged in the opener, 11-9, and then came back to win the second contest, 9-5. Coach Dave Bosley's squad will be in action at home this afternoon in a doubleheader with Hyndman, beginning at 4:15 p.m.

The University Mohicans put the first game away early last Friday, as they recorded nine runs in the first inning, and then held on as the Rams chipped away at the lead. They scored their runs in that frame on five walks, four hits, and four errors.

The Ram defense allowed only two more runs, one in the second inning and one in the first, and the offense put runs on the board in the second, third, and fifth innings, but fell two runs short.

Jenny Newborne, who struck out five, walked 11, and yielded four hits, was credited with the win on the mound over Southern's Alisa Rugg, who gave up seven hits, walked six batters, and struck out two.

Leading the Rams' hitting were Tina Reese and Meghan Price, who each rapped run-producing doubles, while Wendy Craver drew four walks. White and Osborne each recorded two hits for University.

Rugg was the winning pitcher in the second game, as she allowed only four hits, walked four, and struck out four. Lisa Marci, who gave up nine hits, was tagged with the loss.

After the Mohicans took a 1-0 lead in the first inning, the Rams took the lead for good in the second with three runs. Craver smacked a triple and a single. Rugg aided her own cause with two doubles, Crystal Sines hit a pair of singles, and Price sent home three runs with a double and a sacrifice fly. Sines also threw out five base runners from her catcher position.

Four different players for University each had a single.

Northern, Southern Track Teams Open With Quadrangular Meet

The Northern and Southern high school track teams both opened their seasons this past week, with the Huskies traveling to Short Gap, W.Va., last Thursday for a quadrangular meet with Frankfort, Westmar, and Franklin and then both schools competing in a three-way meet with Allegany on the Huskies' track Tuesday afternoon.

The Northern girls placed second in last Thursday's competition with 65.5 points, as Frankfort won with 122.5, Westmar placed third with 36, and Franklin was fourth with 15. The Northern boys finished third with 30 points, with Frankfort winning with 102 points, followed by Franklin with 51. Westmar did not enter a boys' team.

The Northern girls collected six first place and three second place finishes and also set two new school records.

Jenni Rider set a school record and placed first in the long jump with her leap of 14'9", while Amanda Galica set a school shot put record with a toss of 28'4.25", which was good for second place.

Other first place finishes by the Huskies were: high jump by Stephannie Friend; 1,600-meter run by Danelle Like (5:57); 800-meter run by Stacy Dolan (2:47); 3,200-meter run by Dolan (14:20); and the 1,600 relay, featuring Friend, Christy Umbel, Jennifer Morgan, and Like (4:43).

Huskies placing second were Friend in the 400-meter sprint; Rider in the 100 hurdles; and the 3,200 relay team of Stephanie Gosnell, Brenda Glotfelty, Rachel Gosnell, and Megan Sines.

In the boys' meet, Northern's Rich Bowser won the 1,600 run in a time of 4:58 and the 3,200 run in 11:02. D. Schofield was the winner in the shot put with a toss of 41'7.5".

Dan Seaman won second place in the 3,200 run and Kahl was the runner-up in the 300-meter intermediate hurdles.

In Tuesday's meet at Northern, the Southern boys won second place with 46 points, while Allegany won with 98 and Northern was third with 28. The Southern and Northern girls tied with 50 team points each, while Allegany won with 75.

The only first place finish by a member of the Southern boys' team was a tie in the triple jump by C.I. Granke.

In the girls' competition, Southern's Miranda Marple won the 100-meter dash in 13.38 seconds, Lauren Newcomb won the 400-meter dash in 1:09.88; Jenny Reams won the 200-meter dash in 27.0 seconds (new school and new Northern track record), and the Ram 400, 800, and 1,600 relay teams were all victorious. The 400-meter team was composed of Aaron Buser, Carolyn Alvarez, Reams, and Marple; the 800 team consisted of Buser, Andrea Devens, Reams, and Marple, and the 1,600 team includes Newcomb, Carrie Newcomb, Alvarez, and Reams.

Northern girls taking first places were: Rider in the triple jump with a new school record distance of 31'5"; Like in the 1,600 run with a time of 5:52; and Amanda Galica in the discus with a throw of 72'7.5".

Rider's triple jump shattered the former Husky mark by nearly one and one-half feet. Stephannie Friend's long jump of 15'5" (second place) was also a new school record.

The Northern teams will compete again Friday when they host Clear Spring, Hancock, University, and Westmar. The Rams will be at Beall this evening.

ERNIE RODEHEAVER
who passed away April 16, 1986

You cannot say, you must not say
That he is dead. He is just away!
With a cheery smile and a wave of the hand
He has wandered into an unknown land
And left us dreaming how very fair
It needs must be,
since he lingers there;
So think of him faring on, as dear
In the love of there as the love of here, Think of him still as the same, and say
He is not dead, he is just away.

Sadly missed and forever loved,
Your Family

Spring Turkey Season Set To Open April 18

Maryland Department of Natural Resources (DNR) Secretary Torrey Brown, M.D., reminds hunters that spring turkey season will open Monday, April 18. The season lasts until May 16.

"This is the time of year when many hunters ask questions on the status of the turkey," Dr. Brown said. "We are pleased to say there are no major reports of winter turkey mortality."

DNR's Wildlife Division reminds hunters that no more than one spring turkey may be taken from the following counties: Caroline, Dorchester (south of Route 50), Howard, Kent, Somerset, Queen Anne's and Wicomico (east of Route 13). However, in the following counties hunters may take two bearded turkeys: Allegany, Calvert, Frederick, Garrett, Montgomery, Washington and Worcester, provided none was taken during the fall season.

"We are expecting the highest kill to be in the four western counties, as it has been in the past," said Steve Bittner, manager of the Indian Springs Wildlife Management Area and DNR's turkey program leader. "Although flock breakup appears to be later this year in that area, hunters should still find plenty of birds."

There have been seven additional counties opened to spring turkey season since 1990. This has increased recreational opportunities and led to increased harvests of spring turkeys.

"We are expecting 1994's season to be as successful as the previous years, where harvests have increased from 1,121 birds in 1990 to 1,240 birds in 1993," Bittner said.

Weather is a big factor during spring turkey seasons "If we have a warm spring, hunters should have no problems harvesting birds. The harvest in 1994 should be equal or greater than 1993 if the scenario holds true," Bittner said.

DNR's Wildlife Division, the Maryland Natural Resources Police (NRP) and the National Wild Turkey Federation would like to emphasize hunting safety. Even though blaze orange is not required for turkey hunting, it is recommended. The hunting hours are a half hour before sunrise until noon Monday through Saturday.

"Keep in mind that the most common cause of hunting accidents is hunter judgment," said NRP Superintendent Franklin I. Wood. "At all times, remember that other turkey hunters may be nearby."

Woman Convicted

Charges were incurred by House after a complaint was filed in September 1993, by Carolyn Kohler, who charged that he had maliciously engaged in a course of conduct that alarmed her. She stated that while she was jogging, he sped towards her in his truck, ran her onto the berm, and caused rocks and dirt to be thrown all over her as he passed.

A guilty verdict was handed to Jack A. Glotfelty, 32, Gormania, W.Va., on one count of trespassing on private property. Judge Burnett sentenced him to 30 days in jail (suspended), fined him $150 and placed him on one year of supervised probation. Additional charges of breaking and entering and disorderly conduct on private property were not prosecuted by the state's attorney.

According to court documents, Glotfelty had been charged with the offenses by Lori Griffith on Dec. 21, 1993, after he went to her apartment and demanded she give him a key to her mother's shed. Griffith stated as she went to get the key, she shut and locked the door. Glotfelty then knocked the door open and threatened to tear her phone from the wall. Griffith stated she notified the defendant to not enter her property, and that he had acted in a disorderly manner, using profanity and obscene language.

A charge of felony theft against Charles W. Moats, 36, Oakland, was placed on the stet docket at the request of the complainant, Stephen P. Uphold, Deer Park.

ARTWORKS SUBMITTED BY AREA STUDENTS – Shown are just a scant sampling of some of the artworks submitted by area students in the Seventh Annual Juried High School Art Exhibition, for which an awards ceremony and reception will be held at the Bausch & Lomb Art Gallery at Garrett Community College on Friday, April 15, from 6-10 p.m. Above, at left, is Northern High School student Martin Strnad's painting, "Away from Home." At right is Preston High School student Chad Beals' sculpture, "Emergence," and, below, left, is a painting by John Stark, a student at Northern High School. A total of 60 artworks were submitted by students from Northern, Southern, Turkeyfoot Valley, and Preston high schools. The exhibition and the awards were made possible, in part, by grants form the Garrett County Arts Council and the Maryland State Arts Council. See story in next week's issue for a complete listing of winners and participants.

A plea agreement with the state's attorney resulted in a charge of malicious injury not being prosecuted against Catherine M. McKenzie, 26, Grantsville, because the victim, Harold J. McKenzie, refused to testify.

Augistine Dempsey, 45, Vienna, Va., pleaded not guilty, and was found not guilty of telephone abuse and harassment, stemming from an incident on Dec. 18, 1993, with Opal V. Brown, 40, McHenry. A counter charge of harassment filed against Brown was not prosecuted by the state's attorney because of the outcome of Dempsey's case.

Gary A. Beitzel Sr., 46, and Gary A. Beitzel Jr., 26, both of Grantsville, had charges of battery against them placed on the stet docket at the request of the complainant, Robert C. Glass, Accident.

Also placed on the stet docket were cases against Joseph F. Locke, 29, Oakland, for failure to obtain a dog license; and Angela D. and James Bo Lipscomb, for failure to obtain a dog license, and harboring a public nuisance dog. The complaint had been filed on Oct. 13, 1993, by Wayne Beckman from the Garrett County Animal Shelter.

DNR CASE

Clifford A. Bowman, 26, Accident, pleaded not guilty, but was found guilty of hunting deer with a firearm during closed season. He had been arrested for the offense at Camp Minnetoska, Nov. 23, 1993 by Department of Natural Resources Police Officer Walter May. Judge Burnett fined Bowman $890 for the offense, which was revised to allow the defendant to work off his fine by providing community service at a rate of $5 per hour. He was also ordered to forfeit the firearm.

DWI CASES

Several DWI (driving while intoxicated) cases were heard in Judge Burnett's court last week.

Russell Zane Foy, 46, W.Va., was arrested for DWI on July 30, 1993 by Maryland State Police. He pleaded guilty to the offense and was handed a 90-day suspended sentence. The judge also imposed a $550 fine and placed Foy on one year of supervised probation.

Paul Douglas Knox, 41, Md., was found guilty of DWI by MSP on Oct. 9, 1993. He was fined $550, sentenced to one year in the local jail, with all being suspended except 30 days, and placed on one year of supervised probation for the offense.

Jason Allen Lohr, 21, Pa., had his DWI guilty verdict amended to DUI (driving under the influence of alcohol). The judge postponed sentencing until May 16. Lohr had been arrested on Oct. 23, 1993 by state police.

Lawrence Ray Stanley, 46, Ohio, pleaded guilty and was found guilty on one count of DWI, and was handed a 30-day suspended sentence. He was also fined $350 and placed on 12 months of supervised probation. The conditions of Stanley's probation state he must attend an Alcoholics Anonymous self-help group. He was charged with the offense by MSP on Nov. 5, 1993.

Gerald Joseph Finnegan, 61, Del., failed to appear in court on a DWI charge and a bench warrant was issued for his arrest. A new $1,000 cash bond was set by Judge Burnett. Finnegan had been arrested on Sept. 3, 1993, by Maryland State Police.

A DWI charge was imposed against Larry Junior Alexander, 52, W.Va., who was given a 30-day suspended sentenced, fined $350 and placed on one year of supervised probation. Alexander had been arrested by Garrett County Sheriff's Deputy J.B. Sowers on Feb. 19.

of Education believes he or she is being sexually harassed, he or she should take action even though its difficult or embarrassing. Victims should tell the harasser to stop. When behavior or comments offend, victims should say so. If the harassment continues, victims should write down times, places, witnesses, and what happened. If it happens to a student, he or she should report it to the parent, teacher, counselor, or school administrator. If it happens to an employee, that persons should report the alleged act to an administrator or immediate supervisor. The Garrett County Board of Education and school officials are required by law to check out all complaints. If victims don't feel that their reports are being dealt with, they should report it again and to another person. The important thing is to seek advice and help by talking to someone. Victims must not remain silent or carry the burden along.

If an administrator receives a complaint he or she needs to investigate the incident in a timely and confidential manner. If the matter warrants with a student to student incident, a sexual harasser may receive a verbal reprimand, be required to receive counseling, receive detention, be deprived of extra-curricular activities, or be suspended from school. If it is a complaint about an employee, the administrator will file a written report with the Superintendent of Schools, and/or the Department of Social Services if there is reason to believe sexual abuse has occurred. Appropriate action will be taken dependent upon the facts of the particular case.

We must remember that while the majority of incidents of sexual harassment involve a male harassing a female, harassment can also involve female to male, male to male, or female to female behaviors. Harassment may be student to student, employee to student, student to employee, or employee to employee. Don't practice sexual harassment. Think before your speak or act and put yourself in the other person's shoes. If you're not sure whether or not behavior is sexual harassment, don't do it. Don't ignore or encourage sexual harassment. Don't go along with a group or laugh at jokes made at someone else's expense. Do treat others as you want to be treated, and be prepared for the Garrett County Board of Education to punish sexual harassment whenever it is revealed. Help make your learning and working environment a place where everyone feels comfortable, shows mutual respect, and is treated fairly.

Food For Thought

Chef Francesco Pisano
McClives Restaurant

Classic aioli sauce calls for egg yolks, garlic and lots of oil, but it tastes as good the low-fat way: minced garlic and a splash of lemon juice blended with low-fat prepared mayonnaise in the processor. Great drizzled into tomato soup or as a dip.

Freezing your own heat-and serve meals, it's smart to package them in small portions. They'll freeze more quickly that way, keep better and defrost and reheat more easily, too.

Thomas Jefferson, our smart third president, attributed his health and long life to eating lots of fresh vegetables and not very much meat.

Hot stuff! Toss thin-sliced baking potatoes with a mixture of 3 Tbs. olive oil and 2 tsp. chili powder, plus salt and pepper. Place on baking sheets, bake in a 450-degree oven about 12 minutes a side.

Here's a new take on salade nicoise: cook potatoes and green beans in advance, toss with dressing and cook to room temperature, thread chunks of tuna steak on skewers and grill. Serve over vegetables.

New ways with old favorites are a special treat at McClive's Restaurant,
McHenry. Open daily for dinner. 387-6172

Kevin Holley New Pastor At Church Of Christ

Kevin Holley recently relocated to the Oakland area to assume the position as minister of the Church of Christ, located along Memorial Drive.

Holley and his wife, Laura, and two children moved from Newberry, Mich., where he served as the minister of the Church of Christ for over six years. He began work as a fulltime minister about eight years ago after graduating from a school of preaching in Knoxville, Tenn. He and his wife are natives of Dayton, Ohio.

While in Newberry, Holley was involved in a number of community organizations and projects, besides fulfilling his church related responsibilities. He was a member and immediate past president of the local Kiwanis Club, served for two years as president of the local historical society, and was involved in the local hospice program as a board member, spiritual coordinator, and volunteer caregiver. He plans to become involved in similar activities in the Oakland area.

Holley replaces Randy Cook, who served as the Church of Christ minister for the past 10 years and left last September to fill a vacancy in a Farmington, W.Va., parish.

Holley says he is "enthusiastic about the work and possibilities for growth of the local Church of Christ." He noted that he and his family have been received with "friendliness" and he invites those seeking a "church home" to attend the Church of Christ services.

The regular schedule at the local church includes: Sunday morning Bible study at 9:30 a.m., Sunday morning worship service at 10:30 a.m., a Sunday evening service at 6:30 p.m., and a Wednesday night Bible study at 7 p.m.

He may be contacted by stopping by the church building along Memorial Drive or by telephoning him at 334-1501.

Financial Advantage

Jeffrey Bell

"Do you enjoy writing large income tax checks to the IRS every quarter or especially this time of year?" Those who answered yes may not want to talk to Financial Advantage, but Financial Advantage is always looking for legitimate tax savings opportunities for their clients and provide assistance with annual business tax planning. Every small business has a limited number of resources to use. Sharing a large percentage of those resources with the IRS is something Financial Advantage helps to avoid.

Financial Advantage was started on the principle that if small businesses have a clear-cut vision, accurate financial forecasts, and available cash to seize opportunities; success becomes a habit. They help their customers remain focused on their important priorities by handling their accounting and bookkeeping, preparing the necessary financial statements, and filing their quarterly taxes when they are due. Financial Advantage says that a CPA or a bookkeeper can do that, but their company will also meet with the business owners and managers on a regular basis to recommend strategies to improve performance, plus show them how they compare with their competitors in the marketplace.

Cash flow is the fuel that keeps a business running, and Financial Advantage says they will turn over every rock to find cash opportunities for their customers and improve their long-term success.

Financial Advantage began serving the small business needs of Garrett County in January 1994. Owner Jeffrey Bell started the company in Wisconsin in 1992 to provide complete financial support for small companies. Today, the Wisconsin office is helping local businesses to improve profits and cash flow. "From my experience in commercial lending at a Midwestern bank, I became sensitive to the financial needs of small businesses," says Bell. "Following that, I enjoyed eight years studying proven techniques to manage business resources at General Electric." While at GE, Bell completed the highly regarded Financial Management Program, while holding a variety of positions in accounting and financial management. "Small business holds the key to this country's future. Let us help you fine tune your business engine now," says Bell.

According to Bell, the first visit with a customer to discuss their business goals is absolutely free and without obligation. "You will be surprised at how affordable putting us to work for you can be. We pride ourselves on saving you money. If you are looking to reach higher goals and improve your business performance, give us a call," adds Bell. Financial Advantage can be reached at 387-0310, or for those outside the local exchange, 800-844-0310. The mailing address is Route 1, Box 128, Swanton, MD 21561.

Vocal Recital Slated At FSU

The Frostburg State University Department of Music will present mezzo-soprano Karen Soderberg and tenor Allen Emerick in a recital on Sunday, April 17, at 3 p.m. in the Performing Arts Center Recital Hall. The concert is free and open to the public.

Accompanied by pianist Nancy Sicsic, the duo performance will consist of music by Italian composers Guiseppi Sarti, Giovanni Legrenzi, Marcello Benedetto and Stefano Donaudy; German composers Hugh Wolf and Gustav Mahler; French composers Gabriel Faure and Francis Poulenc and duets by Henry Purcell, Franz Schubert, Robert Schumann and John Cage.

Dr. Soderberg is director of vocal/choral activities at Frostburg State University. She is the current state president of the American Choral Directors Association, college/university representative for the Maryland Choral Educators Association and frequent adjudicator and guest conductor throughout the state.

Allen Emerick is the coordinator of performing arts and cultural events at Allegany Community College. He has sung with Margaret Hillis, Robert Shaw, and Gerard Souzay.

The Department of Music will be accepting donations to benefit the Music Scholarship Fund. For more information, persons may contact the Department of Music at (301) 689-4109.

SHS Students Attend World Affairs Inst.

Three Southern High School students participated in the 35th Annual World Affairs Institute in Morgantown, W.Va., on March 24-25.

Ryan Durst, Tatum Shomo, and Aaron Buser, all seniors, represented the countries of Russia, Czech Republic, and China. They were chosen to participate in the event by the social studies department faculty for being exceptional in the area of political debate. Durst, the captain of the team, is the first Southern student to be selected for the Institute for three consecutive years.

The Institute's program consists of three simultaneous sessions of a model United Nations Security Council. It is sponsored jointly by the Rotary Club of Morgantown and the West Virginia University's Department of Political Science and International Studies.

Issues before the model Security Council this year were: the formation of a permanent peacekeeping force, international sales of arms to private citizens, and allowing a permanent seat with veto power to Japan.

This year the Morgantown Rotary made the event non-competitive. In the past the Southern team has been named the Best Delegation three times. Acknowledgement was made this year of the "exceptional preparation and debating abilities" displayed by the Southern team.

The Institute is a regional debate of the top social studies students in high schools from West Virginia, Maryland, Pennsylvania, and Ohio. Many of the students go on to universities and colleges on scholarships where they become members of their collegiate debate teams.

The local participation in the World Affairs Institute is sponsored each year solely through the financial support of the Oakland Rotary Club. The advisor for the Southern High team is Doug Oxford, a member of the school faculty.

Garrett County ACS Directors Hold Meeting

The Garrett County Board of Directors for the Maryland Division of the American Cancer Society (ACS) met for their regular monthly meeting March 22 at Garrett County Memorial Hospital. President Susan Athey-Oxford called the afternoon meeting to order.

Although the Garrett County unit has not yet received a letter regarding its full authorization as a unit under the Maryland Division of the ACS, many local committees reported activities that are currently ongoing.

The recruitment committee reported that Earl Clark has volunteered to remain as a board member, while Krista Jenkins, R.N., has accepted an invitation to serve on the board.

Income Development chairperson, Elaine McDonald, reported that to date the Garrett County unit has sold seven golf/hotel passes. The group members present at the meeting voted to reduce the requested donation for the pass to $37 for the remaining seven months left for the sales.

The unit's Daffodil Days event was successful in collecting $4,765 for the ACS.

Cindy Kelley-Haywood, director of the Garrett County Chapter of the ACS, reported that the Garrett County Tobacco-Free Coalition is progressing on its development of a smokeless tobacco brochure. The brochure is being funded by a grant from the Maryland Division of the ACS.

The American Cancer Society will be hosting a Nurse Tutor program on April 27 from 12:30 to 2:30 p.m. at the American Legion in Oakland. Registration is free by calling 334-2155, ext. 397.

The next meeting of the Garrett County Board of Directors of the ACS will be held April 26 at 4:30 p.m. at Garrett County Memorial Hospital.

The American Cancer Society reminds residents that many deaths from cancer can be avoided by making healthy lifestyle choices. "By not smoking or chewing tobacco, people may reduce the risk of not only lung cancer, but cancer of the throat, bladder, kidney, pancreas, and mouth," an ACS spokesman said.

For more information about cancer or to make a memorial donation, persons may call the American Cancer Society at 1-800-ACS-2345.

Q. My great-great-grandparents brought from Germany a hand-carved wooden clock that was shaped like a man. The man's head turns as the clock ticks. Have you ever seen one like this?

A. In the 17th century, a clock known as the clock peddler was manufactured; a very similar clock was made in the early 20th century. He carries his wares in his hand and has a clock strapped to his chest. Many replicas of this type of clock have been produced. The value of your clock is between $80 and $300, depending on its condition.

Q. I have a nine-inch blue vase marked "Catalina Pottery, Made in U.S.A." Is it old?

A. Catalina Pottery operated from 1927 to 1937 when the firm was sold to Gladding McBean Co. and moved to Los Angeles. Many of the original molds were used, and the name continued in use until 1941. In the past few years, there has been renewed interest in many of the California potteries that worked after 1920. Prices are beginning to rise.

Q. I have a strange mystery object. It looks like a small metal washing-machine wringer. It has two corrugated copper rollers and a handle to turn them. On the base it says, "Star, Pat. Oct. 1875...Reissued March 25, 1880." We tried putting paper through the "wringer" and it came out with impressed ridges almost like corrugated paper.

A. In the 1860s, a number of different types of "fluting irons" were patented. These special irons were used to iron ruffles and pleats on clothing. A solid cylindrical piece was heated, then placed inside the roller. Extra cylinders were kept on the stove to heat. Your Star fluter was made by the American Machine Co. of Philadelphia.

TIP: Use Simichrome polish to clean metal mesh bags. Unpainted mesh bags can be cleaned in a solution of equal parts ammonia and liquid laundry detergent. Swish the bag up and down in the mixture. Rinse, then dry with a hair dryer to keep rust from forming.

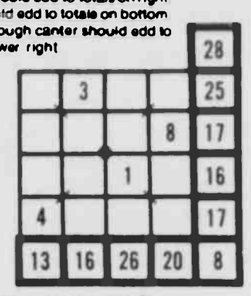
Q. My 14-inch-high vase is marked "Dickens Ware Weller." It has a green-to-blue background and pictures a man playing a stringed instrument. How old is it?



A. You probably own a piece of second-line Dickens Ware. It was made between 1897 to about 1905 by Weller Pottery of Zanesville, Ohio. The picture shows a minstrel playing a mandolin. Dickens Ware has been steadily rising in prices for the past 10 years. Your vase is worth more than $1,500.

MORE ON SCAMS: A recent study by the American Association of Retired Persons found more than a third of all consumers 76 and older are potential prey for those who practice fraud and deception in the marketplace.

What makes these folks so vulnerable? Sadly, it's their almost tragic naivete — they are more trusting than people in other age groups — and their basic ignorance of the consumer protection rights they enjoy by law.

The AARP cites an FBI sting last year that led to the discovery that illegal telemarketing operators always targeted older people as potential victims of their scams.

Older consumers were also more likely to be victimized by sleazy home improvement operators as well as store owners or managers. Often, the older consumer doesn't know their legal rights regarding purchases or use of services.

I recently heard from a woman who was able to get a refund for a television set that never worked right in her home. She told me she bought the set from a local dealer who refused to take it back when she was unable to get it to work. She consulted a consumer agency in her town who discovered the store was selling reconditioned sets as "factory-new." My correspondent not only got her money back but, as she writes, "the owner was fined very heavily and now has to contact everyone who bought one of those 'new' sets from him, and make adjustments with them."

1. Never be rushed into a deal (especially over the phone).
2. Never send money to someone who calls and offers to sell you something "special" over the phone.
3. Never give out your credit card number or any information on your bank account on the phone.
4. If you won a "free prize," that's what it should be: Free. Don't pay fees, shipping costs, "good faith" deposits, or anything to claim that "prize." And, if the caller says the money is to cover taxes on the prize, he or she has just committed a major crime. Hang up immediately.

Check before writing a check. Call the National Fraud Information Center at 1-800-876-7060, or contact your Better Business Bureau, state Attorney General's office, the Postal Inspection Service, or (as my reader, above, did) a local consumer protection agency.

Household Help

Q. I need to know the ins and outs of caring for hardwood floors. I don't know what the best method is to clean them and maintain them. I was advised not to use any product with water such as Murphy's Oil Soap. Would it be best to dust mop? What happens when the floor gets really dirty?

A. It is a common fallacy that you cannot use anything mixed with water on a hardwood floor. While I normally refrain from mentioning product names, I will this time since you mentioned the product yourself.

There is nothing wrong with using Murphy's Oil Soap to clean your floor periodically. However, if the floor is heavily soiled, the best cleaning product is Mex. You can purchase this at any hardware store.

You might want to consider having a heavy-duty coat of polyurethane applied to your floor. This coat will protect the wood underneath it while still allowing the beauty of it to show through. Additionally, cleaning will be a snap because all it will require is the dust mop you mentioned.

Q. I own a single family home with an attached one-car garage. Over the last few years, I noticed large, deep cracks developing on the concrete floor. The situation hasn't gotten any worse but I can now easily pull out a chunk of concrete from the floor. I am planning to replace the existing floor with several experienced helpers this summer. Do you have any suggestions before we start this project?

A. Let's begin by first examining whether the room next to your garage has also developed any obvious cracks. Even without having seen your home I could more than guess that some foundation settling has occurred. However, if your garage space is below grade from the rest of your house, you only have to focus your attention to that area specifically.

Begin by breaking up and removing the old floor completely. Before you add extra sand and gravel bases, rent a vibrating tamper and compacting machine. This very handy tool will pack the grade firmly and efficiently. It can be found at large equipment rental centers. You can even rent a cement mixing machine for this job if you want to get the job done more quickly. Be sure the thickness of your floor is at least three inches deep.

Those are the basic preparations to follow. Good luck on your new floor.

Home Tips

MUSICAL CLOCK — I had a few old LP records and came up with an idea to make a clock for my son's room. I went to a craft store and bought a clock kit which included the motor, numbers and hands. All I did was glue the numbers on the record and put the motor stem through the hole and slipped the hands on. It's adorable and my son loves it. Janice G., Sarasota, Fla.

REACHING OUT — It would be nice if when younger people are having a party, barbecue or whatever, they would prepare a plate and deliver it to a less mobile person who lives in the immediate neighborhood.

It might not mean the difference between the recipient eating or not eating, but it would mean he or she would get something different and perhaps festive.

In the case of elderly or handicapped people, cooking is usually down to basic items, with little variety. It would cheer them up and make them know they are thought of. Miranda A., Mobile, Ala.

EASY FIND — Paper clips and rubber bands seem to get all spread around drawers at home and in the office. Frozen-dessert trays such as those for brownies are perfect to hold them. They are made out of sturdy plastic and hold up very well. Besides, the brownies are delicious! Kate O., White City, Ore.

SPRING CLEAN-UP

The Eglon Mountaineer 4-H Club and the Eglon Extension Homemakers invite all of Union District to participate in an area roadside clean-up April 17-23. Because of the amount of trash accumulated during the winter months, this is a desperately needed action, according to the Homemakers. Residents are asked to police their own personal property, and organizations may wish to provide the service in areas where no one else is responsible or unable to do this. Bagged trash can be added to one's personal garbage pick-up, or for large amounts, persons may find the DOH willing to make the pick-up.

MAPLE SPRING REVIVAL

The Rev. J. Rogers Pike will be holding a revival at the Maple Spring Church of the Brethren April 17-24. Services will begin at 7:30 p.m. each evening and on Sunday morning at 10:45 a.m. The service of love feast will conclude the revival on Sunday evening.

TAKE EUROPEAN TOUR

The Foreign Language Club of Tucker High spent 10 days on an educational tour arranged through the Cultural Heritage Alliance during which they were in England, France, Switzerland and Germany.

Jenny Sutton, Karla Sturm, Melody Cheuvront, Sarah Becker, Kevin Teets, Matt Utterback, Randall Kovach and Aaron Teets were accompanied by their teacher, Mrs. Collette Combs, and chaperons, Laurence DeLeurere and La Deana Teets.

Beginning in London, they visited #10 Downing Street, the Parliament, saw Trafalgar Square, Big Ben, the Piccadilly Circus, Westminster Abbey, St. Paul's Cathedral and Buckingham Palace. They also visited the Canterbury Cathedral before crossing the English Channel by ferry. In Paris, the Arch de Trimphe, the Eiffel Tower, the Louvre, Notre Dame Cathedral, the Palace de la Invalides and a cruise on the River Seine as well as a glimpse into the seamier side of life were experienced.

Moving on to Geneva, buildings of the Red Cross, United Nations, monument to the Reformation and Lake Geneva were highlights, along with the cleanliness of the city.

Going by Glacier Express through the Alps from Geneva to Innsbruck was another of the highlights of the trip. "The mountains experienced there are nothing like the Appalachians and a rather breath-taking revelation," one student said.

The Hoffburg Place and Maximilians's Golden Roof were viewed in Innsbruck. They toured the Neuschwanstein Castle and in Munich, visited the Frauenkirche Cathedral, the old and new town halls, the Glockenspiel (clock), the Olympic Stadium and the Dachau Concentration Camp.

They returned to their homes last week.

CLUB STUDIES WILLS

"In the Know About Wills" was the study topic for the April 5 meeting of the Eglon Extension Homemakers. Primarily of interest were changes in the law concerning property distribution made in 1992, also a review of the kinds of wills and reasons for having a will. Leading the discussion was Jean Winters. Ruth Teets added information about living wills and Avenell Parsons provided personal experience.

Sandra Hauser, hostess, read "As Spring Begins" and Mary Rembold read "Gratitude," a poem, and their devotions concluded with prayer. Roll call was answered by naming a flower whose name one would choose.

Thank-you notes from Tracy Waugh and Nancy Sisler were read. Included in communications was a letter from the Preston High Decathlon Team asking for financial assistance for their trip to national competition. A donation was made for this purpose. Area meeting will be held June 9 at Lincoln High. Jim Trelease will present a program on lap reading at Flatwoods on April 30. Perfect attendance certificates went to Linda Lewis, Jean Winters, Mary Rembold, Rebecca Teets and Sandra Hauser. Certificates recognizing 25-five year membership were awarded Avenell Parsons, Nina Layman, Jean Winters, Lectie Bonner, and Ruth Teets.

The club decided to be co-sponsors of a community clean-up effort for Union District April 17-23. This week will be dedicated to cleaning roadsides throughout the district, both by organizations and personal effort.

Preceding the serving of refreshments, the hostess displayed a hankie brought from Russia by her sister-in-law, Bonnie Douglas, also a picture of their unique log truck mailbox and of their Christmas card denoting their business.

The next meeting will be May 3 with members to meet at noon at the Eglon Memorial Building to eat lunch prior to the regular lesson. That will be on "How to Delegate With Comfort" by Mary Rembold.

All members were present, including: Sandra Hauser, Mary Rembold, Linda Lewis, Avenell Parsons, Lectie Bonner, Lillian Knotts, Rebecca Teets, Nina Layman, Mary Teets, Ruth Teets and Jean Winters.

SPIROMETRY TESTING

As a follow-up of previous spirometry testing and concern as to lung damage from farm dusts and moulds, the staff of the North Central WV Black Lung Clinic will be at the Aurora fire hall on Friday, April 15, from 2 until 10 p.m. to do testing of the air capacity of persons' lungs. For those who have previously had a test, this is a time for follow-up. Those who have never had one are invited to come for a first evaluation. There will be displays and literature from Preston Memorial Hospital showing their services, from the Eglon Farm Service FHAC on farm safety, and others for your further information and guidance.

Vehicles Banned From Mon Power Canaan Property

All-terrain vehicles, bicycles, and any other unauthorized vehicles will no longer be permitted on Monongahela Power Company's properties in Canaan Valley and the surrounding area, according to President Benjamin H. Hayes.

The policy, which goes into effect immediately, was initiated because of increasing environmental concerns in the area, says Hayes.

"Monongahela has worked diligently to be a 'good neighbor' to the citizens of Tucker County, allowing virtually unrestricted use of our properties in the Canaan Valley area for recreational purposes," said Hayes. "But growing environmental concerns have caused us to re-evaluate our policy and restrict vehicular traffic in the area."

Hayes emphasized that foot travel, hunting, fishing and other recreational activities will still be encouraged on company land. As always, littering, alcoholic beverages and controlled substances are prohibited, he noted, and individuals using the property do so at their own risk.

Affected properties include those areas posted in the north end of Canaan Valley, as well as tracts along the Blackwater River near Davis and W.Va. Route 93.

"This new policy effectively cancels vehicular racing on our Canaan Valley property," said Hayes.

In the past, Monongahela Power's holdings in Canaan have been used for a number of vehicular races, most notably the annual Blackwater 100, an off-road vehicle race. Recently, environmental concerns prompted the town of Davis to drop sponsorship of that race.

Anyone with questions concerning this policy should contact Monongahela Power's Canaan Valley properties coordinator at (304) 636-3175.

Nestled in God's Love

With a little time and a lot of faith, these speckled eggs will burst forth with new life, one chirp at a time. God has given an innate instinct to the birds so they will bond and keep their family-to-be warm; and when the babies hatch, one parent will guard the nest while the other searches for food to nourish their little ones. Eventually, however, the babies will be encouraged to fly from the safety of their nest to survive on their own...or to perish.

Likewise, we are protected and nurtured as infants and youngsters, and when grown, face our future with some trepidation. Yet, we need not chance to perish. We can return to God's nest, for each Sabbath, as we worship in His house, our spiritual family is waiting...patient, warm, and nurturing as we all commune with the Creator, nestled in the love of God.

THE BIBLE SPEAKS

BY LAWRENCE W. ALTHOUSE

IS "SACRIFICE" A DIRTY WORD?

Background Scripture:
Romans 12
Devotional Reading:
Philippians 2:1-4, 14-16, 4:8,9

There was a time when "sacrifice" was a perfectly good word that was used in polite conversation. I can even remember even hearing it in church from time to time.

But not any more. Something has happened to the word in the last several decades. It is not only unfashionable to speak in our society of making sacrifices, but there is something positively obscene associated with it. We live in an age when people are primarily interested in asserting, affirming and fulfilling themselves. The thought of sacrificing one's self for the sake of someone else seems to have gone out with the double standard in sexual morality.

When I was a youth, Romans 12:1-3 was one of the most popular and frequently used texts at the church camp I used to attend. "I appeal to you therefore, brethren, by the mercies of God, to present your bodies as a living sacrifice, holy and acceptable to God, which is your spiritual worship." What being a disciple of Jesus Christ was all about, we told each other, was nothing less than offering ourselves as living sacrifices to the Lord. I don't know how well we lived that ideal, but we believed it and thought that that was what our lives should be.

SELF-REALIZATION

I realize that what has happened in the intervening years is not necessarily bad or wrong. Some people carried the concept of self-sacrifice into a morbid preoccupation with martyrdom in an age that rarely asked for it or even provided an opportunity for it. Self-acceptance and self-realization were concepts that needed to become part of our personal and public consciousness. But, as so often happens, we threw the baby out with the bathwater, as the old saying goes. We have emphasized the self to the exclusion of others—and that is not spiritually healthy either.

As in so many areas of life, the key is balance: self and others, not self vs. others. In fact, we can never truly fulfill our own selves without learning to give ourselves for the sake of others. When we live only for self, we find we can never fulfill our own potential. In George Bernard Shaw's play, Androcles and the Lion, Lavinia, a young Christian who is slated to die a martyr, says to the Roman captain, "I have no doubt at all that I must die for something greater than dreams or stories." "But for what?" asks the Captain. "I don't know," Lavinia replies, "If it were for anything small enough to know, it would be too small to die for. I think I am going to die for God. Nothing else is real enough to die for."

SELF-SACRIFICE

Just as anything other than God is too little to die for, so anything other than God is too little to live for.

As Ellen Glasgow says, "Life will yield up its hidden sweetness...only when it is being sacrificed to something more precious than life." One cannot taste the "hidden sweetness" of life until or unless we are willing to offer our lives for "something more precious than life."

Most of us hold back from sacrificing ourselves because we are certain self-sacrifice will diminish us, will take something away from our own fulfillment. But in presenting yourself "as a living sacrifice, holy and acceptable to God," you do not lose, not ultimately at least. You actually gain in the long run, because, like Jesus Christ, we reach our highest potential only when we are willing to give ourselves for "something more precious than life."

Yes, I know the world doesn't see it that way. But the world is wrong. "Do not be conformed to this world, but be transformed by the renewal of your mind" (12:2).

Self-sacrifice is not a dirty word, but the way to the fulfillment that society promises, but cannot deliver.

IT TAKES KNOWLEDGE TO TREAT THE SICK

Despite great advances in medical knowledge there are still some people who depend on old fashioned self treatments. Some let persons with no drug or medical training advise them what medicines to take.

When door-to-door peddlers or mail order opportunists presume to tell you what to take when you are sick — be wise. In order to treat sickness a diagnosis of the cause is needed. No one but a physician has this knowledge.

'Lions' reveals relations among Allied leaders

Michael Caine

Producer David Rintels' "World War II: When Lions Roared" has been 20 years in the making — nearly four times as long as the period of history it covers.

First, Rintels conceived of a stage play about the momentous 1945 meeting of Allied leaders Franklin D. Roosevelt, Winston Churchill and Joseph Stalin at Yalta, on the Black Sea. From that evolved a study of relations among the Big Three, from the Battle of Britain in 1939 to the surrender of Germany, only days after FDR's death.

Scouring original sources for material, Rintels quickly had a 12-hour script on his hands. Finally he pared it down to the four tight hours airing Tuesday and Wednesday, April 19 and 20, on NBC.

"Lions" is a revealing character study woven from historical documents and firsthand accounts of the leaders' meetings. Taped in the high definition television (HDTV) format in Los Angeles and the Czech Republic city of Prague, the film makes use of a split screen to give the impression of conversations among these men in far-flung capitals.

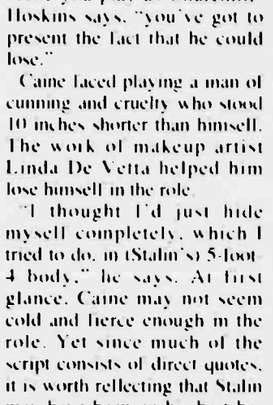
"The technique of the show," says Rintels, "is that we see Churchill in his office on half the screen speaking to Stalin in his office on half the screen, and each is in the right time and place." Thanks to HDTV, this was done on the set, rather than in the editing room.

With technical details overcome, Rintels needed a strong cast. John Lithgow was his outstanding first choice to play the wheelchair-bound U.S. president. Ed Begley Jr. asked for the part of FDR's right-hand man, Harry Hopkins, and plays it with intelligence. Stalin and Churchill were another matter.

"As soon as I told anybody I was playing Churchill," says Bob Hoskins in his native Cockney, "they said, 'What, is it a comedy?' "

"The same thing happened to me," says Michael Caine, enjoying the joke. "When I said you were playing Churchill and I was playing Stalin, they said, 'Is it a comedy?' "

Hoskins' Churchill is round and growling, witty, and wary of the Russian bear's embrace. Defeat hounds him. "Whatever scene you play as Churchill," Hoskins says, "you've got to present the fact that he could lose."



Caine faced playing a man of cunning and cruelty who stood 10 inches shorter than himself. The work of makeup artist Linda De Vetta helped him lose himself in the role.

"I thought I'd just hide myself completely, which I tried to do, in (Stalin's) 5-foot-4 body," he says. At first glance, Caine may not seem cold and fierce enough in the role. Yet since much of the script consists of direct quotes, it is worth reflecting that Stalin may have been on his best behavior with his powerful peers.

The men's shifting alliances are indeed fascinating to watch, as Churchill moves from pivot position to odd man out, and a dying Roosevelt develops unwarranted trust in "Uncle Joe." As counterpoint to the war in the trenches, "Lions" chronicles the political chess game whose outcome determined the fate of the Western nations.

Q: What can you tell me about Doug Savant ("Melrose Place")? Where can I write to him? –Brian Smith, Buffalo, Mo.

A: The publicity-shy Savant, who plays Matt Fielding on "Melrose," is a Southern California native. His acting career began when he left UCLA to perform in Los Angeles regional theater.

On TV, Savant has appeared in "China Beach," "Cagney & Lacey" and had a recurring role on "Knots Landing." He was in the TV movies "Aftermath" and "Bonnie & Clyde: The True Story." Feature films include "Masquerade," "The Hanoi Hilton," "Trick or Treat" and "Red Surf."

Born June 21, Savant is single and lives in Los Angeles. Write to him C/O Fox Broadcasting Company, 10201 W. Pico Blvd., Los Angeles, Calif. 90035.

Q: What is the status of Howard Rollins on "In the Heat of the Night"? Is he back now? Has Carroll O'Connor retired? –Several viewers in Georgia.

A: Since you live in Georgia, where the series is filmed, I am surprised that you missed the widespread media coverage of Howard Rollins' multiple runins with the law on drug and alcohol charges. O'Connor stood by him staunchly during the first two incidents. Rollins returned to the series a few months ago, after serving a moderate jail term for drunken driving, and was arrested again, on the same charges only days later. He has since been fired.

As for O'Connor, he says he is feeling fit and will be back if the show is renewed for next season.

Q: One of my platoon members in Vietnam was a Wesley Studi from California. Is he the same Wes Studi who stars in "Geronimo?" How could I get in touch with him or his agent? He told me he is a Cherokee. –James D. Slade, Sanford, N.C.

A: It may indeed be the same guy. Studi the actor is also a Cherokee and a Vietnam veteran. Write him C/O Michael Mann Management, 8380 Melrose Ave., Suite 207, Los Angeles, Calif. 90069.

Q: Please settle a disagreement. I say Burt Reynolds used to play a regular on "Gunsmoke" a long time ago. My husband says not. –Louise Hester, Glasgow, Ky.

A: You're right, of course. Reynolds played Quint Asper, a half-breed Indian blacksmith, from 1962-65.

Q: Was Rush Limbaugh the voice of ALF? If not, who was? –J.K. Ott, McConnellsburg, Pa.

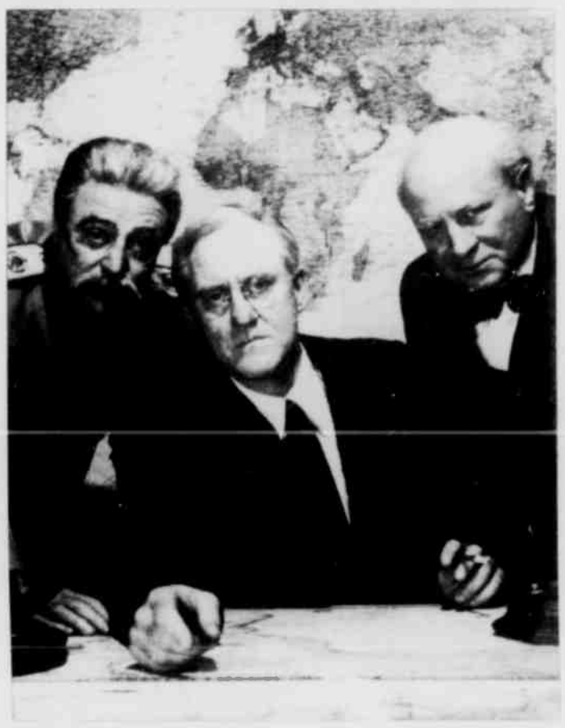
Judith Ivey relishes her villainess role

BY JOHN CROOK

Judith Ivey's Texas twang and sunny smile make her a natural for warm, earthy roles. A two-time Tony Award winner, she is probably best known to TV audiences for her work in the sitcoms "Down Home" and "Designing Women."

The actress gets a real change of pace in "On Promised Land," a leisurely paced, occasionally simplistic Disney Channel original movie premiering Sunday, April 17. Set in the 1950s rural South, the drama features Ivey as Olivia Appletree, the bigoted daughter-in-law of a wealthy widow (Joan Plowright).



"I had never played a villainess before, and I wanted to try my hand at it," Ivey says. "I found her fascinating. I think a lot of actors have expressed how much fun it is to play the bad guy."

The El Paso-born actress spent most of her early years in Odessa, Texas, but it was only after her family moved to Michigan when she was 10 that she learned about racism.

"Part of it was that the first boy that I had a crush on in fourth grade was black," she recalls. "And the kids all made fun of me, and I didn't know why. When it was finally explained to me that (it was because) he was black – I can't remember how they said it – then I became aware of 'Oh, so I'm not supposed to like him?'

"As my relatives would say, it took moving up with the Yankees to learn about racism," she adds, laughing.

Ivey says her "Land" character never stops to question her own appalling bigotry: "She just thinks that's the way it is. Like, you make pineapple upside-down cake with the pineapple on the bottom."

Norman D. Golden II and Joan Plowright star in The Disney Channel's "On Promised Land," a movie about a family in the 1950s rural South, premiering Sunday.

In Focus

Jane Seymour stars in "A Passion for Justice: The Hazel Brannon Smith Story" on ABC Sunday, April 17.

In the title role, Seymour portrays a well-bred society woman who publishes a small-town Mississippi newspaper.

Hazel takes great pride in her rich Southern heritage, but when she takes a stand against a brutal act of racism in the community, she unwittingly sets up a barrier between herself and the local white population.

Cable Overview

Miller time, Earth Day; babies on Nickelodeon

BY SUZANNE GILL

Fred Astaire

Dennis Miller has found a place to say what he thinks, and he wants to share it. As he puts it, "I want the unadulterated crazy scoop of what's happening with John Q. Public."

Miller's self-titled, weekly exchange debuts Friday, April 22, on HBO. In his late-night half hour, Miller will comment on current events, interview guests and open up the phone lines to America.

"There's a whole sort of lost generation of people who aren't getting their opinions sated," Miller says. But he has an incendiary quality about him. Miller expects his monologues to have the pitch of the exasperated anchorman from the movie "Network" who yelled, "I'm mad as hell, and I'm not going to take it anymore!"

"It's me in a post-Howard Beale-ian rant," says Miller, referring to the character played by Peter Finch.

Miller acknowledges that the commercial-free format has its drawbacks. "If you're in the middle of something that's just gone completely Hindenburg, you can't say, 'We'll be right back.' " Yet he likes working for HBO. "They don't trifle with you. They don't get you in there and then try to alchemize you into some, you know, Eliza Doolittle thing."

Having drawn on an 18-year-old film, a famous air disaster and a play by George Bernard Shaw for analogies, Miller admits his rapid-fire commentary can be hard to follow.

"I happen to have a reasonably arcane frame of reference. This is not a contrivance; this is the way I think."

"Dennis Miller" will have a test run of six weeks.

Start Earth Day with "Letters to the Earth," Friday on Nickelodeon. It's a half hour of kid-produced videos on environmental issues. Tapes come from near and far, including Brazil and New Zealand.

Fred Astaire and Ginger Rogers, Shirley MacLaine, Bob Fosse and Ann Miller are featured in "Dance Crazy in Hollywood," airing Thursday, April 21, on A&E.

Joan Plowright stars Sunday, April 17, in The Disney Channel's "On Promised Land," a tale of black sharecroppers and white landowners in the Deep South. Disney has mounted several TV movies with a theme of racial tolerance, but this is the least plausible. The cast is good, with Carl Lumbly and Judith Ivey as co-stars.

Count on Little Ricky Ricardo to be among the newborns in Nick at Nite's Very Very Babies event, airing Saturday, April 23.

'Doctors' cast practices elsewhere now

BY CANDACE HAVENS

Dear Candace: I would like to know if Elizabeth Hubbard (Lucinda, "As the World Turns") and Nicolas Coster (Eduardo, "ATWT") were once co-stars on the soap opera, "The Doctors."

I believe Hubbard portrayed Dr. Althea Davis, and her daughter was played by Julia Duffy.

Also, was Susan Sullivan a member of that early '70s cast? – D.M. in Kansas

Dear Reader: Hubbard did portray Althea, and Duffy played her daughter, Penny.

According to Christopher Schemering's The Soap Opera Encyclopedia, Coster and Sullivan were never on "The Doctors."

It was fun going through the soaps cast list from 1964-1982 and seeing some of the actors and actresses who have gone on to find success in feature films and prime-time television.

Some of the alumni from "The Doctors" are Kathleen Turner, Alec Baldwin, Armand Assante, Kathryn Harrold, Jonathan Frakes, Ellen Burstyn and Gil Gerard.

James Storm (Bill, "The Bold and the Beautiful") Kim Zimmer (ex-Reva, "Guiding Light" and Jodie, "Santa Barbara"), Anna Stuart (Donna, "Another World"), Jean Le Clerc (Jeremy, "All My Children") and Hillary Bailey Smith (Nora, "One Life to Live") are just a few of the actors from "The Doctors," who went on to work on other daytime programs.

Dear Candace: I can't believe what is happening on "OLTL." This thing with Todd Manning (Roger Howarth) is out of control. He has escaped prison and the police a few hundred times (slight exaggerations). He has been stabbed and shot, not to mention bludgeoned, and now he is walking around with a bullet in his chest. Is he supposed to be some superhuman bad guy? – Mary Beth Fallon, St. Johns, Newfoundland, Canada

Dear Reader: You definitely have a point. Howarth is a talented actor, and the execs at "OLTL" are not anxious to let him go, but there is little hope of redeeming a character like his.

Then again, he could always die and come back as the nice twin, like the psychotic Ryan and his psychiatrist brother, Kevin (Jon Lindstrum), on "General Hospital." Hey, it's the soaps.

Fox's Menendez movie truly worth missing

BY TED KUSIO

The race to produce the first movie based on the sensationalized Menendez murders has been won. But it's a hollow victory in a race that never should have existed.

Fox airs "Honor Thy Father and Mother: The True Story of the Menendez Murders" on Monday, April 18. The film dramatizes the overly publicized trial that tried to determine whether Lyle and Erik Menendez (Billy Warlock and David Beron) killed their parents out of greed or in self-defense.

Quite frankly, there's no reason to watch this movie.

It's kind of like looking at the aftermath of a bloody car accident. It offers no insight nor ideas for preventing future similar tragedies.

This movie just gives voyeurs of real-life horror a cheap thrill, with extremely vivid descriptions of vile acts and a re-enactment of the murder itself.

Including the word "true" in the title is practically blasphemous. How can it be the truth when some scenes involve unwitnessed events between two people who are now dead? And what of the fact that re-creating trial testimony blurs the line between fact and fiction — events described under oath, as shown in this film, may have never occurred.

Even when viewed simply as a movie it never rises above pedestrian acting and stilted dialogue.

When TV races to produce trash like this, everyone loses.

Other movie possibilities this week include Jane Seymour as a newspaper publisher in Mississippi in the '50s who battles racism while holding onto love in "A Passion for Justice: The Hazel Brannon Smith Story," Sunday, April 17, on ABC. Jean-Claude Van Damme is a street fighter in "Lionheart" on NBC.

Craig T. Nelson stars as a motorcycle racer whose life is changed when he meets a leukemia patient in "Ride With the Wind," Monday on NBC.

NBC begins "World War II: When Lions Roared" on Tuesday, April 19, a two-part film about the three leaders who reshaped the world. It concludes Wednesday, April 20.

The Enterprise crew members are busy this week. First they boldly go seek God with a bad script and a great soundtrack in "Star Trek V: The Final Frontier," Wednesday on the USA Network.

Then "Star Trek IV: The Voyage Home" beams whales onto ABC on Saturday, April 23, while "Star Trek: The Motion Picture," the crew's first big-screen adventure, flies on USA. More reasons to live long and prosper.

CBS banks on Olympic format with new show

BY SARA BENNETT

Seen enough basketball to last into the summer (which is as long as the NBA playoffs will run)?

If so, CBS' "Eye on Sports" debuts Sunday, April 17, just in time for heat-of-the-spring-and-summer sports coverage.

Playing off of the success of its 1994 Olympic Winter Games coverage, the network will launch the anthology-style sports show featuring two of its Olympic hosts as anchors, Greg Gumbel and Andrea Joyce.

The premiere episode will touch on some 1994 Olympians, but that will be the only snow-covered segment of the spring and summer.

"We know how we've adjusted to the last couple of months after the Olympics," says Rick Gentile, senior vice president of CBS Sports production, "but how have they (the athletes) adjusted and what are they going to be doing? I think there's still interest in what a (Johann Olav) Koss does after this breathtaking 10-day run that he had in Norway, and what a (Dan) Jansen now does. We'll show some Olympic footage and remind you of what they did in February."

Like the Olympic coverage, the program will feature live studio segments from the host du jour.

"We felt very confident going out of the Olympics and starting up a show in April with that kind of concept, with Greg again in the host position," Gentile says. "We'll have some interesting international events, whether it's beach volleyball or track and field, or Wildlife Adventure elements of a bicycle race from France."

Sunday's kickoff episode will indeed cover a bicycle race from France, the Paris-Roubaix. According to Gentile, the live studio work comes into play for an event such as this.

"It will give us an opportunity for Greg to have a two-way (conversation) with a Greg Lemond, for instance, the day we air the show, if that's pertinent. (It's) much like we did in the Olympics, where we're telling stories more than just covering a sports event."

In addition to events, the show's time slot and duration are likely to change from week to week. Gentile hopes viewers will be able to locate it between CBS golf events.

"I guess what we have to hope is that we can promote the show well enough and create enough of a following and enough interest so that people will find it."

Rick Gentile
